The hotelkeeper is hardly given a fair show under the Act. It is only natural that extra care should be taken to prevent the illicit sale of liquor in such places or even the keeping of it on hand, but in hotels, open as they are to all classes of the public, there are certain to arise infractions of the letter of the law which the most vigilant hotelkeeper is powerless to avert. If a boarder in a hotel brings liquor upon the premises and conceals it in some part of the building, the law assumes that the hotelkeeper is responsible, when in reality it is likely that he knew nothing about it. Why, then, should the hotelkeeper be made to answer for the offence of another? If an employe carries liquor to his place of employment and is detected, he is called to account, not the man for whom he works, and the same principle should be applied to all cases.

The Ontario Temperance Act is a voluminous document that should be cut down and revised so that all could have at least a fair idea of its meaning, as every man and woman in the Province is directly interested in its operation. If ignorance of the law excuses no one, then care should be taken to make such a law of easier popular interpretation. The opinions of magistrates do not always agree. Only the other day a man in Toronto was fined for having liquor in his possession in a place other than his residence, because he was caught on the street with a bottle in his pocket. It was offered in evidence that he had secured the liquor on a doctor's order, and was on his way home with it when arrested, but in the opinion of the magistrate this was not sufficient to save him. This question of transfer from one place to another has never been made quite clear even to the trained judicial intellect. There should be no private monopoly in the sale of liquor under prohibition, as has been the case in Ontario since the Act went into operation. That matter should be under Government control, and if there is any profit it should go to the public fund, not to swell a private fortune. If the use of liquor is to be allowed for certain purposes, then the facilities for securing it should be increased. It is announced that at the coming session of the Legislature this feature of the Act is to be amended, and if that is done the change will meet with general approval.

Ontario wants prohibition, but demands a measure under the operation of which discrimination between classes, persecutions, and the arbitrary exercise of authority by officials shall be impossible. The best principle on earth, if crystalized in an Act of Parliament, will eventually fall into disfavor if abuses are permitted in connection with its enforcement.

A REIGN OF TERRORISM.

IN BROCKVILLE recently a belated customer called on a dealer who was preparing to close his store for the night, and asked for a bottle of talcum powder, which he procured for twenty-five cents. As soon as the customer reached the sidewalk the dealer called him back, saying that he had forgotten to affix a revenue stamp to the package. The customer, who was really a "spotter," told him that it was now too late, and added that the dealer would have a chance to explain the matter in the police court next day. That was what happened, and the man who sold the powder was fined $53 for a mistake which he would have corrected had he not been denied the opportunity. Half of the fine goes in such cases to the lynx-eyed individual who lays the information.

Another "spotter" made the rounds of the drug stores in Kitchener, and in each asked for an article that is rarely sold, and the use, or at least the proper function of which is not quite clear, there being some doubt as to whether it is to be regarded as a patent medicine. None of the dealers, it seems, stamped the articles, and every one of them was summoned to appear before the magistrate. The latter was in a quandary and stated that he could not decide the cases until he wrote to Ottawa and found out from headquarters whether the articles in question required a revenue stamp.

If a skilled lawyer, sitting as a magistrate on the bench, is unable to decide such an issue, how in the name of all reason is a layman expected to settle such matters offhand? Dealers everywhere are objecting to the injustice of the Stamp Act and to the persecutions which are possible under it. The basis of their protest is the lack of clearness as to what should and should not be stamped, a question which, apparently, puzzles the magistrates and revenue officers just as much as it does the dealers.

One of the most common complaints heard today has regard to the multiplicity of laws on the statute books, war enactments and otherwise. Orders-in-Council followed each other in rapid succession and are not now entirely dispensed with, even if peace has been restored. It has been impossible for the average man to keep track of all these enactments. The best-intentioned citizen have been liable at any time to violate some law or other, and ignorance is not taken as an excuse. Dealers whose reputation for integrity is above suspicion have been subjected to the humiliation of a police court scandal and fine. All sorts of latitude is allowed the magistrate who deals with such cases, and a variety of opinions have been handed down.

Another objectionable feature is that the passing of such laws breeds an army of "spotters," who are given a premium for the cases that they work up, and a man willing to take up that class of public service is likely to make it his highest business aim to induce dealers to commit an offence rather than to help them observe the law by explaining to them their duty. Neither can the dollar rely upon the rulings of the magistrate or the revenue officer, both of whom are as much in the dark as himself.

No Government can hope to retain the confidence of a community that is living under what has in these cases become a regime of terror. People in any walk of life are not made law-abiding or contented citizens by a process of intimidation. A constant suspicion that every stranger purchaser may be a "spotter" does not add to the gaiety of the commercial world. Every man in business is entitled to the protection of the law, and no one can blame him if he objects to being made the subject of exploitation by a band of self-constituted private detectives, men who are willing to take up a vocation which does not appeal to the majority of mankind.

Questions On General Knowledge

The class in general information will now take pad and pencil, said the high school teacher, and write answers to these questions. They have nothing to do with what you learned at school, but I want to see how much yo uhave picked up out of school. You have read and heard lately a number of words. Let us see how closely you observe and how accurately you think:

1. Spaca Flow—Where is it? What took place there?
2. The Spartacus group—What is meant by it?
3. What are the reds? What is the meaning of the red flag?
4. What is bolshevism? And what is the difference between it and socialism?
5. What is the difference between socialism and archy? How does each of these differ from democracy?
6. What is the Almanach de Gotha?
7. Wha tis meant in Russia by soviet?
let? Cadet? Soldier's and Workmen's council?
8. What is communism? The commune?
9. Why did the Russians change the name St. Petersburg to Petrograd and the French change Strasbourg to Strasbourg?
10. What is the landtag? The bundesrath? The reichstag? The chambre des deputes? Parliament? Congress?
11. Define profiteer, slacker, bolshevik, poilu, boche, camouflage, destroyer, Zeppelin, gas mask.
12. Define altruist, idealist, reactionary, conservative, liberal, radical, opportunist, internationalist, defeatist, chauvinist, imperialist, junker, pacifist, militarist.
13. Who are the Slavs, Czecho-Slavs, Jugo Slave, Croats, Ruthenians, Montenegrins, Bulgars, Lithuanians, Esthonians, Finns, Letts, Poles Ukrainians, Swiss, Swedes, Armenians? And where do they live?
14. What is a Russophile? An Anglo-phobiac?
15. Why is the word sometimes spelled Serbia and sometimes Servia? Also why Havana and sometimes Habana?
16. How do you pronounce Wemyss, Beatty, Clemenceau, Foch?
17. Who are these men and tell some one important thing each did: Wilson, Lloyd George, Orlando, Masaryk, Liebknecht, Bolo, Trotzky, King Hsakon, Hoover, Schwab, Gompers, Kitchener, Foch, Haig, Hindenburg, Pershing, Diaz, Carranza, Allenby?
18. What do these words mean to you? Kerensky, proletariat, bourgeoisie, freedom of the seas, entente, armistice, Castelnau, Byng, Chateau Thierry, Verdun, convoy, periscope, Big Bertha, soixantequinze, repatriation, autonomy, morale?
19. Tell the difference between a president (of the U.S.A.) and a premier (of England) and between a president and a king.

TAFT PAYS TRIBUTE

Laurier Will be Mourned Everywhere, He Declares.

Portland, Orc., Feb. 19. — When apprised by the Associated Press of the death of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, ex-President William Howard Taft expressed keen regret. ('I am very sorry to learn that Sir Wilfrid Laurier has passed away," said Mr. Taft.

"He was a very remarkable man. At the head of the Canadian Government for fifteen years, he performed the task of maintaining a solid party of French and British Canadians under the Liberal banner and did much for the advancement of Canada. He had a capacity of attracting to him friends who followed him with intense loyalty and with the greatest admiration. He will be greatly mourned not only in Canada, but everywhere.

Shall Pupils Tell Tales On Others?

Oak Park high school students in Chicago were stremble. And why shouldn't they be? Weren't they going to find out who those awful "anitchers" were? And if a charming little lass wants to play "hooky" and go to the movies, whose concern is it anyway? And which is the worse, to play hooky or to "snitch?"

All these questions were to be settled before the assembled students at a Lincoln day celebration today. And then there was to be an investigation of an alleged "inner circle," which some of the students claim, is an organized band of "tattlers." And now they're going to find out all about it. Yes, sir, they are.

It all came about because dainty little Miss Unknown went to the movie show. Somebody saw her and ran all the way to tell Prof. M. R. McDaniel. He called her in and called her down. She told her chum and her chum told her chum and that chum told another chum, and it went over the whole school. And then every body got excited. And now they're going to settle it.

Prof. McDaniel says its ridiculous. He hasn't any spies among the students. A teacher happened to see the recalcitrant miss at the show and told him. He said there was an "inner circle" in the school, but it was an organization fostered by the Y. M. C. A. to have brighter pupils help duller ones and to fight the cigaret evil. The last thing its members would do would be to snitch, he said.

THE POTENT GOLD.

(By Mrs. A. F. Calder.)

Tho 'the sage may be in council hall,
The wisest counsellor of them all,
Earnest, and eloquent in debate,
Most pilot to guide the ship of state,
With the brilliant talents, all combined,
And genius of a master mind,
A leader born, of a godlike mould,
Yet he neede must have the potent gold.
For the poor man's wisdom still we find
Despised, neglected, out of mind.

The bravest warrior, undismayed,
That ever drew a battle blade,
Adventures freely in fiercest fight
Both limb and life for Freedom's right;
Champion, patriot, proud to stand
Against all odds for his native land;
Tho' he win bright laurels, and carve his name
Deep on the deathless roll of fame,
His country's gratitude soon grows cold,
And he's down and out if he lacks the gold.

The bard may strike the enchanting lyre
To emulate a seraph choir,
In rapturous melody outpour
Sweet songs of high and heavenly lore,
Yet very vain, his honest hope to win
Honors' just meed at home or 'mong his kin;
And Fame, the false, fickle jade ingrate,
'Gainst undowered merit bars the gate;
Are, Swift oblivion will enfold
The bard who lacks the potent gold.

The sage's wisdom, the soldier's deeds,
Still in vain for remembrance plead;
The patriot's warm devotion fail,
Naught, the song of the bard avail,
To save them from the lot destined
Of being to neglect consigned,
For, alas, this is the common lot
Of those who fortune favors not,
And Fame's tributes are but sparsely doled
To those who lack the potent gold.

WILL DEPORT ALIENS

No Consideration For Those Who Advocate Country.

Washington, Feb. 18.—Aliens found advocating destruction of property or overthrow of the government by force will be deported under the provisions of the immigration act of February 5, 1917. This announcement was made today by Secretary of Labor Wilson in a letter sharply rebuking Micrometer Lodge 460, International Association of Machinists, of Brooklyn, for protesting against the deportation of 38 "alien radicals." The secretary denied that the aliens were being deported without due process of law, and asserted that they had been given fair trials.

Mr. Wilson reiterated his previously announced decision that no person would be arrested simply for joining the Industrial Workers of the World, but that any alien advocating sabotage or anarchy would be deported.

LESSONS IN RIGHT LIVING

(By Dr. W. A. Brady.)

Cardio-vascular degeneration (arterial hardening, heart muscle failure, Bright's disease and apoplexy) now destroys more lives than any other disease affecting adults. The prevention of cardio-vascular disease is strictly a matter of personal hygiene personal health education.

But respiratory infection is by all odds the greatest cause of disability and of sickness and expense and suffering and inefficiency which sickness entails, not only in adult life but in infancy, childhood, youth and advanced age. The prevention of respiratory infection is a matter not alone of personal hygiene and personal health instruction, but also of common courtesy and of public health administration.

A man or woman may live as he or she sees fit, may develop cardio-vascular disease and succumb prematurely, and it is strictly his or her own affair. But when anybody has an alleged "cold," "the grip," "the flu," pneumonia, diphtheria, acute bronchitis, acute sore throat or tonsilitis or quinsy, pulmonary tuberculosis, cerebrospinal meningitis, measles, scarlet fever, whooping cough or poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis), it is not merely a personal affair, it is an affair that seriously concerns the public welfare. To allow a respiratory infection to exist without isolation is certainly a crime against the public welfare and safety. Yet where is the health board, where is the health officer with the courage to insist upon the isolation of every individual known to have a respiratory infection? There is no such board and no such health officer, because, they say, the dear public is not yet intelligent enough to understand the reason for isolation of all these respiratory infections—or, in other words, Mrs. Grundy does not approve of any alterations of the old order.

Isolation is indeed vexation to a selfish person or an ignorant person. But why should we, the public, subject ourselves to needless risks just because the selfish and the ignorant object to keeping their diseases to themselves?

Take pneumonia. In New York state a few years ago the disease was made reportable, like diphtheria. Then, owing perhaps to Mrs. Grundy's frown, the state health authorities deleted pneumonia from the list of reportable infections for a spell. Then they seemed to get back a little more courage and they placed pneumonia on the list again.

One Test or More?

"A girl aged 23 has what is called inflammatory rheumatism. The doctor first thought her tonsils were the cause. She had them removed, without relief to the joints. Would you advise a change of doctors? Would outdoor air be harmful for such a case?

No, give the doctor a chance. Don't be a onetest rheumatic. There are various other tests yet; for instance, she hasn't had her teeth X-rayed, nor yet nasal accessory sinuses explored, for the focus. The doctor knows his business. Stick to him. Open air is certainly advisable for all other infections; it couldn't do any harm.

London's Women Patrols.

By special sanction of the Home Secretary an experimental scheme is to be carried out in London for the formation of a small number of women police patrols under the control of the Metropolitan Commissioner of Police. Only about 100 women will be enrolled for the present, and preference will be given to candidates who have had experience of similar work in Government or other forces. The pay of the rank and file will be at the rate of 30s. per week, with a war bonus of 12s. per week, but provision will be made for a progressive rise of pay in the event of service extending beyond a year. For some time past the commissioner has employed a number of the women patrols of the National Union of Women Workers, but this arrangement will now be discontinued. The women will not be sworn in as constables, and will not have the special powers which are given to constables under certain statutes. They will, however, patrol streets and open spaces in the same way as the regular constable, for the purpose of preserving order and assisting the public, more especially those of their own sex. They will wear uniform dress, with the badges of the regular force, and be under the control of a superintendent and other women officers.

Compliments.

Among the most graceful compliments recorded in the byways of literature may be mentioned these: That of Leslie Stephen, as a boy, to his mother, who had asked him concerning his somewhat bearish father, "Did your father ever do anything just because it was pleasant?" "Yes, mother," responded the gallant young cavalier — "once — when he married you." That of Joseph Choate, when asked whom he would choose to be if not himself, "Mrs. Choate's second husband." That of Philip IV of Spain, himself a painter, tendered to a greater artist, Velasquez. When Velasquez had finished his famous picture "Las Meninas," which included not only Philip and his queen, but the artist himself, brush in hand, he asked the king, "Is anything wanting?" "One thing only," answered Philip; and taking the palette from Velasquez's hands, he painted on the breast of the artist's figure in the picture the Cross of the Order of Santiago, the most distinguished in Spain.

Denies Report Of Prince's Engagement

London, Feb. 19.—The Official Press Bureau says that a report from Paris of the impending announcement of the engagement of Princess Yolando, the eldest daughter of the King of Italy, and the Prince of Wales is unfounded. The report from Paris says that the French press in discussing the simultaneous presence in the French Capital of Queen Helena and Princess Yolando and the Prince of Wales. The French newspapers go so far as to say that the object of the Queen's visit is to fix a date for the formal engagement of the Princess and the Prince of Wales. The newspaper declares that the engagement may be expected immediately after the signing of the peace treaty, and that the wedding will take place early next spring.

Fisher Ignored An Order By Asquith

London, Feb. 19.—One of the most piquant stories of the war concerning the famous Admiral, Lord "Jackie" Fisher, First Sea Lord of the Admiralty during the Winston Churchill regime, has just been revealed. It was an open secret that the eternally belligerent Winston and the old sailor were not able long to keep the peace, and ultimately the latter threw up his job in a huff.

When Lord Fisher walked out of the Admiralty the fact was reported to Mr. Asquith, the Prime Minister, who sent for the great sailor. He could not be found, and Mr. Asquith wrote with his own hand the following letter to Lord Fisher:

"I order you in the King's name to return to your duty as First Sea Lord."

This letter was given to Sir Masterson Smith, Churchill's private secretary, with orders to hand it personally to Lord Fisher.

For two days a fruitless search was made for "Jackie," who had actually concealed himself in order, as he afterwards said, to protect himself from being "taken back to the Admiralty." When he was finally found he expressed himself in language which was lurid and decisive, and as a matter of fact he never returned to the Admiralty.

WIDOW BURNED TO DEATH AT PICTON

Picton, Feb. 19. — Mrs. Annie Philps, a widow, living alone, was burned to death by her clothing catching fire. It is presumed, while preparing the noon meal. Her niece, a Miss Williamson, and Mr. Ferguson, calling at 1:30, on finding the front door locked, made entrance by the back of the house, and found Mrs. Philps lying dead in the woodshed and the clothing that was not already burned off still smouldering. It is supposed that by removing the lid of the stove with her apron her clothing caught fire, and she rushed to the woodshed and succumbed. Mrs. Philps is a sister of the wife of W. H. Williamson, insurance agent here, and leaves two sisters and one brother.

IN an article on shipbuilding the London Observer states the total outnut of the United Kingdom during 1918 of both naval and mercantile ships was 1,245 vessels of 1,876,411 tons and 4,349,260 horsepower.

"The wonder-work of the war period," says the Observer, "is to be found not in mercantile shipbuilding, but in naval, and, above all things, in naval engineering. On the Clyde alone during the war 461 vessels of 770,347 tons and 6,093,830 horsepower were constructed as additions to the naval strength of the country. In this total are included no merchant vessels ordered by the Government and no general service trawlers, tugs, or craft built on Government order.

"The list is composed of battleships, battle-cruisers, light cruisers, destroyers and submarines, together with armed merchant cruisers, seaplane carriers, monitors, mine-sweepers, those new vessels known as sloops, which are really little lighter than cruisers or low speed destroyers; gunboats, patrol boats, hospital steamships, and also the Q-boats and PQ-boats, of which so little could be said while the war was on, or even yet can be said.

"The battle-cruiser Hood was the greatest of all our mystery ships. She and the Rodney would have been the greatest surprise packages of the war. In speed and gun power they were to have exceeded anything afloat. Only the Hood, however, will be completed, as a great specimen of the latest in British naval architecture. All that exists of the Rodney will be scrapped.

"But it is really in marine engineering that the year 1918 and the war period as a whole have been extraordinary. The twelve months' record in production of ships' machinery is held by the Wallsend-on-Tyne, which turned out engines of 216,290 horse-power, but other firms have turned out machinery in amounts which would have been notable in normal times.

"The year 1916, however, was the year of the highest records, the Fairfield Company, on the Clyde, alone producing marine propelling machinery totalling 468,410 horsepower. This was the year when high-power destroyers were being turned out almost en masse by all firms to hunt down German submarines, and it will live for all time in the industrial annals of the United Kingdom as a year which contributed more than any other to the supremacy at sea which ultimately strangled Germany and compelled her to cry aloud for peace."

THE BABY KILLERS.

Official Figures Given of German Air Raids.

In raids on the United Kingdom by the Germans during the war, 5,611 persons were killed or injured, of whom 4,750 were civilians. An official summary of the casualties caused by German airships, airplanes and bombardments from the sea shows these casualties among civilians:

Killed.
Men	554
Women	411
Children	295
Injured.
Men	1,503
Women	1,810
Children	772

Three hundred and ten soldiers and sailors were killed and 551 were injured.

There were 51 raids by airships, causing the deaths of 498 civilians and the injury of 1,236, and the killing of 58 soldiers and sailors and the injuring of 121

In 59 airplane raids 649 civilians were killed and 1,656 were injured. In these raids 238 soldiers and sailors were killed and 400 injured.

In twelve bombardments from the sea 143 civilians were killed and 604 wounded, while 14 soldiers and sailors were killed and 30 injured.

The greatest losses inflicted by Zeppelins were in raids on Norfolk, Suffolk and the home counties of London on October 13, 1915, when 56 civilians and 17 soldiers and sailors were killed, and in the Eastern and the Midland Counties on January 31, 1916, in which 70 civilians were killed and 112 injured. The raid on Lincolnshire, Essex and Suffolk on March 31 of the same year caused the death of 17 civilians and 31 soldiers and sailors.

The most serious airplane raid was that at Margate, Essex, and London on June 13, 1917, when 158 civilians and four sailors and soldiers were killed. The next in severity was that on Kent on September 4 of the same year, when 121 soldiers and sailors lost their lives. On this occasion a crowded barracks was hit. Almost as severe as the raid on Kent was that on Folkestone on May 25, 1917, when 77 civilians and 18 sailors and soldiers were killed. The attack on Kent, Essex and London on January 28, 1918, caused the death of 65 civilians and two sailors and soldiers.

The only bombardment from the sea in which there were heavy casualties was that on Hartlepool, Scarborough and Whitby on December 16, 1914, when 127 civilians and ten soldiers and sailors were killed and 567 civilians and 25 soldiers and sailors injured.

Ireland Elects Woman.

It is an astonishing thing that the first and only woman ever elected to the British House of Commons is Countess Markievicz, who was not only openly and viciously pro-German throughout the war, but who led an armed rebellion against the British Government, for which she was convicted of high treason, sentenced to death, afterward had the sentence commuted to life imprisonment, and still later was released. She is a Sinn Feiner, of course, and was elected from one of the districts in Dublin, but has been declared ineligible as an alien, her husband never having been naturalised in Great Britain.

At the outbreak of the revolt in Ireland in 1916, when the Sinn Feiners captured the general postoffice in Dublin, making it their headquarters, the countess, dressed as a man, in a volunteer uniform of green, led the revolutionists against Dublin Castle, where with her own hand, it is said, she shot and killed a guard who barred their entry. It was also reported that she shot six of her own followers who refused to obey her orders.

For years an ardent militant Socialist and Sinn Feiner, the countess used all her influence toward establishing an Irish republic. A raid on her home early in 1916 is said to have brought to light a printing outfit with which pro-German literature was being produced. Documents found at the time of the raid led to the discovery of a Sinn Fein arsenal.

First Chinese Bishop.

For the first time in the history of the Church of England in China, a Chinese bishop in the person of the Venerable Archdeacon T. C. Shen, has been consecrated. The ceremony took place in the Church of Our Saviour, Dixwell road, Shanghai, before a number of distinguished guests. The rites followed the ordinal of the churches of the Anglican communion.

The new bishop was presented in due form by Dr. Norris, Bishop of North China, who was assisted by Dr. Graves, the presiding bishop in the laying of the hands. Bishops Roots and Huntington of the American Church, Bishop Iliff of the Church of England, and Bishop White of the Canadian Church. All these bishops are also bishops of the Chung Hua Shang Kung Hui.—Canton Times.

THE ROMANTIC AIRMAN.

Characteristics of the Best Fighters In the Air.

What type of men is "the air" producing? asks the London Spectator, which thus proceeds to answer. Seafaring men are not like landsmen; neither will airmen be. Already they have a demeanor of their own, a jaunty, light-hearted, airy demeanor. Have they also a special temperament? Men whom fate has chosen to realize the dream of the world cannot be quite like other men. Those who go up into the sky on wings, like those who "go down to the sea in ships," see "wonders," as the Hebrew poet reflected. What is the result of this great adventure upon their personalities? Not quite what one would expect, judging by the small amount of evidence hitherto co-ordinated.

An intensely interesting paper appears in the latest dealing with "The Essential Characteristics of Successful and Unsuccessful Aviators." The authors of the article are "a pilot of 600 hours' experience and a medical officer stationed at an airdrome." These men must know, if anyone as yet knows, what manner of man is the man on wings. Here is a brief statement of their conclusions. "The mark of the successful aviator" is "the possession of a suitable temperament." He has, as a rule, "a fund of animal spirits" and is athletic. "He possesses resolution, initiative, presence of mind, sense of humor, judgment; is alert, cheerful, optimistic, happy-go-lucky, generally a good fellow and frequently lacking in imagination." His amusements when off duty are "theatres, music (chiefly rag-time), cards and dancing, and it appears necessary for the well being of the average pilot that he should indulge in a really riotous evening at least once or twice a month." As for the "fighting scout," as distinct from the ordinary aviator, he may be described as the same, only more so. He is full of the joy of life, has "little or no imagination, no sense of responsibility," and "very seldom takes his work seriously, but looks upon 'Hun straffing' as a great game." Oddly enough, it is—so these critics affirm—better that he should "know little or nothing of the details of his machine or engine." No exhaustive knowledge of mechanics seems to be desirable. Is this perhaps because it is necessary that his flying apparatus should become part of himself? He is constantly obliged to give his attention to something other than the conduct of his airplane, which becomes sub-conscious. A fit man upon a fit machine should apparently not be preoccupied with the state of his body or its mechanical adjuncts.

War Novels Seldom Great

ACCORDING to Lucien, a delightful contributor to the Rochester Post-Express, the view that the war ought to have led to the production of great novels is very shallow and shows an utter misconception of the true province of fiction. To blame novelists for not having written better stories about the great conflict which has made so many of us "see red" is really very silly. It would be more reasonable for critics to deprecate the folly of those who try to convert it into material for fiction. It is not the novelist's function, but that of the journalists, to tell the story of the war. Even if, on Zola's system, the realist in fiction goes to the scene where the fighting is taking place, and not only masters the jargon of war, but sees what actually happens in the trenches and in "No Man's Land," he cannot give us the tragic background of this world struggle. The poet can write beautiful lyrics about the war. But it is the epic which will reveal to the world its heroic proportions — and that can scarcely be written until the smoke and the thunder of battle have passed.

Some novels of more than ordinary merit have, in fact, been written about the war. One is "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," by Vicente Blasco Hanes, a gifted Spanish writer who gives us a glimpse of France before the battle of the Marne.

The business of the novelist is to depict human nature. This he must do not as a philosopher or as a "scientist" but as a story-teller. He does not accept Prof. William Lyon Phelps' definition of a novel as "a good story well told." But he freely acknowledges that, if it be not a story, it cannot be called a "novel." Even "Tristram Shandy," one of the masterpieces of English fiction, is a genuine story, in spite of the fact that we are kept vainly waiting while we read hundreds of pages for the hero to be born. There are many digressions, but the author always takes up the thread of his narrative with consummate art.

Sterne knew something about the realities of war. He was the son of a captain in the British army and was born in the town of Clonmel, in the south of Ireland, where his father's regiment was stationed at the time. He was a clergyman himself, and not altogether an edifying one, as his "Letters to Eliza" — highly suggestive letters addressed to a married woman—will show. But his genius was of a rare order. Both humor and pathos he possessed in a very high degree. He was indeed a "naughty man."

But somehow we must put up with the "naughtiness" of genius, for, if we Comstockise it—the writer takes the liberty of coining that word, as George Bernard Shaw has used the neologism "Comstockery"—we may never find those precious things imprisoned in unconventional books as the pearl is in the oyster. It was Sterne who gave us the immortal portraits of Uncle Toby and of Corpl. Trim. They had both served in Marlborough's wars, but their military experiences are only memories. Each had a wooden leg, and each, even in this mutilated condition, is enjoying the blessings of peace. War is an abnormal thing. The historian must describe it, and even in the best historical descriptions of battles, military technicalities are a bore. The soldier must master them, but they are dull reading in a novel. Cervantes, who had fought at the battle of Lepanto, was far too wise to introduce any battle scenes into "Don Quixote." Robert Louis Stevenson has drawn attention to the almost entire absence of any allusion to war in Fielding's "Tom Jones," although the period in which Jones is supposed to have lived was one in which war never ceased. There is a solitary reference to the war between England and Scotland in 1745, when Tom, sent adrift by Mr. Allworthy and without a guinea to jingle against a milestone, is about to enlist.

Stevenson has himself sinned in this respect. The fighting in "Kidnapped" and in "The Black Arrow" affords him an opportunity for vigorous writing. But even the most effective description of blood-letting in his stories is only a "tour de force." Victor Hugo and Dumas Pere ransacked history in order to get subjects for their romances. But even Hugo's attempt to describe the battle of Waterloo is only rhetoric. He speaks of Napoleon as a "splendid ignoramus," and characterises Waterloo itself as the "triumph of mediocrity," adding, with an exhibition of colossal ignorance, "Waterloo is a battle of the first-class gained by a captain of the second." Even an intelligent school boy could correct Victor Hugo's misinterpretation of history. Flaubert, who wrote about the mutiny of Hamilcar Barca's mercenaries, took good care not to describe actual war. He knew that it would be an abomination in fiction. Zola, who was an artist, thought he could write a novel about the Franco-German war. The result was "La Debacle," a book which makes us see war as a shambles.

Writers who cannot distinguish fiction from melodrama, such as Ouida and Hall Caine and Marie Corelli, may drag war scenes into their books—and by doing so they generate the same sense of horror and disgust that one feels at seeing a dreadful accident. Even so great a novelist as Tolstoy has not succeeded in picturing a battle satisfactorily in "War and Peace." It is not in novels that we can expect to find the great war of our time realistically depicted. The psychologist who dissects human nature in fiction will study the home life of men and women and show us the action of the passions under normal conditions.

LIFE IN HUN PRISONS

CAPT. BAPTIST L. JOHNSTON TELLS EXPERIENCES.

An Occasional Camp Commandant Was Humane, But Former Toronto Bank Manager Describes Case of Young Aviator Who Was Tied to Horse of Captors by Rope and Forced to Run.

MEN who are arriving in England from the colony, almost three hundred strong, of Canadians interned in Holland, bring with them stories of years at the mercy of the Huns, subject by day and night to their caprice, not knowing at what time penury or death might be visited upon them, yet through it all keeping a stout heart, succouring their fellows who were worse off than themselves, and taking at the moment what pleasure life offered. They are stories that are not without humor, now that it is over for them, but the general tenor of them is grim and ugly.

Among those who have returned is Capt. Baptist L. Johnston, of the Third Battalion.

Capt. Johnson was manager of the Dominion Bank, at the Queen and Victoria streets branch, Toronto. He was second in command to Major Straight, "C" Company, and was taken prisoner at Ypres on April 24th, 1915. He was operated upon for appendicitis at Gottingen University Hospital on Nov. 17, 1917, and though he believes the operation was a good one, he was evacuated from hospital too soon, and the resulting physical condition qualified him for repatriation.

At Bischofswerde, where Capt. Johnston spent two years, and where, to give the Hun his due, the treatment was, in the main, fair, there were some twenty-five Canadian officers, Russians, Belgians, Italians and French were all confined together at first under the hope, apparently, that they would fight amongst themselves, but they got along so well together that they were finally separated according to their nationalities. The Russian officers took particular advantage to mix with the British, and it is predicted that they will be a powerful influence when they get back to their native country.

Crefeld, to which he was removed from Bischofswerde, he described as a very good camp. There were about eight hundred British there, but the authorities getting the idea that there was an escape planned whereby they would break through in a body across the Dutch border, they were all transferred to Schwarmstedt and Strohen, in the Hanover swamps, and to other camps.

The exit from Crefeld was amusing to watch. The officers were marched off carrying all their belongings they could stagger along under, and it was a motley collection that they had accumulated during their captivity. Some had pictures, some had suitcases, some carried canaries in cages, others led dogs and cats, or carried golf sticks, tennis racquets, food, and the things most treasured. They looked like traveling Christmas trees. One officer had spent a lot on pictures, and he struggled along with a heavy portfolio of them as far as he could on the two-mile tramp to the station, and finally had to leave them on the road, offering a bystander a reward if he would carry them, but he never saw them again.

At Schwarmstedt the camp was in the wilds, and the officers took advantage of the fact to work in a state of nature, clad in the mild breeze which swept over the swamps, in the building of a swimming hole. There was a little two-foot creek meandering near the camp, and by digging out and damming this they created a pond of water on which they could have a mile swim, and where they got lots of exercise. Some baked there as assiduously as unsuccessfully.

At the camp at Holsminden, to which they were transferred from Schwarmstedt, conditions were what might be expected in notoriously the worst officered camp in Germany. An incident serves to illustrate the character of the rule maintained by Capt. Niemeyer, the camp commandant, who, by the way, was in Toronto since the war started, and who managed to get back to Germany. There had been an escape of a number of officers; they had been captured and were being brought back. When the news spread a number of Canadians rushed to the windows to see them come in. They looked down from the third storey of the building in which they were incarcerated, and were observed by the commandant, who directed the guards to fire through the upper panes of the windows at which the Canadians were standing. Similar incidents occurred more than once. Fortunately none of them were injured. In this camp, too, extortion was rife. For instance, the prisoners were grossly overcharged for wood and for hot water.

Flight Lieut. Davies, son of L. E. Davies, of Toronto, had tried for fun to make a landing within the German lines, and was brought into a camp by two Uhlans, who put a rope around his neck and tied the ends to their saddles. In this manner they brought him, in his heavy, sheepskin flying boots, twenty-five kilometres, and he declared that he could not have managed it if one of the Uhlans had not become tired of riding and let him get up into the saddle for five kilometres.

Conditions in the camps latterly indicate that the Germans were very short of food, very short of materials, but rich in discipline. Whenever a German officer approached the privates sprang to attention and left round on their heels, so that they shall always face him, like a rammed on a pivot.

LARGE NUMBER OF VETERANS COMPLETE NEW EDUCATION

Nine Hundred and Fifty in Ontario and of These Five Hundred and Sixty Have Been Placed in Toronto.

Latest reports from the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment show that 950 men have completed their re-educational course up to date in Ontario. Of this number 560 are placed in Toronto.

No credit is given to any department of training which does not fit a man to take up a position in that line of work immediately. He must be qualified to enter his new profession right away.

Among the numbers who have been mentally placed and are making good the following cases are outstanding for their triumph over peculiar circumstances and disabilities.

Returned soldier number one was a bricklayer before enlistment. In addition to other injuries he suffered the amputation of four fingers of the right hand. Entering for a course of mechanical draughting at the Central Technical School, Toronto, he made such good progress that at the end of four and a half months he was offered a position with the British Forgings Company as a Draughtsman. He has recently returned to the school of his own accord to take a further course, as he has grown enthusiastic over the work and wishes to become as skilled in every branch.

Case number two was a laborer before the war. He took a commercial course and is now in a position earning $18.00 a week, with a promise of a raise to $25.00 at the end of six months. This man's disability entirely shut him off from following his former work.

The third was also a laborer in pre-war days, who, qualified for an office position, writes, "I am getting along fine in my position. This is the easiest job that I have ever held outside of a life of leisure in England. My wage is $85.00 a month." This man expressed his gratefulness to the officers of the Re-Education Department for the trouble to place.

Yet another ex-student writes "I have not only obtained a position but thanks to the vocational tuition I received last winter I am able to hold it. This job places me in a financial position equal to that held previous to my enlistment. I feel I would now willingly give up my pension as my present position does not call on my injury, but if placed differently at any time I would be glad to rely again on the pension and call upon you for assistance."

A man who had been placed in a comfortable position in the country wrote that he was building a house ready to receive his bride in the Spring; that he was doing well, comfortable and happy, thanks to the vocational department.

Not every case which comes to the department requires a complete re-education. In many cases a little assistance that will enable the returned man to go back to the place where he left off will make all the difference in his future life and success. For instance, the following case:

A returned soldier, age 21, son of a farmer, who enlisted in the 75th battalion. At the time of enlistment he had contemplated taking an art course at Toronto University. He had been through high school, has worked on the farm, and had a few months to his credit at the university. Overseas he sustained a wound in the hip joint and was a little disheartened in contemplating his future in the time that he had lost. The Vocational Department assisted him to complete his course at the university and the latest letter received contains an account of his appointment to the teaching staff at one of the local public schools.

Such placements as these of men who feel competent to take up their new duties and have renewed confidence in their own abilities spell employers satisfaction as well as assurance of progress and happiness to the returned man.

KIDNEYS NEVER CAUSE BACKACHE

Rub Pain, Soreness and Stiffness Right out with Old "St. Jacob's Liniment"

Kidneys cause backache? No! They have no nerves, therefore can not cause pain. Listen! Your backache is caused by lumbago, sciatica or a strain, and the quickest relief is soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Liniment." Rub it right on the ache or tender spot, and instantly the pain, soreness, stiffness and lameness disappears. Don't stay crippled! Get a small trial bottle of "St. Jacob's Liniment" from your druggist and limber up. A moment after it is applied you'll wonder what became of the backache, sciatica or lumbago pain. "St. Jacob's Liniment" stops any pain at once. It is harmless and doesn't burn or discolor the skin.

It's the only application to rub on a weak, lame or painful back, or for lumbago, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, sprains or a strain.

CONDITIONS OF HOUSING LOANS

TERMS ON WHICH DOMINION WILL LEND MONEY TO PROVINCES

The Dominion Government in lending the money to the provinces for housing provides that four conditions be met, as follows:

(1) Each province must prepare and submit for approval a general housing scheme. Among other things, this should include a schedule of minimum standards in regard to grouping of houses, provision of open spaces, sizes and types of houses and rooms, provisions of light, ventilating, heating, lighting, material, etc.

The cost of dwellings is let according to type, size and construction, and each province will fix its own maximum, although the provincial maximum must not exceed the maximum amounts fixed by the federal government. For detached or semi-detached dwelling of four or five rooms, exclusive of bath room or summer kitchen, the federal government sets the maximum at $3,000 and for six or seven rooms a maximum of $3,500. For detached, semi-detached, groups of three or four duplex dwellings of more costly construction the maximum amounts are set at $4,000 and $4,500.

The money may be advanced for building houses on sites owned by the provincial government or municipalities housings erected, or comprising groups of citizens associated together to promote good housing, or owners of lots for the purpose of erecting houses for their own occupancy.

The federal loan will be repayable by the province over a period of twenty years at five per cent interest, but provided that in order to encourage the erection of more durable buildings and to bring the financial terms within the reach of a large number of workers the period may be extended to thirty years.

PREACHERS' CONCERT DREW LARGE CROWD LAST NIGHT

Last night at George Street Methodist Church there was a record attendance to patronize the Victory Tea, given in honor of the returned soldiers of the church.

On entering the front door be tween six and seven o'clock one would imagine that he or she was at one of Billy Sunday's gatherings. The crowd that waited its turn to sit at a table in the Sunday School room filled both stairways, part of the church, and the hall near the front door. The tables in the Sunday school room seated about 225 persons and there were two full sittings and part of another. One can imagine the work the ladies had in getting the tables three times, washing the dishes twice and then getting their own meal at about 8:30, not speaking of the cleaning up afterwards.

There were easily eight hundred persons that obtained their supper there yesterday evening. About one hundred of these were the returned soldiers and friends.

In every way the Victory Tea was a great success and the ladies should be complimented on their work. They are taking the lead in trying to render the returned soldiers the respect and tribute that they deserve, and which they are not always getting in the way they should from those who remained at home.

About $225.00 was realized from the Tea and Preacher's Concert.

Splendid Concert.

The concert was one of the best that the citizens of Peterboro have had an opportunity of hearing this year. If any one that attended the concert had the idea that the preachers of this city and surrounding district were a group of long-faced and solemn men they certainly had their minds changed last night. Nearly every number was encored, although some of the preachers were a little bashful in rendering an encore. They always said that a better number was coming and it always came or at least there was no end to the amusing reading and to the solos, quartetts and choruses.

Special mention might be made of the Rev. Mr. Galt, of Gilmour, who delivered an amusing address. Mr. Galt certainly is able to keep an audience smiling.

The chairman of the evening was Rev. Bert. Greatrix, of St. James. He always had a joke ready for the audience between numbers, but somehow he had the denominations of the ministers a little mixed. It surely was no fault of his for no one couldn't tell any difference between a Methodist or Presbyterian or Baptist or any other. All were a jolly group of real entertainers.

After the program was finished Mr. Ingall of the Normal school staff moved a vote of thanks to the ladies who furnished the tea, to those who patronized it so well, and to the preachers who rendered such a good program. The whole audience clapped very enthusiastically to show their approval.

KEEP THE ALIEN OUT OF CANADA

CANON TUCKER, LONDON, SO RECOMMENDS IN ADDRESS IN TORONTO.

Toronto, Feb. 19.—Anglican laymen of Toronto assembled in large numbers at the annual supper of the Laymen's Missionary Movement of the Church of England in St. James Parish House last evening. The special speaker for the occasion was Canon L. Norman Tucker of London, Ont., who delivered an address on "The place of the Laymen in the work of the church."

At the outset the Canon said he did not intend to stick to his subject on the lines laid down for him. Speaking of the institutions that were moulding national life he said he could congratulate those secular newspapers that had adopted a high moral and religious tone.

He regarded it as a good sign of the times for the public schools that sons of their own communion, Archdeacon Cody, had been made Minister of Education for Ontario. He was sure that their prayers would go out to him in his great task of directing those institutions which count so much for the future citizenship of Canada.

Referring to the question of land, Canon Tucker said Canada under developed territory meant more than a corner lot, wheat fields or gold mines. They must see to it that the profits were not all going into the pockets of one or two or corporations. Large tracts of land must not be given over to aliens who will become a problem in times of peace and a menace in times of war. Canada owed its greatness to British ancestry, and Canadians owed it to the soldier, to their sisters and to the future of the country to see that the alien was kept out in the new influx of immigration.

Denial is given by the official press bureau in London to the press report that an engagement between the Prince of Wales and Princess Yelando of Italy is shortly to be announced.

Glass of Hot Water Before Breakfast a Splendid Habit

Open sluices of the system each morning and wash away the poisonous, stagnant matter.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, lame back, can, instead, both look and feel as fresh as a daisy always by washing the poisons and toxins from the body with phosphated hot water each morning.

We should drink, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to flush from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract before putting more food into the stomach.

The action of limestone phosphate and hot water on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast and it is said to be but a little while until the roses begin to appear in the cheeks. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to make anyone who is bothered with biliousness, constipation, stomach trouble or rheumatism a real enthusiast on the subject of internal sanitation. Try it and you are assured that you will look better and feel better in every way.

Electrics Take 3 From High Rollers

Last night at Water street alleys in the Business Men's Tenpin League the Can. Gen Electric took three straights from the High Rollers. Fielder, for the C.G.E., rolled 622. Williams and Cranfield rolled past the 400 mark for the High Rollers. Hayes was high with 571, and high single with 244. Solomon second, with 527. The scores:

KEEP SOLDIERS NEAR RAILWAYS

FARMS FOR VETERANS TO BE ON THE COMMUNITY BASIS

Ottawa, Feb. 19.—The chairman of the Soldier Settlement Board, W. J. Black, gives the following as the five certain principles of policy that will guide the board in placing returned soldiers on the land:

"In the first place, the Soldier Settlement Board intend to assist in settling on the land every man who desires to establish a home in the country, whose best interests would be served by engaging in farming.

"Secondly, it is the policy of the Board to see that no settler is permitted to settle on land, anywhere, of a character not suitable to be made into a first class home, a place where money may be made and a good home established, that is where the soil is sufficiently fertile and the location is right.

"In the next place it is the policy of the Board to see that none of the men are settled far from existing railways or from organized civilization at the present time. I have heard and seen in the press," said Mr. Black, "some criticism of the Soldier Settlement Board, that they desired to conduct men away back in the hinterland of some of the prairie provinces, and leave them there to take care of themselves. Now, this is not a matter of getting the men merely settled, the main feature of it is that the soil will be so settled as to make some money and to establish good homes.

Most Embarrassing.

"I may say further that far from the Board's being anxious to locate men distant from a railway, one of the most embarrassing matters that I have had before me since I became connected with the Board was to keep a number of men from going to settle in the West on a tract situated far distant from a railway.

"Another feature of our policy which is vital is to see that in getting started the men shall have the benefits of collective purchase, in so far as that is possible. Farm machinery today is about on the same footing as $2 per bushel wheat, and when the time comes to make payment for some of this machinery wheat will not likely be worth $1 per bushel. So that it is necessary to see today not only that no man purchases equipment which he will not require, but that which is absolutely necessary shall be purchased at a reasonable and satisfactory price.

"Another feature of policy is that after settlement the soldier settler shall be guided, assisted and directly encouraged, and we shall further the organization of communities on a community basis, so that, co-operation in farming operations and in the sale of produce may be obtained to the fullest extent."

OMEMEE

Omemee, Feb. 19.—Pte. Victor Callaghan, son of Mr. P. Callaghan, who for many months was a prisoner of war, arrived home very quietly on Wednesday Pte. Callaghan experienced great hardships at the hands of the enemy and has worked many a hard day's work for which he received eight cents as his day's wage. The young hero brought home with him a sample of the bread which the prisoners received—a small loaf to every seven men—once a week and which resembles an emory stone. Pte. Callaghan has many thrilling tales to tell and his home has been the scene of many a welcoming hand clasp during the past week. Pte. Callaghan is the first of our prisoners of war who will return to Omemee and for whom a hearty welcome awaits. Those still to come are Pte. Alfred Groves, Pte. Harold Underwood, Pte. Cassidy (Leaburn).

Mr. Jim Fee, of Kamloops, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Fee.

Mr. Jack Murray was a visitor to Omemee on Thursday.

Miss Maud Laidley, of Lindsay, was a visitor to her home on Saturday.

Rev. Mr. Lewis returned from Toronto on Friday, bringing with him his son, Gnr. Hunter Lewis, who is slowly recovering from shell shock.

Corp. W. O'Neil, who has been taking treatment at a Military Hospital in Kingston, returned hom on Saturday night.

Mrs. Dr. Irwin, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Staples, of Lindsay, visited Omemee friends on Friday.

Nursing Sister Hayes returned home unannounced on Thursday morning, after an absence overseas of almost three years. Nursing Sister Hayes served for many months in Egypt, and has the distinction of being the only nurse to go overseas from this locality.

Mr. W. J. Lamb, of Peterboro, was a business visitor to Omemee on Saturday.

Mrs. Arthur Rutherford was a visitor to Peterboro on Saturday.

The Spence sale was one of the largest ever held in this locality, sales amounting to $10,000. One team of horses, bringing the handsome sum of $600; one cow $250, and a calf $90.

Sir John Eaton paid a brief visit to Omemee last week in his private car, "Eatonia," and was accompanied to Toronto by Mrs. McCrea and Miss McCrea, who will spend several days in the city.

The many friends of Mr. Harry McQuade will be pleased to know that he is now on the highway to recovery after a very serious illness.

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Murray left for their new home in Peterboro on Monday where the best wishes of their many Omemee friends will follow them.

Mr. F. Jones, of Whitby, was a visitor to Omemee last week.

Miss Florence Tolwell, of Peterboro, was the guest of Mrs. Mathews over the week-end.

The re-opening of the Methodist League on Monday night was an event of much interest. A great many letters, some funny, others descriptive of the arrival of our boys in Germany, and all expressing great appreciation of the boxes received from the Society, were read, and thoroughly enjoyed. Little Helen Johnson sang very sweetly during the evening and the Rev. Mr. Lewis addressed the gathering, after which Sergt. Harold Cunningham, who was in charge of a table of war trophies sent home by different Omemee boys, gave a graphic explanation of each article. The serving of dainty confections brought to a close a most enjoyable evening.

Miss Eva Fee, of Uxbridge, spent the week-end under the parental roof.

Mr. Thornberry, of Lindsay, was a visitor to Omemee this week.

DAYLIGHT SAVING

Editor Review:—There is quite a controversy going on in the papers about the daylight saving bill. A good many of the papers outside of the agricultural papers favor the bill, on the ground that it gives the city people more time for recreation or time to work in their gardens. Take notice, work in their gardens. Now, outside of a few laboring men who may have done some hoeing, the great majority were playing golf, boating or joy riding with their cars. This is the whole excuse in a nut shell.

How about the farmers side of the question? Anybody who has ever worked on a farm knows that in the harvest time it is always near the middle of the forenoon before the dew is off so the machines will work and they also know that from 5 o'clock until sundown is the most pleasant time of the day to work. A man will do as much work in one hour as he would in two in the heat of the day.

Of course the man who has no help to hire need not care so much it is the man who has to hire his help that has the trouble. I know farmers who tried it for a short time only and went back to the old time. Imagine farmers having to get up at break of day in summer time to milk cows, after being kept awake nearly all night with noise of auto cars and howling crowds on the roads. The majority of these people do not have to get out of their beds until 7 or 8 o'clock.

It appears that when some men get to be members of parliament they always want to be doing something big. They even think that anything that God has made they have a right to pull to pieces and try to improve on it.

We have too many old dotors in Parliament at present, men who are totally unfit for the job. We even have officials in this city hanging on to their job like a pup to a root as as long as they are allowed to stay on top of the earth.

Mr. Farmer, hire your help on the understanding to go by the old time Set your clocks by God's time and let George Foster and his crazy notions go to the dogs. Get together, farmers, pick out you men for next election Let them see we will stand for our right. Let them know we are alive. Put out politics.

LOSS OF SIR WILFRID WILL HAVE EFFECT ON PARLIAMENT

Was Always an Influence to Preserve Harmony Between the Two Races Represented in the House.

Ottawa, Feb. 19 — It will seem like an unfamiliar parliament when it meets Thursday with Sir Wilfrid Laurier gone, and Sir Robert Borden absent at the Peace Conference. For eighteen years they have faced each other from the front benches. There will be two leaders untried in guiding parliament, unaccustomed to the ways and ways of the commons.

What effect this will have on the session it is difficult to predict. Sir Wilfrid's death will cast a gloom over the session and may take some of the fight out of the opposition. Sir Wilfrid was almost the whole Opposition, and there is no other member to the left of the Speaker with the knowledge or experience, or the extraordinary ability to pick out the weak spots in legislation. His death may tend to shorten the session.

Restraining Influence.

On the other hand, Sir Wilfrid exercised a restraining influence on his followers and kept in check the hot young bloods from Quebec, like Lucien Cannon and Thomas Vien, who were always anxious to tattack Ontario. It is possible the death of Sir Wilfrid may lead to a much more disorderly House.

The passing of the veteran statesman combined with the absence of Sir Robert and the possibility of his going to Washington, makes a muddled political situation still more muddled. It is utterly impossible to predict what will happen or what effect the sudden and dramatic death of Sir Wilfrid will have upon the future of Union Government or the Opposition.

A caucus of the Opposition has been called by James Robb, Chief Whip, for next week, when the situation will be discussed and a leader for the session selected. It is stated that it is possible no leader will be selected, but a committee appointed to take charge, with a chairman, possibly Mr. Robb himself. There is a suggestion that Hon. W. S. Fielding will be the choice, but as he was elected as a Liberal Unionist and did not attend any Opposition caucuses last year it is said that the Quebec members, who form three-fourths of the Opposition, will object.

Liberal Convention.

The question of a permanent Opposition leader may not be decided for some time and will probably be left until the national convention of the party, which Sir Wilfrid had proposed to call this summer, is held. This convention will still be summoned, according to Liberal leaders.

Hon. William Martin, Premier of Saskatchewan, seems to be the favorable choice although Ottawa politicians who sat in the House with him, while admitting his attractive personality and his political sagacity, refuse to admit that he has the ability or the qualities to make a leader of a national party.

WOULDN'T TAKE A FORTUNE FOR IT

TANLAC PROVES OF UNTOLD VALUE TO THIS MAN—GAINS TWENTY-ONE POUNDS.

"I wouldn't take a fortune for the good Tanlac has done me, for it has not only restored my health but has added twenty-one pounds to my weight and I feel like a different man in every way," said Peter Riedweg, a valued employee of the Pacific Car Foundry Co., and whose residence is 553 Clay street, Portland, Oregon.

"About eight months ago," he continued, "I had a bad spell of the grippe, and it left me in a very badly run-down condition, and until I began taking Tanlac, I was not able to find a thing that would get me started up hill again. My appetite was very poor and my stomach was in such bad condition that the little I did eat would give me indigestion. Sometimes for three or four hours after my meals I would be all bloated up with gas and suffer something awful with shortness of breath. I was badly constipated most of the time, and occasionally suffered from headaches. My kidneys gave me lots of trouble also, and I had a dull, heavy pain across the small of my back all the time. All my strength and energy seemed to gradually leave me, and I lost a lot in weight, and finally got so weak and worn-out that I had to give up my work and for three months I was not able to do a hands turn.

"I heard so many folks around Portland talking about the good this Tanlac was doing them that I decided to buy a few bottles and see if it would help me. Well, sir, I don't believe it is possible for anybody to improve faster than I did after I began taking that medicine. My appetite improved from the very first bottle, the condition of my stomach soon improved so much that I could eat anything I wanted and I would not have indigestion afterwards, I kept on taking Tanlac and the more I took the better I felt, and after taking six bottles all my troubles disappeared. I am never bothered with that pain in my back, and my kidneys seem to be in good condition. I am rid of constipation, and I never have a headache at all. I have gained a lot in weight, in fact I weigh more today than I ever weighed in my life, and thanks to Tanlac, I am well and strong every way as I ever was, and am glad to recommend it to everybody."

Tanlac is sold in Peterboro by W. G. Warne Drug Co., Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield, by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Fowler's Corners, by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood

EMPLOYERS AGREE TO GIVE PREFERENCE TO VETERANS

Meeting Held in City Yesterday Deals With the Matter of Finding Work For Returned Men.

Major Hunter and Lieut. Bailey representing the Dominion Government in its activities in connection with the civil re-establishment of the returned soldier were in the city yesterday and addressed a representative meeting of the returned aldermen, employers of labor and members of the Great War Veterans Association and Trades and Labor Council in connection with the opening up in the course of a few days in Peterborough of the Labor Bureau the offices of which are to be situated on Charlotte street.

Mr. Hugh Robinson, a member of the G. W. V. A., will be the representative of the Provincial Government and Capt. Morrison who is the president of the Association is the appointee of the Federal Government.

These men will be in charge of the work being carried on in the local labor bureau and as the speakers said yesterday this will centralize the work of finding employment for the returned men which up to the present has been carried on by a number of organizations including the Soldiers' Aid Commission, the Y. M. C. A., and the G. W. V. A. and the Trades and Labor Council.

It is felt that taking charge of the matter in one office will prevent the overlapping which has been so prevalent in the past. A man up to the present time could go to one of the organizations which have been aiding in the task of finding work for the veterans and after getting a job as a result of their endeavors could leave it in a short time and go to one of the other societies and get another position.

This resulted in loss of confidence by the manufacturers, and added greatly to the difficulty of re-establishing the veteran civilly and getting things back to normal once more. It added to the labor unrest so prevalent in the land and militated against efficiency.

If it was found that a returned soldier was unfit for physical reasons to take a position even though a considerable period had elapsed since the date of his discharge the speakers, at the meeting yesterday afternoon stated that the Government would admit him to a technical school where they would give him a six months' course to prepare him for the avocation of his choice.

Few soldiers wanted to go to farms according to the statement of the two government representatives. The wages were not satisfactory and the hours were long, and the life did not appeal to them. There are a few of course who looked at things differently and these the employment bureaus made every effort to please.

Several of the representative employers of the city expressed views upon the subject. Mr. E. G. Patterson of the C. G. E. stated that the policy of this firm was to give the returned soldier the preference wherever possible. He did not believe, however, in dispensing with the services of married men who had been in the employ of the company in order to give the position to a returnedman but was willing to do everything within reason to help along the work of solving the unemployment question.

Mr. McDonald of the Quaker Oats Company and a representative of the Henry Hope Company were in accord with the views of Mr. Patterson and so expressed themselves.

G. A. Gillespie, M.L.A., asserted that he had been doing all he could towards aiding the soldier in getting work. They were employing as many of them as possible in his dairy plant and he had been successful in obtaining positions for quite a number who had signified a desire to go on farms.

Secretary Whatley of the G.W.V.A. addressed the meeting upon the tendency of Canadian firms and even the government to pass over the Canadian manufacturer and purchase from a foreign and often an enemy source. He gave as an example the intention of the Hydro Commission as announced in the press recently of buying electrical machinery from Sweden which might easily be built in Canadian plants and provide work for the men at home. This was not helping to solve the unemployment problem.

Alderman Garside said he was sure the Trades and Labor Council would endorse the protest of the G. W. V. A. to the government against this action.

PHOTOGRAPHING GRAVES

Of All Canadians Who Fell in the War

Ottawa, Feb. 19. Work of photographing all graves of soldiers buried overseas is now in progress, and eventually, it is hoped that a photograph of each permanent grave will be obtainable. This information is contained in a memorandum forwarded to the Militia Department by Major-General Fabian Ware, Director General of graves registration and enquiries.

So many thousands of applications for photographs of graves have been received by the directorate of graves registration and enquiries that it is feared there will be considerable delay in supplying them.

Up to the present 70,000 photographs have been supplied, but many thousand requests still remain to be dealt with. The delay is due to the small number of photographers available, and the increased difficulties owing to the requirements of demobilization, in providing transport for them to the various cemeteries, which as will be seen from a glance at any of the maps showing the area of fighting, are scattered over a large extent of country.

Rheumatism is no respecter of age, sex, color or rank. If not the most dangerous of human afflictions it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat less meat, dress a warmly as possible, avoid any undue exposure and, above all, drink a lot of pure water.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settin in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which, overcomes uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.

Dr. Reid Is Now Father Of House

Ottawa, Feb 19. With the death of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Sir George Foster is now the oldest member of the House. Sir Wilfrid was the only member who entered the House in the seventies. Sir George Foster was first elected to the Commons in 1882. The only other member of the House who was elected in the eighties is W. H. Smith, South Ontario, who was first returned in 1887.

According to the custom of the British Commons the member who is recognized as "the father of the House" is the one who has sat longest continuously. Hon. Dr. Reid can claim the honor. Sir George Foster was out of the Commons from 1900 to 1904 while Mr. Smith was out of Parliament from 1896 to 1911. Hon. Dr. Reid was first elected in 1891 and has been in the House since without a break. There are only two other members who were first elected before 1896 General Sir Sam Hughes and W. F. Maclean, both of whom were re-elected at bye-elections in 1892.

Argentina leads the world for linseed production, cultivating about 3,000,000 acres annually as compared with 2,000,000 acres in the United States and 1,000,000 in Canada.

To prevent waste of fuel in smoke, an inventor has developed an attachment for furnaces which introduces heated air to mingle with the coal gases and effect complete combustion.

Ammunition Was Short.

Pte. Thomas Ricketts, 1st Battalion Royal Newfoundland Regiment, for the most conspicuous bravery and devotion to duty on October 14, 1918, during the advance from Ledeghem. When the attack was temporarily held up by heavy hostile fire the platoon to which he belonged suffered severe casualties from the fire of a battery at point-blank range. Ricketts immediately volunteered to go forward with his section commander and a Lewis gun to outflank the battery. Advancing by short rushes under heavy fire from enemy machine guns and a hostile battery, their ammunition was exhausted when they were still 200 yards from the battery. The enemy, seeing the opportunity of getting their field guns away, began to bring up their gun teams. Ricketts, immediately realizing the situation, doubled back a hundred yards under heavy machine gun fire, procured further ammunition, dashed back to the Lewis gun and by very accurate fire drove the enemy and gun teams into a farm. His platoon then advanced without casualties, captured four field guns, four machine guns and eight prisoners, the fifth field gun being subsequently intercepted and captured.

By his presence of mind in anticipating the enemy's intention and his utter disregard of personal safety, Ricketts secured a further supply of ammunition which directly resulted in these important captures and undoubtedly saved many lives.

Britain Fosters Steel Combine.

Great Britain is planning to enlarge her steel industry by fostering great combinations for manufacturing and selling, according to an article by Joseph Morton, a British authority on iron and steel, in the annual edition of the Iron Trade Review. Steel manufacturers appointed by the British Board of Trade at the instance of the Government to investigate after-the-war needs, are not only advocating such combinations, but a high protective tariff, the exclusion of imports from the Central Powers during the period of restoration, improved land and ocean transportation facilities and other measures necessary to build up their industry. "Measured by modern standards of industrial power the position of Britain is alarming indeed," the manufacturers' committee concludes from the survey of Britain's situation as compared with recent progress in the United States, Germany and other countries.

Tommy's Yarn.

A Yank and a Tommy thrown together in France, were vying with each other in telling tall stories. "I saw 500 Germans drowned in Champagne," said the American. "That's nothing!" Tommy answered. "At Zeebrugge there were three German submarines sunk in port."

Bolshevism a Microbe.

The theory of President Poincare that Bolshevism is a microbe that attacks defeated, not victorious countries, seems to be substantiated by certain results in the British elections, for wherever there was any indication of such an influence the majority against it seemed to be increased.

Busy Women.

During the war there was an increase of over 40 per cent. in the number of women engaged in industrial and commercial occupations in England.

THE DOG ARMY.

Rendered Gallant Service During the War.

Britain's dog army rendered gallant service in the war. Many a soldier owes his life to some poor, uncared-for, stray dog. For nearly two years dogs were employed by the British as messengers, as sentries and as guards.

Early in 1917 a war dog school of instruction was established by the British War Office, and Lieut.-Col. Richardson, who has devoted his life to training dogs for military and police purposes, was appointed commandant of the school. Gamekeepers, hunt servants and shepherds were called up from the army to assist in the work of instruction.

After a thorough training in England the dogs were sent to France, and on the battlefields their skill, courage and tenacity amazed the army. Often wounded in the performance of their duties, they never faltered while strength remained to carry on. The official record of their heroic work tells of successful message-carrying through darkness, mist, rain and shellfire over the most difficult ground. In a few minutes' time dogs have brought messages over ground that would take a soldier runner hours to cross.

During the great German advance last spring part of the British line in front of a famous French town was cut off by severe enemy barrage. A messenger dog was released with an urgent appeal for reinforcements. It ran two miles in ten minutes. The result was that a French colonial division was sent up and prevented a disaster. The messenger was a Highland sheep dog.

Another dog with a message ran nearly four miles in twenty minues, and still another in the same time carried back from the front a map of an important captured position, when a man would have taken an hour and a half to bring it in.

The dogs which have been found most successful in war work are collies, sheep dogs, lurchers and Airedales, and crosses of these varieties, while in a number of cases Welsh and Irish terriers have given excellent results.

The work of sentry dogs has been valuable, especially in the Balkans. One gave warning of an enemy scout 300 yards away. On many occasions dogs have given warning of enemy patrols long before the soldier sentries were aware of their presence.

Got a New Job.

Bill was reading the paper instead of washing the windows of the hotel when the manager looked in. "What's this?" he said. "Pack up your things, and go." So poor Bill drew his money, went upstairs, and put on his good clothes. Coming down he met the manager, who did not recognise him in his black coat. "Do you want a job?" asked he. "Yes, sir," said Bill. "Can you clean windows?" "Yes, sir." "You look a handy sort of fellow." "Thank you, sir," said Bill; and in half an hour he was back in the same old room, earning two dollars a week more than before—but cleaning the window this time, and not reading the paper.

Fiji Islanders Are Small, But the Colony Expects To Expand in Peace Days

PROBABLY none of the smaller possessions of Great Britain has a more hopeful and progressive post-war outlook than the Fiji Islands, that tiny colony in the middle of the Southern Pacific Ocean which has never been in the public eye, which one hardly ever reads about and of which the average Canadian knows but little. But, left to itself, little Fiji bids fair to forge ahead with surprising rapidity, building up its valuable industries, broadening and extending its educational system, opening up new avenues of trade, and coming to have more and more in common with the outside world, until it becomes an asset of which the Mother Country may well be proud.

This, briefly, is the impression gained by a representative of the Christian Science Monitor from an interview with the Hon. J. M. Hedstrom, M.L.C., M.E.C., president of one of the largest business concerns in the islands. Mr. Hedstrom, who is a member of the Legislative Council, has been a resident of Fiji for many years and is unusually well acquainted with conditions there, and well qualified to forecast what the future has in store for the colony.

Time was when the Fiji Islands existed—as far as the great majority of the people of Canada were concerned—only in story books. The tiny colony, with its sandy beaches and palm-fringed lagoons, was associated closely with pirates, pearls and pieces-of-eight, buried treasure and Bully Hayes. But the years have changed all this, and to-day great mills grind out their wealth of sugar, coconut trees help supply the world with copra, hundreds of thousands of bunches of bananas are gathered and exported yearly and, when evening comes, a daily newspaper furnishes the people of Suva with up-to-the-minute cabled news of world happenings. The halcyon days of romance and adventure have changed to days of big business and big industrial development. The Fiji of the story book is no more.

The Fiji Islands are a colonial possession of Great Britain. Suva, a fair-sized city, modern in nearly every respect, is the capital and principal port of call. Fiji is not self-governing. Heading the administration is the governor, appointed from London. The administration consists of a Legislative Council, composed of 20 persons. Ten of the members are colonial officers and vote with the governor. Seven members are representatives of the European population, two represent the native Fijians and one represents the Indians who are natives of India. The native Fijians do not have the right to vote. As a rule they are not greatly advanced as regards education, though they are stalwart and hard and industrious workers.

Although the area of the Fiji Islands is greater than that of the Hawaiian Islands, the former have a population of only about 150,000. Of this number about 500 are Europeans, the rest being composed mainly of natives and Indians, with a scattering of Chinese. Suva is a beautiful tropical city, with many modern conveniences, with the exception of street cars, and with large stores, banks, hotels, theatres and business houses. Freight and passenger steamers call regularly at Suva on their way from Canada to Australia or vice versa. During the war the call of steamers was not so frequent as in the past, but traffic is expected to be resumed in the very near future.

One of the interesting things about Fiji is the Government land situation. In the first place, says Mr. Hedstrom, the soil of the islands is of the highest quality and capable of growing almost anything that can be cultivated with success in the tropics. There are thousands of acres awaiting cultivation, he says, and fine arable land can be leased from the Government at a rental as low as a penny an acre for 10 years or so. The better lands, of course, bring a higher rental, and a fairly good price, although unusually nominal, is secured from the higher grade lands, especially adapted to the cultivation of sugar cane.

In explaining the land situation, Mr. Hedstrom points out, as an example, that a native, after one year's residence, may obtain a small piece of planting ground near his home, rise and harvest his crop, and then, the next year, take a piece of land probably three miles from his home. In many instances, he says, a native may till a series of plots in rotation, probably not visiting the first for three or four years after a crop has been taken from it.

Fiji's educational system has yet to be improved in many ways if it is to be brought up to the high standard maintained in most countries. Children of Europeans are given a rather thorough primary and secondary education which tends to fit them for entrance into universities. The education of other children has been conducted largely by the missions, and arrangements have now been made whereby these mission schools will receive Government aid when they are brought up to a certain standard. The last Governor of Fiji was an advocate of education, and it was through him that a number of important advances were made which, in the future, should prove of particular benefit to the children of the islands. A new high school was opened at Suva just before Mr. Hedstrom left the islands.

More Cocoanuts Imported.

The value of cocoanuts, copra and cocoanut oil imported in 1918 is about $60,000,000, against approximately $12,000,000 in 1914.

A Golden Throne.

The Maharajah of Mysore has a throne made of solid gold, beautifully chased and set with precious stones, and resting on four huge lions, also of solid gold. Above the throne, which is covered with a thick cushion of cloth of gold with pearl tassels is a gold umbrella shimmering with pearls and precious stones, on top of which is a golden peacock encrusted with diamonds and emeralds, holding in its beak a large emerald pendant. Silver steps lead up to the seat.

GOSSIP OF THE STARS IN THE NATIONAL PASTIME

A certain scout, name not to be mentioned because it might cause embarrassment, wonders if this joke is on him, or what? Not long since he got a well written letter in which the writer stated that he had managed an "independent" ball club the season before and that on the team had developed a player who looked full fit for a trial in the majors. If the scout were interested he could address So and So at Such and Such a place.

The scout, being on the job, was interested, of course, so made inquiries. And this is what he discovered:

The "independent" team was made up of inmates at an insane asylum, manager and all, and the prospect offered was listed as not ordinarily dangerous but occasionally subject to restraint.

A stiff like this may have been told before, but this is an actual case and the scout presents the evidence to prove it all.

Rickey's War Trophies.

Branch Rickey of the St. Louis Cardinals, returning from service in France, brought back with him the usual collection of German helmets, belts, buttons, etc. Rickey didn't capture them himself, but picked the mementoes up back of the lines. A box full of the war trophies was shipped to the address of Rickey in St. Louis and pried open in the club office by interested hangers on.

Hi Mason dug out an officer's helmet and inspected it. Evidently it had been too large for the wearer, so he had padded the band with a wad of old German newspaper.

And Hi Mason, being a German scholar, proceeded to read the padding. The "feature" article of the newspaper was a peace address made by William Jennings Bryan in 1915, which evidently had been preserved as worth while by the German officer whose head the helmet had adorned before something happened to him that Bill Bryan couldn't prevent.

Gowdy's Troubles

Hank Gowdy, who got his start under Bobby Quinn at Columbus, where he broke into baseball as general roustabout at the ball park, writes Quinn frequent letters. One of Gowdy's duties when he was an employee of the Columbus club was to raise the pennant the team once had won and of which Quinn was very proud. Each day before the game started Gowdy hoisted this memento to the tall flag pole.

One day the pennant got tangled in a hanging wire as Gowdy tried to get it to the top of the pole and it was torn to pieces. Quinn says he gave Gowdy a fearful bawling out, as that pennant was his best loved treasure in baseball. Evidently Hank hasn't forgotten, for in one of his recent letters he writes Quinn:

"I got the assignment of raising Old Glory on top of the city hall of this town (Born in Germany) and as I pulled her up she caught in the ropes. I remember that time I tore up your old pennant rag in Columbus and wondered if the hoodoo was still working on me, but got her clear and to the top of the staff. There she floats and while it's a lovely sight to see the Stars and Stripes floating in Germany, I can't help feeling, if it's not unpatriotic, that the sweetest job in the world to me right now would be hoisting that old blue pennant in the Columbus ball yard."

Then Hank pulls this joke: "This town is Born—I wish it never had been."

Suspected a Joke.

John McGraw tells an interesting story concerning Harry Sparrow, business manager of the Yankees, and Harry vouches for the truth of the yarn, which might be regarded as one of those made to order stories.

McGraw and Sparrow were standing in front of the Auditorium hotel in Chicago a few years ago when Eddie Pigeon, former newspaper man and now well known in theatrical circles, came along. Both knew Eddie well and they chatted for a few minutes when along came Dan Canary, the old-time bike racing star, who knew McGraw, but did not know the two others in the group. After the usual greeting McGraw began to introduce the strangers.

"Mr. Canary, meet Mr. Pigeon," said McGraw.

"Very glad to meet you," returned the old-time bike star to Pigeon.

"Now meet Mr. Sparrow, Mr. Canary," said McGraw in all seriousness.

By this time Canary decided that McGraw was having some fun at his expense and was ringing in bird names on him. He had responded to the Pigeon introduction, but the Sparrow part was too much, so he refused.

"Think you're kiddin' me, do you?" he shouted and then he continued on his way down Michigan boulevard, fully convinced that McGraw was trying to play a joke on him.

For hanging curtains in doorways a grooved strip of wood has been designed, in which freely slide balls from which safety pins are suspended.

The existence of mica, obtainable in very large sheets, has been known in Guatemala for several years, and efforts will be made to exploit the deposits.

JACK DEMPSEY EXPECTED TO PUT UP A GREAT FIGHT FOR TITLE

Is Real Fighting Man—Big Boxing Bout Will Take Place in the United States on July 4th.

There will be a great difference in the matter of height and weight when champion Jess Willard and his young challenger, Jack Dempsey, face each other in the ring on July 4, but the difference in their temperaments will be even greater. Dempsey is everything that Willard is not. He is the direct antithesis of the champion in nearly every respect.

Willard is slow to make friends and regards every stranger with suspicion. Dempsey greets everyone with a smile and is your friend before you have finished shaking hands with him. If he succeeds in winning the title he will be a wonderfully popular champion.

Willard is old as fighters go and he lacks enthusiasm. He gives one the impression, and in fact makes no attempt to hide it, that he is bored with the boxing game. Dempsey is boyishly enthusiastic. He is pugnacious in the extreme. He likes to fight for the excitement of the game as well as the money there is in it.

At first sight Dempsey looks to be little bigger than middleweight. He is so compactly built that one is surprised to find that he is really 6 feet 1½ inches tall. Most of his weight is in his chest and broad shoulders, which are tremendously developed.

Dempsey has the ideal fighting face. His jaws are so broad that his face is rather round than oval. His eyes are set well back in his head, while his mouth is wide and firm and equipped with a set of teeth as even as those displayed in tooth paste advertisements.

Dempsey's nose is the most striking feature of his face. It is a sharp little snub, and it gives him a jaunty cocky look. It is a real fighting nose, such as has been carried by all great ringmen who have liked fighting for fighting's sake.

While waiting to sign articles for the bout Dempsey was pelted with questions by the newspaper men present. He had a ready answer for each, his replies showing him to be naturally smart and intelligent, although without the advantage of much schooling, for Dempsey worked on the farm and in the mines from his early boyhood. He succeeded in leaving that impression that he is wonderfully confident of his ability in the ring, and yet was not in the least boastful.

In telling of how glad he was to get the match, Dempsey said:

"I certainly was tickled to death to hear the news. I would have come on at once if I had to walk it if I had known that I was wanted to sign articles. I thought my manager, Jack Kearns, could attend to that. I thought he must be kidding me when I got the wire from him that I was needed here to sign.

"I want to say for all time that Jack is my one and only manager. We have a contract that runs for five years and he is the only one that can talk for me. I never listen to Curley and Floto and others who have been mentioned as having an interest in me. Of course you know the trouble that I had with Reisler. I broke the contract with him because he did not treat me right or I still would be with him.

"I think Tex Rickard is the greatest promoter in the world, and I am well pleased with my share of the purse. In fact I don't think anything of the money at all. Its the chance to fight for the title that appeals to me. I think Willard is doing me a great favor to fight me, and if necessary I would have taken the match for nothing.

"How will I fight Willard? Just the same as I fought the others. I always go in to win as quickly as I know how, the same as though I were fighting in the street. There's nothing to be gained by waiting and fooling around. I just get in there and fight until something drops.

"I don't think Willard's size will help me to any great extent. It's been my experience that the bigger they are the easier they are. Those big fellows fall all over themselves they are so slow. Fred Fulton and Carl Morris were the biggest men I met and both went out in the first round. There was so much of them could not miss. It's the smaller fellows who are fast and clever that give you the most trouble. Anyone I hit is going to drop no matter how big he is, but when you can't hit them just right it's a lot harder.

"They say I'm not very clever myself, but you'll notice that I have no marks on me. Both my ears are as good as they ever were and I haven't got a scar of any kind. In my last six fights I have not had a nose bleed or a black eye, which is easy to prove that I don't get hit much."

OTTAWAS DOWN ARENAS; CAMERON IS OUT OF GAME

Team From Capital Wins in Overtime by a Score of 4 to 3.

Toronto, Feb. 19.—Ottawa increased their already commending lead in the race for the second-half honors when they defeated Arenas by 4 to 3 in overtime last night. The smallest crowd of the season to view an N. H. L., fixture was on hand, there being about 1,000 paid admissions. Arenas are now hopelessly out of the running, and the departure of Randall, who left last night for Glace Bay, has practically wrecked the team. From world's champions to last place in the league standing is a long jump backwards, but such has been the fate of the locals this season.

The game was not of the tame variety by any means, and both sextettes gave everything they had to gain the verdict. Ottawa needed the game to assure them the honors of the second half, and the locals were equally determined to turn in a victory. With but five minutes of playing time remaining Arenas appeared certain winners, and were leading by 3 to 1. The visitors, however, staged a strong "comeback," and Nighbor and Cleghorn scored in succession. But two minutes' overtime had elapsed when Nighbor outguessed the local defence, made a pass to Broadbent and the latter tallied.

Darrah and Cameron Absent.

Ottawa appeared on the ice minus Darrah and Cameron, but Broadbent and Gerard, who replaced them, played well and the absent ones were not missed as badly as was generally supposed. Cameron is suffering from a painful injury to his ankle, and may be out of the game for a week. Benedict was at the top of his form last night, and saved many shots from close in. He tripped Dennenay on one occasion, and was ordered to the bench, but Cleghorn looked after the goalkeeping job so well that no damage was done.

Gerard and Cleghorn blocked in their usual good style and proved dangerous on the attack. Nighbor was prominent with his hook check and also got in some clever rushing. He figured in two of the winners' goals, once when he went in alone from the face-off and tallied and again when he made the play that won the game Dennenay and Boucher also worked hard. Skene Ronan acted as substitute, but was used very little.

Arenas certainly tried hard enough and deserve credit for their plucky efforts. With practically nothing at stake they went to work with a will, and on the play looked every bit as good as the visitors. Noble was prominent with his grand rushing and was just about the best performer on the ice. Randall showed flashes of real form, especially in the first and second periods. In the final session he made a clever end-to-end rush and scored.

Adams Plays Well.

Mummery, Adams, Skinner and Crawford worked hard, but were closely checked by the visitors and rarely got into the limelight. Adams proved a ready mixer and invariably came out unscathed. On one occasion he stick-handled his way through the entire team, only to have Benedict make a great save.

In the initial period play was very even, with each team tallying a counter. Noble did the trick for the locals, while Broadbent was the man of the hour for the visitors. The second session proved a scoreless affair, but in the third each tallied twice. The Ottawa counters came in the last five minutes and resulted from clever plays.

Local Curlers Are Out Of Finals

Peterborough was beaten by Paris in the semi-finals of the Tankard series this morning, and the former are this afternoon contesting the finals with the Toronto Granites, who have held the championship for the past ten years.

This morning in the semi-finals the Granites defeated Belleville 38 to 24, while the result of the Paris-Peterborough game stood 36 to 24 in favor of the former.

Yesterday, Peterborough, who entered the semi-finals as a result of drawing a bye along with Parkdale in the first round, won their second round game from Parkdale by eight whots. At one stage they were over twenty shots up, but the veteran Bill Scott sneaked in a six end on W. M. Lang, while St Armstrong also finish very strong.

Paris—		Peterborough—
D. Cavan	19	R. Hicks	10
N. Paley	17	W. Long	14
Total	36	Total	24

William Schleffel Broke All Records

Wm. Schleffel last night at the Water street alleys broke all previous records in five pin single and three games.

Rolling in three games, 305, 269, 276, a total of 953, which is a record all over Canada. The previous record in three games, was held by P. Cottan of 873 and a single by J. Dillon of 358, while Schleffel's high single was 376.

CANADIAN PAINTINGS ON EXHIBITION BY W. A. A.

The exhibition now being held in the lecture hall of the Public Library building under the auspices of the local branch of the Womens Art Association gives citizens of Peterborough an opportunity to study works by Canadian artists.

By bringing these pictures to the city the Peterborough branch strives to accomplish one of the objects of the Association, namely: "The encouragement and promotion of more general interest in original art in this country." As the collection of pictures is large one may perhaps refer especially to the works of a few of the artists represented.

There are fifteen pictures by Mrs. Dignam of Toronto. Particularly interesting is her series of Muskoka scenery.

Mrs. S. Cutts, A.R. C.A., of Port Perry shows two Dutch scenes which are much admired.

There are six beautiful paintings by Miss Murray.

The charming feature of the exhibition is a collection of miniature portraits, the work of Miss M. D. Drummond of Toronto.

The crafts are represented by beautiful, hand wrought bronze and copper articles, jewellery, samples of book binding, hand painted china and decorated glass and the home industries by curtains, Afghans, rugs, overtures, work bags, and sets of home spun, all of which have been woven on hand looms in the homes of the workers. Beautiful samples of Chinese embroidery are also displayed. Many of the articles are for sale and the prices are reasonable.

Not the least attractive of the exhibits is the flax, which is shown in all stages from the time it is cut in the field until it becomes beautiful linen, and with this display is a piece of damask which was specially woven for Her Majesty, Queen Victoria, in the year 1840.

This exhibit should be particularly interesting as the cultivation and preparation of flax are the most ancient of all textile industries, very distinct traces of their existence during the stone age being preserved to the present day.

The hostesses this afternoon were Mrs. V. Eastwood, Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner, Mrs. R. Neil and Mrs. R. Denne.

Tonight Mrs. Abbott and Mrs. Goodwill will act as hostesses.

The Two Leading Characters in "The Man Who Came Back"

"The Man Who Came Back," which comes to the Grand Theatre on Saturday next, February 22, for Matinee and Night, is by Jules Eckert Goodman, founded on a short story by John Fleming Wilson and produced by William A. Brady, and outlasted all of its competitors in New York and Boston. There seems to be no limit to the number of people who want to see the progress of this young man who makes his way from his father's home down to the very depths in a Chinese opium den, and from there, with the help of a girl, back again to his father's home. Each week the Playhouse was crowded, and were it not for the fact that Grace George and her repertoire company had to have the theatre, Mr. Brady would have kept "The Man Who Came Back" there indefinitely.

Local theatregoers will see the exact same company and production which has just finished nearly a two year run in New York and is now en route to Indianapolis, Ind., playing only six cities in Canada.

OBITUARY

MRS. JOSEPH NORTHEY

A very sad death occurred on Thursday, February 13th, which has cast a gloom over the whole community, when Cora R. Etta Pack, wife of Joseph Northey, Mount Julian, passed away in her 40th year. About two weeks ago she fell a victim of influenza, which was followed by pneumonia. She was a daughter of Mr. Pack of Haliburton and was married in 1904, when she came to reside in Burleigh. Her kind, cheerful disposition soon won her a host of friends. She was an amiable wife, fond mother and a devout christian. She was by faith a Later Day Saint, but during her life in Burleigh she was a faithful worker of Eden Methodist Church. She was an active member of the Women's Institute ever since the local branch was organized.

She leaves to mourn her loss besides her heart-broken husband and three small children, her father, three sisters and three brothers. The bereaved relatives have the heartfelt sympathy of all in their sad bereavement.

The funeral which took place on Saturday from her late residence to Lakefield Cemetery was largely attended. Rev. Mr. Beck officiated.

MRS. MARTHA BIRD.

An old resident of Peterborough passed away last night in the person of Mrs. Martha Bird, of 139 London street. She was in her 89th year, and had resided in this city during her entire lifetime.

She was married to John Bird, who predeceased her in 1889. Surviving are one sister, Mrs. Lattimer, and a step-daughter, Mrs. Margaret Dupras, both of this city.

The funeral will be held from the late residence of deceased tomorrow at 2:30 p.m., service being conducted at the house half an hour earlier by Rev. A. J. Thomas. Interment will be made in Little Lake Cemetery.

THE LATE MRS O'MARA

The funeral of Mrs. Carew O'Mara will take place tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock from the family residence, Waterford Street, to St. Peter's Cathedral and thence to the Roman Catholic Cemetery.

No Reduction In Cost Of Clothes

Toronto, Feb. 19.—There will be practically no reduction in the price of men's clothing next spring, although by next fall a slight reduction in the prices will be expected, was the declaration made by Chas. E. Wry, who is in the city to attend the annual convention of the retail clothiers' section of the Retail Merchants' Association. Mr. Wry points out that wages have increased considerably since the armistice was signed, while the number of working hours have been cut down by the employes. It is expected, however, that the quality of the goods put out by the manufacturers next season will be far better than the goods turned out during the war, for the reason that a larger percentage of wool will be inducted into the cloth, and again the release of machinery formerly on government work will greatly expedite the reduction in prices.

THE WELCOME GUEST HAS A GOOD STOMACH

Not What You Eat But What You Digest Tells the Story. Eat Anything if You Follow With a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet

The Man or Woman Who Can Eat Heartily and Not Fade Away is the Welcome Guest Anywhere.

Many people just hate to eat in company. They prefer to crawl into some by-place for a dyspeptic's plate of molly coddle. Business men often resort to this form of weakness under the belief they can work better. But it isn't what you eat but what you digest that counts. Some stomachs can't digest even a glass of milk. So they simply keep on feeding dyspepsia and get gas, water brash, sour risings and so on that the better informed and hearty eaters entirely avoid. This they do by using Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Many physicians prescribe them for indigestion, dyspepsia and other digestive disorders. They are sold at every drug store, everywhere, price 50 cents a box.

Ask your druggist more about them.

Prize Winners At Euchre Party

The Valentine Euchre held by St. Peter's Ladies Aid was a decided success, both socially and financially and the society are indeed grateful to all those who in any way and every way helped in making it such. To the public for their patronage and especially to those who donated the following very handsome prizes:

Ladies' Prizes

2nd. A handsome piece of statuary, donated by Mrs. Dunn and won by Miss Carrie Lajoie.

3rd. Handsome pieces of china, donated by Mrs. R. Sheehy and won by Miss Gillen.

Gentlemens' Prizes

2nd. Pipes, donated by Rev. Fr. Phelan and won by Mr. Ashland.

3rd. A beautiful picture framed donated by Mrs. M. McFadden and won by Mr. B. Law.

AT MURRAY STREET CHURCH.

Ladies' Will Have Charge of Service Tonight.

The midweek service at Murray Street Baptist Church tonight will be in charge of the Ladies' Missionary Circle. This does not mean that the men are not expected. It means the very opposite—that the ladies will scarcely understand it in cases where the men are absent, because this is the one occasion when they have an invitation to a ladies' meeting. This series of department meetings is proving a great blessing at Murray Street Church.

Mrs. Oswald Brooke Here From England

Mr. W. E. Brooks, of Young's Point and South Beach, met Mrs. Oswald Brooks, the English bride of his son, Corp. Oswald Brooks, who arrived from England on the 6.21 C. P. R. train this morning. Corp. Brooks was to have accompanied his wife home but his permit to return to Canada was cancelled at the eleventh hour, consequently, the young bride had to make the journey alone. Corp. Brooks has been over four years overseas. Mr. W. E. Brooks and his daughter-in-law left for Young's Point at noon today.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Tomorrow at the exhibition of paintings being held in the public library building, Mrs. Rush, Mrs. MacDonald, Mrs. Fessenden, and Mrs. Stevenson will be hostesses.

Rev. J. R. Webb, who has been confined to the house for the last five days with a slight attack of influenza is doing splendidly and will be about his duties in a few days.

TO FORM SOCIAL SERVICE COUNCIL

MEETING WILL BE HELD AT Y. M. C. A. TOMORROW NIGHT

There will be a meeting at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow night to perfect the organization of the branch of the Social Service Council which it is proposed to form in this city. There are about sixty delegates who have been appointed to represent the various institutions in the city, including the churches and the Trades and Labor Council and all these representatives are requested to attend the meeting tomorrow night. Rev. Gilbert Agar, provincial secretary, will be present from headquarters in Toronto.

MR. KEARNS LOSES SUIT WITH MR. HALL

LATTER DID NOT AGREE TO FINANCE ENTERPRISE AS CLAIMED.

Chief Justice Falconbridge delivered judgment today in the case of W. J. Kearns against R. R. Hall and dismissed Mr. Kearns' claim against Mr. Hall for $25,000.00 damages, while allowing Mr. Hall's claim against Mr. Kearns upon two promissory notes for $284.50 with interest since they were made in February, 1914. Costs were allowed Mr. Hall in connection with the action and his counterclaim against Mr. Kearns.

This action was tried on Wednesday before Mr. Justice Falconbridge and evidence was given as to the proving of a vein supposed to have contained galena.

In the judgment Sir Glenholme Falconbridge states that he finds all the facts in controversy, in favor of Mr. Hall and that Mr. Hall did not agree to finance the enterprise any further than he said he would risk $500.00, and that Mr. Kearns' representations as to the finding of a vein were not founded in fact and that Mr. Hall had the right to terminate the contract at any time when he found the vein was not making the showing Mr. Kearns represented it could make.

Mr. Kearns was allowed $65.00, the amount of goods that were sold and the moneys paid to Mr. Hall, Mr. Hall having consented to Mr. Kearns being allowed $65.00, the value of the goods.

Mr. J. Guise-Bagley appeared for Mr. Kearns and Mr. G. N. Gordon and Mr. John Birnie appeared for Mr. Hall.

PTE. BATES DEAD OVER IN ENGLAND

PETERBOROUGH FRIENDS WHILE EXPECTING RETURN ARE SHOCKED BY NEWS.

(Word came to Peterboro yesterday of the death in England of Pte. Archibald Beecham Bates. He is the eldest son of Mr. Walter Bater, formerly of Peterboro, but now in the baking business in Campbellford, Ont. Mr. friends had been expecting his early return to Canada and were shocked at the news of his death, not having previously been made aware of any illness. The deceased was a young man in his prime, who answered the call in 1916 and went overseas with a Toronto unit. He leaves a widow. Mr. Low Bates, 654 Stewart street, is an uncle, and Mrs. Ed. Feeney, of 360 Aylmer street, is an aunt. His brother, Orville, is still overseas.

TRADES COUNCIL REJECTS THE IDEA OF CLERICAL DELEGATES

Motion to Invite Ministerial Association to Elect Representatives to Labor Organization is Ruled Out of Order After Hot Debate—Routine Business Transacted.

E. M. Mathews, a delegate from the Typographical Union, precipitated a new debate in the Trades Council last night when he moved that the Ministerial Association be invited to send delegates to the meetings of the Labor organization. The majority of the delegates were opposed to the proposition, some on general principles, some feared that such an innovation would introduce religious discussions into the Trades Council, something barred by the constitution. The majority, however, took the ground that the Ministerial Association was not eligible to representation as it was not affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. Finally President Bolwell ruled the motion out of order and the matter was allowed to drop. Delegate Mathews put up a sturdy fight for his proposition. Ministers sit, as delegates, he said, in Trades Councils in other cities, Winnipeg included, then why not here? He argued that the Ministerial Association had as good a right to representation as the G.W.V.A. The latter send delegates to the Council, but only as a matter of courtesy. These delegates take no part in the debates except by request and are not allowed to vote.)

The delegates last night were in favor of inviting ministers to address the Council from time to time on topics of general interest.

Firemen Send Delegates

The new Firemen's Union sent delegates for the first time and these were received with applause. The representatives from the Fire Fighter's Union are Thomas B. Hatley, Victor, Le Barr, Percy Pammett and E. C. Johnston. Owing to the nature of the firemen's occupation it was necessary to elect alternatives and these are Robert Wilson, B. Menzies, James Weyer and W. Copperthwaite.

The Board of Trade

Secretary Hall of the Board of Trade wrote asking that the council nominate their candidates for office, if they proposed to put up any and to furnish him with the list. It was decided not to affiliate with the Board of Trade next year unless fuller representation is given labor in that body and Secretary Stevens was instructed to write for new terms.

Secretary Stevens who represents labor on the Council of the Board of Trade reported that at the last meeting the members had opposed the idea of extending the Government railroad to James Bay. He also said that the members were opposed to granting tax exemption to new industries as an inducement to locate in this city.

Increasing the Membership.

The Trades Council is at present composed of five delegates from each union and the several organizations pay $6 a year as membership fees. A special committee was appointed some time ago to revise the plan of representation reported in favor of revising the schedule as follows:

Six from unions with over fifty and less than 100 members.

Seven from unions of over 100 and less than 150.

Eight delegates from the unions above that number.

These unions it was recommended be charged an annual fee of $8, $12, $18 and $24 respectively. The report was endorsed and the matter will now be passed upon by the local unions.

Oppose Police Trips

The Council went on record as opposed to sending Chief Thompson to the Police Convention at Calgary at the public expense. One of the reasons given was that at the convention last year the Chief supported the move against the forming of a union by members of any police force.

A memorial will be sent to the Royal Commission in Toronto in favor of placing the control of the police force in the hands of the City Council. The delegates were also in favor of having proprietors of amusement places paying for such inside police protection as they required.

A delegation from the Local Council of Women is expected to meet the Council at a nearly date to talk over public questions.

The delegates declared against granting business licenses to any person against whom there are convictions on record.

MESSRS. SMITH AND GLADMAN RETIRE FROM DIRECTORATE

Changes Made in William Hamilton Company Management—Daniel Smith, Financier From Kingston, the New President.

There was a change made in the directorate of the William Hamilton Company on Tuesday when President J. C. Smith and Secretary-Treasurer George G. Gladman retired after several years of service, during which Mr. Gladman acted as general manager of the firm. There was a vacancy on the board caused by the death of Ross Cameron, who lost his life in action in France last summer.

Louis Potvin and R. Munroe were re-elected as members of the board and the three new directors chosen were Daniel Smith, Kingston, Phillip Talcott, Bloomfield, near Picton, and Peder Westby, an old employe of the company. It is understood that Mr. Daniel Smith will be the new president, and that Mr. Talcott will succeed Mr. Gladman as secretary-treasurer. The new president is a well-known financier in the Limestone City, and is a man of wealth. Great things are expected of his administration, as he comes to Peterborough with an excellent reputation as a successful business man. Mr. Talcott also is a man of means with a creditable business career behind him.

Under the management of the retiring officers, Messrs. Smith and Gladman, the William Hamilton Co. has passed through the most successful period of its existence. The business has steadily grown during the war and the credit of the concern has increased. It is likely, however, that a taste of success has but sharpened the appetite of the shareholders for more. Mr. Jos. Wearing, who was solicitor for the company, also retires, and is succeeded in that capacity by Mr. J. E. L. Goodwill.

LEADERS ANNOUNCE IT AS FINAL STRUGGLE AGAINST THE CAPITALISTS.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Berlin, Feb. 20.—The general strike in the Ruhr industrial district continues to spread in spite of the fact that a large majority of the miners, as shown by the votes taken at many places oppose the movement. Coal production in the region is virtually at a standstill. The Socialist Vorwaerts and the Bourgeois newspapers declare that the strike is a political movement insignated by Spartacans and Independent Socialist leaders. The Spartacans announced their intention of carrying the strike from Rhineland into Central Germany, in a final struggle between Labor and Capital.

DID THE BOLSHEVISTS INSPIRE THE ATTACK ON CLEMENCEAU?

That is a Question That is Agitating Paris—Bolsheviki Believed to Have Reached That City—Premier is Recovering But Wounds Are Painful.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Paris, Feb. 20.—Was the attempt upon Premier Clemenceau's life of Bolshevik origin? is a question being insistantly asked here. The Matin today recalls that a few days ago a Geneva newspaper announced that the Bolsheviki in Lausanne, Switzerland, were plotting against Clemenceau's life and that two Bolsheviki had crossed the frontier to carry out the plan.

Premier is Better.

Paris, Feb. 20.—Premier Clemenceau, who was wounded in the shoulder yesterday in an attempt by a young Anarchist, Emily Cotten, to assassinate him, was in a satisfactory condition this morning, according to latest reports. No fever has developed. His enforced inaction is weighing heavily upon the Premier, however, and the doctors find him a bad patient, unwilling to obey all their orders. He insisted in receiving visitors all day yesterday and in discussing current business with Stephen Pichon, the Foreign Minister, who called upon him late in the evening for the first time after the shooting.

Clemenceau's wounds occasionally give him much pain. He bears this exceptionally well and twinges do not impare his customary good humor or prevent him indulging in lively sallies. Thus shortly after he was wounded when one of his colleagues who was an old and trusted friend and particularly dear to him, came to see him, the Premier smilingly broadly remarked: "The Maharaja of Bikenir invited me to hunt tiger in this country. Well, it is Anarchist who has hunted tiger, but they missed him." The Premier yesterday sent for Sister Theoness, the nun who nursed him when he was operated upon a few years ago and she is now attending him. Clemenceau sat up for quite a while yesterday in his arm chair, but asked that his favorite old grandfather's chair should be brought up from his country house at Bernouville. The Premier's mind never was clearer nor his thought more rapid. He discusses his wound and his symptoms just as if they were those of another person.

WOMEN TO GET FEDERAL FRANCHISE

And Right to Sit in Parliament Are Reforms Foreshadowed in the Speech From Throne at Opening of House Today.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Ottawa, Feb. 20. — Parliament opened today. The note of mourning in hanging crepe and half-masted flags was everywhere. There was none of the usual social display. No invitations were issued to the ceremony, usually the social event of the year. There were none present but the Governor-General and his staff, members of Parliament assembled to hear the Speech from the Throne, judges of the Supreme Court, and a few of the men of the permanent gathering here, to pay their last respects.

His Excellency and staff arrived shortly before 3 o'clock and immediately proceeded to the Senate chamber for the formal opening.

In the Speech from the Throne a franchise bill is promised. The bill will, among other things, effectually enable women to vote, and confer upon them the privilege of sitting in Parliament. There also will be bills to provide for national highway construction, to assist returned soldiers in settling upon the land, and to promote desirable immigration and farm settlement.

Bills to promote vocational education, to create a department of public health, for the promoting of better housing conditions, and the validating of the prohibiting order-in-Council are also promised.

Following the Speech from the Throne, members of the Commons, headed by the Speaker, returned to the House, but the proceedings here were brief. The formal motions incidental to the opening of the session were presented by Sir Thomas White.

Then, out of respect, the House adjourned till Tuesday, when full tribute will be paid by the leaders on both sides to Sir Wilfrid's memory.

Afterwards, Major Redmund of Calgary will move and Capt. Manion of Fort William and Rainy River will second the formal address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, and the debate will lopen.

THIRD DIVISION TO START HOME

FIRST STROOPS WILL EMBARK FOR CANADA ABOUT MARCH 1st.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Ottawa, Feb. 20.—The Militia Department announced that the dispatch of the third division from England for home under Major-Gen. Loomis will commence about March 1st. This division, includes the 7th, 5th, and 9th Infantry Brigades, 9th and 10th Artillery Brigades and sundry auxiliary corps. Many of the men are from Ontario.

The Hamilton Board of Control has practically decided upon a 32-mill tax rate.

Queen's University at Kingston may have a summer session for returned soldiers.

Bishop Brent of Western New York is a visitor at his old home at Newcastle, Ont.

WAS COMPETENT TO MAKE WILL

EXECUTOR ONTRAM WINS HIS CASE BEFORE JUSTICE FALCONBRIDGE.

In the case of William James Ontram, of the city of Peterborough, to prove in solemn form the will of the late Alfred John Gaddy, an elderly gentleman, who died on August 17, 1917, Chief Justice Falconbridge gave judgment in favor of Mr. Ontram, the executor of the estate of Mr. Gaddy.

Ethel May Guerin, who claimed to be a granddaughter of the late Mr. Gaddy, opposed the proving of the will and alleged that there was undue influence, and by reason of the feebleness of mind of the late John Gaddy, that he was not capable of making a will.

However, Sir Glenholme Falconbridge found upon the evidence that the claim that undue influence had existed and that the late Mr. Gaddy was not of sufficient mental capacity to make his will, was not proved, and judgment was given in favor of the executors maintaining the will.

Costs were allowed to Mr. Ontrams' solicitors, Messrs. Peck, Kerr & McElderry, who acted for the executors, and also costs were allowed to Martin Roche, Esq., solicitor for some of the beneficiaries, and the official guardian representing the infants, for whom Mr. R. D. Hall acted. No costs were allowed Mrs. Guerin, who was represented by Mr. Gordon.

The amount of the estate was over $20,000, and under the will it goes to the nephews and nieces and their children generally, with some other small bequests to others.

SAYS HE WAS ASSAULTED BY TWO MEN LAST NIGHT

Thomas Flannery, Arrested While Under the Influence of Liquor, Tells Strange Story in Court.

Thomas Flannery, who resides at 262 Dublin street, appeared in Police Court this morning charged with having been found in an intoxicated condition at the corner of McDonnel and George streets last night. He was arrested by the police, who noticed his condition.

When he took his place in the prisoner's box and squinted at the magistrate out of one eye this morning he presented a pitiable spectacle. His right eye was as black as night and his face was bruised and swollen. He looked as if he had just returned from a visit to Donnybrook Fair.

Asked whether or not he was guilty of the charge of being drunk, he took some time to think it over and then replied that "he guessed he had been." Pressed for a straightforward answer, he acknowledged the charge.

As the use of a taxicab had been required to take Flannery to the police station last night, there was an additional dollar tacked on to the costs, which amounted to $5.10 and the usual fine of $10.

Flannery was then invited to step into the witness box, sworn in and examined as to where he got his liquor. He told a rather peculiar story which Magistrate Dumble seemed to find difficulty in crediting.

According to the statement of the prisoner, he left his home last night about 8 o'clock and went down town. Returning, he dropped into a doctor's office and complained to the physician of having a severe cold. The medical man mixed him up two drinks, which he assured Flannery would cure him, and which the prisoner stated must have contained some liquor.

Chief Thompson thought that the two drinks must have had quite "a kick in them" to produce the results for which they were responsible. Flannery stated that upon leaving the doctor's office he got as far as the corner of McDonnel and George streets, when two men, whom he did not recognize, jumped upon him and gave him a thorough beating.

Magistrate Dumble asked the prisoner if he was sure the terrible assailant was not a lamp post, and Mr. Flannery announced in a tone expressive of wounded dignity that "he guessed he could tell the difference between a lamp post and two men."

"Are you sure it was not a policeman who took hold of you?" enquired his Worship.

Flannery assured the court that he was quite certain upon this point, and was sorry that he could not furnish the Chief with the names of his two waylayers.

Chief Thompson, who was conducting the examination, asked the magistrate for a remand of a week, in which time his department would investigate the strange story of the two mysterious assailants who had taken advantage of the prisoner the night before.

Flannery's bruised features did not show any pleasure at the prospect of a week's sojourn in the jail, even though his enemies of the night before might be given an opportunity of joining him before the expiry of of the time set. He thought he should be allowed a chance to get back to his occupation, but was informed that he would be given an opportunity to do some work for the county.

THE EXTENSION OF ART.

ART DID NOT SUFFER during the late war, and the activities of its devotees did not slacken. It sent its members overseas, but the work at home was well carried on, and the Women's Art Association of Toronto constantly enlarged its scope. Like most the society was able to buy in Toronto a large house for exhibition purposes. They did not make the mistake of regarding art as a luxury to be indulged in by the rich and the leisure classes, but properly held it to be one of the necessities of existence, one of the requisites for the proper development of human nature.

The results of these untiring efforts are seen in this city today, in the splendid exhibition of the works of Canadian artists now being held at the Public Library.

MAJOR CAMERON'S DEFEAT.

MAJOR CAMERON, the Government candidate for the Legislature, who was defeated in the election of Tuesday, had a long and honorable record in the late war. The County of Ontario sent to the front as many men in proportion to its population as any county in the Province. It is not to be inferred, however, that the gallant major failed to secure the soldiers' vote or that his nomination was an attempt at waving the flag.

The majority of the soldiers who enlisted in Ontario County came from the southern and not the northern riding, and the votes of these were not available for the officer who led the Ontario heroes to many a sanguinary triumph at the front. Besides this, not all the soldiers who would without question have voted for the Major have yet reached home.

To a great extent the Major was the victim of his own popularity. His friends were over-confident and took his election as a matter of course. There is no other explanation of the fact that only about half the vote was polled on Tuesday. It is always the confident who stay away from an election, under the impression that their assistance is not required.

On the other hand, the farmers and their wives turned out, and that they hung together on their platform is evident from the returns.

THE FARMERS' MOVEMENT.

SOME TIME AGO, or a few days after the bye-election in North Huron, The Review stated that it was apparent that the farmers were determined to send members of their own calling to Legislature and Parliament as their representatives. Recent events have borne out this contention, and certainly there is no reason for a change of opinion when the result in North Ontario is considered. There are a number of them in the Legislature now, and the chances are that the list of membership will be increased and that the farmers will strike for still higher influence by electing their candidates to the Federal House.

Of course, political success can be achieved by the farmers in ridings in which the rural population predominates. One thing appears certain—the Labor men and the farmers seem unable to stand on a common platform. If they did, then the Government candidate in St. Catharines would not have been elected. The Labor man in that contest failed to secure the support of the rural voters, and on that account lost the day.

Third parties are always born of an injustice to a particular class. There would have been no United Farmers' organization—so far as politics is concerned—but for the tendency on the part of the urban residents to head the nominations both for the Legislature and Parliament, no matter how much the wealth and population of the country district outweighed that of the towns.

The farmers of Ontario have no real grievance against the Hearst Government. They have always had a man of their own vocation in the office of Minister of Agriculture, and certainly every encouragement and assistance has been given the farming community by the party in power either in Toronto or Ottawa. There never was a time in the history of Canada when there was so much state paternalism exercised over the farmers. However, the natural and laudable ambition to be represented in the affairs of state, to elect farmers in farming communities, is the real reason why farmers today are in open revolt against the old political order, against the conventions packed by urban delegates, that go through the form of putting up a man who has already been selected by the party chiefs.

North Ontario is a typical farming district, one of the most advanced in the Province. The result of Tuesday's election is all that is required to demonstrate the present tendency of the tides. The town candidate was given a majority by the voters of his own class, but this was overcome by the rural voters, who owe their success to their numerical strength. Had they been in the minority they would have lost the election. What happened in North Ontario is likely to be repeated in future elections, and it is not hard in any case to figure out the probable result in any given constituency. All that is required is to approximate the number of urban and country voters.

FARMERS IN OFFICE.

THE VERY FACT that the farmers not only in Ontario but throughout the Dominion have perfected the powerful organizations which have grown up on all sides demonstrates their possession of executive ability of a high order. Some of the brainiest men of the day are found on Canadian farms. No class of men are as a rule so well posted on public questions. The farmer is essentially a student of human affairs. Representing the wealth which they do, influential as they are in the business affairs of the country, it is only just that they send their representatives to Parliament and Legislature. They are well qualified to hold their own among the professional men who at present predominate these bodies.

But even so there is nothing anomalous in a Conservative or a Liberal farmer candidate or member. The organization of a third part is not necessary to obtain the ambition of the farmers to secure representation. They can elect their men and send them to Ottawa or Toronto without decking them out in fancy disguises of so-called independent party followers.

RE-CHRISTENED LIBERALS.

WITH REFRESHING frankness the London Advertiser claims the three farmers elected to the Legislature on a so-called independent ticket, are so many Liberals, men who will sit and vote with the Opposition and fly in the face of the Government on every division. The Advertiser solaces itself with the scant comfort that the Government at Toronto has lost five supporters since the election of 1914, and with an easy exercise of the imagination, it sees—for its own party—the successful end.

But it is a long, long way to the Advertiser's Tipperary—or is it a Berlin that is its objective? To begin with, the Hearst Government had 83 supporters in a membership of 111, a majority of 55, even if Allan Studholme, the single Labor member, is counted with the sparse Opposition. The majority given the Conservative party in 1914 was abnormal and could not possibly be maintained. Such a one-sided legislative body is good neither for the country nor for the Government. An active Opposition is just as essential to safety as an efficient administration.

The naive claim of the Advertiser that the farmers elected are Liberals recalls what happened back in the days of the late Sir Oliver Mowat. The farmers of that time rose in political revolt against the Mowat Administration, rightly so, seeing that they and their interests were consistently ignored. The Patrons of Industry sprung into political existence. Candidates were put up by the new organization in 1904, and altogether throughout the Province they polled something like fifty thousand votes, or sufficient to elect eighteen members to the Legislature. These men were in every case returned with the help of votes drawn from the Conservative side, the party bolters being flim-flammed into the belief that the new members would exemplify independent political action.

But the Patrons of Industry were merely Liberals under a new name, and it was the support of these camouflaged recruits that held the Mowat Administration together in another precarious and tottering period of existence. That ended the Patron movement. At the next election they all donned their true colors and ran as Liberals.

The history of the late bluffers is likely to be repeated during the next few years. At least, the Advertiser has innocently let the feline out of the sack.

AT LEAST ONE GRIEVANCE.

THE FARMERS of Ontario, when they voice their complaints against the Hearst Administration, are able to produce only one grievance. They have always been opposed to the imposition of the mill on every dollar's worth of real estate in the Province as a war tax. In this they claim they have been discriminated against, and, besides, they question the right of a Provincial Legislature to usurp the functions of the Federal authorities by levying a special war tax. They demand, too, the repeal of this enactment now that the war is over.

There was no class distinction in the legislation referred to. Property owners in towns, villages and cities paid the special provincial war tax just as the farmers have done, and the war did not bring valuable returns to these urban owners. Even if the war is over, the immense expense which it entailed has not been disposed of and for years to come this new financial burden must be borne.

Still, there are other ways of raising money than by the system of direct tax to which the Ontario Government has resorted since the beginning of the war. Someone has said that the public do not object to giving up their money for public purposes if it is taken from them by indirect means without their knowledge. The patrons of the picture shows, theatres and other places of amusement are constantly reminded that there has been a war by the tax which they are required to pay every time they indulge in almost any form of pleasure. Like the druggists and other dealers who are opposed to the Stamp Law, the theatregoers and picture show patrons do not object to the expense so much as to the constant annoyance to which they are subjected by the amusement tax.

HOW ONE MOTHER'S SON CAME HOME

"Excuse me bringing up your parcel so early Mrs. Capps, but you see my boy Charlie has come home unexpectedly from the front and we are planning to give a big party for him tomorrow."

This was the news that one little laundry woman brought to the door of a customer last week-end, and the caller's face showed how keen was her joy at the return of her boy from overseas.

"How fine," shook the housewife sympathetically, for she had heard some story of a shell wound.

"Well, he is really very bright and cheerful in spite of his loss. You see its his left arm and while we are all thankful it is not his right still we felt he would be very low spirited as he cannot go back to his old work, but it is wonderful how the Government booklet has cheered him up."

"I must tell you how it all happened. We were sitting having a cup of tea in the evening, my married daughter, her husband, and me, and the boy's father, when a knock came. There was the telegraph boy with a wire from Halifax to say that our boy would be home the next day. Well, if you could have just seen that house. We were all up in a minute and father was asking for the hammer and Mary handing him up the tacks. My son-in-law took and washed the dishes and everyone set to work to hang up flags and mottos and the big "WELCOME HOME" over the doorway. My we were excited.

"The next day he arrived and you can believe me we gave him a great welcome, for as I say we all felt sure he would be dreadfully depressed, but the first thing he said was 'Well, cheer up everybody, At I had known back in England all I know now about the Government plans for returned soldiers I would have been much happier while I was there in hospital.'

"It seems, Mrs. Capps, he had been given a little grey booklet on board the ship, which the Government had had printed for all returned soldiers and which explains everything about what will be done for the men who are disabled. They are going to have a chance to learn a new trade and then they will be helped to find positions, and in addition to his back pay he will get $200.00 or $300.00 as a little present to start him up again. This is a new thing called the War Service Gratuity. I can tell you it cheered us up a lot to hear him talk so hopefully about all these things. He is not only going to have a pension, but with all the assistance he does not feel a bit afraid of facing the future. Tomorrow we are just going to have a little party and ask in some other returned boys, so that we can hear all about their plans for the future. I must be hurrying off, Mrs. Capps, to get ready for it and—good day to you."

TODAY'S STORY

It is a well known characteristic of the British that they seem unable to learn foreign languages. Yet there are many officers who have been prisoners of war in Germany who are now returning home expert linguists.

Speaking of this a repatriated Canadian says the dreary routine of life while under the strict discipline of the enemy in many cases led to the diligent study of other tongues. And yet I know of but few British officers who made a serious attempt to become proficient in German. But that is not surprising. Anything suggestive of Germany and her cruel breed was nauseating, if not anathema, to the great majority of officers who had the ill-luck to be taken prisoner.

From the time I was captured at Loos in September 1915 until transferred to Holland a few months ago, I stuck into French, Spanish and Russian with real enthusiasm. I had seen the deplorable effects of other officer of not having some such aim. At first a number of French and Russian officers were placed in our camp and within a few days I had a splendid class of eager pupils whom I taught English.

In return, I and my brother officers were instructed in French and Russian. I made really splendid progress in the study of French, and I found the mental exercise a grand tonic for a fit of the blues. The days and the weeks passed quickly, and, all things considered, not unpleasantly. To acquire a speaking proficiency in Russian, however, was not so easy.

As a flippant young subaltern in our camp remarked "Russian is a fair saecser of a language to learn." Not very elegantly expressed, perhaps, but there was something like a literal accuracy in the description When the Germans saw that we British officers did not quarrel with our French and Russian colleagues, as they fondly hoped we would, the Huns took measures to separate us. That is the German way. But despite this, we really made substantial progress in the acquisition of the French. One of my fellow officers was an accomplished Spanish scholar, and I became just as keen to master the language of the Dons as the French dialect.

Others joined our Mutual Improvement Society, and it was often a joke to hear a question in English being answered in French, the original speaker continuing the repartee in fluent Spanish. The result—after nearly three years' internment I can speak French and Spanish with all the fluency of a native while I can also claim to have more than a mere "smattering" of Russian.

The study of languages helped materially in preserving the mental balance and sound judgment of hundreds of young British officer prisoners, who otherwise would have returned home dull, listless fellows, distracted by sheer ennui. I should say that at no period of the history of the British Empire has there been such a number of her young sons so versatile in the use of foreign languages as at the present time.

The British military authorities are reported to have consented to a partial relaxation of the traffic embargo between the occupied zone and the rest of Germany.

SINGING.

If you are wawking past a house and you heer sounds like some lady objecting to being murdered, you keep rite on going past because you know she is ony singing. The reason it sounds like that is because she is singing sumthing out of a opra. If she was jest singing a ordinery song with werds to it you would proberly stop going past and lissen a wile if you wasent going anywares intristing in the ferst place.

The diffrents between jest plane singing and opra singing is that a person singing a reglar song that everybody knows jest sings it without even standing up if they dont want to, as if they wasent doing anything speshill, wich they aint. But a person singing opra always stands up ferst and looks serious and then gets all ixcited and makes faces as if they think the musick will get ahed of them if they dont hurry up, wich maybe it would.

Singing is the ony polite way to make a noise all by yourself wen theres compiny present. Even if sumbody elts dont like the noise it is not considered good manners for them to get up in the middle of the song and try to change the subjeck.

Affir a person has sang a song, no matter if you dident even ask them to, everybody claps their hands, trying to clap enuff to show that they have good manners without clapping enuff to make the persin sing another one.

The ony time some people sing is wen they join in the chorus, on account of it being hard for the rest to tell wich one is spoiling the chorus. Wen some people are asked to sing out of politeness they pertend at ferst they dont want to and then nobody cant hardly make them stop. The best thing to do wen a persin says they dont feel like singing and looks as if they did is to quick start a game of cards.

LESSONS IN RIGHT LIVING

As we were saying the other day, it is all wrong to think that as soon as one has attained maturity mortification is going to set in. It is a sin to think so, for a man of 40 just begins to have some common sense and a woman is nearly as perfect as she can possibly be. To commence the process of dying so early in life is customary, I know, but it is a custom based upon ancient ideas which have been proved false.

We stay young longer than our parents did. In a single generation the average duration of life has increased from ten to twenty years in different parts of the country. Our parents had the habit of getting married real young and innocent, 18 or 20—they had to hurry some, because life was so short. Nowadays we put it off until we are 23 to 28, having lots of time ahead to rue the day, etc. Our days are longer, and, alas, our night, too. Yet in spite of that we stay young longer. Why, a generation ago mother began talking about growing old when they were 30 or 40, more girls; and exceptionally hardened old geezers who survived 60 felt as proud as anything of the distinction conferred by such a venerable age.

All of this is certainly true. And still the figures seem to belie us. According to the mortality statistics United States department of commerce, bureau of the census, seventeenth annual report, 1916, government printing office, Washington, D. C. (which your congressman should be glad to mail you free), it is getting constantly more dangerous to arrive at maturity. In the past sixteen years there has been a steady increase in mortality from those degenerations which seem to prefer victims of middle age—cancer, apoplexy, Bright's disease and heart muscle failure. All other common causes of death have steadily decreased, tuberculosis, pneumonia, typhoid fever, etc., because public health education is making such diseases less popular But the strictly personal diseases have not decreased; they have increased in frequency. The only explanation for such increase is that when it comes to strictly personal matters, the people today do not know how and do not strive to live under as good personal hygiene as our parents and those before them did.

Mother Versus Me

"Mother says a cold sponge bath every night is not good for a girl at all times of the month. I am in the habit of taking warm baths, but would prefer to take cold ones unless you agree with mother that it would be harmful. Should physical training exercises be discontinued through the holidays? Is exercise better taken before or after a bath?" "H. M."

Mother and I can never agree about some things. If you were my daughter I'd say, "Aw, mother, give the child a rest—let her bathe hot or cold as she likes and whenever she likes.' And no doubt, mother would give me a look and I'd go into silence. However, it is the honest truth. And certinly a healthy young woman should interrupt none of her physical activities at the time of the periods—not in this twentieth century. That may have been considered the proper thing in the ancient days when they read almanacs and fainted, and took alleged female tonics

Agar-Agar Habit

"I have been a victim of constipation for twenty years, and I find nothing so effective as agar-agar. But a doctor told a friend of mine that people ought not to use it. Is it harmful. If so why? Mrs. S.M.J."

Agar-agar is prepared from seaweed. With moisture in the stomach and intestines it swells enormously. From the bulkiness and indigestibility of the swollen mass a stimulus is given to peristalic movement, and it aids bowel evacuation. I can see no special reason why it should be considered as harmful as the ordinary physics, though it does seem foolish to be a slave even to a harmless remedy, when a suitable amount of natural roughage in the diet would accomplish the desired result.

AN ARGUMENT THAT CANNOT BE PROVED

Dwelling is a musical atmosphere is supposed to make for a calm, serene, disposition annoyances of every day life. Generally it does. But the disposition of any friend of music cannot remain serene at the sight of such a statement as was noticed in a newspaper the other day. These remarks appeared in a column of alleged philosophical musings: "one of the pestiferous afflictions of hotel and restaurant life is dinner music."

This party making the statement actually condescended to admit that "even music has its time and place," but adds "that there are times and places when and where it is inappropriate and impertinent. The dining room is one such place. Music at the dinner hour is a convention and a form of bidding for business. I have never understood how your eating-house proprietor persuades himself that "the trade" requires music. All the testimony that has reached me tends to prove the public's objection to it. It certainly is an irritation to diners that care to season their viands with genial or otherwise agreeable conversation. Possibly there are persons that find the noise of music a welcome cloak to their lack of ability to say anything that anybody cares to hear; but if I have come to a point anywhere near to accuracy in my thinking on this problem, King Richard the Second discovered a well-ordered mind when he proclaimed on a certain historic occasion:

"This music mads me; let it sound
no more;
For though it might have help'd mad
men to their wits,
In me, it seems, it will make wise men mad."

Our old Athenian friend Alcibiades, he says, though a little off the beaten track on the moral obligations that are imposed upon gentlemen, did the sensible thing when he "kicked the fiddles out of his house when the dinner-bell rang."

Such remarks as the foregoing seem about the limit of presumption—a freakish argument—though they should not be dignified by the expression argument, because the only support the man has for his cynical claim is that "all the testimony that has reached me tends to prove." In spite of such contentions, thousands of hotels and restaurants of repute the world over provide and will continue to provide dinner music. They do this at a big cost in cold cash, not in opposition to the public wish but because it is the public wish. Millions of people attend and will continue to attend these hotel feeling that the music is one of the great attractions.

If this writer feels that he is pestered with music during his dinner at the hotel; if he is such a brilliant conversationalist that his companions are at a great loss because the orchestra drowns his voice, he had better patronize a quick lunch where he can sit up on a stool and talk to his heart's content.

Whose judgment is better on the question of dinner music, this man's on the one hand, or thousands of hotel and restaurant managers and millions of the public on the other?

DOING THINGS ONESELF

Self-help is probably the most potent of all the numerous incentives that have exactuated humanity since the world began. It is preached and taught on all sides. Many books have been based on it one large standard work having "Self-Help" for a title. It has even passed into the realm of Proverbs. "Physician, heal thyself."—"The gods help those who help themselves"—"Put your shoulder to the wheel"—are all so familiar as to have somehow lost their power to impress as they aught. The great necessity for initiative, which is the principle of doing things one's self should be incalculated at every music lesson. After the first two or three years, pupils must learn to do their own thinking, their own reasoning and to study spontaneously, and the wise teacher of beginners will always aim to lead up to this. Let pupils know as soon as possible that no one can teach them what they can learn themselves.

AN EMBARRASSING CONVERSATION

Rudolph Ganz, the piano virtuoso, relates the following story told to him by his confrere, Morita Moszkowski. Moszkowski had an American pupil—unquestionably she was from Missouri—come to him in Paris. She was anxious to assure herself that he was the right kind of teacher, and after formal greetings the following conversation took place:

"Dear Mr. Moszkowski, Is an eighth note a short note?"

"That is an embarrassing question, my dear madam. An eighth note can be a short note if the tempo is a quick one, but it can be longer than a quarter note in a piece played at a much faster tempo."

"Then, is a sixteenth note a short note?"

"The same thing is also true of a sixteenth."

"Well, is a thirty second note a short note?"

"Short in the same manner in which an eighth note and a sixteenth note are short."

"But tell me Mr. Moszkowski, is a sixty-fourth note a short one?"

"Yes, yes, yes," cried the pianist, "a sixty-fourth note is unquestionably a short note."

"I am so glad," smiled the pupil. "Then won't you please play me one?"

The young lady is said to have gone to another man for guidance.

A STUPID STUDENT

At one time Ernest Hutcheson and Howard Brockway, the American composer, were both on the staff of the Peabody Conservatory of Baltimore. Mr. Hutcheson taught piano. Mr. Brockway piano and composition. Meeting one day, each claimed to have the most ignorant piano pupil on record. After vieing with each other in relating instances of the girl's stupidity, they finally discovered that they were speaking of one and the same pupil. On investigation at the office it was revealed that the girl had by an error been assigned to both of them for piano lessons, but thought she was studying piano with Mr. Hutcheson and harmony with Mr. Brockway.

IT CAUSED A SMILE

At most church services there is a serious attempt to choose hymns that will harmonize with the minister's sermon. Sometimes, however, in spit of this a real humorous choice creeps in either from apparent aptness or from the opposite. At one time a clergyman named Sparks requested a brother minister to officiate at the baptism of his twelfth child. Unthinkingly, the visiting preacher asked the congregation to join in the fifth paraphrase commencing with "As sparks in close succession rise." After church, the preacher asked why it was that a general titter went all over the assembly. He was Scotch.

A clergyman just assigned to a new parish was about to read, as was customary, the Thirty-nine Articles to his flock. Being a well intentioned man and desiring to relieve the monotony of such lengthy proceedings, he decided to intersperse the reading of the Articles with various hymns. He began by giving out "Oh for a faith that will no shrink." After he had read the first thirteen Articles, he gave out the second hymn, "Art thou weary, art thou languid?" Thirteen more Articles followed and then came the hymn, "Christian seek not yet repose." At the close of the Thirty-ninth Article came the concluding hymn, "Now the labourer's task is o'er." Probably some of the congregation thought the selection very suitable.

NOT JOHN L.

Sir Arthur Sullivan of Mikado and H.M.S. Pinafore fame, when he was plain Arthur Sullivan, toured the United States. When his company got out West he visited a mining camp. One big miner came up to the composer and enquired his weight.

"About a hundred and sixty-two or so," replied Sullivan somewhat surprised.

"Do you mean to tell me you gave fits to Blackmore the other night?" asked the miner.

"I did not give him fits," said Sullivan.

It was explained to the westerner that he was speaking with Arthur Sullivan, the composer.

"Oh, you are the guy then, that put 'Pinafore' together," commented the miner, "come on in and have a drink."

STYLES GO BACK TO EARLY DATES

SUIT FROM CROMWELL'S RULE

New York.—It is a long cry from Henry II to Cromwell, but fashion jumps that length in seven-leagued boots and regards it as a trifle. Fashion, indeed, asserts a fashion critic, places the two periods of the world's history together without apology. She takes a bit from one and a slice from the other, and calls it a frock.

History has been ransacked for three years for inspiration, strange to record, when one realizes that a few decades from now fashion will probably start in to register the impressions of these days, and throughout all the ages to come, if there are such things as fashions for women, those who build them will go to this era of world-war as an aid to jaded brains.

Possibly Napoleon was sufficiently an egotist to foresee that the period he created in the world's progress would last the fashion designers at least an hundred years, as it has done, but he might have been startled at the fact that, in a tremendous time like this, which makes his mighty battles puny events, we should go on playing variations on the theme of clothes which he brought about through his Martian adventures in other lands than his own.

None of the designers have gotten very far away from the Napoleonic — and their apology is that inspiration was drawn from every source during the reign of this one man, and that it would be difficult to find something which had been omitted. Very true.

We Turn to England.

There was once a time, in the beginning of the Consulate, when fashion in Paris was turned toward the ancient enemy across the channel and borrowed ideas for dress. This was done in a spirit of perversity by certain sections of society; but the Paris designers now turn there in a different spirit—one of intense gratitude and readiness, and instead of looking among present fashions for inspiration, knowing full well by practical evidence that they are Parisian, she has gone back to British history. Later she may remember Mesopotamia and Palestine, and linking them to Allenby and Marshall, swirl back to Holy Land costomery.

At the moment she is interested in an era of which she has thought little and cared less. It seems a strange thing that the temperamental designers of Paris, on whom the world depends for the movement of the season in clothes, should revive the fashions of Cromwell. Curious juxtaposition of ideas. None has ever arisen in French history who could be likened to the Puritan, and we may find the reason for this singular recrudescence in the pleasant fact that Cromwell was sandwiched between two Charleses whose frivolity is historically foreign to Paris.

The Cromwellian inspiration is new; the revival of those fashions which were adopted before the word had any significance when Henry I was king of England. In looking over a book of old costumery the similarity shown between the frocks of then and now is startling. And this is all the further we have gone in dress, is the exclamation that comes first.

These were severe fashions when Cromwell interrupted the pleasure-loving Stuarts. Some one has said that when Charles II came to the throne England with a sigh of relief laid aside her hair shirt to show that she wore a silk one beneath.

Just recently there has appeared several suits with battlemented hems, a strange sign of these times, and a double row of buttons on each side of a long straight front opening. The wide linen collar and cuffs are added, and one sees that it is a new fashion.

Not so new, but equally Cromwellian, is the sleeveless blouse, or short tunic that our shops sell as casually as they once did the American shirtwaist. These, also, were battlemented at the hem, while ours are not, but they also showed the full sleeves of the shirt beneath. In those days the man chose the undershirt in broad yellow and red-barred stripes.

As we wear this other coat, the battlemented one with long sleeves, fastened at the neck, but not below, the effect is good. It provides a variant from the accepted styles of jackets. It is boltless, which is a fashion the French designers are striving hard to establish. The slim lines of this coat keep the widths from awkwardness and the small armholes aid the clean-cut look.

Sinuous Hips of the Orient.

It may be a happy fact one that gives cause for rejoicing that designers have no objection to "bunching" the countries when it comes to fashions. To put the oriental hip drapery alongside the coat of Cromwell and the chemise of Adele of Lauvain is legitimate business.

All's well that once looked well, might be their motto and they go on making a sartorial Tower of Babel, for if a costume could speak, this is what would happen in any representative gathering. The Orient is always too seductive, too easy of imitation, to escape constant usage; there may have been periods in social history when it would not have been possible to persuade well-placed women to appear in the clothes of the Temple girls and those of the Bazaars, but we don't happen to belong to one of them.

We have stopped at some things in the last six years, but we have gone far, very far.

Sedateness has entered into costumery during the last two years, but now we may see a return to license in costumery that may make pre-war fashions appear anemic. Let us hope that we won't be too unconnea.

There is a pleasing sedateness with freedom from demureness and drabness, then we will see good costumes. Already there is a gracious way of employing orientalism which cannot be objected to by conservatives, even in the hip drapery whose swathings are the sign and symbol of the Eastern dancers.

There is a tendency to combine colored satin with black thread lace in the oriental frocks, which takes away the suggestion of the East except in the swirl of fabric that goes about the hips.

The Square Figure.

These are minor changes, however important they may be to the mass of women who have no intention of swinging their clothes into every procession that passes, in comparison to the subtle transformation going on in the contour of the figure. It is getting square. If it succeeds there is another blue ribbon of victory to the house of Callot who moves silently in mysterious way toward changing the fashion of the civilized world.

When Callot sent to this country those primitive garments without belt, or curve, cut straight from two pieces of cloth, or so it appeared, and sewed up at each side, women simply uttered an emphatic negative and passed them by. Even that little group of extremeists which can be depended on to try out everything once, at least, were too doubtful of the experiment to put money in it. And yet here it is creeping in among all the best gowns from important houses and promised as the ruling contour for spring.

Kangaroo Farming.

In Australia, kangaroo farming is an important industry. The hides are valuable and the tendons extremely fine; indeed, they are the best known to surgeons for use in sewing up wounds, and especially for holding broken bones together, being much finer and toughter than catgut, which is used extensively.

Ice Used In Casting.

An inventor in Munich is said to have overcome certain difficulties heretofore met with in casting hollow concrete objects, completely inclosed, by using ice cores. The ice is cut into the desired shape and size, and after the concrete has set about it, the core is allowed to melt and run out through small openings. Large and small objects can be cast in this way. —Popular Mechanics.

Why They Sang.

An Englishman, who has returned from a German prison camp, has a funny story to tell of the singing of "The Watch on the Rhine," in Berlin, during the revolution. Three English civilians were coming down the Unter den Linden singing that particular ditty, when they were met by some German soldiers who told them they should be ashamed to be singing such rubbish. "I've come from the Rhine," said one of the Germans. "You go down there and try and keep watch, and then you won't sing so much about it. It is time the German nation forgot that nonsense." "But we are British," said one of the civilians. "What!" exclaimed the astounded soldier, "then why sing 'The Watch on the Rhine?' "Well," answered one of the tactless Britishers, "you see we are keeping it now." The soldiers went on their way without another word.

Oil Pipes.

The thirty-six-mile oil pipes linking the Clyde and the Forth, one of the engineering works with which the war has endowed Britain, is proportionate in length to its island home. Continents have oil pipes of a length which completely dwarf the very respectable dimensions of the Clyde to Forth achievement. America has a pteroleum pipe extending from Texas and California across the Isthmus of Panama, dating, of course, before the opening of the canal. Asia claims the longest oil pipe in the world, or at any rate one of the longest, in that conduit which runs between Baku and Batoum, a distance of 550 miles.

England's Farm Workers' Union.

The Farm Workers' Union in England and Wales has increased its membership from a few thousand to 100,000, and is growing at the rate of 10,000 a month.

Liquid Fuel Displaces Coal.

"The 'Shell' group was responsible for the introduction of liquid fuel, and going back nearly twenty years, it was they who arranged facilities for a representative of the British Government to witness the performances of liquid fuel at sea. To-day we know that liquid fuel has displaced coal on practically all the capital vessels of the navy, while the auxiliary cruisers have also passed from coal to oil. The necessity which therefore exists for our always having immense supplies of liquid fuel available for Admiralty needs is self apparent.

"It was at this moment that the Shell Company put forward the policy which had years ago been adopted for carrying oil fuel from the Far East—of carrying the necessary liquid fuel in the double bottoms of the vessels. The idea was acted upon without delay, and at the signing of the armistice, over 1,000,000 tons of liquid fuel had been carried in this way. Several hundred ordinary cargo vessels have been so converted as to carry liquid fuel in their double bottoms, in addition to the standard ships under construction. This new fleet is equal to the services of at least one hundred oil-tankers."

English "Bulls."

"Bulls" are not confined to Irishmen, remarks the London Sphere, and it cites these examples of English bulls: A member of Parliament deplored the House not to take a "white elephant under its wing"; another complained that "the gentlemen sitting opposite are conspicuous by their absence"; a third remarked that the "Home Secretary shakes his head, and I am sorry to hear it"; Sir Richard Cross declared that he "had a smile"; another baronet said, "We are, sir, that we have cleared all the barbed-wire fences, it is to be hoped that we are in smooth water at last." A Welsh member remarked, "We are only following in the footsteps of those who are coming after us."

The Sardine.

The fresh sardine is a beautiful little fish. The scales on its back have an iridescent blue-green, the exact tint which the sea so often takes, while beneath the scales there shows up the most wonderful peacock blue. There are bars on its back and sides when it first comes out of the water like those on the mackerel, but they seem to fade and disappear the moment it is exposed to the air. The remainder of its body is pure silver.

BREAK A CHILD'S COLD BY GIVING SYRUP OF FIGS

CLEANSES THE LITTLE LIVER AND BOWELS AND THEY GET WELL QUICK

When your child suffers from a cold, don't wait; give the little stomach, liver and bowels a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When cross, peevish, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally, if breath is bad, stomach sour, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the clogged-up, constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

If your child coughs, snuffles and has caught cold or is feverish, or has a sore throat, give a good dose of "California Syrup of Figs" to evacuate the bowels, no difference what other treatment is given.

Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. They also know a little given today saves a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company."

FEELS TWENTY YEARS YOUNGER

"Since Tanlac has relieved me and built me up so much I feel twenty years younger," said Mrs. W. R. Lapsley, who resides at West 2115 Eleventh Ave., Spokane, Wash., recently.

"I had suffered from stomach trouble," she continued, "until I had become almost a nervous wreck and unable to do my housework and look after my children. My stomach was so sour and upset that I could hardly retain a thing I would eat. I lived for days at a time on nothing but boiled milk and poached eggs, and half the time they failed to agree with me. It was kept on a diet all the time and my stomach was pumped out nearly every day, but this nor anything else did me any good. I was advised that a higher altitude might help me, so I took a trip to the mountains in Canada, but came back home just as bad off as when I left. What I ate would sour on my stomach and the gas formed by it would bloat me up terribly. Sometimes my heart would palpitate like some one beating with a hammer, and then stop suddenly and keep still so long that I thought I would never draw another breath. My back, over my kidneys, hurt me dreadfully and at times my left side pained me until I could hardly stand it. I was constantly taking something to relieve constipation and was almost frantic at times with headache, and was so nervous that sleep was almost impossible for me.

"Now, this is just the condition I was in when I began taking Tanlac and I commenced to pick up with my first bottle. It was only a short time until I was eating most anything I wanted. I can now eat all kinds of vegetables or anything else I want, without the least bit of trouble from it. My headaches and pains are all gone and I have already gained ten pounds in weight. I sleep like a child every night and have so much more strength and energy that I can walk a mile where before I took Tanlac I couldn't walk two blocks without being all tired out. Tanlac has not only helped me but my husband, who has been troubled with his stomach for a good many years, is now taking it with just as good results. Some of my neighbors are also taking it on my recommendation so you can see what I think of it. I am thankful enough for what it has done for me to tell everybody about it."

Tanlac is sold in Peterboro by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Donike; in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Bowmanville by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in W[illegible]

NORTH ONTARIO ELECTION

(Toronto News.)

North Ontario has wandered into the wilderness of class-politics. Farmers have gone on a journey to the end of the rainbow to find the pot of gold. A group of eager demagogues roused the people in the rural districts against all urban workers with hand and brain, against a returned soldier who had done his part to defend them, against the Federal Government which pressed on the war, against the Provincial Government—against everthing, except the policy of the Liberal Ratsp.

North Ontario by its action of yesterday unwittingly condemned every policy of the Hearst Administration. It has denounced the Hydro-Electric system. It has spurned workmen's compensation and other measures of social reform adopted or being drafted for the Legislature. It has denounced the expenditure of public money for the encouragement of scientific agriculture. It has censured the Prohibition policy. It has condemned free text and cheap text-books. A majority of the electors have said that the honest administration of public business is a matter of no consequence.

Some of those who voted for Mr. Widdifield will refuse to admit that this is the meaning of their action, yet the fact remains. They were asked "Do you approve of the work done by the Hearst Administration for Ontario?" They answered, irrelevantly "We want a farmer." Once reminded of the question and answer in the French experiment, they said: "What is the matter? Why shouldn't we support a farmer?"

Relics of Aztecan Era.

Near Phoenix, within the Salt river valley, are to be found seven communal settlements of the same pre-Aztecan era, with central buildings that were far larger than that at Casa Grande, a writer in the Christian Science Monitor states. To the northward and northeast every river valley retains evidence of the passage of at least a portion of these peoples, for some reason leaving their cities and their irrigated fields on the plains and seeking the mountains and the upper plateaus.

The Thrift of Years.

Every man should strive to live at least 100 years and die all hitched up in working harness. Many a man feels that he would like to retire at about sixty and spend the rest of his years with nothing to do but lead a gold-headed cane around by the hand. It is thrifty to stay on the job just as long as possible. Every man should make the century plant his favorite flower and the undertaker his worst enemy.—Thrift Magazine.

Regular Meeting Otonabee Council

Council met pursuant to adjournment. All the members present. On the motion of Mr. Lawrie and Mr. O'Leary, the minutes of the last meeting, as read were confirmed.

A communication was read from the secretary of the local Board of Health of the city of Peterboro, requesting the Township Council to have representatives meet the Board at its meeting on Tuesday evening, April 14th, to discuss with the Board the proposal to make the Isolation Hospital free for scarlet fever and diphtheria patients from the Township of Otonabee and adjoining municipalities. Moved by Mr. Eason, seconded by Mr. O'Leary, that the reeve and Mr. Sargent be a committee to see about it. Carried.

Moved by Mr. Eason, seconded by Mr. Lawrie, that this Council defer the appointing of road overseers pending the action of the County Council in the matter of a county road system, and in the event of the County of Peterboro or four adjoining townships of the county not organizing a county road system, the reeve and deputy-reeve be authorized to confer with the Highways Department to have a system established comprising less than four adjoining townships of the county. Carried.

Moved by Mr. Eason, seconded by Mr. O'Leary, that Mr. Anderson, Mr. Eason and Mr. Lawrie be empowered to deal with certain trees on the highways. Carried.

Moved by Mr. Lawrie, seconded by Mr. Sargent, that the following accounts be passed:

John Kelly, damages and gravel, $5.00.

D. McFarlane, ladder for hall, $12.

Klugan Hardware Co., for oil, $2.20.

Council adjourned to Monday, March 17th.

J. J. MOORE, Clerk.

[illegible] of the Commissioner of the Canadian Northwest Territory, it will [illegible] unquestionably a possibility of taking an active part to [illegible] view of the situation. When the next territory, with a length of 900 miles, a breadth of 550 miles, and an area of 522,620 square miles, and lying over from So[illegible] to 141, many people no doubt [illegible] exaggerated views [illegible] such of the possibilities of the region with which the work of development would proceed. These views cannot been realized. The enormous [illegible] grappled with the question with the utmost energy. A highly paid administrator was appointed, and was assisted by an able staff, nevertheless the report already referred to indicates a disappointing lack of development in many of the most important directions. The increase in the white population of the territory is very slight. In 1914 it numbered 2,694, whilst at the end of 1916 it was only 3,221. Then in regard to railways, the report shows that the excess of working expenses over the earnings of the railways of the Northern Territory is more than £20,000.

It cannot, of course, be pretended that all this is satisfactory. An examination of conditions, however, shows that this unsatisfactory state of things is, in practically every case, due to difficulties which are either transitory or, in any event, by no means insurmountable. The two main problems are clearly lack of capital and lack of population, and these must be very largely attributed to the war conditions of the last four and a half years. The same is true in regard to the stagnation of the meat trade out of Port Darwin, where for some time past it has been found impossible to secure cargo space. As to the lack of capital, however, whilst the war accounts for a certain amount of the shortage, another reason for the hesitancy of the capitalist is the experimental nature of the exploitation which is now being carried on. This is especially true in the case of agriculture. As a former report of the administrator made clear, the tropical nature of the country, hitherto undeveloped by whites, or even by native inhabitants, has emphasized the need for experimental farms. These are the more necessary because the usual tropical products, notably cotton, cannot be profitably raised owing to the lack of cheap labor. The line of development has, it is thought, in the direction of such cultures as call for special treatment, and where labor-saving devices may be extensively employed. Experimental work has already been done by the Government on two important demonstration farms, and it cannot be doubted that, as the various possibilities become better proved and better known, capital will be attracted, in due course, to the development of the country. The population problem is likely to be solved at the same time and for the same reasons.

The summing up of the matter, indeed, seems to be that the Northern Territory is only at the very beginning of its history; that there is a very great deal of preliminary work to be done before returns can, or should, be expected; that the last five years cannot be taken as a fair test of the possibilities of any country; and that it may reasonably be anticipated that the removal of the difficulties placed in the path of development by the war will, in the near future, open the way to a much more satisfactory state of things.—Christian Science Monitor.

These Trade Marks Make it so Easy for You to Get Perfect Fitting Rubbers

SINCE the Dominion Rubber System focused their experience and skill on Rubber Footwear, they have made rubbers a comfortable and economical necessity.

There are no better rubbers in the world than these made and guaranteed by Canada's great pioneers in rubber goods; and no other country can boast of having six brands as consistently good as

"Jacques Cartier" "Merchants" "Maple Leaf" "Granby" "Dominion" "Daisy"

More than this, the enormous demand for these rubbers, due to their uniformly high quality, enables the Dominion Rubber System to make rubbers in every style and shape to fit every shoe.

These are two reasons why the leading stores like to carry, and are glad to recommend, any of these Dominion Rubber System brands of guaranteed rubbers.

SLIM AND SIMPLE

Frocks Are Quite Unlike the Mode of Yesterday.

Waistlines Are Capricious; Sleeves of Various Styles; Supply of Silk Is Wondrous; Woolens Limited.

Everywhere one sees new clothes. At first glance they seem quite like the mode of yesterday—and one resolves with firmness to wear the things left over. One looks again, relates a writer in Harper's Bazar, and discovers a difference which lies not in the outlines but in a host of clever, artfully planned details—and one's resolution flies on wings.

In style all frocks are slim and simple—or at least they give that impression. The skirts are of the well-known "hobble" type, but they have all the delights and one of the regrets of the hobble we used to struggle with so valiantly. Instead of the uncomfortably close confines of other days, the new skirts are so skillfully folded and draped that though the slender lines are scrupulously maintained, the wearer has plenty of room in which to brave the curbstones!

Waistlines are indeed capricious, for while some reach aspiring heights, others startle with their length. A few staid and sober ones insist on being normal. Of girdles there are a-plenty. If one would have the swathing kind—and one surely will—remember that it begins at the normal waistline and is draped to give the effect of a long, slender waist.

Sleeves, always a law unto themselves, are long and tight at times, again only three-quarters. Some are draped and some are "bells;" some are banded with fur and some with heavy material. Though the straight neckline is still much liked, distinctive collars of fur will stamp a gown as unmistakably new.

Silk is the mode, of course. And never were there such wondrous silken stuffs!

Wools there are—rough homespuns, duvetyns, velours and jerseys—for suits and wraps that one may wear without a qualm, for the materials were manufactured and purchased long before there was any question of conservation. The supply, of course, is limited, and the tariff proportionately high.

Narrow Escape.

One morning the youngest pupils were obliged to sit upon a movable bench to recite; soon there was a commotion in the midst of which Effie waved her hand excitedly and said: "Teacher, Johnnie tipped the seat and I almost fell off the class!"

British Navy Too Modest About Its Contributions Towards Winning the War

THE tradition of silence, that proud reticence which has always marked the British navy, has its drawbacks in war-time. It has led to a good deal of misunderstanding on the part of the people both of Britain and her Allies, and there have been constant appeals in the British press that the naval authorities lift the pall of silence so that we may see what the great fleets are doing. That outspoken censor of British manners and methods, the editor of the London Truth, remarks:

"It is a pity that the truth about the astonishing efforts made by Great Britain in the war has not been published in America yet." So said Admiral Sims, of the United States navy, in London a few days ago. Coming so soon after Sir Conan Doyle's recent insistence on the overwhelming share of British troops in the operations of the first four years of the war—an insistence suggested by his observations on the battle fronts—these generous words are not without significance. Seventy-five per cent of the British casualties have been suffered by troops from these islands—men who stemmed the first tide of the invasion of France and Belgium and saved the Channel ports. Admiral Sims points out that nineteen per cent. of the anti-submarine craft that are at work day and night are British, that British ships have brought over two-thirds of the American troops, and that the British navy has escorted one-half of them. The navy may be silent, but it has in effect won the war. It is the foundation-stone of the cause of the whole of the Allies." Our persistent hiding of our light under a bushel has caused more or less of misunderstandings in every Allied country at one time or another, and, without any departure from becoming modesty, it is right that the facts should be known."

Another influential London paper, The British Weekly, commenting on the policy of the British Admiralty remarks that "ever since after discussing the American Admiral's figures with regard to transport and submarines, it proceeds:

"He mentioned that when, in April, 1917, America came into the war the Central Powers were winning with great rapidity. He paid an eloquent tribute to the British navy. 'If a catastrophe should happen to the British Grand Fleet, there is no power on earth that can save us, for then the German High Seas Fleet can come out and sweep the seas. The British Grand Fleet is the foundation-stone of the cause of the whole of the Allies.'

"We must all echo Admiral Sim's regret that the official policy of silence has been so rigorously and so stupidly pursued. We met recently a distinguished man who has just returned from America after fulfilling the duties of a very important mission. He assured us that he was disappointed everywhere by the contempt with which the Americans regarded the British effort during the war. Men who should have known much better were fully of opinion that the British had left the main part of the fighting to be carried on by France. They had no conception of the work of the British navy.

These protests appear to have roused the press section of the British Admiralty from its wonted somnolence, and it has issued an official summary of what the British navy has done during the war. It runs:

"In comparing the effort of Britain with that of her Allies, there is a tendency in certain quarters to discount the British contribution by pointing to the fact that these islands have hitherto enjoyed immunity from invasion. It is probable that those who hold such a view have failed to take into account the enormous sacrifices in men, money, and material which Britain has made, and is making, in defence not of her freedom only, but of that of the civilized world.

"Personnel (officers and men). August, 1914, 145,000; August, 1918, 450,000. Tonnage employed in naval service, 2,500,000; August, 1918, 8,000,000. Mine-sweepers and patrol-boats, August, 1914, 12; August, 1918, 3,300.

"The 140,000 square nautical miles of the North Sea, an area larger than Germany, are patrolled incessantly, in all weathers.

"In one month British warships proper traveled 1,000,000 sea-miles in home waters alone. In the same period the mileage of auxiliary vessels, including mine-sweepers and patrol-boats, was 6,000,000—250 times the circuit of the globe.

"British submarines have attacked successfully forty enemy warships and 270 other vessels. Over 150 enemy submarines are known to have been destroyed.

"Transport. Since war broke out the navy, with its auxiliary vessels, has been instrumental in transporting to the British armies and those of our Allies:

2,000,000 horses and mules.
500,000 vehicles.
51,000,000 tons of oil and fuel.
130,000,000 tons of food and other materials.

"During 1917, 7,000,000 men, 500,000 animals, over 200,000 vehicles, and 9,500,000 tons of stores were conveyed to the various fronts.

"Over 2,000,000 tons of deadweight of British shipping are continuously employed in French service. Of this rather more than 1,000,000 tons are employed in carrying food and coal to France. About forty-five per cent. of French and Italian imports are carried in British ships."

Premier's Tribute To Dead Chieftan

Ottawa, Feb. 20.—The following tribute to the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier has been received from Sir Robert Borden, who is attending the peace conference:

"It is with deep sorrow that I have received tidings of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's death. Since I came leader of a political party more than eighteen years ago, our relations have been intimate and never have our political differences interfered with our personal friendship. With his death there passes from the state one who was from the first a commanding figure, and during a long period the chief figure in our public life. To the affairs of state in which his life was passed, and to which his wonderful ability was consecrated, he brought remarkable gifts of leadership. His experience of nearly half a century in public affairs had given him a thorough grasp of all public questions, and in the parliamentary arena he was renowned for a singular dexterity which seldom failed him.

His vision of public questions was wide and comprehensive, and his sympathies as well.

Up to the last he maintained an exceedingly keen interest in the duties of his leadership, and in the work of Parliament. Indeed his political life had become so much a second nature that, although he felt its burdens weigh heavily upon him, he would never have been happy to lay them down. His personality was singularly attractive and magnetic and with this he combined an inspiring eloquence, an unfailing grace of diction in both languages, and a charm of manner, which gave him supreme place in the affection and respect of his party.

"All Canada will mourn his loss, and those who differed from him will be profoundly conscious that his death leaves in the public life of our country a blank that cannot be entirely filled."

APPOINTED PROFESSOR.

Rev. Dr. Brown Goes on Staff of McMaster.

Rev. Dr. J. G. Brown, Secretary of the Baptist Foreign Mission Board, and a brother of Rev. D. Brown of Park Street Baptist Church, has been appointed to a professorship in history and missions on the staff of McMaster University. The vacancy filled by Dr. Brown was caused by the death of Prof. Trotter.

Dr. Brown was born near Belmont, Ont., and is a graduate of the University of Toronto. He served for eight years as a missionary in India and has been prominent in inter-denominational missionary movements during his twenty years' service as Secretary of the Baptist Missions Board.

Religion at the Front.

The Hebrew rabbi as a chaplain held the cross before the eyes of a dying Roman Catholic French Poilu. On a very stormy Sunday morning, in a great tent in which thousands of soldiers were packed, a Methodist chaplain called the Protestants into one corner, an Episcopalian shouted for men of his faith to come to another corner; the Roman Catholic priest gave directions where his men should assemble; as did a Hebrew rabbi, and finally a Salvation Army man shouted: "All of you who have no church and no name, and don't belong to nobobdy, follow me over there,' and he had the largest crowd of any. Men have forgotten the non-essentials and remembered only the big mother Christian ideas. When the fields are bare in April, the traveler sees nothing but the fences that separate the fields. When the corn grows tall and ripens, the fences are blotted out and only the grain appears. Two million young men at the front have learned charity, tolerance Christian service and mutual love The day of Christian Unity is approaching. The separations are going. The barriers are dissolving like icebergs caught in the Gulf Stream Never was faith in God so strong Never was the horizon so bright for the Christian religion. The days which our fathers longed to see, and died without seeing, have now drawn near. Newell Dwight Hillis in the Christian Herald.

War-time Output.

One of the most remarkable achievements in speeding up industry to meet the war's demands is to be found in the record of manufacturers of standard-gauge locomotives in the United States, made under the direction of the War Industries Board For a period of several months the output was increased approximately 100 per cent Even more striking is the fact that this was done without spending a single dollar to increase manufacturing facilities. Orders were redistributed among the various plants in a way which permitted each concern to concentrate on particular types of locomotives. Furthermore the "Pershing" engine, as it is called, was a standardized machine which was the sole type employed by the American forces in France. It was also adopted by the French and British with a consequent saving in time and money. —Popular Mechanics.

He Obeyed Mother.

The pluck of our boys is tremendous. If you ever hear anything suggestive of funk on the Tommy's part, you can rest assured that investigation will clear it up. "I'd like to volunteer for the infantry, but mother won't let me." "What!" said a listener, 'a big six-footer like you, and your mother wont' let you!" "No, said the young man calmly; 'so I've volunteered for mine sweeping." "Mine sweeping! Good gracious; that is more dangerous than infantry fighting by a darn sight." "I know it is," said the young fellow, "but mother don't"

Soldiers' Watches

A novel casualty list which has just appeared in Germany contains the numbers of watches found among belongings of men killed in action, who cannot be otherwise identified. By circulating the list among watchmakers who record the numbers of the watches they handle, the authorities hope to identify many dead soldiers.

The official title of the present Pope of Rome is Benedict XV. His name is Giacomo Della Chiesa, and he was born near Genoa, November 11, 1854. His father, Guiseppe Chiesa, was a nobleman of considerable wealth.

A SHORT SESSION PLAN THIS YEAR

HOUSE AT OTTAWA MAY NOT SIT LONGER THAN THREE MONTHS.

Ottawa Feb. 20. — There is talk of a short session lasting not more than three months, with another session in the early fall. Parliament will have to discuss and to ratify the peace terms as they effect Canada. The present outlook is that the peace conference will last until the middle or end of May. If the terms are to be discussed afterwards it would mean a session lasting all summer. It is felt by many that a short session devoted purely to reconstruction and necessary legislation should be held now and a session shoul then be called early in September to be devoted to the peace terms and domestic legislation outside of reconstruction problems.

A short session now, closing about the middle of May would apparently be satisfactory to both parties. The Opposition, saddened by the death of their great chieftain and without a permanent leader, are in no mood to carry on an aggressive house fight against the administration. The Government, also, with Sir Robert Borden absent along with three of the leading ministers, would prefer a short businesslike session. Its legislation is nearly all ready and there will be no delays, so that there is no excuse for a protracted session.

Sir Robert's Return.

The reports from Paris that Sir Robert Borden will be returning shortly are apparently incorrect, Sir Robert is one of the leading delegates of the Empire, and it is difficult for him to get away. While his colleagues would naturally like to see him back, they have left the question of his returning in his hands. The present expectation is that he will be in the House in six weeks' time, or about April 1. He will probably remain a month and then return to Paris for the closing sessions of the Peace Conference.

The budget will not likely be delivered until late in April and until after the return of Sir Robert. Last year the budget was delivered on April 30. The advantage of a late budget is that the Finance Minister can give a definite and exact statement as to the financial position of the Dominion.

A Cheering Budget.

The fiscal year ends March 31st, and when the budget is delivered earlier, as is the usual custom, the figures can only be approximate. Sir Thomas White will probably wait until the return of the Prime Minister, as the burden of leading the House and handling the budget would prove a heavy one.

Sir Thomas will have a most gratifying statement as the revenue will total some $300,000,000 and fully $90,000,000 can be used to meet our war expenditures. This is 30 per cent. of the expenditure for the past year.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

TRY GRANDMOTHER'S OLD FAVORITE RECIPE OF SAGE TEA AND SULPHUR

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is muasy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the additions of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

TRIPLE MURDER AT NIAGARA FALLS

FRED FOUNTAIN KILLS WIFE AND CHILDREN AND ATTEMPTS SUICIDE.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Feb. 20. — Frederick Fountain, aged 30, who came here from the West Indies about five weeks ago, at an early hour yesterday morning killed his wife and two children, aged 5 and 3 by cutting their throats with a small sleep knife. Then he slashed his own throat and wrist with the knife, but not deep enough to cause death. He is now at the hospital and will recover.

Just before noon George Littlewood, collector for an insurance company in which the whole family held policies, tried to get into the Fountain rooms on the second floor of 210 Cuyp Street, to collect the weekly premiums. The door to the bedroom was locked, so Littlewood, thinking all was not right, informed the police.

Sergt. Hardwick, of the city force, broke open the door and his eyes met a dreadful sight. There were three beds in the room, two large ones and a little crib. The little crib was saturated with blood. On the big bed in the centre fo the room lay four persons, the mother and two little children dead with terrible gashes in their throats, while Fountain himself lay beside them in a semi-conscious state. The two children's bodies were between the mother and father.

At twenty minutes to two this morning James Greenwood, owner of the house and who occupied the downstairs portion, heard the woman scream and also the cries of the children. There was silence after that. Greenwood went up and knocked at the door and asked "Is everything all right, Fred?" Fountain mumbled that it was.

Evidently Fountain murdered his wife first in her bed, and her screams awoke the two little children asleep in their cot a few feet away. They probably witnessed the killing of their mother, and then their father came to them and killed them. The cuts in the throats were not slashes, but made in a digging manner. Both beds were saturated with blood.

The police think the motive of the triple crime was jealousy, because they think Mrs. Fountain had threatened to leave her husband. She did so a few weeks ago, but came back after two days. An empty whiskey flask was found in the room. He appeared dazed when the police arrived, but it may have been from loss of blood.

Fountain was employed at the American Cyanamid plant and those living in the house say he appeared to be a steady worker and kind to his family. They say they appeared to be a very amiable couple. The two rooms they occupied were scrupulously clean, and the children were kept nicely dressed. The scene of the murder is just beyond the city line. Fountain is Spaniard and Mexican, but his wife was an English woman.

This is the fourth murder case in Welland County in about a month, two being in Niagara Falls, a third at Thorold, and the fourth at Welland. In all cases the alleged murderers were foreigners.

REGISTRATION OF W-S. S.
(War-Savings Stamps)

BUY W.S.S. WAR-SAVINGS STAMPS

The Dominion of Canada offers you every safeguard for your investment in War-Savings Stamps.

Affix your W-S.S. (costing $4.01 each this month) to the Certificate provided, and ask the Postmaster at any Money-Order Post Office to register the stamp or stamps for you.

The stamps are then absolutely useless to anyone but yourself. If your registered W-S.S. are lost by theft, fire, or other cause, the interest continues to accumulate and you can obtain your money at the office where the stamps were registered.

Remember, that at the rate of interest allowed on W.S.S. four dollars would grow to $361.39 in 100 years.

EVERY time you are tempted to spend money needlessly, buy Thrift Stamps instead, at 25 cents each. Sixteen of these on a Thrift Card represent $4.00 in the purchase of a W.S.S.

BAN LIKELY TO BE LIFTED FROM CITY RESTAURANTS

Legal Committee Recommend That Sunday Closing Amendment to By-Law Be Rescinded—Committee's Estimate For Year $2,200.

Peterborough will in all probability have a return to the usual Sunday restaurant service which existed previous to last spring, as a result of a resolution passed at last night's meeting of the legal committee of the City Council recommending the Council to take action to repeal the amendment to the bylaw which is in operation at present and which prohibits restaurants from serving meals on the Sabbath except between the hours of 7 and 10 in the morning, 12 to 2 in the afternoon, and 5 to 7 in the evening. This will also apply to the ice cream parlors.

Mr. G. N. Gordon represented the restaurant keepers at the meeting last night and presented their claims for the committee's consideration.

Aldermen Phelan and Garside fathered the motion recommending that the restrictions upon the operations of the restaurants on Sunday be lifted.

A motion recommending that the sum of $2200 be included in this year's estimates for the legal committee's purposes was passed, and the new city solicitor, Capt. J. W. Widdifield, who appeared at the meeting for the first time since his appointment, was instructed to look into the case of the city against Conroy & Boggs, which has been pending for a long time and which the members of the committee expressed a desire to clear up.

Capt. Widdifield was also requested to communicate with the executors of the E. Greene estate and ascertain what offer they will make for a portion of the reserve along the river runnig from Charlotte St., which they wish to acquire.

Dislikes Too Many Words.

It has been said in humorous comment on M. Stephen Pichon, Minister of Foreign Affairs in Paris, that he dislikes the French language, because of his insistence with his subordinates that they make their reports short and to the point, cut out redundant expressions, abbreviate sentences, and otherwise use as little French, or, for that matter, any other language as possible. But there in just now M. Pichon is a valuable man at the Peace Conference, and it may well happen that his expressed conviction that "the scourge of diplomacy is words" will help materially in what is sometimes pointedly called "getting down to tacks." M. Pichon, apparently, is one of comparatively few men who fully realize how much can be said or written on any given subject without saying anything really important; and how plausible and convincing it can all sound until a practical person thinks it well over. His miscellaneous and exact first-hand knowledge has more than once surprised his associates. "How," said M. Clemenceau on one occasion, "do you find out all you know?"

A Four Flusher.

She was a four-flusher, particularly as to her abilities in various sports, says the Journal of the American Medical Association. "Do you golf?" he asked. "Oh, I love golf," she answered. "I play at least 36 holes twice a week." "And how about tennis?" "I won the woman's championship in our state." "And do you swim?" "The best I ever did was a half mile straight away," she replied. Somewhat fatigued he changed to literature. "And how do you like Kipling?" he asked. "I kippled an hour only yesterday," was her unblushing reply.

The Influence of Fear.

Dr. Boyd Carpenter, canon of Westminster, who died recently, knew well the former German Emperor William. On his last visit to Berlin in the year before the war, he wrote, "When I left him I felt the Kaiser was under the influence of a great fear. 'He is changed,' I said to myself. I was afraid, for I knew that there was no passion so cruel as fear."

His Reason.

Bonfires.

The bonfires which lit up London during the armistice celebrations were familiar sights in the London of Henry VIII's reign. At the sunsetting, in the months of June and July, says Old Stow the Chronicler, "Bonefires," as they were called in his day, were made in the streets, "every man bestowing wood or labor towards them." Citizens set out tables near the fires, with plentiful refreshments, on festival days, and thereunto they invited their neighbors, and passengers" also, "to sit and be merry with them in great familiarity." These "bonefire" celebrations were considered good opportunities for the closing of old disputes, and for the bringing of good amity among neighbors. Illuminations, too, were practiced in Stow's time. He speaks of the custom on the days of St. Peter and St. Paul for every man to shadow his door with green birch, long fennel, St. John's wort, orpin and white lillies, and adds that some of the citizens had lamps of glass with burning lights them all night. Some, too, hung out branches of ingeniously wrought containing hundreds of lamps lighted at once."

Dutch Form of Golf.

Where and when golf started nobody knows of a certainty; whether or not it comes from Holland or Scotland matters little perhaps, except to the seeker after the truth and nothing but the truth. To him we would say that some sort of a game resembling golf was played in Holland oftentimes on the ice, with sticks instead of clubs. No rules for such play have ever been discovered, but from pictures we learn that the finish of this Hollandish form was somewhat after the fashion of croquet with the ball being hit between two sticks.

Wisdom of Solomon.

In the proverbs of Solomon there is this bit of wisdom: "Though thou shouldst bray a fool in a mortar among wheat with a pestle, yet will not his foolishness depart from him." More than two thousand years of world experience sustains the accuracy of the different proverb. Braying the fool in a mortar may not cure him, but it is sometimes the only way of ridding the community of pernicious fools intent upon spreading the contagion of their own folly.

Portuguese Cemeteries.

Instead of headstones and monuments, the cemetery of Lisbon shows rows and rows of tiny chapels ranged in long avenues bordered by cypress trees. The Portuguese are reluctant to bury their dead out of sight, and these chapels serve as mortuaries for the coffins, which are placed on the shelves within. Through the iron grills the eye discerns small altars and flowers gleaming through the subdued light of the interiors.

"A Little Learning."

The following are some of the answers recently given in a school examination on "general knowledge:" "Gravitation is when an apple falls on the floor." "Benjamin Franklin invented lightning." "The place where they keep all kinds of wild animals is called a theological garden." "One of the most important inventions of modern times is the North Pole."

"Take It Easy."

A great many young folks make hard work of things that should be perfectly easy, and as long as there are plenty of really hard duties to be done, it seems a pity to make hard work of the rest. One of the arts of life is to learn to do our work in the easiest way, saving on the simple tasks strength to apply to the hard duties.

AFTER PEACE, WHAT?

Several Well-known British Thinkers Make Reply.

What should come first after peace finally is declared? was the question put by Answers, the London weekly, to some of the most widely known persons in England. Their replies follow:

J. W. Lowther, Speaker of the House of Commons: "The only thing which will save the empire from disaster after the war is the exercise of the strictest possible economy, publicly and privately, in every branch of the national service and in every situation in life."

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle: "The question of loss of population is the first to be considered. In order to fill up the gaps, it is very necessary to pass a law by which the one-fourth million people in this country who are married but separated will be divorced, and so able to marry again and found families. Public morality will also be much benefited by such a change, which is only retarded by theological prejudice."

Lady Rhondda: "The first thing we must do in building the national and social structure which is to be erected in the coming epoch is to make certain that we lay good foundations; and, most unquestionably, the first essential for such, in any way, is to consider health. Let us first do all that lies in our power to see that every single individual born into this country has as fair a chance as we can give him of attaining and keeping perfect health, and we shall know that we have done all that lies in our power towards making use of good material, and can start on the actual building of the social fabric with a clear conscience."

John Masefield: "First, I hope, a general giving of thanks for our victory and preservation, but after that a great national effort to help Belgium and Serbia, the lands which have suffered most in this war, to support themselves as in the past. After that, I hope that we may turn to upon the tasks of peace with the passionate self-sacrifice and courage with which our nation has faced the tasks of war."

George Bernard Shaw: "As this question seems asking me for a list of persons who will certainly have to be hanged before anything sensible can be done, I had rather not answer it."

Sir Horace Brooks Marshall, Lord Mayor of London: "The first thing necessary in our after-war program, in my opinion, is that same readiness for co-operation and for patriotic self-sacrifice that was so dramatically manifested when the war broke out. Courage, unselfishness and possibly the endurance of hardship are implied in this. It may also mean, as it did for so many of our people four years ago, an entire change in the circumstances of life to which we have become accustomed. But if the changes are reforms which must be devised are faced by us as by men and women still willing to share burdens and to make sacrifices for their country and for their fellows, then to this first thing will be added, I believe, a quicker and happier settlement into our new peace-time life."

John Galsworthy: "Most certainly the first thing to do is to direct returning labor into the three channels of food production, ship building and coal mining. Until the supply of food, transport and coal equals, and even exceeds, demand, so that the absolute necessities of the worker's life are cheap again, every kind of reconstruction and all social and industrial life will be blocked by the fact that everyone will be asking wages which no one will be able to pay."

THE REVIEW

Hunter Street

A Natural Enquiry.

Lord George Wellesley said at a luncheon:

"One result of this war will be that the English workingman will be better paid. He'll be content no longer with his wages of the past.

"The English workingman is showing in numberless ways his resolve to have a better share of the good things his labor creates. I know a lady who, when the submarine crisis was at its worst, lectured in the east end of London on 'Cheap and Tasty Dishes for the Masses.'

"'My next dish,' the lady said in the course of her lecture, 'is boiled cods' heads. A boiled cod's head, dear friends, is, properly prepared, a dish fit for the gods. You take four cods' heads of good size and quality, place them in a casserole with salt and pepper, an onion and——'

"'Wait a bit, ma'am!'

"A gaunt chap had risen from a front seat. He was pointing his long forefinger at the lady and scowling.

"'Wait a bit, ma'am!' he repeated. 'What I want to know is, who gets the cod?'"

The American Duchess.

"The Duchess of Marlborough," said a London correspondent, "still looks like a young girl. I saw the 'American duchess,' as the English call her, at a charity concert last month with her two stalwart soldier sons, the Marquis of Blandford and Lord Ivor Spencer-Churchill, and she looked more like the young men's sister than their mother. The duchess retains all her girlish wit. A patroness at the concert came to her and said: 'Did you know, duchess, we're to have an extra number? Dear Lady Constance has volunteered to give us one of her barefoot Persian dances.' The duchess turned to her soldier sons and said, with a smile. 'Didn't I tell you, when I spilled the salt at luncheon, that something dreadful was bound to happen?'"

Newspaperman Lost.

A striking fact in connection with recruiting is mentioned in a recent speech of Sir Auckland Geddes. Of ten thousand men and boys employed by London newspaper offices five thousand joined the army, and at the moment of the armistice being signed there were not thirty men fit for general service in all the London newspaper offices. That was a record, said Sir Auckland, which placed the press at the head of every trade group in the matter of recruiting.

The Shah's Share.

If the Shah of Persia were to be deprived of his income he would still be one of the richest men in the world. He would only have to sell his ornaments, gems, and precious stones to become possessed of about $35,000,000.

Zoological Notes.

Another thing we can't understand is how a woman can be a perfect cat and yet be scared to death of a mouse. —Cincinnati Enquirer.

Prevention Rather Than Cure.

To cure is as expensive as to prevent, and prevention eliminates the loss, as well.

Hunting the Average Man

Is there such a person as the average man? Could we pick out any individual at home or abroad today and say that he or she represented the predominating type of Britain? The answer is obviously "No." You might as well try to strike an average between a sparrow and a peacock. There cannot be a "common mean" of humanity, is the conclusion of J. D. Beresford in the Westminster Gazette.

I was led to this conclusion by that terrible crisis—of the war that flared into a sudden threat of disaster on the 12th of April. In such a time of peril there must, I thought, be some great representative emotion, thrilling all England; and if I could judge by my own feelings, that emotion was one of harassed anxiety, combined with a passionate desire to help. Whether that were so or not you may judge by my experience.

It was in the morning that I spoke to the farmer. He lived 30 miles from London, and at 10 o'clock he had not yet opened his morning paper. He asked me the news over the gate, shook his head wisely at my slightly hysterical summary of the situation, and said it was a "bad job." After that he turned his attention to the weather and to certain complaints about the new methods of feed control.

Was he representative of rural England, I wondered? Unimaginative—the broadest detail of strategy, such as my amateur account of the threat to our communications, manifestly meant nothing to him. He had thought all his life in terms of weather, crops, livestock and the market; and he could not see a world-movement in these terms.

But I had no chance to test the rural mind further on that day, for I came up to London at midday, and it was there that my further researches were carried on.

At the club I got no satisfaction. I fell into the awful company of a man who seemed to think that the course of the war was less important than the fact that England was sinking into the lowest abysm of depravity which permitted the shooting of a fox. To him that was the ultimate crime. He was obsessed by the thought of it. I left him and the club in disgust. He could not possibly be typical.

Going westward to call at a friend's house, I frowned in perplexity over the crowd of shopping women in Oxford street. They did not represent the average, I assured myself. I thought of all the women, in munition factories, in hospitals, in offices all over the country, who were absorbed in war work; giving their best for the British Empire. This gay crowd about the milliners' windows was only the scum. It told one nothing of the steady, clear stream that flowed beneath.

Unhappily, I was engaged at my friend's house by another visitor, a woman I had not met before. "Oh! the war, I simply can't bear to think of it," she said, in affected, nervous speech; and, indeed, it seemed that all she could bring to think of just then, was the sensational case that was coming up again before the magistrate the next day. I pitied her with the farmer and the fox-hunter. Her mind could play with certain very restricted things. She had no interests, no power of thinking anything outside her own immediate preoccupations.

But I was slightly encouraged by the lucubrations of a just perceptibly intoxicated man, who addressed the inside passengers of the bus I took on my return. He was in uniform, was frankly the garments of a tramp, but he had his badge and his wooden leg to prove that he had once done his bit. He said that he had been a qualified fool, and then repeated the statement with a richer adjective. He did not tell us why, though I asked him, for his major ambition was to terrify us with his own conviction that the enemy would be landing at Dover within a month. He offered to bet five shillings on that event, so certain was he of the truth of his prophecy. I could not develop myself with the notion that he exemplified the British attitude at that moment, but he, at least, took the crisis seriously.

It was at half-past eight that evening that I found my opening. I was in a tube train, and the man who sat next to me was a tired workman of 50 or so.

"Looks bad," he remarked with a glance at the headings of my evening paper. "Well, we've got to stick to it, whatever happens; I've been on since 7 o'clock this morning."

And, perhaps, in a way, that mechanic did represent, if not the average, at least the mass of men and women working at home through the crisis. I thought of that steady stream of labor, of those who were sticking to their jobs through every anxiety, and meant to stick to them whatever happened. They were helping. They represented the spirit of endurance, and perseverance, the spirit of England. All those others that I had met were just exceptions.

Kipling's Typewriter.

There are authors who cannot compose on the typewriter, but apparently Kipling is not among them. He wrote to the manufacturer of his American machine: "It's a daddy. My greatest joy in life is to ride easy and oil it. I can do poems on the machine without the trouble of thought. I just start something at the first line, pull open the throttle valve and go out for a walk round Nettingdean. When I come back I find a poem of any desired length completed, and the machine flushed and happy, waiting modestly for my applause."

It is calculated that the earth's population is doubled in 189 years.

No Specific.

For business purposes, for social purposes, for any purpose in life, a rule that should admit of no exceptions is: "Be specific in everything you say. Don't take it for granted that vague, general statements will properly convey your meaning. General statements, taken at their face value, leave wide room for inference, and there is always the liability that a wrong inference will be drawn."

JAKE SOLOMON . . Mgr

JESS WILLARD WILL BE FAVORITE IN BETTING

Champion Always Selected by the General Public as a Safe Investment For Their Money.

New York, Feb. 19.—Jess Willard probably will be made favorite in the betting when he fights Jack Dempsey next July. Champions always attract the most support from the casual followers of boxing, because of the traditional [illegible] of prestige is of material aid in striking fights, as it gives the champion a big advantage to start with. It increases the title-holder's confidence in himself and shakes that of the challenger, and when it comes to deciding a bout on points, the spectators are unconsciously influenced so that they can see only what the champion has accomplished. Then, too, most referees hesitate to decide against a title-holder unless by some stroke of [illegible] a decision can be handed down.

All these are advantages possessed exclusively by the champion, but as a rule the challenger in heavyweight [illegible] has some tremendous advantage to his side. In his anxiety to gather [illegible] the stage, or in ways other, [illegible] fighting the champion invariably happens many times out of practice at his trade in trying to play safe and protect his title by not risking it, he makes it all the more difficult to defend it successfully when he finally is compelled and forced into a match.

Willard's present condition is more or less of a mystery. On the face of things it would appear as though he must have grown soft and wind-broke during his long absence from the game. While he begins to train [illegible] he is going to be inspected with a great deal of attention by the [illegible] experts.

Those who object to see a man rolling in fat, as Jeffries was, when the boiler-maker began the long grind of his attempt to come back, are [illegible] for Willard has not let it down entirely. He [illegible] to fight again, whereas [illegible] Jeffries retired he was quite [illegible] champion for good, and he took the ring to help his admirers from financial [illegible].

While Willard has taken enough exercise to keep in good health, it stands to reason that he has not [illegible] as fighting machine and [illegible] in the ring. But he has not dissipated in any way, and he probably will be in far better shape than is generally expected.

Willard did not reach anything like the top of his form until that day in Havana when he flattened Jack Johnson in 26 rounds. For one full year before that fight he made a study of boxing in private, and he succeeded in developing a surprising amount of skill for a man of his huge proportions. Before that event he knew little of the art of boxing, so that such little fellows as Gunboat Smith and Tom McMahon were able to outpoint him. Against Johnson he performed with considerable skill, while he altogether outclassed Moran from a scientific standpoint.

Willard might have developed into a wonderful fighting man if he had gone along fighting every few months. With his tremendous proportions and great strength, hitting ability and boxing skill, coupled with his ability to withstand punishment, all he lacked was aggressiveness. What a terror he would have been if he had ever learned to be aggressive.

But while Willard fails to take full advantage of his great weight and strength, his extreme caution makes it hard to reach him effectively. He takes no chances but makes his opponent do all the leading. Willard just leans back and blocks, or rushes out with his long left to break his opponent's attack before it gets well started.

He starts himself so little that even when out of condition he can stall along without getting into serious trouble. For that reason there is little danger of Dempsey stopping him in a no-decision bout of ten rounds, but if a referee's decision were against it would change the whole complexion of the bout. In that case Willard would have to do his share of the leading, which would mean that he would have to change his style of fighting completely.

BELLEVILLE WINS.

Belleville defeated Aura Lee last night in Belleville by a score of 5 to 4.

VARDON METHOD IS BEST WAY TO GRIP YOUR GOLF CLUB

Most of the Stars Now Use It in Preference to All Others When They Are Playing Championship Matches.

I was not always thus.
A finger-gripper of the Vardon type.
My old time style showed fist around the shaft,
As if I thought the club a woodman's ax.
—From imagined reverie of "Spartacus."

Like Spartacus, Jessie Guilford, the Boston amateur golfer can say, "I was not always thus." The "thus" would refer to his style of grip, for Jesse obtained the reputation of being one of the longest amateur drivers, if not the longest, in the United States, by virtue of the palm grip which he used in all big competitions until the national amateur championship of 1916, held at Merion, Philadelphia district. It was the terrific tee wallops he used to get off with the old kind of grip that won for him the sobriquet, "The Boston Seige Gun." Since dropping that style of holding the club and adopting the Vardonian overlapping grip his drives have not been characterized by the old superiority in distance.

It may be worth while to describe this kind of grip and the effect it is said to have on distance getting. In the palm method the club is grasped by the right hand player with the right hand wrapped around the shaft so that the knuckles point directly toward the ground. In the finger grip, or overlapping and interlocking, the knuckles are virtually on the side of the shaft, as it were, nearly perpendicular to the flight of the ball.

Two other very famous golfers use the palm type of grip. They are Walter J. Travis, of Garden City, N.Y., the former American and British amateur champion and John Ball of England, who has won the British amateur championship eight times and the British open once. In addition Ball won both amateur and open titles in the same year (1890) the only golfer to accomplish that until Chick Evans in 1916 won that distinction by defeating the pros at Minikahda and the amateurs at Merion.

Neither Travis nor Barr has earned fame as a long driver in the sense that Guilford has. However, Ball has a longer back swing than Travis and gets great distance.

Guilford's Great Back Swing.

Guilford from the beginning of his golf links career has had a full swing to the point to forearswing. There is no other high ranking golfer in the American ranks who has such a pronounced overarming as he, with the exception of Max R. Marston, of Baltusrol, N. J., 1915 New Jersey champion and national semi-finalist, in the case of the latter his swing is so much slower than Guilford's that the overswing makes not so pronounced an impression upon the beholder. Marston comes back more slowly and the start of his down swing is also less hurried. However, Marston does not use the palm grip, which now is generally abandoned by great players.

The back swing of both Travis and Ball has inclined to the short side and consequently some say, they having been unable to get the full advantage from the palm grip in the matter of distance which Guilford seemed to obtain from it in the earlier days of his career. In fact, Travis has always maintained that he shortened his swing for the purpose of accuracy.

While there is a spectacular quality about long driving that arouses the enthusiasm of the gallery, the danger of being off the line, in the opinion of some offsets whatever is gained in distance. A few inches off the fairway may mean a bunker or thick grass, causing the loss of one or more strokes, while, according to their theory, yards on one's rival in the tee shots rarely mean the saving of a stroke, although meaning an easier second shot or a better position on the putting green.

NEW SWIMMING CHAMPION.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—Michael McDermott, of the Illinois Athletic Club, for nine years holder of the 220 yards breast stroke event in the National Amateur Athletic swimming championship, was defeated last night by Herbert Taylor of the Chicago Athletic Association. Taylor's time was 2.44 3-5.

LINDSAY MIDGETS SWAMPED IN GAME WITH UNIVERSITY

Lost at Toronto Arena Last Night by 15—2 Score—Play at Home Friday Night.

Toronto, Feb. 20. — University Schools accepted a load of 13 goals with which to invade Lindsay on Friday night in the return game of the second round fixture of the Junior O.H.A. series by defeating Lindsay Midgets at the Arena last night by the score of 15 to 2. This lead, despite the fact that it is supposed to be an unlucky number, will probably be far too big for the Midgets to overcome, although they should show do far better advantage on their spoiler ice at home and will probably force the issue all the way.

On the huge ice surface at the Arena, Lindsay appeared so much disadvantage in contrast with the superior speed and weight of the local boys, but the main cause of their defeat lay in their poor goal-tending and in their inability to bore in. They shot from well out practically all the time, which was "apple pie" for Joe Sullivan, and their combination failed to be effective when they struck the sturdy U.T.S. defence.

Locals Too Good.

U.T.S. romped home a winner for their combination was well worked and had the Lindsay defence almost helpless, for their forwards were unable to keep them in back-checking, while the local boys stepped the visitors time after time, who failed to get away under their checking. Jeffrey, Aggett and Greey made a very aggressive forward line, and bored in repeatedly, putting the Lindsay goalie at a disadvantage, although he was beaten often also on long shots. Munro and Rowell were like a stone wall defensively, and offensively proved dangerous on every rush. Munro notching no less than six goals for his team on lone rushes, besides slitting several others in motion. Sullivan was in his element, and turned everything that came his away aside. Gunn and Kearns were the subs, and were used at intervals, so that they did not get a real chance to show their wares.

For the locals, Garnet was easily the best on the team. He is a big boy a strong skater and well built, but was not afforded much support, and as a result his splendid rushes often were wasted. Kelly at centre was a regular Trojan for work, but the little fellow found the big ice too much for him, but he will be a hard boy to hold at Lindsay, where his stick-handling will undoubtedly keep Sullivan very busy. Wilfrid received a bump in the first period which brought the claret from his nose, and in the last two periods he did not appear to as good advantage as in the first, while Green helped form a pretty strong defence, but earned several penalties.

Combination Told.

The team work of the U. T. S. schools coupled with their individual rushes by Munro and Rowell were the features that bored Lindsay under, but in the first few minutes of the first period it looked as if Lindsay were going to furnish the surprise. They set a terrific pace from the bell and assumed the offensive, but this proved only a flash in the pan, and when Greey beat Oliver with a high shot from the wing in six minutes, the procession started. At the end of the first period U. T. S. led by 5 to 0.

In the second period Lindsay tried to bore in but failed, and soon Universities Schools amassed a lead of 9 to 0. Shortly after the last session got under way a long high shot hit Oliver on the head, stunning him temporarily. Lindsay were beginning to heat up when Bell batted in a goal from a scrimmage, but this put U.T.S. on their mettle again and they counteracted this tally with two more. Garnet finally succeeded with one of his rushes and drove the puck right through the net with a long shot, but the winners simply walked in and scored in the final minutes of play, four more tallies resulting. The teams:

Skating Party By Life Problem Club

On Wednesday evening the members of the Senior Life Problem Club of the Y.M.C.A. entertained their lady friends at a skating party. After skating for over two hours, the merry couples proceeded to the Y.M.C.A. There they enjoyed a few selections by a sextette of boys, accompanied by one of their number on the mandolin. In a few minutes refreshments were served, after which the remaining part of the evening was spent in music and games. About eleven-thirty this most enjoyable event broke up and was voted by all a huge success.

Among the fifty-eight who attended this soical, the following were noted:

Misses Cottingham, O. Conway, M. Parker, G. Primeau, G. Middleton, I Baird, H. Eaton, G. Hood, A. Shelton, H. Bulmer, J. Middleton, C. Hamilton, J. Pollard, J. Henderson, B. Cunningham, H. OBITUARY

MRS. AARON COMSTOCK.

Mrs. Aaron Comstock passed away last night at the family residence, 305 Water street, at the age of 76 years, after a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Comstock was born in Ashburnham in 1843, and previous to her marriage in 1869 was Mary Ann Martin.

Surviving are three sons and three daughters. They are: William, John and Manson, of this city Mrs. R. H. Boyle, St. Catharines, Mrs. John McIntyre, Peterborough, and Miss Lottie, at home.

The funeral will be held from the late residence of deceased, 305 Water street, Saturday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock to Little Lake Cemetery.

MEETING AT ST. JOHN'S.

Mr. R. W. Allin Explains Methods of Church Finances.

There was a mens' meeting of the members of three of the Anglican churches of the city last night in St. John's Church, All Saints', St. Luke's and St. John's being represented.

R. W. Allin, financial commissioner of the Diocese of Toronto, gave a most instructive address upon efficient diocesian and financial methods and upon co-operation in the local parish.

Many questions of interest were asked and satisfactory answers received.

RECITAL AT CONSERVATORY

By Miss Dorothy Stuart, Brilliant Pupil of Mr. Gliddon.

A very interesting piano recital was given last evening at the Peterborough Conservatory of Music by Miss Dorothy Stuart, a very talented pupil of Mr. Gliddon. Miss Stuart played a difficult and exacting program, with brilliancy and refinement that promises well for her future success as a concert pianist. Her playing shows the result of careful training and was a delightful surprise to her friends present. Following is the program:

"Prelude Fuge No 12," Bach.

Sonata Pathetique, "Grave Allegro Molto, Adagio Cantobilo, Rondo," Beethoven.

"Barcarolle," Haberbier.

"Reveil di Printemps", Haberbier.

"Ballade Op 47," Chopin.

Mr. R. Gliddon, musical director of the Peterborough Conservatory of Music, is in Toronto, a guest at the banquet given to Dr. Dann, Dean of the Musical Faculty of Cornell University.

Dr. Dann will give an address on "Schools and Music Credits," to representative musicians of the province.

ROUTED CHINESE RESTAURANTS

Mob in Halifax Did Damage Estimated at $15,000.

Halifax, Feb. 20. — Six Chinese restaurants were more or less mashed up by a mob of 200 or 300 returned soldiers and civilians. The trouble began at 11 p.m. in the Crown Cafe on Gottingen street, in the north end, where a soldier, said to be intoxicated, got into an argument with the proprietor. A crowd gathered, glass was broken and a fight began which wrecked the interior. A rumor then started that a soldier had been struck with a bottle, but this afterwards turned out to be false. It did its work, however, and the mob started to smash up Chinese restaurants generally. The damage is estimated at $15,000.

WHERE TAX RATE IS EIGHTY MILLS

BLAIRMORE, ALTA., IS THREATENED WITH RECORD LEVY FOR 1919.

Mr. Jos. Wearing recently wrote to the clerk at Blairmore, Alberta, on some legal business which involved the payment of certain money to one of Mr. Wearing's clients. The answer received was a tale of financial woe. The council is about to take up the work of preparing the estimates for this year. Last year the levy was 40 mills on the dollar. This year there seems nothing for it but to set the rate at 80 mills.

WRIT OF EXECUTION.

Issued on Behalf of Sister Mary Basil.

Kingston, Feb. 20.—On behalf of Sister Mary Basil, the former House of Providence nun who went to the courts to get damages for her attempted abduction, A. B. Cunningham has issued a writ of execution against Archbishop Spratt for $20,000, and against Dr. Daniel Phelan for $4000, the amounts awarded by the jury in the trial case, and ratified by the Court of Appeal in Toronto some time ago.

SPEEDING THE PARTING GUESTS

FRIENDS TAKE FAREWELL OF MR. AND MRS. WHITE.

A very enjoyable musical evening was given by the friends of Mr. and Mrs. White, of 348 Charlotte street, last evening who were leaving for England on the R.M.S. Metagama from St. Johns. Some thirty-five to forty people took part in the enjoyment and numerous parting presents were given. Mr. and Mrs. White left this morning on the 5.25 Grand Trunk and were given a good send off by their friends who sang "Auld Lang Syne." "Take Me Back to Blighty" and "They're Jolly Good Fellows" and all wished them a safe and pleasant voyage.

Fuel Commission Holds Last Session

What will in all probability be the last meeting of the Board of Fuel Commissioners was held last night when the two members present, Chairman Jos. Wearing and Mr. T. E. Quinn passed a resolution asking the City Council to relieve them of their duties in view of the fact that existing circumstances did not seem to warrant their continuance in office.

A resolution rescinding all fuel regulations made by the board was passed at last night's meeting, and from this time forward these rules are void, including that which requires reports from fuel dealers.

A communication from E. L. Cousins, Assistant Fuel Administrator, was read, and, according to the information contained therein, there is no further objection to coal dealers delivering to consumers such quantities of coal as are necessary to supply their normal needs to the 31st of March, 1919.

Mr. Walter Stocker is the chief member of the commission, who has done much good work in the past, and which now goes out of existence at its own request owing to the fact that the conditions which warranted its formation no longer exist.

Annual Report Of Graduate Nurses

The following is the annual report for the Central Registry of Graduate Nurses, 788 George street, phone 647. It covers the period from Feb. 5th, 1918, to Feb. 5th, 1919:

In the past year there have been more than 300 calls for nurses from city or country. During the epidemic it was impossible to keep an accurate account of the calls, and equally impossible to supply nurses to answer them.

Nearly all the nurses had influenza, more or less seriously. Two volunteered to go to Renfrew where they were both taken ill, but happily recovered.

There are 20 nurses at present on the register, namely: Misses Doyell, Foote, Montgomery, M. O'Brien, L. O'Brien, Price, Thornton, Moloney, Fallon, G. Watt, Heffernen, Merrell, F. Deane, M. E. Sloan, S. Merrison, F. H. Robertson, Louise Conroy, Jones, Mrs. Gamey, Mrs. Grierson.

PROHIBITION IN QUEBEC

Premier Gouin Not Yet Ready to Make Announcement.

Quebec, Feb. 20.—Asked in the Legislature by the Leader of the Conservative Opposition as to what the Government intended doing and when it will introduce its bill on prohibition, Sir Lomer said that a measure is shortly to be introduced. Some time ago Mr. Sauve gave notice of a motion asking the Government to keep light wines and beer in the Province. When Sir Lomer gave his answer, Mr. Sauve asked if the measure expected was to be along the lines of his request. The Premier answered that it would be slightly different. "His my honorable friend cut his wine with water?" humorously asked Mr. Sauve. "Or, mayhap, cut my water with more wine," answered back Sir Lomer.

Strong opposition has been raised at Winnipeg to the proposal of increase the aldermanic indemnity from $500 to $1,200 per annum.

Lee Carpenter of Chatham failed to appear in court to answer a charge of extorting money from a Chinese. A warrant is issued for his arrest.

Thomas D. Wolfe, a Vancouver returned man, was dangerously wounded when held up. He put up a struggle when asked to throw up his hands.

Philippine Horses.

The horses in the Philippine Island are ponies containing a mixture of the blood of ponies and small horses from northern China, French Indo-China and Mexico, with a considerable admixture of Arab blood. There are about 215,000 horses in the Islands.

Little-Used Term.

The word Saracen was applied in the middle ages to Turks, Arabs, Moors and other Mohammedans in western Asia and northern Africa. The same kind of people live now, but the word is seldom used except in romance, poetry and history.

ASK FOR CLOSER CENSORSHIP OF PLAYS AND MOVING PICTURES

Mrs. Arthur Stevenson in Report to Local Council of Women Deplores Tendency Towards Objectionable Amusements

At the annual meeting of the Local Council of Women yesterday Mrs. Arthur Stevenson submitted the following report.:

As convenor of this committee I have never asked any person to be a member of it, relying entirely upon voluntary aid and it has never failed.

During the past year the town has lost the services of Mrs. McElhiney as Police Matron, her position being left vacant for some months. Our Secretary wrote the Police Commission urging that a woman be appointed, who could devote her whole time to the work. An answer has not yet been received though the letter was written some months ago. We see, however by the papers, that Mrs. Benton of the Salvation Army, has been appointed, Police Matron at a salary of $400 per annum. We do not wish to detract in any way from Mrs. Bentons capabilities or her usefulness, but still we are of the opinion that the small extra expenditure necessary to procure some one who could give all their time to the work would be money well spent in the city the size of Peterborough and where every day instances are coming to our notice which emphasize the great need for prevention of crime. We feel assured that Mrs. Benton herself, whose knowledge along this line must be extensive, is entirely with us in this opinion.

We wish to pay a very sincere tribute to the good work of Mrs. McElhiney, who in spite of ill health and many duties was able to accomplish so much.

This committee would endorse the recommendation of the Board of the Childrens Aid Society, that a Childrens Court be established in Peterboro, and we would be gratified if this meeting would forward to that body a resolution assuring them of our hearty support.

We wish to bring before this meeting the matter of censorship of moving pictures and plays, most of which depict a very undesirable phase of society. If these pictures and plays are placed before the public for the purpose of teaching a moral they entirely fail in their object. They familiarize the subject to such an extent that it fails to shock. A few days ago a certain play came to town and one newspaper reported that the heads of several womens organizations were present and approved. I personally was present and I wish to state that I did not approve and no woman with any moral responsibility could approve for the play itself displayed no moral responsibility. We would ask that this local Council send a resolution to the National executive urging them to press the Government in the matter of better censorship with regard to both pictures and plays. That at least we may occasionally go to the theatre and see a picture or play that is not over-burdened with the unseemly side of life.

We have all hoped most earnestly that the world would emerge from this great war with higher moral standards. This cannot be looked for unless each one of us works for it. We have learned by sad experience what propaganda means and the power it possesses. Let us turn this lesson into a better channel and make it serve our own purpose. Let each one of us set forth on a propaganda of moderation.

We appeal to the representatives of Societies, ever remembering that this work of the local Council is to create a strong moral force in the community, to return to those bodies and in their reports preach the gospel of moderation and perhaps in this way we may do our part in preventing the pendulum of society swinging too far towards exageration, indifference and demoralization.

BAVARIAN COUNT SHOOTS AND KILLS THE SOCIALIST PREMIER

Trouble Now Inevitable Between Two Classes ---Ukranians Fire on Allies' Commission.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Feb. 21.—Kurt Eisner, Socialist premier of Bavaria, was this morning shot and killed by an aristocrat, Lieut. Count Archo Valley. The count was wounded severely by the guard and is reported to be dying.

Kurt Eisner, who seized the reins of government in Bavaria after the deposing of the royal family early in November, was a Socialist of the Spartacus type, and the Archo Valley family has been prominent in Bavaria and Germany for years. Eisner, a Jew, was born in Galicia, and at one time was editor-in-chief of the Vorwaerts of Berlin. He was arrested last April by the Bavarian government, and was reported to have committed suicide in prison. Eisner also has been opposed to the German Majority Socialists, and since his rise to power in Bavaria had repeatedly attacked President Ebert and his colleagues. Accompanied by guards in uniforms and on a special train, Eisner went to Berne to attend the international Labor conference there early this month.

Blamed Ex-Kaiser for War.

In discussing the responsibility for the war before the Berne conference, Eisner declared that former Emperor William was undoubtedly directly to blame for precipitating the war. He said that documents found in Munich tend to support this view. He said that all of the German military caste should be tried by a German tribunal for their share of responsibility.

Fired on the Allies.

Warsaw, Feb. 21.—Members of the Inter-Allied Commission to Poland were fired upon by Ukrainian soldiers while travelling today from Cracow to Lemberg on a Polish armored train. The delegation returned to Cracow.

Japanese Premier Refers to China

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Tokio, Feb. 21.—In replying to an interpolation in diet today Premier Hara said there was no reason why China should demand the return of Tsing Tao. To answer this interpolator the Premier said that the race problem would never escape the utmost attention of the Government.

Wounded Premier Resumes Business

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Paris, Feb. 21.—Premier Clemenceau will receive his colleagues of the Supreme Court at his home this afternoon to discuss certain important matters with them. His doctors consider him out of danger, and therefore authorized him to receive the ministers. The physicians believe he can resume his political activity on Monday.

DIED IN HAMILTON.

George Sweet, Warehouse Manager of Oak Hall Stores.

M. J. Maher, manager of the Oak Hall store in Peterborough, received a letter from J. J. Greene managing director of the Sandford Establishment which controls the Oak Hall stores, informing him of the death in Hamilton of George Sweet, warehouse manager of the company, who has been in its employ for over half a century.

He came to the business and entered the warehouse when a boy, and afterwards represented the firm in the Maritime Provinces. For twenty years he held the position which he occupied at the time of his death. He was well known in the cities where branches of the business exist, and his loss will be keenly felt, as he possessed many splendid qualities which were appreciated by those who came in contact with him socially or in connection with business.

Eight Lives Lost In Hotel Fire

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Montreal, Feb. 21.—Eight persons were burned to death in a small hotel at St. Kovist in the Laurentian Mountains last night from a fire, which started in an over-heated stove. A. Coupal, the proprietor, got out but lost his life when he went back for his purse containing five hundred dollars. His wife and children jumped into a snow bank and escaped. The other victims were shantymen employed in a woods nearby.

TO APPOINT PERMANENT SECRETARY IN DISTRICT

Work of Organizing Local Branch of Social Service Council Advanced Another Stage at Meeting Last Night.

A meeting was held in the Y. M. C. A. last night of the officially appointed representatives to organize a local branch of the Social Service Council in this city. Rev. A. J. Thomas presided in the absence of R. F. Downey, the temporary chairman of the executive.

Mr. Hughson Johnstone, the secretary, read the report of the meetings of the executive appointed last November. This was adopted, after which the chairman introduced Rev. Gilbert Agar, of Toronto, secretary and organizer of the Ontario branch of the Social Service Council.

In his address he gave a brief account of the recent Social Welfare Conference in Toronto, emphasizing that the business of the church should be interdenominational. The laity should strive to make the community as safe as the home.

To this end, the speaker pointed out, the necessity of the citizens of the country seeing to it that the churches and other organizations, no matter of what religious persuasion, unite to do what the churches have been neglecting in the past, namely, community work.

Rev. Mr. Agar emphasized the fact that the Social Service movement was interdenominational and should be representative and expressive of the conscience of the city and country at large.

A summary of the existing conditions in the city, according to the speaker, revealed menaces which are not apparent to the citizen who does not look beneath the surface. The greatest weakness in the past in connection with organizing for the combat of these has been the seeming inability of the forces for good, to get together.

He advised the appointment of a permanent secretary who would devote his entire time to the advancement of the work in a district extending from Ottawa to Toronto.

The opinion of the meeting favored Peterborough as the proper place in which to station such an official as it was the logical centre of the territory designated.

A motion prepared by J. J. Hartley with G. W. Powell as his seconder, was submitted and carried, recommending the adoption of the recommendations referred to above.

It was also decided that four vice-presidents be appointed, each of whom will have charge of a special branch of the work.

In answer to a question by Mrs James Kenry as to whether the Social Service work should be under the direction of the Ministerial Association or the laymen, Rev. W. H. White, rector of St. Luke's Church, and himself a member of the Ministerial Association, expressed the opinion that it was the field of the laity. The function of the clergymen of the city was to stir the minds of the laymen and it was their duty to take action for after all they are the real force of the country.

Officers elected were as follows:

Vice-president—A. B. Cunningham,

Secretary—Hughson Johnstone.

Treasurer—Frank Adams.

Vice-president Cunningham is to be in charge of the temperance department; Vice-president Dr. E. E. Harvey in charge of the health department; Vice-president Dr. J. Birnie to look after the child welfare portion of the work, and Vice-President J. J. Hartley in charge of the industrial department.

Rev. Dr. Brown suggested the advisability of creating an amusement department at once, an idea which met with the hearty approval of everyone present.

It was suggested at a conference in Toronto and the matter was brought to the attention of Vice-president Hartley that manufacturers give 25 per cent. of all profits over 7 per cent. to their employes in wages. It was felt that this would appease the industrial discontent which is at present so apparent.

It was decided that the president of the Ministerial Association should be the honorary president of the local branch of the Social Service Council, by virtue of his office. This year the Rev. J. A. McKenzie holds that position.

ALD. EDGAR CLAIMS CITY LIKELY TO LOSE MONEY ON COAL ORDERS

Upwards of $2,000 Sent to Scranton For Coal That Has Not Yet Been Delivered—Special Council Committee to Investigate

The new aldermen suffered quite a jolt last night when Alderman Edgar declared he had reason to believe the city stands to lose some $1,500 or $2,000 on the Fuel Transaction of Council's Fuel Committee. Some cars of coal ordered and paid for have not yet reached Peterborough, and he contended that the Fuel Committee should submit, without delay, to Council a comprehensive statement in this connection.

The Mayor replied that he had no report to make just now.

Ald. Edgar and McIntyre moved that a special committee be appointed to go thoroughly into the question of the Fuel Committee's coal transaction, and that all data in connection with the same be placed at this committee's disposal so that they can report the said situation to Council.

Ald. Morrison here wanted to know what Fuel Committee Ald. Edgar was referring to—this year's or last. He is, he said, a member of this year's committee and hoped no reflection was meant for him.

Ald. Edgar replied that it was last year's committee whose transactions he referred to.

His Worship here explained to Ald. Morrison that last year the city opened an account with a bank in Scranton, Penn., for the payment of coal negotiated for the city by Miss Cohen, a Scranton Company's Toronto agent. Some cars of coal collected for from the Scranton Bank have evidently gone astray or been confiscated, and the matter is in the City Solicitor's hands to straighten out. He has no doubt but what the question will be satisfactorily adjusted. "However," the Mayor concluded, "if you want an investigation go to it!"

The resolution was here carried, and the Special Committee for investigation are the Mayor, Ald. Hamilton, McIntyre and Gainey.

WIDOW'S ACTION FOR DOWER UP IN HIGH COURT

MRS. O'CONNOR SUED FOR DOWER IN ADDITION TO LEGACIES.

Evidence was heard yesterday in the action for dower brought by the widow of the late Stephen Henry O'Connor against the executors of the estate. Evidence given by the plaintiff went to show that her husband left an estate worth between $25,000.00 and $30,000.00 and that the benefits given to her under the will were so paltry that with them it would have been impossible for her to live and maintain her infant children. Further evidence elicited from her in her examination by her solicitor showed that she had no independent advice, aside from the advice given by the solicitors for the executors, and that when she commenced her action for dower about a year ago, payment of any estate moneys to her were stopped by the executors. It was further brought out in her evidence that her husband's real estate consisted of four or five parcels of land in the Townships of Ennismore and North Monaghan, and that in these properties she claimed her dower in addition to what was given her under her husband's will. The plaintiff also told of having transferred to the estate some $11,000.00 of insurance moneys.

In the evidence adduced in the afternoon it was shown for the executors of the estate, that they had from the time they took upon themselves the administration of the estate, always recognized that the widow could not maintain herself and her children on the benefits given her by the will, and being in sympathy with her, they at once took steps to obtain for her everything that they could within the strict limits to which they were confined by the terms of the will. The evidence showed that on the application made to the Courts, on behalf of maintenance for the infant children and the widow, that not only had they consented to the Court granting the request applied for, but that they also wished to have more maintenance allowed her than what was actually allowed, and that for the purpose of allowing her to live comfortably on the homestead they had obtained from the Court the right to leave her the use of the farm stock and implements. The evidence also showed that the executors had always recognized the conflicting interest of the widow in her personal capacity and as executor, and that they had suggested to her that she should seek independent advice, as to her personal rights in the estate.

In reference to the plaintiff's story that the maintenance money had been denied to her, when she brought her action for dower, the defence showed that Mr. Fitzgerald, one of the executors had offered to loan her such moneys that she might need to save her from financial embarrassment, and actually did loan her a considerable sum of money.

The defence to the action alleged by the defendants is that under the terms of the will, the widow is bound to elect between her dower and the benefits given her under the will and that having already elected to take what was given her under the will, she is now barred from claiming dower.

At the close of the evidence Sir Glenholme Falconbridge stated that he would receive argument of counsel in writing, and judgment was reserved until the argument has been submitted.

Mr. H. H. Davis, of Toronto, appeared for Mrs. O'Connor and Mr. J. R. Corbett for the executors.

WRECK AND RUIN FOLLOW IN WAKE OF SMUGGLING

THREE OCCUPANTS OF AUTO LOADED WITH LIQUOR KILLED AT DETROIT.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Detroit, Feb. 21.—The first fatalities incident to increased whiskey smuggling as a result of the Supreme Court's decision invalidating the search and seizure law occurred last night when an inter-urban train demolished an automobile at Wyandotte, near here, instantly killing three occupants. According to the police, the car was heavily laden with liquor supposed to have been brought into the state from Ohio. The liquor parade from Toledo grew to such proportions yesterday that the railways were forced to put extra cars on their trains. Reports from Monroe, near the state line, place the number of automobiles passing through there in 24 hours at 4,000. Of this number it was said about 100 have been wrecked.

THIRTY ARRESTS IN LIQUOR CASE

FEDERAL OFFICIALS ARE TRYING TO STOP SMUGGLING INTO MICHIGAN.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toledo, Ohio, Feb. 21.—The toll today of the Federal officials in their efforts to stamp out the smuggling of liquor to Michigan was thirty arrests and four barrels, 305 cases, 20 gunnysacks, 25 suit cases, 68 pugs and 150 bottles of whisky. Hundreds of Michigan visitors, unable to get home last night, spent the night here in doorways, in railway stations and in hotels.

FRENCH PREMIER HAS GOOD CHANCE FOR RECOVERY

SURGEON SAYS HE WILL SURVIVE IF NO COMPLICATIONS DEVELOPE.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Paris, Feb. 21.—"Premier Clemenceau is progressing as well as possible. We shall not feel altogether reassured for forty-eight hours, but then he will be out of danger," said Georges Mandel, Premier Clemenceau's Chief Clerk to Marcel Hutin, editor of the Echo De Paris, over the telephone at an early hour this morning. Clemenceau at that time was resting and inquiries, mostly by newspapers, desirous of some late news for their last editions, were informed that his condition continued satisfactory.

"The only possible danger," said the celebrated French surgeon who was consulted by the Matin, "and it is fortunately a very problematic one, is the appearance of local pulmonary congestion, caused by reaction. Such an eventuality has not developed and the robust constitution and the magnificent vigor of the tiger are against such complications. Let us then have every confidence. If by tomorrow night there is no temperature our confidence may be changed to an assurance of absolute recovery. Every day that passes without fever appearing, doubles the patient's chance.

In the meantime, however, the Peace Conference is to go on. It will meet this afternoon under the presidency of Robert Lansing, Secretary of State of the United States. France will be represented by Foreign Minister Pinchon and other delegates who know and are in sympathy with Clemenceau's views and opinions.

Still Satisfactory.

Premier Clemenceau's condition was satisfactory and unchanged at 9 o'clock this morning. The early forenoon apparently witnessed no change with the Premier. The report that came from his chamber at nine o'clock was that his condition was as satisfactory as possible under the circumstances.

DEFAULTER SENT TO PRISON FARM FOR TWO YEARS

Chas. P. Doherty, a merchant of Kinmount, was this afternoon sentenced by Police Magistrate Dumble to a term of two years less one day at the jail farm at Guelph when he pleaded guilty to having been a defaulter under the Military Service Act.

Doherty was arrested in his store at Kinmount on the afternoon of February 14 by Dominion policemen acting upon information of Inspector H. F. Ward. He appeared in the police court at Peterborough on the following day, and his case was remanded for six days.

This afternoon through his counsel, G. N. Gordon, Doherty pleaded guilty to the charge of having failed to report to the 1st Depot Battalion on March 29 when ordered to do so by the registrar.

Mr. Gordon made an eloquent appeal for clemency on behalf of his client, whose only excuse was that he had been writing to the registrar for an extension of leave at the time the order to report for duty reached him.

His Worship, in passing sentence, stated that he could not accept such an excuse. There were 500,000 Canadians who had gone overseas and fought for their country, many of whom had no doubt more valid reasons for not enlisting than had the defendant.

Russians Agree To Conference

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Feb. 21.—The Northern Russian Government, with headquarters at Archangel, has finally consented to a conference of Russian factions with the allied powers and the question of holding this conference will be reopened.

Premier Will Receive Colleagues

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Paris, Feb. 21.—Premier Clemenceau will receive his colleagues of the Supreme Court at his home this afternoon to discuss certain important matters with them. His doctors consider him out of danger and, therefore, authorized him to receive the Ministers. The physicians believe he can resume his political activities on Monday.

Presidential Race Is In Full Swing

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Warsaw, Feb. 21.—The campaign between Ignace Jan Paderewski and General Joseph Pilsudski for the presidency of the new republic of Poland is in full swing. Paderewski, although he is probably more popular with the people than his rival, is not having clear sailing by any means. Pilsudski's strength lies in his popularity with the army.

DENTIST IS TRAPPED.

Furnished Liquor to Detectives in Uniform.

Quebec, Feb. 21—George Gaillett, dentist at Point Gatineau, near Ottawa, was found guilty by a court-martial sitting at Quebec. He will be sentenced some time this week. Gaillett furnished liquor to two men in uniform, who turned out to be detectives of the militia setting traps for bootleggers in Quebec City.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

FRIDAY, [illegible]

THE GRENFELL MISSION.

THERE ARE MANY CALLS made on the charitable these days for help for the stricken allies of the Empire in Europe, the claims of which more directly appeal to them. Dearer home to the hearts of Canadians claim upon us, and in the great appeal [illegible] our own deserving poor must not be forgotten.

Peterborough has year after year generously contributed to the Grenfell Mission in Labrador. Money has been raised by the local papers every winter and turned over to Mrs. James Wood, the indefatigable treasurer, who never wearies in well doing. The appeal for funds has again been made, and the response, it is hoped, will be as prompt and hearty as ever.

The people of Labrador live in an inhospitable climate, and at the best of times the ship to win only a precarious existence. They are seldom more than a few days ahead of actual want. Help, [illegible] hospital and other medical [illegible] in the time of sickness, in fact, all the comforts that are to be found in a modern community. Their [illegible] with [illegible] unbearable.

Dr. Grenfell has devoted his life to the service of the inhabitants of Labrador. He is the model modern missionary, a skilled physician to look after the physical as well as the spiritual welfare of those whose care he assumes. He has proved tried, and found in every way worthy of the confidence the people of this district and in other parts of Canada have reposed in him.

Contributions to the Grenfell Mission may be left at either of the newspaper offices. They will be acknowledged and turned over to Mrs. Wood.

TIME WASTED BY PARLIAMENT.

PARLIAMENT HAS AGAIN taken up its work and the dreary routine of another session has begun. The [illegible] sameness of procedure is to be followed again. The speech from the Throne, outlining the Government's policy for the year, has been delivered.

Why not let it go at that, instead of spending days, and perhaps weeks, in discussing this document, which will be hailed by one side as the epitome of wisdom, the [illegible] hope for temporal salvation, and which will be assailed just as vigorously by the party in opposition. Finally, after a voluminous debate, the expected will happen. The address will be adopted and the Government, thus regarded as stamped with approval, will take up its regular duties.

The debate on the address really gets Parliament nowhere. The only purpose it serves is the rather dubious one of cumbering up the pages of Hansard with the reports of speeches that in many cases sound suspiciously like repetitions. All the matters dealt with in the address will come before the House subsequently for final disposition. Why not treat the address as the American Congress does the President's message, receive it, when read, and take up the different ideas which it contains for consideration as these matters arise in the regular business of the House?

But Parliament is all for precedent, even though valuable time is wasted and the public bored almost past the point of endurance. But the members of the opposing parties must have a preliminary bout, must spar for [illegible], for an opening.

MINISTERS AND LABOR.

THERE ARE, PERHAPS, no two classes in the community further apart than the ministers and the members of the Trades Council in the city. Just why this undesirable condition should exist is not apparent, although the root reason may be that each side fails to understand the aims and the activities of the other. It is [illegible] that many of the wage-earners regard the churches as the tools of the capitalistic classes, and the ministers as the champions of the latter. A more intimate relation between the two elements would go a long way towards dispelling what is really a delusion.

It is no wonder, indeed, that more than one of the local [illegible] should have New Year's visit to the church [illegible] of the Council strip coating hostility to the city [illegible], which most of the Labor chaps. They believed the latter might shame them into doing [illegible] that they would [illegible] the employer and his interests, endangered the rights of the common people. This antipathy has already been challenged. Somewhat to their surprise, the Labor aldermen have found that Aldermen Smith, Hamilton, Phelan, Edgar and the rest of them are all disposed to do the fair thing by everybody and are really working for the general welfare of the city, and not a favored class.

Out of this new [illegible] prevailed among Labor men that the local merchants of the city were giving the public a raw deal. Some of them were even suspected of wearing horns. Labor agitated for representation on the Fuel Commission, and H. H. Campbell, who got the appointment, brought back a report so highly commendatory of the methods of the dealers and the system under which their work was [illegible] that his fellow workers so [illegible] that he had been hypnotized that he resigned his office in high dudgeon. Then Alderman—at that time plain Mr.—Murray was appointed his successor and took up the duties with every expectation of a fight. Closer relations with the dealers resulted in a modification of the alderman's rather harsh previous opinion.

Ministers complain that the workingman as a rule does not go to church, and naturally regard that as a black mark against them. Why the wage-earners stay away from public worship has already been hinted at. A common clerical idea, too, is that the Labor men in [illegible] assembled are hatching up anarchistic and other schemes that threaten the peace of the community. That impression could easily be corrected by a more intimate knowledge of what really takes place at these gatherings. The ministers would probably be surprised to learn that the Labor men are working just as sanely and earnestly for the material benefit of humanity as the clergymen are for man's spiritual advancement.

It is unfortunate that the Trades Council rejected a proposition to have the Ministerial Association send delegates to that body, even if it was necessary to admit them only in an honorary capacity. Such a move would have made for a better understanding between the two classes, each of which have so much to learn concerning the other. Coming as they would to know the members of the ministerial profession at close range, Labor men, now outside the church, would change their ways and attend public services to hear the message of a man who rose in their respect on nearer acquaintance.

But the breach is still wide, a fact that is to be regretted. No two classes have aims quite so much in common after all. No two classes could accomplish more by unity of action.

THE CONTROL OF THE POLICE.

REGULARLY as the Spring equinox comes, the popular agitation for the taking of the control of the police departments from the hands of an independent commission appointed by provincial statute and turning it over to the City Council, putting it thus on the same basis as the fire brigade. This year the Trades Council has taken up the matter, and a communication setting forth the views of the delegates will be sent to the Royal Commission now sitting in Toronto and dealing with such matters, their findings to be laid before the Legislature.

One thing is certain—the people of Peterborough have no just cause to complain of the efficiency of the police force. The city is free from crime and criminals. Citizens are tolerably safe at any hour of the day or night, and the cost of the service is not excessive. Why should a man who is elected to office plume himself on his economy in the use of public money, as compared with the official who is merely appointed? Judge Hayden and Magistrate Dumble, both members of the police board, in the offices which make them eligible for places on the commission, are charged with graver duties than that of looking after the city's guardians, and no one questions either their fitness or integrity as judge or magistrate.

The police force of the city is really a provincial affair, managed by a central body at Toronto. It has been kept out of the field of local politics for the best of reasons and is likely to be so maintained.

It is true that the fire department is controlled to a great extent by the City Council, but the real head is the Provincial Fire Marshal in Toronto, who sees to it that the standard of efficiency is kept up, otherwise the Underwriters' Association will penalize the city in the form of higher insurance rates. But fire departments have been exploited by civic politicians before today, and the members of brigades made the victims, so many stepping stones by which the ambitious climb to higher place. Leave it to a vote of the freemen of Ontario, and beyond question they would prefer to have the management of the different brigades in the hands of an independent commission such as handles the police force. That matter has been discussed year after year at the annual sessions of the Firemen's Association, and the feeling in favor of a change is growing.

The agitation against the School Board as a body whose estimates should be subject to revision by the Council has already been revived. Such an idea is, however, likely to meet with little support from the present Council, the members of which appear to realize that the school trustees are in the same position as themselves, elected by and responsible to the people, and worthy of confidence as themselves in their handling of public money. The School Board is bound to keep the system up to a certain grade. Otherwise the city would forfeit the Government grant to schools. The City Council, however, can hew and hack estimates as they will without fear of any such penalty.

THE SHORT HOUR FALLACY

It will be observed that the labor problem all over the world, and particularly in Great Britain and this country, has taken the form of shorter hours for the worker. In view of the recent demands of labor, it need hardly be said that this means no but reduction in wages, but rather the reverse when measured by output. The British union demands a forty-four hour week but with the present fifty-five hour pay. This demand is typical of conditions at home.

It will not be denied that wages, and particularly unionized wages, during the war have been advanced to the breaking point. Given war freights for shipping and Government war prices, not merely for munitions, in the narrow sense of the term, but for the necessities of life, there wages were possible. Indeed they warranted heavy overtime payments, time and a half and even double time in many cases of munition factories working under stress.

There is no question that the worker's conditions is improved with a reasonable leisure, and it may also be said that he deteriorates mentally and physically with insufficient employment during the week. But at present he is obsessed with the idea of overtime, and it cannot start too soon to suit him. But the overtime is not forthcoming in any important department of employment, while yet indus-tries are simply incapable of running on the old wasteful war basis. They face, in fact, the alternative of reducing the wage bill in some way or another or of going out of business, temporarily at least.

And they must increase the product. Only in this way can the natural and indispensable growth in the nation's wealth be maintained, and if it is not so maintained unemployment, trade depression are the inevitable consequences. It is true that a worker under good sanitary conditions may produce more, of a better quality, in eight hours than in ten. But production is largely through machinery, and when the use of the machine is reduced from eight hours to six, its product is also reduced twenty-five per cent.

Shorter hours to make jobs for more workers would probably bring about industrial collapse faster than anything else. There is no wage fund to meet such a demand except by a radical all-round cut in wages, with a surplus of labor sufficiently large to insure that the worker shall do his utmost to increase production and thereby increase the national wealth, which is the only source of employment. This is a problem which must resolutely be faced, and it should not be asking too much to demand that the incoming Congress shall meet it with courage and intelligence. The business of the country can be depended upon to do its part.

SPIRITS DANCE ABOUT IN A CHICAGO COURT ROOM

But Judge Fails to See Them—Witness Holds Seance But Cannot Impress the Man on the Bench.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—Judge Frank R. Graham was dressed in an impressive robe of black. Above his head hovered a wreath of five white roses, and one yellow. About him stood five indeterminate spooks and one whose outlines definitely pronounced her to be an old woman. Among these spirits of the "larger life" he stood resolute and unflinching. Resolute and unflinching he remained while other spooks arrived to take their silent watch, while deeds and conditions arrived to stare him in the face, while spiritual rocks floated in the atmosphere and waves of comfort projected by Mrs. Janette Erion, spiritualist, battled with the rocks.

The scene was in Judge Graham's jury court room. To the ordinary observer it might have seemed perhaps unusually quiet. Otherwise, there was nothing extraordinary in the room but the majestic woman, well proportioned, in a black silk dress, who towered in the witness stand, and poured forth words of fire, which enlivened the atmosphere, and adorned the judge—in her eyes. At times perhaps some one in the audience stirred uneasily, something querulous appeared in the face of a woman who strove to chew her gum with the usually calm rhythm, a young man standing near the window shifted an uneasy foot.

Women Eager Spectators.

Twelve women, among them Mrs. Martha Wurts, 1762 Larrabee street, in whose defence Mrs. Erion demonstrated the realities of spiritualism, were seated in the second row among the spectators. With eager eyes and trembling lips they hung on the description of Mrs. Erion, president of the Arion Spiritualistic Society.

Elaborate preparations were made by Mrs. Erion before she would allow the court "to go into silence."

"I want no antagonism," she declared, "otherwise the conditions are fine."

She closed her eyes and arose from her chair.

"Let everybody stand," she said. The spectators obeyed. Mrs. Erion uttered a prayer. It ended:

"Peace, peace, peace——"

Peace settled upon the court room.

"Close the doors," came the next command.

Bailiffs Close Doors.

Bailiffs hastened to do so.

"Put your heels together."

Some hundreds of heels clicked.

An audible rustling was heard.

Hands were bared.

"Loosen your wraps and place your hands on your hips."

The audience followed directions with increasing interest.

At this stage of the proceedings Assistant City Prosecutor E. A. Ayres attempted to get out of the line of vision. As he reached the judge's chamber Mrs. Erion saw him.

"I want the prosecuting attorney right before me," she declared. "I like his magnetic personality within my range."

Blushingly the assistant prosecutor returned to his seat.

She Sees "New Trials."

Then Mrs. Erion, with uplifted eyes, besought the deities to enter "the homes that are the minds of the audience and cleanse them spiritually, casting all material thoughts from them."

From that moment on she seemed to cast all thought of the audience out of her mind.

Judge Graham accepted complacently all the roses, roses, spooks and so on with which she then verbally decorated him, but was a trifle disconcerted when Mrs. Erion declared after the literal fashion of the oracle of Delphi: "You have new trials coming——"

Frowning upon the smile, the court dared to show, Mrs. Erion said:

"You will be watched over, as always, by a little old, white-haired lady with a black bonnet. There are conditions confronting you, Judge Graham, that are even now causing you to wonder——"

It seemed as if the judge agreed. Majestically the demonstrator repeated: "Are even now causing you to wonder. But you are strong minded and will not yield to your perplexities——"

Mrs. Wurz was charged with obtaining 50 cents several times from Mrs. Ruth Smith, 118 East Erie St., for giving spirit messages from her husband, who is in overseas service. Mrs. Erion, founder and president of the Spiritualist Arion and Benevolent Society of America, was called as "expert witness" to give a spiritualist demonstration.

WIT AND WISDOM

He Believed in Following Orders.

He was a new but conscientious soldier on duty as sentry, one evening, at one of the national camps. As an officer appeared the "rookie" called "halt!"

The officer obeyed, but the sentry called again: "Halt!"

"See here," said the officer, I halted the first time!"

"Y; but the sergeant told us to say Halt!' three times and then fire."

Needless to say, the officer did not linger.

Changed in Transit.

One of the methods of communicating from one officer to another in the trenches is to give the message of one of the privates and tell him to "pass the word along" the line until it reaches its destination, viz., the officer at the other end. The following story will show how a serious message can be distorted on its journey from mouth to mouth:

Lieutenant A., in charge of one end of the British line, told a private in front to "pass the word along" to Lieutenant B.: "We are going to advance. Can you send us reinforcements?"

When Lieutenant B. received the message it was like this: "We are going to a dance. Can you send us three and four-pence?"

Different.

"Hello, Mose! Where you goin'?" asked the friend.

The Middleman Again.

A simple minded lumberjack from Minnesota at the front with our troops wrote a letter asking for $50, and addressed it to "The Good Lord, care of Y.M.C.A., France." His letter was so simple, direct and full of faith that the boys around the Y. M. C. A. camp decided to chip in and send him $25. He acknowledged the money with a heart full of thanks, but added this postscript:

P. S.—Good Lord: In case you send me any more money don't let it come through the Y.M.C.A., as the last time they held out $25.00 on me.

WHAT PROHIBITION MEANS.

(Philadelphia North American.)

It means a conservation of national wealth which within ten years will equal the colossal costs of the war. By ending a wasteful expenditure of $2,000,000,000 a year it will direct this sum to the satisfying demands for conservation and comforts of life, creating incomparably the greatest [illegible] market any legislation could bring to American industry. It will mobilize the man power of the nation, [illegible] the skill of the workman, giving America a substantial advantage over those countries which continue to carry the alcoholic burden. It will conserve vast stores of foodstuffs and other raw materials, ease the strain upon transportation, and a stupendous waste of fuel, and release scores of thousands of workers for productive employment. It will relieve industry and labor of a heavy load due to inefficiency, costly accidents and lost working time.

These are but suggestions of the economic benefits. In the social aspect the change will immeasurably reduce the evils of vice, crime, illiteracy, insanity, preventable disease and poverty.

LESSONS IN RIGHT LIVING

(By Dr. W. A. Brady.)

There are some harmless germs, as the lactic acid bacilli which produce the natural souring of milk. There are germs that fight an honest fight, as typhoid germs which invade the whole system, including the patient's blood. And finally there are germs that can't fight an honest fight, and these generally resort to poisons, just the Germans did.

The germ of tetanus (lockjaw) is such a germ. This bacillus, which is constantly present in the droppings from most domestic and many wild animals, will live for months or years in the soil. If a favorable opportunity presents, as a puncture or stratch or trifling abrasion or bruise of the victim's skin occurring in an accident in the street, garden, barn, the tetanus bacillus finds its way into the injured part. If the tissues have been crushed or torn or otherwise injured sufficiently to undergo local death, the tetanus bacillus can maintain itself. But if there is no dead or dying tissue in the wound, no foreign substance, and no other infection, the lockjaw germ can scarcely survive even after it has gained entrance.

But while the lockjaw germ is a poor fighting germ, it vies with the Germans themselves in producing poison. Indeed, the poison or toxin produced by the germ quickly spreads through the body and sometimes kills the patient after all the lockjaw germs have disappeared.

Another germ much like the Prussians is the bacillus of diphtheria. This germ seldom invades the blood or the general system, but merely gains a footing in the throat or the nose and from that base manufactures and pours into the blood stream its poison, the diphtheria toxin, which is the fatal element of diphtheria, and not the damage done in the throat.

Fortunately, medical science has antidotes for both the lockjaw and diphtheria poisons. In no instance, so far as the records show, has lockjaw developed as a complication of an injury when antitetanic serum has been administered within a few hours after the injury. And within a few hours after the injury. And as for diphtheria, the disease could scarcely prove fatal in any case if promptly recognized and treated with a sufficiently large dose of antidiphtheretic serum (antitoxin). Anything less than 10,000 units in the first dose for an infant or young child is scarcely justifiable; and as a rule the first dose should be two or three times as large—and then one dose will prove curative. Too much cannot be administered, and too little is often given.

Bran Biscuit.

"Once upon a time you gave a recipe for bran biscuit, which my sister tried, and she has been using them ever since with excellent results in her family. I wonder if I have the right recipe—she gave me a copy but somehow mine doesn't turn out well. It is as follows:

1 quart of wheat bran.
1 cup of seeded raisins.
1 cup of molasses.
1 teaspoonful of baking powder.
1 teaspoonful of salt.
½ teaspoonful of soda.

"Mix well, put batter in biscuit tins well greased and bake in a slow oven. If gas oven is used, light the burners after biscuits have been put in.

"Now, please tell me if there is anything wrong with the recipe, or is it that I am a no-account cook?

"MRS. V. C. G."

The recipe is all right except that it betrays a weakness in digenous to the kitchen of Mrs. Newlywed. You have left out one item—the flour. A trifle, of course, but if you will add one quart of white flour perhaps friend husband will cheer up again. Gosh, but the poor fellow has been paying dearly for his rashness! Sister was downright mean, that's all. Serve her some of her own kind when she comes to dine with you.

GIRLS! MOISTEN A CLOTH AND DRAW IT THROUGH HAIR

IT BECOMES BEAUTIFULLY SOFT, WAVY, ABUNDANT AND GLOSSY AT ONCE.

Surely try a "Danderine Hair Cleanse" if you wish to immediately double the beauty of your hair. Just moisten a cloth with Danderine and draw it carefully through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; this will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt or any excessive oil—in a few minutes you will be amazed. Your hair will be wavy, fluffy and abundant and possess an incomparable softness, lustre and luxuriance.

Besides beautifying the hair, one application of Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff, invigorates the scalp, stopping itching and falling hair.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

You can surely have pretty, soft, lustrous hair and lots of it if you will spend a few cents for a bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter and try it as directed.

Save your hair! Keep it looking charming and beautiful. You will say this was the best money you ever spent.

LIFE SAVING SCOUTS

Successful Tea Held Last Night for Their Benefit.

A very enjoyable evening was spent when the Life Saving Scouts of the Salvation Army met in the basement to hold a tea for the benefit of the troop. About 150 were present. After a few games were played ice cream and biscuits were served. A splendid supper was provided for the scouts and visitors. The evening was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem, and then the happy gathering returned home.

NEW LABOR PARTY WILL NOT TREAT WITH GRITS OR TORIES

President MacArthur Says It Will Be Independent in Spirit as Well as in Name and No Old Time Candidates Will Be Endorsed.

Mr. Peter MacArthur, President of the local branch of the Independent Labor Party, made it clear at an open meeting of that organization last night in the Labor Temple, that the party has not been organized to advance the political fortunes of any member of the old parties and that it will decline all offers to link up with either of the old political organizations. In spirit as well as in name the working men's party will be independent.

There was a good attendance at the meeting last night and twenty or more at the close of the meeting signed the roll as members. The speakers were J. McMurray, Jos. Begley and T. Toome, the secretary of the organization. The tenor of all the speeches was that nothing could be expected from the old parties and that a man elected on a regular ticket had no influence in securing labor legislation even if sympathetic for the cause of the workingmen. Mr. Begley read to the audience the following summary of what has been accomplished by the Labor Government at Queensland.

Do you know that in one of the countries of the British Empire a real Labor Government has been in office since 1915?

Do you know what that Government has done? It has:

Reduced prices, which rose 100 per cent. under Liberal Government in 1914-1915, almost to the pre-war level.

Nationalized the sugar industry and reduced sugar prices by 50 per cent. Set up state butchers' shops and reduced meat prices by over 50 per cent.

Started State Fisheries, broken the ring of fish dealers and reduced fish prices by 66 per cent.

Nationalized the timber industry, reduced prices and worked the industry at a profit to the people.

Set up a State Legal Department affording legal advice to the workers at nominal fees.

Developed State Banking and thus provided cheap credit and enabled houses to be built and let at low rents.

Opened up State coal mines, iron mines, iron and steel works, oil wells, etc., reduced prices and made a profit for the people.

Socialized the hospitals and driven out the curse of charity and pauperism.

Established widows' pensions for all widows and orphans, and carried out the endowment of mothers.

Executed public works by direct labor, thus eliminating the contractor and greatly reducing the cost.

Set aside land for returning soldiers and given them training on State farms at good rates of pay.

Made generous provision for disabled soldiers.

Resumed the ownership and use of much land which had been allowed to pass into the hands of profiteering combines, and worked the land for the benefit of the people.

Greatly increased the pay of all State employes, thereby causing a general rise in wages.

Been triumphantly returned to power at a second general election by a more than two to one majority.

At the next open meeting of the party two weeks hence the subject of a minimum wage of $5 a day will be discussed.

National Anthem Sung In Chicago

WHAT IS TRUE IN THAT CITY ALSO APPLIES IN CANADA.

(Daisy Braun in Chicago News.)

"The Star Spangled Banner" sung in a vaudeville show is just about as appropriate as the rendition of the doxology would be. The "patriotic" manager desires to put his audience in a sufficiently reverential attitude to appreciate his very irreverent offering to follow. Very likely, it will be a pair of comedians, so called, who will blaspheme womanhood, wifehood, motherhood and a few other ideals. What they leave untouched, some songstress of uncertain years (about whose lack of vocalization there is no uncertainty, however) will include in a risque, ribald ditty.

During the height of the agony of the war a man in a cafe attracted unpleasant attention by refusing to stand when the anthem was played. To the irate "patriotic" manager the man explained that he had been taught to revere the stars and stripes, but failed to find an occasion here. The chorus of strident music hall voices shouting "Oh say," with our country's emblem serving as a very inadequate covering for their nudity, did not impress him as in keeping with its sanctity.

A recent writer made a collection of the poetry of the civil war and this war and defined the main difference, that in the recent output the word patriot was conspicuously absent; in fact, that the word had been misused to such an extent that few cared to assume the title; what fell to their share men did, but prated not thereof.

Few of us have failed to appreciate the grandeur of it all With bared heads and listening eyes we have sung "The Star Spangled Banner" as a benediction to our boys going to the front. Just as jubilantly and triumphantly we wave the bonny flag to our heroes returning home. That is the anthem's proper place, not with mouths full of food or between vaudeville acts.

The intense strain preceding the armistice is past. Yet we are still alert. Eagerly straining our eyes, we gaze across the sea. Intently, passionately we are following every move of the man into whose care has been confided the supreme task of guiding our future as well as of keeping sacred the pledge of absolute disinterestedness with which this nation entered the war.

CARNIVAL AT MARK ST. RINK

LIST OF THOSE WHO WON PRIZES IN VARIOUS CLASSES.

The carnival held at Mark street rink last evening proved to be another success. There was a large attendance of contestants in the carnival and those who were there as skaters only.

Fancy Dressed Lady—Miss Freeburn.

Best Clown—Miss L. Myers.

Best Dressed Girl—Edith Jenkins.

Best Dressed Boy—Donald Miller.

Boys' Race—Leo O'Connell.

Girls Race—1st, Harry Nellis; 2nd, Jimmy McMartin.

The judges were Mr. Henry, Mr. Throop and Mr. Heryl.

VETERAN OF TWO WARS

Pte. McCullough Writes to a Friend in This City

Mr. Frank Rome, of 475 Sherbrooke street, has received a letter from Pte. George A. McCullough, who went overseas with the 93rd battalion and who has served in France with the Signal Corps, in the Transport branch and later with the artillery. Pte. McCullough is a veteran of the South African War and has come through all his soldiering career without injury.

With the letter Pte. McCullough sent a picture of a street scene in Bonn, Germany, showing a company of artillery of the allies, with Pte. McCullough among them, passing through the city.

Pte. McCullough is by this time probably on the ocean on his way home.

HOW THE FARMERS HAVE BEEN ORGANIZED IN THIS DISTRICT

East Peterborough Has One of the Strongest Branches of the U. F. O. in Ontario—Buying Supplies Direct.

The success of the farmers' candidate in Manatoulin, North Huron, and North Ontario and has drawn public attention to the rapidly increasing strength of the organized farmers in Ontario. This has led to questions being asked as to whether or not the farmers are as well organized in other constituencies, including those in Peterboro County, as they have been found to be through the results of the elections in these two ridings. One of the surprising features of the movement is the quiet way in which it has been spreading. For instance, during the past year some half dozen or more clubs have been formed in East Peterboro alone, where there are now hundreds of farmers who belong to the movement. There are clubs now at Warsaw, Douro, Lakefield, Indian River, Sixth Line of Ontonabee, Mather's Corners, South Dummer and a big club which is holding regular meetings in the city of Peterborough, and of which Mr. R. B. Roger is the president.

This club is organizing the farmers in all the sections around the city and promises soon to be the strongest club in the county. Recently a county organization was formed with Mr. E. N. Macdonald, of Warsaw, president, and Mr. Wallace Anderson, of Warsaw, vice-president. These clubs are buying thousands of dollars worth of supplies through the United Farmers' Co-operative Company, Limited, in Toronto, in which some of them hold stock, both as clubs and as individuals.

The East Peterboro farmers have been keenly interested in the election in North Ontario, where, because the issue was largely one between a farmer and a merchant, their sympathies naturally went out to the farmers' candidate and all the more so because there are only fifteen farmers in a Legislature of one hundred and twelve members.

The East Peterboro clubs have shipped about $100,000 worth of live-stock co-operatively during the past few months, to their own dealer in the Toronto Stock Yards.

CITY COUNCIL WILL NOW GET BUSY ON THE NEW HIGH-LEVEL BRIDGE

Delay Occasioned by Sickness of Chairman of Special Bridge Committee—City Fathers Express Intention to the Let Contract at an Early Date.

Ald. McIntyre arraigned Council last night, not excepting himself, for unwarrantable relay in making a start on the new high-level bridge. The chairman of the Bridge Committee, he said, should be here and engage in this matter. If more money is needed, then let us know it, and have a bylaw to that effect prepared and sent to the people.

The Mayor: "Ald. Phelan, chairman of the Bridge Committee, is sick. But I understand he can call a meeting of his committee for Monday or Tuesday of next week and report to Council the following Monday, when definite action can be taken."

Ald. Edgar: "If the chairman of the Bridge Committee cannot attend to his duties some one else should be intrusted with them."

Ald. Gainey remarked that he is every day, besieged with inquiries as to when work on the bridge is to be started.

Mayor Pledges Himself

His Worship promised that should Ald. Phelan not be able to give this matter immediate attention he himself would call a meeting of the committee in a day or two.

Ald. Murray sympathized with anyone sick, but contended that a sick man should not be permitted to hold up Peterborough. Hundreds of men, he said, are anxious for work, and Council should get busy in regard to the bridge.

Uncalled For.

Ald. Edgar and Garside moved that if Ald. Phelan is unable to call a meeting of the Bridge Committee the next two or three days, then the Mayor call one for not later than Monday, and if necessary, add another member to the committee.

Ald. Hamilton thought this resolution uncalled for, and asked the mover to withdraw it as His Worship had pledged himself to give his attention to the matter.

Ald. Morrison warmly concurred in this view.

The motion was put to a vote, Ald. Edgar declining to withdraw it.

PUT VETERAN ON PENSION BOARD

MAJOR CORESTINE HAS BEEN APPOINTED TO FILL VACANCY.

In the appointment of Major Stanley B. Corstine to fill the vacancy on the Board of Pensions Commissioners created by the resignation of Major T. L. Todd, the Government is to be congratulated on the wisdom of its choice. The Board of Pensions Commissioners is also fortunate in thus being able to add to its number one so eminently qualified to fill the vacant post.

Major Corinstine has occupied the position of Secretary to the Board since May, 1917, and in addition to the practical experience in the handling of pension problems, which he has thus gained, he has also a military record which places him high in the estimation of returned men who know him. He is a graduate of the Royal Military College, Kingston, and also attended McGill University.

Prior to going overseas, he held a commission in the 5th Royal Highlanders, Montreal, and volunteered for active service in September, 1914 Upon permission being granted to organize the 42nd Battalion, R.H.C., he was appointed Adjutant, which position he held through the period of organization. Before the battalion left for overseas he requested to be and was appointed to command a company.

Major Coristine proceeded with his battalion to France in October, 1915, remaining with it until June, 1916, when during the heavy fighting at Ypres, in the engagement popularly known amongst members of the C.E.F., as the "June Show," he was seriously wounded. After two months in hospital, he was returned to Canada and discharged in April, 1917, as being permanently unfit for further service at the front.

During his tenure of office as secretary Major Coristine has shown himself to be thoroughly capable of dealing with pension problems, and his practical qualifications he has thus acquired will prove invaluable to him in the discharge of his duties as a Pension Commissioner.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a Tablespoonful of Salts If Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lead and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

2-Platoon System For Peterborough

AND INCREASED SALARIES IN FIRE CHIER AND ENGINEER.

Ald. Morrison last night recommended to the city council in his Fire Water and Light report that the 2 platoon system in the fire hall and a consequent addition of four men be adopted and also that Fire Chief Grange's salary be increased $100 a year and that of the engineer $50 per annum.

Masonic Influence.

Ald. Murray objected to the proposed increases on the ground that both the chief and the engineer are being well paid and that conditions do not warrant any increases in salaries this year.

In the course of his opposition Ald. Murray insinuated that Masonic influence was responsible for the proposed increase in salaries.

This brought Ald. Morrison to his feet on a point of order. He took strong objection to Ald Murray's insinuations, and was sustained by His Worship.

Ald Garside thought the risks firemen took entitled them to the best possible consideration. He found no fault with the report at all.

The report was adopted and a bylaw confirming it subsequently adopted.

Fuel Commission Made Good Record

The Fuel commissioners retire from office, their service no longer being required by the public, with an excellent record for efficiency. There was considerable difficulty in securing citizens to accept appointment on the Board, not because such appointment was purely honory, but for the reason that the work was beset with all sorts of difficulties and the authority of the commission was not clearly defined.

Finally that undaunted trio, Joseph Wearing, Walter Stocker and Ald. Murray, consented to act. They found the situation serious. Over two thousand families in the city were without fuel of any kind and relief was extended them. There has been no such famine this winter as was feared early in the season and the last danger of anything of its kind has passed. The commission and the dealers acted in perfect harmony and the best was made of a situation that looked ominous last fall.

SCALE OF INCOME TAX

Contrary to the belief of many citizens of this city there have been no changes made in the income tax assessment. The present system is the same rules, although it is quite probable as was in effect last year. Non-house that a number of amendments will holders drawing salaries up to $600 be passed at this session of parlia- are exempt, all incomes over $600 being taxable. Householders are exempt up to 1,500, all over that amount being taxable. The rate of taxation is the same on the assessment as on real estate. In other words a householder drawing a salary of $1,800 with the city tax-rate 30 mills, would pay income tax of $9.

The CRESSMAN Emp. Limited

MR. BURNHAM'S HELP IN GETTING GRANT FROM GOV'T. APPRECIATED

City Council Tender Him Hearty Vote of Thanks For His Activities in Connection With the $50,000 Appropriation Toward New High-Level Bridge—Routine Business.

The City Fathers met in special session last night, when there were present Mayor Duncan, Aldermen Gainey, Morrison, Murray, Garside, J. J. Turner, Hamilton, Edgar and A. A. McIntyre.

Thanks to Mr. Burnham

Council unanimously passed a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Burnham, M. P., for his valued assistance in securing from the Government a grant of $50,000 for the new Hunter street bridge.

His Worship said that Mr. Burnham was in a large measure instrumental in having the matter switched from the Department of Public Works to that of Railways and Canals, and thus negotiating with a department from which an appropriation for this bridge could be consistently anticipated.

Repairs for Fire Engine

Fire Chief Grange reported that repairs are needed to the steam fire engine and that these repairs may run into $600—this was received for the time being.

Commissior. Released

Council agreed to a request from the Board of Fuel Commissioners that they be released from their duties and passed a motion to this effect.

Railway Turn-Table

R. W. Scott, Superintendent of the C. P. R. wrote that it is the company's intention to construct a turn-table in Peterborough and to do this it will be necessary to close Water street at the southerly limit of Dalhousie street. This matter was sent to the Railway Committee.

Good Roads

E. G. Patterson wrote, stating that as the Provincial Legislature is appropriating $25,000,000 for good roads he regretted that Peterborough is the only County in Ontario which is not taking advantage of this expenditure. Mr. Patterson suggested that the City Council meet the County Council with a view to agreeing to adopt the good roads policy and securing the Governments' proffered assistance where such desirable work is undertaken by any corporation.

This question was referred to the Board of Works.

Tender for Bridge

John O'Toole, of Ottawa, in view of recent modification in the plans for the Hunter Street bridge tendered to construct this work for $318,652. This went to the Board of Works.

Regulating the Market

A bylaw prohibiting tricksters from using the market hall or entrance thereto passed its several readings.

Garbage Collection

A bylaw fixing the rate for garbage collection and disposal at 9-10 of a mill passed its requisite readings.

Phone Increase

Ald Turner was named to represent the city in Ottawa today at the meeting of the Board of Railway Commissioners to hear appeals from municipalities against the Bell Telephone Co.'s increase in rates.

New Fire Team

On motion of Ald Gainey the chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee and His Worship were authorized to dispose of another team of horses belonging to the fire department, and to purchase a new team.

ANGLICANS PLAN PROGRAM FOR RECONSTRUCTION WORK

Raising of Funds For All Departments of Church Effort Reduced to a System—Plan Explained in Detail.

Beginning on Sunday last, the various Anglican churches of Peterborough have been making a special effort to place their finances on a better footing. It is felt strongly by the authorities that if the church is going to take its proper place in the great work of reconstruction, no time must be lost in putting things in order. Two phases of the work are receiving special emphasis, more information regarding the exact character of the work being carried on, and the absolute need of more adequate and more general financial support, if the work is to be prosecuted vigorously.

The various departments, such as missions, religious education, social service, and the proper care of retired clergy or their dependents, are being placed before the members of the church, not as isolated efforts but as related activities that are separated merely for purposes of administration. The total amount of money required for all these has been placed before the church throughout the entire diocese and has been divided among the various parishes on as equitable basis as could be devised mathematically. Each parish in turn is asked to add to the sum thus allotted to it the amount required for its local needs, and the result is its budget for all purposes for the year.

In order to secure the co-operation of all its members and to afford them a systematic method of assisting in the work, they are being called upon by committees of men and urged to contribute a definite amount each week through what is known as the duplex envelope, one end of which is for local purposes and the other for all outside purposes.

The addresses on Saturday last, the conferences with clergy and laymen in each of the individual parishes, the service of intercession on Monday, the addresses on the coming Sunday, and the mens' supper in St. John's school house on Monday evening next, are all parts of one program having for its objective the securing not merely of dollars and cents, but of more intelligent, more adequate and more systematic interest in and support of the whole program of the church's activities.

In the city of Toronto some thirty parishes are at the present time joining in a similar effort with striking success in several instances.

While the statement was frequently made during the course of the war that the church had failed, it needs to be kept in mind that the church on earth is a body of men and women, and that any failure that was revealed was on the part of men and women and not of the great truths that the church is intended to teach. It is well to remember, also, that no peace can be permanent that is based merely on mechanical devices. Peace to be permanent must depend upon character, and it is the work of the church to teach those great principles of purity, uprightness and unselfish service for humanity that alone can provide the necessary foundation for such character.

The Anglican Church is trying to make a definite contribution to this great objective, to prove worthy of its sons who gave their lives so freely in defence of these principles, and to assist those who have been spared in building up a Canada worthy of their sacrifice.

Sunday Meals In City Restaurants

RESTRICTIONS REMOVED BY CITY COUNCIL—NEW MEASURE NOW IN FORCE.

At the Council meeting last evening Ald. J. J. Turner, chairman of the Legal Committee reported and recommended that the bylaw restricting Sunday hours for restaurants be repealed. This report was unanimously adopted.

Ald. Edgar here explained that while, last year, he supported the resolution restricting the hours of restaurants on Sundays, his main objection was to the ice cream parlors operating on the Sabbath day. And unfortunately the present legislation does not discriminate between restaurants and purely ice cream and confectionery parlors. Hence the same license covers both places of business.

In the foregoing connection Ald. Edgar and Hamilton moved that the Premier of Ontario take steps to secure an amendment to the aforesaid Victuallers' Act which will permit of restaurants and ice cream and confectionery parlors being operated under separate and distinct licenses, so as to give Council more control over Sunday selling of ice cream, confections, etc., without restricting the hours of restaurants. Also that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Mr. G. A. Gillespie, M.P.P., and to at once.

the main towns and cities of Ontario asking such Muncipal Councils to adopt a similar resolution, and forward same to the Premier.

The resolution passed unanimously, and a by-law repealing that restricting Sunday hours of restaurants was subsequently adopted.

This news measure, which places restaurants on their old footing of a year or more ago comes into effect

WAR-SAVINGS Societies need leaders—organizers—men and women with initiative. Who will start a War-Savings Society? Who will lead the way?

War-Savings Societies Help Thousands To Save

War-Savings Societies have been, and are, a tremendous success in Great Britain. Thousands who were never able to save their money have accumulated Government certificates worth hundreds of dollars.

In the United States, millions of people are members of War-Savings Societies, which are organized in factories, offices, stores, farming communities, sections of towns and villages, schools, and clubs.

Everywhere throughout Canada, War-Savings Societies are in process of formation. Everyone who can save an occasional quarter should belong to a society; first, for his or her own direct benefit; second, because Canada can use the money to excellent advantage, as in the case of the War Loans.

For details of the organizing of War-Savings Societies and particulars regarding War-Savings Stamps or Thrift Stamps, address:

NATIONAL WAR-SAVINGS COMMITTEE
361 Richmond Street, London, Ont.
34 Toronto Street, Toronto, Ont.
Victoria Museum, Ottawa, Ont.

War-Savings Stamps are sold at $4.01 this month at Money-Order Post Offices, Banks and other places displaying this sign.

W-S-S

Thrift Stamps are sold at 25 cents each wherever War-Savings Stamps are sold and at many stores.

Ottawa Team Defeats Arenas

Ottawa, Feb. 21.—By a score of 4-3 the Ottawa Hockey Club's team defeated the Toronto Stanley Cup holders, in a fast game at the Arena last night, thus making them champions of the second section of the N. H. L. and qualifying for the play-off against Canadiens to decide which of the two teams shall go to the Coast to play for the worlds' honors.

Toronto put up another plucky struggle to defeat the Senators, but the visitors were completely outclassed, and after the first period they did not have a chance against the home team.

The game, although minus the excitement of previous exhibitions in the National League on the local ice, abounded with spectacular hockey, and was interesting all the way through. Though the Senators slipped on top speed from start to finish, and went far out in front they never let up in their terrific pace, while Toronto rallied at times and made the locals step to the limit.

P.C.I. Commencement Exercises To-Night

PRIZES TO BE AWARDED—PROGRAM OF A VARIED AND ENTERTAINING NATURE.

The public are cordially invited to attend the Peterborough Collegiate Institute Commencement exercises in the assembly hall this evening at 8 o'clock. Scholarships and other prizes will be presented, and an exceedingly entertaining program rendered. One of the most appropriate features of this function will be an address in memoriam of those brave students of the Institute who have given their lives in protection of Canada, the Empire and civilization in general. This will be Principal H. R. H. Kenner's contribution to the evening, and it goes without saying that his oratorical picture of what we owe to our unreturning brave will be both vivid and capable.

Love is blind, especially the kind known as self love.

Yes, I Intend To But Not Now

Have YOU any idea what that decision is costing you—even if you live? Of course, if you die the cost is much GREATER.

Read the following facts and then decide for yourself:

The premium you would pay for $1000 of insurance at age 60 WOULD BUY YOU nearly $4000 of insurance at age 21.

The premium you pay for $1000 of insurance at age 50 WOULD BUY YOU nearly $2500 at age 21.

The premium you pay for $1000 of insurance at age 35 WOULD BUY YOU $1440 at age 21.

Besides, while you may be insurable at age 21 you may not be insurable AT ANY PRICE at the other ages mentioned.

The one great fact that touches our lives is the verdict of NOW.

TOOK SHOES FROM CURLING RINK

Two youths of 17 and 18 years of age appeared in police court this morning and pleaded guilty to a charge of having each stolen a pair of boots from two of the curlers who took part in the recent bonspiel.

On Wednesday, Feb. 12th while the games were being played in Brock street rink the two boys entered the room in which some of the players had left their boots, preferring to use overshoes while on the ice, and after looking the lot over with a critical eye selected two of the best pairs, the property of A. J. Gould, of Bancroft and N. W. Rieve of Hastings.

What the two devotees of the roarin' game said and did when they shot the last stone and returned to the apartment where they had left their boots is not recorded but the matter was placed in the hands of the police and this morning as a result of their efforts the two culprits were brought to book for their action.

One of the boys who had destroyed the boots he had taken was fined $10.00 ,ordered to make restitution to the extent of $10.00 and the costs in connection with the case amounted to another $10.10. His father who had pleaded on his behalf paid the fine and saved the boy from an alternative sentence of imprisonment. The other offender was fined $20.00 and $10.10 costs and in default of payment will go to jail for 60 days. He was ordered to return the boots at once.

FOUNTAIN WAS JEALOUS

That Was Reason for Triple Tragedy at Niagara

Niagara Falls, Ont., Feb. 21.—The inquest held by Dr. McGarry, coroner, into the death of Mrs. Rose Fountain and her two children, three and five respectively ,who were murdered by Frederick Fountain, husband and father, as they lay in their beds, has been adjourned until tonight. Fountain, who slightly jabbed his own throat and wrist, was so far recovered that he may be able to attend the inquest. He is under guard at the hospital.

Two letters which the police found in the bedroom indicate the motive for the crime. In these letters written to James Greenwood, owner of the house, and to his mother, Mrs. Fred Fountain at Nassau, Bahamas, Fountain confesses to jealousy of a certain man whom he names. Other people in the house say there was no reason for this. Relatives of the dead woman declare Fountain was so jealous of her that he could not allow another man to talk to her. They also say that Fountain, who is dark in color was very sensitive on that score.

Peterborough Juniors were defeated in the local contest played with the Intermediates last night at the Brock street rink by a score of 14-4. The standing will give readers who did not see the game an excellent idea of what the play was like.

Comparatively little interest was shown in the match as there was nothing at stake and the city fans had seen both teams perform when they were in real fighting trim and working for something worth while. They had lost out in the O.H.A. series and nothing could revive interest among the greater portion of the hockey enthusiasts of the city.

Last night both teams took the ice with practically the same lines-up as they had played in the O.H.A. games except that Flowers was replaced in the Junior goal by Mick Murray.

Cherret scored for the Juniors three minutes after the play commenced and soon after Halpin brought down the puck and passed it to Evans, who scored for the Intermediates. Five minutes later Evans again found the nets and immediately after the faceoff Jackson made a dash for the Junior goal and passed to Evans who scored again. Two minutes passed and Lowe got the rubber and once again Beatty was on hand to receive it and send it past Murray's guard. The next score against the Juniors was made by Halpin after a short, sharp scrimmage close to the goal and just before the gong sounded Evans made a rush the length of the ice and tallied again for his team. The period ended 4-0 for the Intermediates.

Play in the second period had scarcely started before Schultz of the Intermediates was adorning the penalty box. Gerard made a nice rush and took an open shot on goal but was fluked out of a tally. Park aroused the interest of the spectators for a few minutes by showing a little speed in this period and scoring twice for the Juniors in close succession. Jackson made up for this however by duplicating Park's performance for his team and just before the end of the spasm, Halpin set the Intermediate counter up another notch. Gerard scored in this period but the goal was not counted as he was loafing at the time. The standing at this time was 9-3 for the big fellows.

Last night's match was a mournful procession which was relieved now and then by a few exhibitions of snappy individual work. Neither team played anything like the hockey which was shown in their former exhibitions here; they did not work and were languid in their movements.

In the first period the Junior nets were a real home for the puck but for all that several times during the play Murray made sensational stops notably in the second period when he fooled Evans out of what looked like a sure tally.

Schultz, the Intermediates' pondcrous defenceman, as is his habit, took the game in earnest and worked tirelessly. With his exception the men who claim the scoring honors can be said to have starred on both sides if there was any player who particularly distinguished himself.

It was felt by the fans that the Intermediates would beat the Juniors, though by a much narrower margin than what they got across. Neither team played the hockey they were capable of and in a good thing for them that their reputation was earned this year in several real matches, in which they got up a wonderful fight, for if their good name depended upon the brand of spectacle presented last night, they would be out of luck entirely.

Extra End Needed To Down Peterboro

Toronto, Feb. 21.—(By Canadian Press.)—Collingwood won the final of the Governor-General's Trophy at Queen City rink yesterday afternoon by defeating Belleville in the final with a margin of 19 shots, the score being 42 to 39. All of the players were tired out at the end of the struggle, for they had hard games in the morning in the semi-finals, Collingwood having to go into an extra end to win from Peterborough. The ice was very heavy also. The cup was presented by Secretary G. S. Dearey in the absence of the president, and accepted by E. C. Prentice, president of the Collingwood, and he made a suitable reply. The scores:

Semi-finals.

Collingwood.		Peterborough.
W. Fryer	19	W. Lang	18
H. Wynes	20	R. Hicks	15
Total	39	Total	33

Majority for Collingwood, 6 shots in extra end.

Paris.		Belleville.
Carson	16	W. Belkir	18
Tate	13	R. J. Wray	17
Total	29	Total	32

Majority for Belleville, 3 shots.

Dates Arranged For Senior Finals

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, Feb. 21.—The Senior O. H. A. finals will be played during the week of March 3rd, it was announced by Secretary W. A. Hewitt this morning. The first game will be on Tuesday, March 4th, and the second on Friday, 7th, or Saturday, 8th. If one of the Toronto teams is in the running at latter date will be chosen. Kitchener and St. Patricks, who are tied for group honors, will play off at the Arena Saturday, March 1st, the winners to meet the survivors of Hamilton-Dental series. The Manitoba Selkirks, one Montreal team and Thunder Bay have each challenged for the Allan cup now held by the O. H. A.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Mr. R. Gliddon, musical director of the Peterborough Conservatory of Music, is in Toronto, a guest at the banquet given to Dr. Dann, Dean of the Musical Faculty of Cornell University. Dr. Dann will give an address on "Schools and Music Credits," to representative musicians of the province.

Mr. Archie Laing, Erindale Farm, is in the city, owing to the death of his mother, Mrs. Robert Laing, Montreal, and whose funeral will be held tomorrow from St. Paul's Church.

Lieut. J. Fordyce A. Strickland is acting County Crown Attorney during the absence of Mr. G. W. Hatton who has gone to the coast for a few weeks.

Mr. G. W. Hatton left today for a trip to the coast.

Mr. Ed. Hanrahan, one of Peterborough's most popular soloists, left today for Montreal where he will take up his permanent residence and where his friends here are convinced he will made his work in the musical life of the Quebec metropolis.

At the exhibition of painting in the Public Library building tonight the hostesses will be Mrs. A. Stevenson and Mrs. Pretty and on Saturday afternoon Mrs. Gliddon and Mrs. Fee senden.

OBITUARY

MRS. ROBERT LAING

Mrs. Robert Laing, who before her marriage was Miss Elizabeth Stewart died at her home in Montreal last night from the effects of a paralytic stroke which she suffered about a week ago. She was in her 68th year.

The late Mrs. Laing is survived by her husband and eight sons, all of the latter having been born in this city where the family formerly resided. The sons are Arthur, Terrance; Kerwood and Ross, of Montreal; Chester, of Chicago; Archie, who owns a farm at Erindale in Peel County; James of Hamilton, and Savigney, who went to the war with a Montreal battery and who is still overseas.

Eight years ago the family, who resided on Water street, went to Montreal. The deceased will be mourned by a large circle of friends and relatives in this city where she was so long and favorably known.

The remains will be brought to this city for interment in Little Lake cemetery, reaching here tomorrow morning. Funeral services will be conducted at St. Paul's Church, of which the late Mrs. Laing was a member while residing here, at 3.30 o'clock, by Rev. R. Pogue.

MAXWELL HERITY

Belleville, Feb. 21.—Maxwell Herity, one of Belleville's brightest and cleverest young men passed away Wednesday night in his 19th year. Deceased was the eldest son of the late Frederick Herity, who died 11 years ago yesterday. Maxwell was a graduate of Belleville Public and High school, and in athletics won the junior, intermediate and senior championship for three consecutive years. He was a leader in the Cadet and Boy Scout movement in the Boys' Conference and Y.M.C.A. work Mr. J. O Herity, proprietor of the Ontario newspaper, is an uncle of deceased.

REV. G. M. MEACHAM

Rev. Geo. M. Meacham died in Toronto yesterday in his 86th year. Deceased was born near Belleville, Ont., and was a son of the late J. H. Meacham, postmaster of Belleville. He was educated at Upper Canada College and Victoria University, Cobourg, receiving his B.A. in 1860, M.A. in 1872 and D.D. in 1883. He was ordained in 1856 and filled some important pasterates.

OWEN D. BAKER

Mr. Owen D. Baker passed away this morning at his home, 635 Union street.

The late Mr. Baker was born in Birmingham, England, in 1833 and came to Canada in 1877. His wife predeceased him thirty-two years ago.

There are left to mourn his loss one son and one daughter, W. H. Baker, city, and Mrs. John Jenkinson, Union Street. One son Herbert F. Baker, was killed in France.

The funeral will be held tomorrow at 3.30. Service will be conducted by Rev. Canon Davidson.

DIED

LAING—At Montreal, on Thursday, February 20th, 1919, Elizabeth Stewart, aged 68 years, beloved wife of Robert Laing.

Funeral tomorrow afternoon, February 22nd, at 3.30 o'clock from St. Paul's Church. Interment in Little Lake Cemetery.

President's Remarks

The President in her remarks gave an outline of the past year's work and recommended some for the future. She also asked the members' support for the Social Service Council being formed here and also spoke re women's franchise as well as rooming house and immigration problems.

Prohibition Movement

A communication was read from D. B. Harkness, general secretary of the Dominion Prohibition Committee, asking that the members of the Council of Women put their personal influence behind the prohibition movement and to consider authorizing that a resolution or letter be sent to the local Federal member and to Sir Thomas White, Acting Prime Minister, as to the stand taken by the Council. This request was acceded to.

Playgrounds Committee

In the reports from the different committees, the convenor of the Playgrounds committee reported that almost $200 had been realized by the sale of paper and rags which had been handed over to the Playgrounds Association for their work.

Secretary's Report

I beg to present the report of the Peterborough Local Council of Women for the year 1918-19 as follows:

The first work undertaken was to launch a campaign for the conservation and production of food. A Deputation waited on the Board of Education to enlist its support, which was promised. The Horticultural Society offered seeds for distribution among children having gardens. A garden committee was formed to list the available vacant lots in the city and also to enlist the help of any girls who were willing to work. The problem of providing help for market gardeners was also dealt with. A representative from the Council visited as many meetings as possible throughout the city giving a short talk on the food situation. In this way many people were reached who otherwise might not have been interested. The Agricultural Society offered prizes for produce grown under the supervision of the Local Council. (As a result there were a great many exhibits at the annual exhibition.)

In February Miss Hatton as our representative attended the annual convention for the care of the feeble minded held in Toronto and at the march meeting gave a very interesting report.

Owing to the President's inability to be present, Mrs. Morris represented the Local Council at the National Executive meeting held in Ottawa March 20-22.

At the March meeting, it was decided to arrange for a Lyceum course for the coming winter. Mrs. Becker was present on this occasion and spoke in the interests of women's century.

A very instructive series of papers was read at the monthly meetings by Mrs. Morris, Mrs. Boucher and Miss Lancaster on Citizenship. Later Mrs. Mowat began similar ones on Immigration. It was continued by Miss Lancaster and next year we shall hear more on the same subject by Miss Parker and others.

In response to a resolution sent by the Y.M.C.A. Mothers' Club, the Council decided to have two representatives at the police court every time a woman or girl was on trial. This was done in each case, where notice was given. Mrs. McElhiney spoke to the Council as to the great necessity for such action. In compliance wit an request from the National Council, a largely attended service of prayer and intercession was held on Saturday March 30th in Murray street church.

As it was impossible to obtain carnations, the sale on Mother's Day in aid of the Supervised Playgrounds Fund, had to be discontinued.

In June when the National Executive met at Brantford, Mrs. Harstone, Mrs. Morris and Mrs. Matthews, were our representatives, very interesting reports were given on heir return at the June meeting.

No meetings were held during July and August and the influenza epidemic prevented us having one in October. During the time the Council as a unit was unable to give very little assistance in relief, but individually, splendid work was done. Efforts during this time were being made to sell tickets for the Lyceum course with excellent results.

In December the Council endorsed the candidature of Mrs. Morris for the Board of Education. Unfortunately this venture was not successful, but all are hoping that next year's results will be different.

When the National Executive met in Kingston in January our President attended and at the monthly meeting gave a very complete report.

In response to a communication from Mrs. Hannington, Chief Superintendent of the Victorian Order of Nurses, the Council agreed to lend its co-operation and to assist Miss Gibbon any way during her proposed visit in the city.

Three of the Lyceum attractions have been given with satisfaction to the subscribers. Ex-President Taft was particularly enjoyable and it was considered a great privilege to entertain such a distinguished guest.

Owing to Mrs. McElhiney leaving the city, the position of Police Matron became vacant, The Local Council asked that they be allowed to recommend someone to fill the place. Mrs. Buntom has since been appointed.

Respectfully submitted,
KATHLEEN B. P. JAMIESON,
Cor.-Sec.

GERMANS HAD STRONGER FORCE AT JUTLAND FIGHT

But Result of Famous Naval Battle Showed They Were no Match For the British.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Feb. 22.—There is no reason to doubt the substantial accuracy of the German official account of the losses suffered by the German fleet in the Jutland naval battle, May 31, 1916. It is learned officially by Reuters, the German figures published June 16, 1916, showed that the casualties to the fleet's personnel were officers, killed or missing 172, wounded 41, other ranks killed or missing 2,414, wounded 440, total 3,075. Among the German battleships or battle cruisers one was sunk, one beached, five put out of action but repaired months afterward. Four light cruisers and five torpedo boats were sunk and many put out of action.

A complete record of the British forces engaged in the battle shows 24 dreadnoughts, 8 battle cruisers, 18 light cruisers and 78 destroyers. The German force included 21 battle ships ,sixteen cruisers, 77 destroyers. It is clearly established ,however, that of the ships which actually came into action preponderance of force was held by Germans.

Quebec Members Rule The Roost

THEY WILL HAVE REAL SAY IN APPOINTING HOUSE LEADER

Ottawa, Feb. 22. — With Parliament adjourned until Tuesday and the city crowded with politicians and public men from end to end of Canada to attend the funeral of Sir Wilfrid Laurier today, the Capital is abuzz with gossip. At the Chateau Laurier and the Victoria Museum groups of rival Liberals can be found in every corner discussing the political situation and the question of leader as a successor to Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

The boom for Hon. W. S. Fielding has somewhat collapsed since the arrival of the Quebec members. They object to any man who was not an out and out Laurier supporter last election. Fielding, of course, was elected as a Unionist, Sir Robert Borden arranging for him an acclamation. All last session he occupied the neutral cross benches and he held the same place on Thursday. They are afraid that as leader he would take somewhat the same position of neutrality and would be unaggressive.

The friends of Hon. Geo. P. Graham are busy pressing his claims. It is true that Mr. Graham flirted last election with both sides and was so long making up his mind as to his attitude that he was not even a candidate. On the other hand, when the election was in progress he supported Laurier candidates. His position on bilingualism has always made him popular with Quebec members and apparently they were prepared to accept him. If he was in the House he would be elected. To choose a House leader who is not in the Commons seems absurd. His friends seem to be under the impression that the Government, to oblige the Opposition, might call the Quebec East election immediately.

There are rumors that there may be a big surprise, as a matter of fact, the Opposition are at sixes and sevens and anything may happen at the caucus which will be held Monday morning. The Quebec members control the situation, and they will select a leader who best mees their views. It seems to be taken for granted that it will be an English Protestant, but there is talk now of Hon. Dr. Beland.

Statistics show the real defaulters in Quebec to number only about 12 per cent.

MURDER OF PREMIER CAUSES RIOT

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Fb. 22.—A communist revolt broke out in Budapest Thursday night, says a despatch from Zurich.

Troubles in Munich took a still more serious turn yesterday afternoon, according to a Copenhagen despatch. Church bells began ringing, ten thousand workmen from the suburbs marched into the centre of the city and a short time later violent firing was heard. The mob is reported to have begun plundering shops. Bavarian Minister of Interior Auer still was alive last night. He is desperately wounded, however, the bullet having grazed his heart. The assassination of Kurt Eisner, the Bavarian Premier, caused a tremendous riot. The streets adjacent to the Parliamentary buildings were thronged with crowds during the day and the chamber, where Diet was in session; was invaded by a mob.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE SOLD TO A. J. SMALL OF TORONTO

Manager Webber F. Turner Closed the Deal Yesterday—New Proprietor to Take Possession on March 1.

W. F. Turner of the firm of J. J. Turner and Sons was in Toronto yesterday and closed a deal for the sale of the Grand Opera House of this city to Ambrose J. Small, the well-known threatre owner of the Queen City. The new proprietor will take possession on March 1st.

Mr. Small has acted for many years as the booking agent of the local Opera House and is the proprietor of the Grand Theatre, Toronto, the Grand of London, the Grand of Kingston and and the Russell Theatre of Ottawa. In addition to this Mr. Small is the booking agent for play houses in nearly all the cities and towns of the Province.

He is the Canadian representative of Claw and Erlsinger, the theatrical magnates of New York and theatregoers of Peterborough may rest assured that the high standard upon which the Grand Opera House has been maintained in the past will be continued under the new order of things.

The staff of the theatre will be retained as it is at present except that Mr. Webber Turner will retire as manager.

Thirteen years ago the Grand Opera House was built by Mr. Rupert Bradburn. A year later it was purchased by J. J. Turner and Sons, who have conducted it ever since.

It is one of the best appointed theatres in the Dominion of Canada and has received a splendid name from the theatrical companies which have toured the country. Its interior furnishings are well chosen and the decorations tasteful in the extreme as regards form and collor effect. It has been justly considered one of the most complete play houses in the Dominion and visiting companies have commended highly the accommodation afforded them.

Courtesy has been the watch word of the management of the Grand Opera House throughout the years and this coupled with efficiency has placed the theatre upon a high standard of which may be maintained but can scarcely be surpassed.

Mr. Webber Turner while in charge has been a live-wire manager and has obtined for Peterborough some of the finest and most artistic attractions to be had. Companies which have touched only the larger metropolisis of the country have acceded to his representations and have visited the city, giving the people an opportunity of seeing attractions and hearing great musical artists which they could not otherwise have enjoyed without visiting Toronto.

Efficient stage hands and office staff have drawn forth the commendation of the visiting companies and it is a satisfaction to the people of the city to know that these will be retained after March 1st, according to present intentions.

Mr. Turner, as is to be expected of one who knows the business, has understood the value of rational advertising and has never failed to take advantage of every reasonable channel to bring the desirable features of the attractions at the Grand before the public. Organiztions which have used the house as a place in which to hold attractions have realized this and have in most cases left advertising matters to his judgment.

Under J. J. Turner and Sons the Grand Opera House has proved a success, financially, and the only reason for disposing of the establishment is the continued growth of their other business which is claiming more and more attention as the years pass on.

At present almost the entire time of Mr. Webber Turner is occupied in matters connected with the conduct of the theatre, which has been open constantly for the past year. As he feels that the parent business demands his attention on account of its constant growth and in view of the fact that in the near future it is to be materially extended there was no other course open but to dispose of the Grand Opera House.

During the year just ended the Grand has done the record business of its history. In this time most of the leading theatrical companies of the country have appeared upon its stage. A motion picture program which is second to none in any of the smaller cities of the country has been maintained and has drawn the large and constant attendance it deserved.

In disposing of the business to Ambrose J. Small, of Toronto, the Turners have chosen a buyer who will conduct the theatre upon the same high standard as has characterized its management in the past.

Those acquinted with the excellent service maintained by the Small circuit in other cities will feel assured that under the new order of things all will still be well. The performances in the Grand of Toronto and the Russel of Ottawa are of an excellent character and while of the most attractive nature contain nothing which could possibly be construed as offensive by the most fastidious.

Both of these play houses and the minor ones controlled by the Toronto magnate enjoy a long established reputation for respectability, and although the Grand Opera House will in the near future pass out of the hands of the well-known Peterborough business men who have so long controlled it all classes of the city can look forward without perturbation to a continuance of its good record maintained in the past.

MET IN NEW HALL

Corinthian Lodge A.F. & A.M., held their first regular meeting in the new Masonic Hall last night. At the close of the routinary proceedings a very pleasant social hour was spent and refreshments served. The first meeting was most auspicious in its character and there was a record attendance.

There is a surplus of fish throughout the Dominion.

CAPT. J. H. BURNHAM'S MINIMUM WAGE BOARD.

Ottawa, Feb. 22. — That a Minimum Wage Board be established in connection with the Department of Labor and that a living cost should be set by such board and maintained throughout Canada and no lower rate of remuneration be permitted, no matter how cheap labor or labor's products might be elsewhere, is the gist of a resolution to be proposed by J. H. Burnham (Peterborough) when the House goes into session.

LARGEST, NOBLEST FUNERAL THAT CANADA HAS EVER SEEN

MILLION MEN IDLE IN GERMANY

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Berlin, Feb. 22. — German troops defending the Posen front against the Poles at Birnbaum have addressed a communication to National Assemblyman Ohler protesting against an official order to evacuate the territory held by them in accordance with the conditions law down by Marshal Foch, in which the line of demarcation between the Germans and Poles was defined.

The National Ministry of Economic Demobilization estimates the number of unemployed men in Germany at present to be one million. It is declared that the extent to which the war lessened men's desire to work must not be under-estimated. One officer is quoted as saying, "We have lost the war as thoroughly as it could have been lost, but it is time to quit complaining. Let us grin and bear it."

DELEGATES FOR OTTAWA TO CONFER WITH THE CABINET

C. G. E. Offers to Build Marine Engines at Actual Cost in Order to Keep Their Men Employed.

The C. G. E. Company of this city in order to keep their hands employed have generously offered to take up a new line and to manufacture at actual cost engines required to equip the ships that the Government is building in the Vancouver yards. The company's plant is running on short time and men are being laid off almost every day for lack of orders. The worst feature of the situation is that so many of the old employes are leaving town in the hope of finding work elsewhere. Conditions in other cities in these particular lines are as bad as they are in Peterborough, and the men who leave the city are simply spending money for nothing.

It has been decided to send a delegation to Ottawa to interview Hon. Mr. Ballantyne, the Minister of Marine, with regard to this matter, and the expense of the trip will be borne by the company, who are actuated in this matter solely by a desire to benefit their employes. The delegation will consist of Mayor Duncan and one alderman, two members of the Machinists' Union, two from the G. W. V. A., and President A. J. Bolwell and Secretary William Stevens from the Trades and Labor Council. The delegates will start for Ottawa tomorrow night and will return on Monday. A conference with the Minister of Marine and other members of the Cabinet has been arranged for Monday morning.

Secretary Stevens of the Trades Council met the Machinists' Union last night to talk over the arrangements. The delegates to represent that union and the G. W. V. A. will be selected today.

This incident is regarded as one of the most pleasing examples of the better relations that are being established between Capital and Labor and is taken as a recognition of the increasing influence of organized workers.

CASE WAS REMANDED

Edward Murphy, Kirkfield, Charged With Being Defaulter

Edward Murphy of Kirkfield, who was arrested at his home recently by officers of the Dominion Police acting upon information laid by Inspector H. F. Ward, charged with having been a defaulter under the Military Service Act appeared before the Police Magistrate this morning charged with having been a defaulter under the Military Service Act appeared before the Police Magistrate this morning and pleaded guilty to the accusation.

He was ordered to report to the 1st Depot Battalion at Kingston on May 15th, 1918, and refused to obey the summons of the deputy registrar.

Mr. Fordyce Strickland acting for the Crown, asked for a remand of the case until such time as the fat arrived from the Department of Justice at Ottawa and the magistrate acceded to his request setting Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock as the time for resumption of the proceedings.

SENATOR SCORES PEACE LEAGUE

NEVADA MAN SAYS IT WOULD SIDETRACK THE UNITED STATES.

Washington, Feb. 22. — Senator Borah delivered to the Senate and the country an appeal to let "America first" remain the dominant national doctrine. In a speech in the Senate, Borah, discussing the League of Nations plan, said:

That before it is ratified by the Senate it should be submitted to a vote of all the people.

That it marks the end of the Monroe Doctrine and Washington's teachings against embroilment in European affairs.

That it puts England far ahead of the United States as a world power by giving her and her colonial possessions six votes to America's one in the League's council.

That the League constitution was the biggest triumph of British diplomacy in three hundred years.

That it is the first step in "sterilization of nationalism and the birth of internationalism.

"Let us inscribe 'loyalty to America' upon our banner," said Borah, in an impassioned plea for Americanism. "Let us be true to ourselves first of all, and it follows that we cannot then be false to anyone."

CONGRESS ON WHEAT BILL.

Washington, Feb. 22.—The wheat guarantee bill, giving the President authority to appoint the necessary agencies for purchasing the 1919 wheat at the guaranteed price of $2.26 a bushel and disposing of it at the price determined by the law of supply and demand, was taken up by the House, with an agreement for general debate of five hours.

Remains of Sir Wilfrid Laurier Laid at Rest Today With Imposing Ceremony.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—Canada's Capital today honored its great dead in worthy fashion. There was tremendous dignity and solemnity in the funeral cortege of the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier, which formed a fitting climax to a life which would have been noble in any of the great nations of the world, ancient or modern. This dignity made itself manifest not so much in the formal arrangements which had been made for the state funeral, but in the grand spontaneity with which people flocked in thousands to pay their last tribute. Unquestionably this was the largest funeral, the grandest and noblest, that Canada has ever seen.

Soon after 9 o'clock great numbers of the spectators has assembled along the line of route, taking advantage of every position which would give them an unobstructed view. The city had filled with visitors as if by magic overnight. Special trains were running from distant points and at times congesting the large railway station.

Promptly at 10 o'clock arrangements for the departure of the cortege were completed, despite the complexity of having to make up a procession composed of horse-drawn sleighs, for the streets in Ottawa are deep in snow, and of scores of dignitaries of state, national societies, returned soldiers, and political bodies, closing with a vast, unclassified stream of simple citizens from nearly all parts of the Dominion, the Governor-General and staff, Gen. Gwatkin, representing H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught, Lieutenant-Governor Hendrie, archbishops and bishops, members of the Cabinet, the speaker of the Senate and senators, and the speakers and members of the House of Commons, with whom the members of the Parliamentary press gallery walked. Prominent gentlemen acted as honorary pallbearers.

In the sanctuary were several archbishops and bishops and representatives of all religions communities. A touching requiem mass composed by Abbe Perosi was rendered by the choir, and at the conclusion eloquent eulogies of the dead were pronounced in French by Archbishop Mathieu of Regina and in English by Rev. Fr. John Burke, Paulist of Toronto, son of the late Mr. Denis Burke, Ottawa.

After final absolution the body was taken to its last resting place in Notre Dame Cemetery. At the grave last rites were performed by Father Lajeune of the Juniorate of Sacred Heart.

Five Veterans To Arrive Tonight

FITZPATRICK EXPENSES

Question May Be Forced on Commons' Attention

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—Although Sir Charles Fitzpatrick is no longer Chief Justice of Canada, the question of the repayment to the Treasury of the five thousand dollars which he was voted as expenses to attend the Imperial Privy Council and which was retained by him, although not going will not be allowed to drop. Several members have announced their intentions of bringing up the subject and of forcing a vote in the House.

WORK ON THE NEW BRIDGE.

THE ALDERMEN show that they are alive to their duties and responsibilities when they talk of beginning work on the Hunter street bridge at the earliest possible moment. There is to be no more time wasted in discussion. Numbers of men are out of work, and employment must be found for them.

If it has likely proved, however, that very little can be accomplished before the coming of spring weather? Seventy-five per cent. of the men used of work have been used to indoor employment, and to offer them an outside job in stormy weather may be fair neither to them nor to the city. How many men could, for example, be induced to work at this season in tearing down the present structure from the Otonabee?

The city and country have come through more serious financial and industrial depressions than the present, and the cities still survives. There is really no cause for alarm. The stagnation of today is a natural sequence of the war. Prospects are not so gloomy as some appear to imagine. With the coming of spring there will be work enough and to spare. The railways will provide employment for thousands of men on the repair and extension work that has been neglected for the past four years. Millions of public funds are to be expended on public works, including the construction of good roads. In no other way can the Government find work for the masses. But, unfortunately, this is a class of work that cannot be undertaken in any numbers at once. If the people can manage for the next two months, all this talk of hard times will be silenced.

MISSION WORK AT HOME.

THE REPORT of Chief Thompson for the year 1918, completed as it is in every detail, shows that all religious denomination in the city was represented by those who that year fell into the hands of the police for various offences, from infraction of the speed or traffic laws to the commission of theft. In the Chief's category as printed, no single denomination has the right to plume itself upon its righteousness. Representatives of all of them have sinned and suffered. If any one cares to take trouble to figure out the problem, it will probably be found that the number of arrests was in proportion to the relative number of each denomination.

It is not, however, to be supposed that the prisoners at the police station who have been religiously classified by the Chief were members in good standing of the churches with which they claimed connection. It is more likely that their relation was claimed simply because other members of their families, including their parents, were of that faith, and that they had found in the church sufficient moral support to keep them in the narrow way. There are people who identify themselves with this or that church, when investigation of their claim is likely to show that only on two notable occasions were they ever in a place of worship, when they were christened and then again in attendance at a wedding, their own or that of friends.

The particular feature of Chief Thompson's report was discussed the other day at a gathering of citizens, every man of whom was a church member in good standing. It was regarded as deplorable that so many professing Christians should be caught in the meshes of the law. When the conclusion was reached that there is an abundant field for home mission work in Peterborough and that it is not the part of wisdom to attempt to convert heathendom while there are so many flagrant sinners right in Peterborough.

But the records of the police do not begin to give an adequate idea of the real social conditions that exist in some quarters of this city which is given to boast of its absence of slums. One half the world does not know how the other half lives, and for the peace of mind of the former it is perhaps as well that they do not. There are officials in the city, the relief officer for one, and the active workers of the Salvation Army, who could tell stories of abject want and horrible living conditions among the poor that would horrify the credulous. An actual visit to these conditions is required to convince those who imagine that this is really an enlightened age, in which even the humblest has solved the problem of a decent existence. But there are families in this city who, if they know anything about the laws of cleanliness, consistently ignore them. Water is free and soap is cheap, but there are those who do not avail themselves of these advantages. There are residents of this city who lack even comfortable wearing apparel. There are fatherless children growing up improperly nourished and inadequately clad, and it is not hard to imagine into what type of men and women these little ones will develop. The slum, the crowded tenement, is the cradle of vice. The lack of classification that affects the physical growth of the rising generation poisons and dwarfs the moral nature as well.

There is need of mission work right here at home. There is need for the local branch of the Social Service Council that has not been organized. This is a work, too, in which the laity have interest themselves. There has been too much a tendency to leave too much to the churches. The clergy have their clearly-defined and onerous duties. They cannot accomplish everything without the co-operation of those in the pews. More and more the responsibility of the parents for the religious training of their children is being shifted to the Sunday school, which has a chance for instructing the young only one short hour a week. When the members of the Social Service Council get busy they are likely to be amazed when they realize the necessity for such effort.

Those who object to foreign mission work are fond of quoting the instructions given the first Christian workers to begin their labors in Jerusalem—which means at home. That precept is certainly entitled to the highest consideration, but it surely does not contain anything to circumscribe religious effort by confining it to one locality for all time. If that interpretation were correct and faithfully followed, the entire world outside of Jerusalem would still be waiting for its first gospel message. If the disciples had remained in Jerusalem until the last vestige of sin had disappeared, the work would still be confined to that narrow field.

THE WEARINESS OF DEBATE.

PRESIDENT MACARTHUR, of the Independent Labor Party, has introduced and seems likely to insist upon a procedure which other presiding officers in the city would do well to adopt. At the public meetings held by the new party from time to time the speeches are limited, and the aim of President MacArthur is to have the proceedings terminate not later than 10 o'clock.

Many a worthy object in this city has literally been talked into the grave. What is really wanted in meetings that deal with important public questions is less fruitless oratory and more real action. To permit a popular gathering to drag along until midnight or later is to make certain a limited attendance at the next meeting for the same purpose. The trouble with the most of the orators is that the time of the audience is monopolized by a few speakers who are distinguished largely by a talent for destructive criticism.

Let a preacher get a reputation for long sermons and he will soon find himself talking to an array of empty pews. The theatrical performance or any other form of amusement that dragged itself aimlessly along would soon perish for lack of support. What the people really want is action, not a flow of language.

Someone suggests that public meetings be called to discuss further the Hunter street bridge. Why plan to send even that proposition to the cemetery? In all conscience there has been talk enough on this project. What the people want now is to see something done, and the aldermen, with a mandate in their possession, are surely competent to go ahead without further counsel from the ratepayers who have deputized the city fathers to act for them.

The most businesslike public body in the city is the Board of Education. Their sessions are brief. It may be said in explanation that the most of their work is done in committee. But even granting that point, the members of the Board do not adopt the custom of the City Council and thresh out again in open session straw that has already been thoroughly flailed in the committee room.

MICHIGAN COURTS AND PROHIBITION.

THE PROHIBITION LAW which has been in force in Michigan for nearly a year and which was adopted as a constitutional amendment by a vote of the people, is in many respects as drastic as our own Ontario Temperance Act. It decreed, for example, that it was an offence for a man to carry liquor on his person. It gave the officer all but unlimited power to institute a search for liquor anywhere, in a private residence or in the suit case of a traveller.

There were objections to these features of the Michigan enactment, and the matter was carried to the Supreme Court of the State, composed of judges who are elected for a term of seven years each and who are supposed to represent the judicial wisdom of the commonwealth. That tribunal has ruled that it is contrary to the spirit of the American Constitution to search a man's premises or personal property without due legal process, and that to carry liquor on the person cannot be made an offence. Still, this ruling by the court does not weaken the Act to any extent by interfering with its enforcement. The embargo upon the importation of liquor into dry territory still stands.

The decision of the Supreme Court in any State in the American Union is final, and no appeal can be taken from it except when the question involved has to do with a Federal enactment, when the United States Supreme Court has the last say. The ruling of the Michigan court ends litigation on the temperance issue for all time. Here in Canada the lawyers are given to talk of the slow legal procedure of American courts, but constitutional matters can be disposed of for all time, and often even within forty-eight hours after the issue is first presented to the tribunal.

Final adjudication of such a question in Canada would be a slow and expensive process. The case would be carried from one court to another, and the finding of none of these would be binding until the Privy Council over in England had finally passed upon it. The reason for this variety of process is not apparent unless it may be that the system is religiously maintained in order to make business for the legal fraternity. It cannot be that the judiciary of Canada are inferior in any way to the members of the same profession across the ocean.

One of the planks in the platform of the Independent Labor Party demands that the rulings of the Supreme Court of Canada shall be final. The point is by no means a new one, having been frequently discussed in Parliament, but in a body in which the legal profession predominates no such change is ever likely to be made. There are others, besides the lawyers, opposed to such a proposition, men who are prone to regard homage as patriotism and to accept the condition in question as another tie that binds the Dominion to the Motherland.

MAKING SLAVES OF SUPERMEN

(New York Times.)

The noble soul of German Hauptmann is affronted by the suspicion that 800,000 Germans are to be held as "slaves" in France to repair the wanton devastation of German armies. "For a realization of this idea," he says, "there is not the slightest moral or reasonable possibility, but it may be that morals and reason will be thrown overboard. Think of it—Germans, Christians, republicans, Europeans, to be the slaves of France." Against this infamy he invokes the memory of Lafayette, the progress in the moral feeling of mankind which abolished slavery—until 1914.

Of course, for hundreds of thousands of allied prisoners of war to be slaves in Germany, forced by blows and starvation to work for their enemies, was a different sort of slavery. For hundreds of thousands of Belgian workingmen to be carried off from their homes and worked to death in German mines and factories was a different sort of slavery. For thousands of French and Belgian women to be forced to submit to the brutalities of the German troops was a different sort of slavery. These were "Christians, republicans, Europeans," but they were not Germans.

Hauptmann never protested against slavery when the masters were Germans and the slaves French. When Romain Rolland early in the war, called on him and the other "intellectual" leaders of Germany to express their opinion not of the attack on France, not of the invasion of Belgium, not even of the slaughter of noncombatants, but of the destruction of treasured monuments of the past of "warfare against the human spirit," Hauptmann answered. And his answer was summed up in one of its contemptuous phrases—"War is war." We Germans are going to battle with Homer, Nietzsche, Schopenhauer, or the Bible in every soldier's knapsack; our victory means the independence of Europe, and the end justifies the means.

At that time we could suppose that Hauptmann, like the ninety-three professors, might have been terrorized by the military power, that he dared not speak his own mind. Nothing prevents him today from saying what he thinks, and it appears that he thinks that it is an excellent thing to force innocent French and Belgians to be slaves in Germany, but an outrage to compel German soldiers to repair the damage that they have done. His views might be studied with profit by those among us who have lately begun to praise the Germans and condemn the French.

Why Shouldn't He Call?

A pawnbroker in a small country town was awakened in the middle of the night by a furious knocking at his shop door, says Tit Bits. He opened his window and looked out.

"Wh-wh-what's the matter?" he asked, breathlessly.

"Come down," demanded the stranger.

"Who are—"

"Come down! "interrupted the other.

"I wan'sh to know the time!" said the bibulous one.

"You blinking idiot. Do you mean to say you woke me up for that? How dare you?"

The midnight visitor looked injured. "Well you've got my watch," he explained.

WINTER HARD ON BABY

The winter season is a hard one on the baby. He is more or less confined to stuffy, badly ventilated rooms. It is so often stormy that the mother does not get him out in the fresh air as often as she should. He catches colds which rack his little system; his stomach and bowels get out of order and he becomes peevish and cross. To guard against this the mother should keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house. They regulate the stomach and bowels and break up colds. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Chronic Diseases Take Hold Slowly

Kidney and Bladder Troubles don't attack you suddenly. Chronic diseases of these organs are generally the result of neglect. Nature gives you plenty of warning when your Kidneys are out of order and need assistance; you notice a dull pain in the back; you are dizzy, have headaches, feel lanquid, tired and lifeless.

There is no mistaking the symptoms, and when Nature warns you—obey—or later you will regret it.

Putting off never cures. Gin Pills do. At the first sign of Kidney or Bladder Trouble, buy a box of Gin Pills and take them. They will help your Kidneys to perform their proper function and renew your previous strength and vigor.

"I suffered from Backache and Kidney trouble, so much so that I could hardly straighten up. I got a box of Gin Pills and they relieved me immediately. I have continued to take Gin Pills, and now the pains in both hips and back are gone. I shall always recommend Gin Pills to my friends and others suffering."

Mr. David's case is only one of the many in which Gin Pills have brought immediate relief. Sufferers from Kidney or Bladder trouble should heed what has been done in such cases and try Gin Pills.

Railroads Will Employ Thousands

Ottawa, Feb. 21.—Information is coming to the Repatriation and Employment Committee to the effect that there will be no scarcity of work with the various railway companies as soon as spring opens.

West of Port Arthur the C.P.R. and C.N.R. are going to require 16,000 men for the summer, the former company using 6,000 men and the latter 10,000. Already a large number of boarding cars are being fitted up and the camps set in order to receive these men, and it is anticipated that the movement of labor required to these points will be commenced within a few weeks.

From all indications in various parts of the country the entire situation may be so totally changed within the next four months that Canada will be actually looking for labor rather than having a surplus of workers.

FEWER CONVICTS.

Unmarried in Large Majority; Abstainers Under 20 Per Cent.

Ottawa, Feb. 21.—Convicts in Canadian penitentiaries at the close of the year numbered 1,462, as compared with 1,694 at the close of the previous year. Of the 1,463, 1,401 professed Christian creeds, 50 non-Christian creeds, and 12 no creeds at all. In social habits the total is divided into: Abstainers, 286; temperate, 745; intemperate, 432. The unmarried are in large majority. They total 832, the married 504, and the widowed 67.

Actions speak louder than words. Some men never say die, yet they all have to do it.

LESSONS IN RIGHT LIVING

(By Dr. W. A. Brady.)

As a general rule, on those rare occasions when we better doctors make serious mistakes we say nothing ill of the deceased, but quietly bury the mistake.

Now the subject of our discourse today, brethren, is a dreadful mistake that was made by an eminent doctor and never buried at all, but, on the contrary, embalmed for the ages in imperishable type.

The mistake to which I refer is published in chapter 19 of Dr. Noah Webster's great romance entitled, "The Unlabridged." In that chapter the etymologist treats the word somersault, and the treatment is something scandalous. I have no doubt that many a reader of this column who has the habit of consulting specialists, instead of leaving everything to the family doctor as I have repeatedly urged, has received a broken neck for his pain in consulting Dr. Webster as to the modus operandi of somersaults. For this renowned and learned doctor holds that a somersault is a running leap in the air in which the poor dupe turns a complete revolution, or something of the kind.

Great guns, just think of doing that half a dozen times before breakfast. It would be a huge mistake.

That isn't what a somersault is at all. Sure, Noah must have been a singularly dense and unobservant person if that was his candid opinion of somersaults.

Now, let me define a somersault. What Dr. Webster describes as a somersault is an air spring, if I have ever seen a circus, and I never miss one for anything less than a funeral in the family.

A somersault is a roll in the vertical plane, in which the palpitating body makes a complete revolution, 'tis true enough, but throughout the whole adventure nobody goes up in the air; the body never for an instant loses touch with the floor. Why, it is mere child's play. Ask any child to roll you a somersault if you do not know how to do it.

When I prescribe six somersaults each night and morning for people with sallow complexion, constipation, difficult digestion, flatulency, poor circulation, cold feet, liver spots and such things, I mean somersaults and not air springs. So if any reader consults Dr. Webster on the q. t. about it, and then goes and breaks his neck, let him bring the action against the etymologist. It is no concern of mine.

Swimming Instructor's Flapdoodle.

"A swimming instructor at the gym told us that all nervous persons should discontinue drinking milk, as the casein of milk only poisons them. He said the proteids are the flesh forming foods as distinguished from the energy forming foods. Is this correct? E. M. R."

Your adviser may be a fine swimming instructor, but if you understood him aright he also knows how to emit considerable flapdoodle between strokes. His knowledge of nutrition is evidently unique and his application of the knowledge if weird. Proteids in the diet are indispensable for the repair of wear and tear and for growth. They are not safely diminished below a reasonable minimum.

Yeast Puffed.

"I had had pimples on my face for the past thirteen years and by taking yeast for a few weeks cleared up remarkably. But what is more remarkable is that the yeast seems to relieve stomach trouble more than anything I have ever taken (and I have taken a lot of things). It prevents that bloated, distressed, nauseated feeling and heartburn. I wish you could tell me whether there is any harm in continuing with the yeast as long as one chooses.

No. It is a good food.

ROBBERS CAUGHT, MONEY IS FOUND.

Sudbury, Feb. 21.—Two foreigners held up another countryman on the streets of Sudbury after dark and relieved him of $750. After an automobile chase the men were arrested and the money was found in their pockets.

SIR WILFRID'S BIOGRAPHER

Kingston, Feb. 21.—Among the Kingston delegation in Ottawa to attend the funeral of the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier is Prof. O. D. Skelton of Queen's University, who has been preparing a biography of the Liberal Chieftain which is soon to be published.

SENT EDITOR A "CASE"

Mildmay Publisher Rejected Chance to Get Dozen Bottles.

Under the heading "The Joke That Failed," the Gazette of Mildmay, Ont., says:

Some person with more money than wit nearly managed to get the editor into trouble last week. On Wednesday, after the arrival of the noon train, the agent called up the Gazette and asked if we were expecting a parcel from Montreal. We replied that the only shipment that might come to this office from Montreal would be some advertising cuts. The agent informed us, however, that the parcel did not contain newspaper cuts, but was suspiciously like a case of whiskey. The shipment was very distinctly addressed to the Gazette Publishing Company, but we ordered the agent not to have the goods delivered. It was not long, however, until there were further developments in the case. It appears that License Inspector Elliott, of Stratford, learned that a case of liquor was en route to Mildmay and he set out to trace it up. At nine o'clock in the evening Inspectors Elliott and White called at the depot and confiscated the shipment and carried it off to Walkerton. Meanwhile, we suppose the party who hoped to get the booze is feeling very much disappointed. Perhaps he intended it as an act of kindness to the editor, but we would prefer him to show his generosity in other ways.

HEAD STUFFED FROM CATARRH OR A COLD

Says Cream Applied in Nostrils Opens Air Passages Right Up.

Instant relief—no waiting. Your clogged nostrils open right up; the air passages of your head clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffling, blowing, headache, dryness. No struggling for breath at night; your cold or catarrh disappears.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic, healing cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothes the inflamed or swollen mucous membrane and relief comes instantly.

It's just fine. Don't stay stuffed up with a cold or nasty catarrh.

DANGER LURKS IN EVERY ONE OF US

We Are As Full of Deadly Poisons As A Germ Laboratory.

AUTO-INTOXICATION OR SELF-POISONING

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Absolutely Prevents This Dangerous Condition.

The chief cause of poor health is our neglect of the bowels. Waste matter, instead of passing from the system regularly every day, is allowed to remain there, generating poisons which are absorbed by the blood.

In other words, a person who is habitually constipated, is poisoning himself. We know now that Auto-intoxication, due to non-action of the bowels, is directly responsible for serious Kidney and Bladder Troubles; that it upsets the Stomach, causes Indigestion, Loss of Appetite and Sleeplessness; that chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Pain In The Back, are relieved as soon as the bowels become regular; and that Pimples, Rashes, Eczema and other Skin Affections disappear when "Fruit-a-tives" are taken to correct Constipation.

"Fruit-a-tives" will protect you against Auto-intoxication because this wonderful fruit medicine acts directly on all three eliminating organs.

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. At all dealers or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

ENTHUSED OVER S. S. CONVENTION

Those in charge of the arrangements for the Sunday School Convention to be held in Peterborough on Sunday and Monday, March 2nd and 3rd, are leaving no stone untured to make it absolutely the premier convention, both from point of interest and profit to teacher, scholar and parent.

The representatives of the various churches have been meeting regularly and the enthusiasm is like a rolling snowball, gradually increasing in size and importance. At 4.15 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 23rd, the representatives of the churches and Sunday Schools will meet in Murray Street Sunday School parlor to complete arrangements. It is hoped by the committee that each Sunday School superintendent will personally see to it that his school is fully represented at this meeting. That their interests may not be overlooked a full representation is imperative next Sunday they say.

There will be here from Toronto Messrs. Halpenny, representing the Methodist; Dayfoot, representing the Baptists; Hiltz, representing the Anglicans, and Meyers, representing the Presbyterians, who will speak in the interests of Sunday School work, its ethics and importance in the community.

ARMY TO BE FORMED

Will Keep the Fold Until Germany Pays Up.

Paris, Feb. 22.—L'Intransigeant hears an inter-allied army soon will be formed to keep the field until Germany makes complete financial settlement. The army, it is said, would included 850,000 French, 450,000 Americans, 350,000 British and 100,000 Belgians.

Histories Of Canadian Units

RECORD OFFICE IN LONDON HAS PREPARED INTERESTING VOLUME.

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—The Department of Public Information has received from the Canadian War Records office in London, the first instalment of the histories of Canadian battalions, which have served at the front. The consignment consists of the stories of the tenth, thirteenth, twenty-eight and Princess Patricia Battalions, in pamphlet form, which will be available on application at the nominal charge of fifteen cents.

The histories follow the fortunes of the four units from their formation in Canada up to the operations at Passchendaele in October and November, 1917, although in the case of the 13th Battalion, the history ends with the taking of Hill 70.

The stories written in narrative form, and make very interesting reading. The first gas attack of Ypres and the gallant fighting of the Candians in that bloody battle, the Somme operations, the taking of Vimy Ridge and the subsequent fighting around Lens, the spectacular capture of the famous Hill 70, and the splendid work of the men from the Dominions at Passchendaele are dealt with in detail by the writers in possession of all available data, and who have themselves seen service on the Western front.

The history of the renowned "Princess Pats," which carried a cut of the Princess Patricia, is especially interesting.

THIS IS AN AGE OF WEAK NERVES

"No heart for anything" is the cry of thousands of men and women who might be made well and strong by the new, rich red blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make.

Misery day and night is the lot of hosts of men and women who are today the victims of weak nerves. Thin, pale, drawn faces and dejected attitude tell a sad tale, for nervous weakness means being tortured by morbid thoughts and unaccountable fits of depression. These sufferers are painfully sensitive and easily agitated by some chance remark. Sleeplessness robs them of energy and strength; their eyes are sunken and their limbs tremble; appetite is poor and memory often fails. This nervous exhaustion is one of the most serious evils affecting men and women of today. The only way to bring back sound, vigorous health is to feed the starved nerves, which are clamoring for new, rich blood. This new blood can be had through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which fact accounts for the thousands of cures of nervous diseases brought about by this powerful blood builder and nerve restorer. Through a fair use of this medicine thousands of despondent people have been made bright, active and strong, among these is Miss Biblane Chiasson, South Beach, Que., who says:—"I am a teacher by profession, and probably due to the close confinement and arduous nature of my duties I became much run down and suffered from extreme nervousness. The least noise would startle me, and my heart would beat violently. Indeed my condition was an unhappy one. I had often heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a cure of nervous troubles and decided to give them a fair trial. I am happy to say that this medicine completely restored my health, and I can confidently recommend it to all suffering from nervous troubles."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers in medicine, or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PRINCIPAL KENNER'S ELOQUENT TRIBUTE TO MEMORY OF FALLEN

Fitting Honor Paid Last Night at the Commencement Exercises to the Fifty-Seven Former Students of the Collegiate Who Went Overseas Never to Return.

The most impressive feature of the Collegiate Institute Commencement exercises last night was the superb address of Principal Kenner, spoken in eulogy of the fifty-seven students who in the late war lost their lives in the service of the Empire, and all of whom, with a single exception, had attended the Collegiate since Mr. Kenner became a member of the staff. In polished periods he paid tribute to their gallantry, extolled their sacrifice, and expressed graceful and eloquent appreciation of the value of their services to humanity.

Enlarged photos of fifty-four of those whose names are engraved on the honor roll adorn the walls of the Collegiate and the likenesses of these were thrown upon the screen last night at the conclusion of Mr. Kenner's eulogy. A brief reference was made to each by the Principal. The graves of many of the fallen have been marked in the vast cemeteries of France or Flanders, but the last resting place of some of them is unknown. The story of the end of many of the fifty-seven has been told by those who were with them when they died, while the fate of others is a mystery that will probably never be cleared up. Ueber Rogers was for a long time numbered with the dead, and services in his memory were held in St. Luke's Church in Ashburnham, but later he was located in a German prison camp, and is now on his way home. More than one sorrowing relative is still clinging to the slender hope that the son or brother, from whom nothing has been heard for months, may yet be alive.

The audience sat with bowed heads while Mr. Kenner offered up a brief prayer that the fallen heroes might find eternal peace and rest.

Mr. Roland Denne, who presided at the exercises last night, as chairman of the School Board, made a suggestion that appealed to the large audience that was in attendance. He called attention to the fact that the Collegiate Institute lacks facilities for gymnasium work, for manual training and for the teaching of household science. His idea is to erect a building in which all these departments could find a home and which would serve as a fitting memorial to the former students who gave their lives when the call to service came to them.

The Program.

The spacious assembly room at the Collegiate was crowded to capacity by friends and relatives of the students, and an excellent program was rendered, the fancy drill by the girl students under the direction of Miss Sanderson being especially pleasing, the performance showing the perfect training of those who took part. The musical numbers consisted of a piano solo by Mr. Otto Gliddon, a solo by Miss Florence Scott, and a piano solo by Miss Jean Elliott.

The departmental diplomas were presented by Mr. Joseph Wearing, who gave as a preliminary an admirable and practical address on the value of education, which he regarded as one of the great powers of the world.

Mr. Carl Browne, M.A., presented the athletic prizes which were won last Thanksgiving Day.

Mr. G. O. Cameron, a member of the Board of Education, was charged with the duty of presenting the Nicholls scholarships to the six winners of those high honors, and which vary in amount from $20 to $10, $100 in all, the yearly income from the $2000 fund bequeathed by the late Mrs. Nicholls for that purpose. Mr. Cameron added to his reputation as one of the brightest and most interesting speakers in the city, one whose remarks are filled with natural wit as well as practical common sense. He was pleased to style himself a past master of the order of bad boys, a society found in every school and in was pleased to style himself as past active member, according to his own frank confession, when he was a collegiate student himself. As such boys invariably turn out well in after life Mr. Cameron's confessions are entitled to be received with unqualified credence.

Miss Gladman's Record.

The most distinguished student at the Collegiate last year, as shown by the results of the departmental examinations was Miss Gretchen Gladman, who is now taking a university course in Toronto. Miss Gladman was awarded the second Edward Blake scholarship in Moderns at Toronto University and the William Dickson scholarship in Moderns at Trinity College. She was down on the program to deliver the class valedictory but was unable to be present. The address which she had prepared for the occasion was read by James Pogue, whose name appears among the winners of prizes for athletics.

RECIPE TO CLEAR A PIMPLY SKIN

PIMPLES ARE IMPURITIES SEEKING AN OUTLET THROUGH SKIN PORES.

Pimples, sores and boils usually result from toxins, poisons and impurities which are generated in the bowels and then absorbed into the blood through the very ducts which should absorb only nourishment to sustain the body.

It is the function of the kidneys to filter impurities from the blood and cast them out in the form of urine, but in many instances the kidneys create more toxins and impurities than the kidneys can eliminate, then the blood uses the skin pores as the next best means of getting rid of these impurities, which often break out all over the skin in the form of pimples.

The surest way to clear the skin of these eruptions, says a noted authority is to get from any druggist about four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water each morning before breakfast for one week. This will prevent the formation of toxins in the bowels, also stimulate the kidneys to normal activity, thus coaxing them to filter the blood of impurities and so relieve the skin of pimples.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia; you have a pleasant, effervescent drink which usually makes pimples disappear; cleanses the stomach and is excellent for the kidneys as well.

SPECIALISTS CANNOT BE TURNED OUT BY COLLEGES

Dr. Moir Tells Life Problem Club That Five Years Preliminary Training in General Practice is Necessary.

Last night Dr. Moir, who was a silver medalist in medicine, Toronto University, 1902, gave a short talk to the Intermediate Life Problem Club at the Y.M.C.A. on "Medicine as a Profession."

So far this winter the club has been addressed by Mr. Raper, on "Physical Instruction as a Profession"; Mr. W. J. Allin, on "Insurance"; Dr. Middleton, on "Dentistry"; Mr. G. N. Gordon, on "Law"; Mr. C. C. Parsons, on "Banking."

Dr. Moir's talk, in substance, was as follows:

"Before speaking to you on surgery as a profession I wish to say a few words on 'the true conception of life. This is that we are all here for a definite purpose. Our life is not to be frittered away in idle pleasures, but is a talent to be used for the benefit of our fellowmen, and with honor to our Creator. The greatest example of a man who had the true conception of life was Christ, who once said, 'I came not to be ministered unto, but to minister.' We have a pleasant feeling when we have performed some service to our fellowmen, instead of yielding that a person should not have some pleasure or leisure time, quite the contrary.

"The need for a true conception of life is apparent when applied to medicine. There is no calling demanding so much self-sacrifice as the medical profession. What would happen if the doctors went on strike for a 30-hour week. Why shouldn't we have as much time to ourselves as other men? But no man gets any pleasure doing as little as he can. The greatest amount of happiness comes from performing one's life work well.

"Before one is qualified to take up surgery as a life work, he needs to master the ground work of both surgery and medicine. Before a man takes up surgery as a specialty he should have had at least five years in general practise.

"The surgical and medical professions are not two distinct and separate professions. It is a difficult problem to tell where medical treatment ends and surgical treatment begins. The tendency nowadays seems to be to turn out specialists wholesale. Six years is the length of the medical course in Toronto University. At present one can take a special course in the last two years in either skin diseases, surgery, eye, ear, nose and throat treatment, etc. Now the older doctors think that this is an unwise act on the part of the university.

In choosing a life work one should consider where his life will be the most useful, and for what profession he is best adapted. Don't chose your profession on your own wisdom, but consult with older people. Above all seek Divine guidance. Our Creator gave us our life. Should He not direct us how to use it? Once having decided on your profession, set your mind on your goal and bend all your energies to achieving it. It is wonderful how things become easier as you go along.

"Some people have an idea that a large part of surgery is operating, and that it wrecks the nervous system. There is absolutely no nervous strain on a man accustomed to the work. I, myself, would rather operate for four hours than make three calls in three different houses. Surgery is not hard once one has mastered the technic and knows the anatomy.

"The hard thing about operating is to know what and when to do it. This is in the operating room. The real work comes before and after the operation. The diagroses is made before the operation, and the patient has to be taken care of after the operation. To make a correct diagnosis you need ability to reason thoroughly which calls for a legal mind. All depends on the careful, well-studied diagnosis.

"There is an idea that the war was a good thing for surgery. No! War surgery is no good in civil life. In war time the operations are largely emergency, but in civil practice not one case in 1,000 is an injury. There were not many who operated in France but those who did became skilled in the use of the instruments. As for myself, I would rather be operated upon by a slow, deliberative doctor, than one that moves more quickly.

"Surgery is a large field. But one must know his fundamentals well, and be proficient in medicine. During a preliminarily general practise one learns things not learned in colleges or from books. He gains confidence in himself. After a doctor has a good general practise and has learned his fundamentals well, he should narrow down his field. Of course, there is no chance for the doctor in outlying districts to specialize, but they do good work. Once one has mastered the fundamentals, likes surgery, and thinks he is adapted to it, he should gradually cut off other branches. We become more proficient in surgery after we have had preliminary work, and cut down our sidelines.

"I believe that trouble will arise from the turning out of so many specialists. These men are without a preliminary grounding in medicine and should have at least five years general practice.

"My advice is that after graduating one should do general practice for five years, then take a post graduate course—a change is as good as a rest—and then turn to surgery as a profession."

Appreciate Work Of Rev. and Mrs. Whattam

At the joint meeting of the trustee and quarterly official boards of Mark Street Methodist Church last night a vote of thanks was tendered Rev. R. A. Whattam at the close of his four year pastorate, for his service, his faithfulness to the congregation, and for bringing it to its present efficient standing. Thanks were then voted to Mrs. Whattam for her faithfulness and for the interest she has taken in the different departments of the work of the church. The hope was expressed that the work in which both Mr. and Mrs. Whattam engage in future will be marked with interest and God's choicest blessing.

PLOT IN BERLIN.

FAMILY THOUGHT HE WAS GOING TO DIE

WHEELER SAYS NOTHING HELPED HIM UNTIL HE TOOK TANLAC—HEALTH RESTORED.

"Well, sir, Tanlac has not only entirely relieved me of my awful trouble, but I have regained twenty-five pounds of my lost weight, and never felt stronger and better in my life," said Harry R. Wheeler, who is employed at the Pacific Coast Steel Plant, and lives at 4744 Forty-eighth Ave., South Seattle, the other day.

"About a year ago," he continued, "I began to suffer with intestinal indigestion that, in spite of all I could do, got worse and worse, until I was in a terrible condition. Everything I would eat fermented and I would be in such agony that it was like a sharp knife cutting clean across my stomach. I got so weak that I could hardly do a thing, and it was only my will power that kept me going at all. When I would get home at night I would be so weak and in so much pain that my wife was always ready with a hot water bottle to put right on me, and even then I would be in such agony at times I thought it would drive me distracted. My hips ached with rheumatism, and the muscles of my right arm and leg would get all tied into knots, and at times I couldn't raise my arm half way to my head. I went down in weight from two hundred pounds to a hundred and fifty-two, a loss of forty-eight pounds, and my condition was so serious that my family actually thought I was going to die.

"I tried everything I could hear of to get relief, but nothing did me any good. Then my sister-in-law, who had been suffering with rheumatism, got me to try Tanlac, as it had done her so much good. I got a bottle and when I found it was helping me I just kept it up till now I haven't a pain or an ache about me. I have a splendid appetite and can eat anything I want without it hurting me in the least. I used to lay awake night after night suffering terribly, but now I go to sleep as soon as my head hits the pillow, and sleep like a log all night. I am picking up in weight every day, and am feeling so fine and well that I am glad to tell everybody how much this wonderful medicine has benefited me."

Tanlac is sold in Peterboro by W. H. Warne Drug Co., Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Bowmanville Corners by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

Collegiate Game Results in Tie

Between five and six last night two local P. C. I. teams met at the Brock street rink. This is the fifth game this winter between these two teams, which are Elliot's Regals and Harstone's Footsluggers. In the four games, previous to last night's contest, Elliott's Regals had scored a total of 42 goals, and Harstone's Footsluggers a total of 35.

Last night the score was 5-5. In the first period N. Rishor scored a long shot from second for the Regals, and C. Armstrong and R. Stevens, one each for the Footsluggers. In the second period A. Doughty, C. Elliott, K. Hall and McBrien scored one each for the Regals, and R. Stevens, C. Armstrong and A. Stevenson, one each for the Footsluggers.

Sir Sam Hughes to Place Resolution for Inquiry.

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—Sir Sam Hughes has two resolutions to place before the House. The first asks that a select committee of the House be appointed to inquire into the Guelph Novitiate, with full authority to examine witnesses under oath, to pay necessary expenses, and to report to the House.

This Sir Sam follows by another resolution asking for a uniform system of administering the law, with uniform penalties, in relation to deserters, slackers, evaders and others amenable, saying that it is only the due of the soldiers who did go overseas.

A CHILD DOESN'T LAUGH AND PLAY IF CONSTIPATED

Mother! Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, remember, a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills; give a teaspoonful, and in a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food which is clogged in the bowels passes out of the system, and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless, delicious "fruit laxative," and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies and children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on the bottle.

Keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

Millions of folks bathe internally now instead of loading their system with drugs. "What's an inside bath?" you say. Well, it is guaranteed to perform miracles if you could believe these hot water enthusiasts.

There are vast numbers of men and women who, immediately upon arising in the morning, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is a very excellent health measure. It is intended to flush the stomach, liver, kidneys, and the thirty feet of intestines of the previous day's waste, sour bile, and indigestible material left over in the body which if not eliminated every day become food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels, the sick result is poisons and toxins, which are then absorbed into the blood, causing headache, bilious attacks, foul breath, bad taste, colds, stomach trouble, kidney misery, sleeplessness, impure blood and all sorts of ailments.

People who feel good one day and badly the next, but who simply can not get feeling right are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a real crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so limestone phosphate and hot water act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. It is vastly more important to bathe on the inside than on the outside, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do.

NO POLITICS FOR THESE FARMERS

WESTERN GRAIN GROWERS WILL SUPPORT REGULAR CANDIDATES FOR PARLIAMENT.

Regina, Feb. 22.—The Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association have decided at their convention that as an association they would not enter the political field, but, that they would provide facilities which would enable the farmers of any Federal constituency in the Province to get together and organize themselves for the purpose of electing to the House of Commons a suitable representative prepared to support the farmers' national political platform.

It was the opinion of the convention that the original resolution providing for political action practically committed the association to identification as a political body, and this was considered objectionable and for this reason the measure was redrafted and was carried with great enthusiasm.

A grain growers' bank of Saskatchewan, organized under the present laws governing chartered banks, will be suggested by W. T. Badger, M.L.A., for Rosslawn, before the Grain Growers' Convention closes. He contends that millions of dollars worth of Victory Bonds are owned by farmers and that part of these could be exchanged for stock in the bank, which could be financed without the putting up of a dollar in cash.

BUYS A LA-PORTA POWER ATTACHMENT

Mr. Donald Cameron of Birdsall has purchased from the Duffus Garage a La-Porta-Power Attachment. This attachment is adaptable for any make of car and by simply placing it under the rear wheels, it furnishes power for any purpose.

The price is only $45 and Mr. Cameron says he would rather have it than any gasolene engine.

OUCH! PAIN! RUB OUT RHEUMATISM

Stop Suffering. Relief Comes the Moment You Apply Old St. Jacob's Liniment"

Rheumatism is "pain only." Not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Stop drugging! Rub the misery right away! Apply soothing, penetrating "St. Jacob's Liniment" directly upon the "tender spot" and relief comes instantly. "St. Jacob's Liniment conquers pain. It is harmless rheumatism liniment which never disappoints and can not burn the skin.

Limber up! Stop complaining! Get a small trial bottle of "St. Jacob's Liniment" at any drug store, and in just a moment you'll be free from rheumatic pain, soreness and stiffness. Don't suffer! Relief awaits you. "St. Jacobs Liniment" is just as good for sciatica, neuralgia, lumbago, backache, sprains and swellings.

VETERANS' DANCE SOCIAL SUCCESS

The biggest dance of the season was held at the Empress Hotel last night under the auspices of the G. W. V. A. There was an attendance of between three and four hundred and all present spent a very enjoyable time.

The grand march was led off by [illegible] and Mrs. Wells. The music was supplied by the Fitzgerald-Moher orchestra, and was pronounced as better than any Toronto music.

There were guests present from Lakefield and other points. All the returned officers, non-commissioned officers and privates were dressed in uniform for the occasion.

Besides the dancing there were twelve tables of cards. The ladies' prize was won by Miss McGill and the gents ,by a gentleman from Lakefield.

The hostesses of the dance were: Mrs. Mills, Mrs. Hughes, Mrs. Massey-Cook, Mrs. Beyer, Mrs. Snowden, Mrs. Staunton and Mrs. [illegible]ment.

Temple Band Take Trip to Brailey

Last evening the Temple Band and Songsters were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Payne, at Brailey.

The evening was ideal for the trip and the sleighing was good.

On arriving at the farm the guests were received by Mrs. Payne and everyone felt at once that they were right at home to enjoy themselves. Games and music were indulged in to the full satisfaction of all. A dainty lunch was provided and the merrymakers did good justice to it. In the interval between the games Mr. H. Parnell took the part of entertainer and his impersonations kept the gathering in high glee.

A vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Payne and family and the hope expressed that another evening might be arranged under the hospitable auspices of the host of the evening. The singing of the National Anthem brought the evening to a close and the return journey home was made, all being well satisfied with their evening's entertainment.

ATLANTIC SUGAR

SUGAR'S PLENTIFUL — FOOD BOARD SAYS CROPS— PRICE LIKELY TO REMAIN HIGH

Until October those who would like to see the price of sugar drop must "mark time" in patience. For there is not much likelihood of lower prices.

Buying 120,000 tons of the San Domingo crop with an option on the balance at fixed prices for delivery between Jan. 1st and Oct. 1st—also buying 100,000 tons of the British West Indian Crop, under practically the same conditions, the Canada Food Board, to a certain extent, controls the price of the refined products.

There are plenty of supplies, but the labor and materials feature offer little hope of lessening prices as far as they are concerned. The natives have been so well paid they show reluctance to work while cotton (used for the bags) is still up in price. One factor might encourage the unaccountable idea so prevalent that sugar is coming down and that is the mere chance of competition among refiners—and this at last would reduce the price perhaps two on the hundred pounds.

On the other hand if revolution should again flare up in the sugar-producing countries, as in 1917 when large plantations were burned by the rebels, the hopes of those who chafe under the 12-cent sugar may be dashed still more relentlessly.

Nelson's Legacy to World Gains New Significance During Years of Great War

At a time when the eyes of the entire world have been fixed on the greatest naval surrender in history, it is only fitting that we should recall Lord Nelson's legacy to the British fleet, and subsequently to the world. In this great war of nearly four and a half years, the celebrated signal, "England expects that every man will do his duty," has permeated the consciousness of the entire British people. How well that duty has been done we all know to-day. But for that great, silent power victory would have been impossible. America could not have even become a factor in the war. Her splendid help in food and munitions, her gallant men, could not have reached Europe.

The Grand Fleet to-day owns much, perhaps all, to the high standard of honor and efficiency set by Lord Nelson. He was a man who loved peace, but would not sacrifice "one jot of England's honor to avoid war." It is true that the hero of Trafalgar was no meddler in politics, yet he did make one insignificant, if little known, speech in the House of Lords on November 16, 1802.

"I, my lords, have in different countries seen much of the miseries of war," he said. "I am, therefore, in my inmost soul a man of peace. Yet I would not, for the sake of any peace, however fortunate, consent to sacrifice one jot of England's honor. Our honor is inseparably combined with our genuine interest. Hitherto there has been nothing greater known on the continent than the faith, the untainted honor, the generous public sympathies, the commerce, the unconquerable valor of the British nation. Wherever I have served in foreign countries I have witnessed these to be sentiments with which Britons were regarded. The advantages of such a reputation are not to be lightly brought into hazard.

"I, for one, rejoice that His Majesty has signified his intention to pay due regard to the connection between the interests of this country and the preservation of the liberties of Europe. It is satisfactory to know that the preparations to maintain our dignity in peace are not to be neglected. Those supplies which His Majesty shall for such purposes demand his people will most earnestly grant.

"The nation is satisfied that the Government seeks in peace or war no interest separate from that of the people at large; and as the nation was pleased with the sincere spirit of peace with which the late treaty was negotiated, so, now that a restless and unjust ambition in those with whom we desired sincere amity has given a new alarm, the country will rather prompt the Government to assert its honor than need to be roused to such measures of vigorous defence as the exigency of the times may require."

The romance life of Nelson is well-known. There are hundreds of stories in connection with him. Who does not remember the ride to school with his elder brother in a snowstorm when their father had left it to their honor not to turn back unless the roads were impassable? And the elder brother was all for turning back but for Horatio's reminder that "it was left to our honor" to continue the journey if it was humanly possible to do so.

At Portsmouth one may see the very place on the beach where the greatest of England's heroes embarked to join the Victory riding at anchor in the bay. An anchor marks the spot. One pictures no splendid insolent figure, but a small and queer man taking leave of the land he loved so well.

Nelson's last prayer, written in the little cabin a few hours before going into action, lets us completely into his innermost heart.

"May the great God whom I worship grant to my country and for the benefit of Europe in general, a great and glorious victory; and may no misconduct in anyone tarnish it; and may humanity after victory be the predominant feature in the British fleet! For myself individually I commit my life to Him who made me, and may His blessing light upon my endeavors for serving my country faithfully. To Him I resign myself and the just cause which is intrusted to me to defend. Amen! Amen! Amen!"

A great prayer, and one which lives quite unconsciously in the heart of every sailor in the British fleet. The Nelson touch, the Nelson honor and the Nelson duty permeates the fleet of Britain possibly even to a larger extent to-day than when Trafalgar was fought. Where is it better exemplified than by the heroism of the boy, John Travers Cornwall of his Majesty's ship Chester, in the Battle of Jutland, who, when all the crew of his gun were killed or disabled, although mortally wounded himself, stood at his post with the telephone awaiting orders till the end of the action. He was mentioned by Jellicoe in his account of the battle, and received the Victoria Cross. Only a boy of 16, but he did his duty, and England will not forget.

There is a story told in connection with Nelson's passing that is not generally known. In all previous actions in which he had taken part, his servant had always taken the precaution to hide his medals and orders, knowing, as he did, the admiral's love of display on such occasions. Now it happened on the morning of Trafalgar, Nelson's servant was unable to adopt the ordinary precautions. When the admiral appeared on the quarter-deck, those who saw him were astonished to see the profusion of orders that covered his breast. There was certainly no mistaking the admiral of the British fleet. Whether or no this was a mark for the French gunner who fired at him from the yard top, is not a matter of certain history. Nevertheless, Nelson's servant always maintained that had he only hidden his master's medals, Nelson's life would have been spared.

Nearly three months after the declaration of war, on October 21, 1914, Trafalgar Day, the present writer happened to be in London. The people had been asked to pass silently through Trafalgar Square at the same period of the day as a tribute to the great Nelson. It was a happy thought that suggested this form of commemoration. All day long great crowds of people passed silently through the square, only pausing to look at the wreaths at the foot of the Nelson Column.

In those first days of the great war Britain was expecting the German fleet to come out. Her fate, the fate of the whole world, depended on a naval victory. Men were rushing in thousands to enlist, but her great army of to-day was not yet in existence. The Old Contemptibles were gallantly fighting against tremendous odds in France. If the German navy had broken through there was no army in England that could have stopped an invasion.

As those thousands of serious upturned faces gazed at the little bronze figure so far above them, instinctively many must have felt that that great multitude was silently pledging itself to do its duty, no matter how great the cost. Perhaps it is not realized that the royal navy has lost 3,508 officers and 36,258 men.

To-day in the hour of victory we must not lose sight of the incessant work of the mercantile marine, without whom the war could not have continued for a single day. It is one thing to go into battle fully armed with a good fighting chance, but quite another to face brutal foes without any defence, or at most a single gun. Yet many crews whose vessels were torpedoed, and who escaped after terrible privations and hardships in open boats, signed on again as soon as they were able. Without their self-sacrifice Britain and Belgium must have starved. Their losses have been heavy—14,661 officers and men and 3,295 prisoners. They are still silent; it is for us who love them so much to speak strongly.

England's Help Problems.

At a recent interview between some unemployed munition workers and a few members of Parliament, writes Margaret Bondfield in Women and the Labor Party, the subject of alternative employment was discussed.

..., urged an elderly M. P., "wouldn't you like to go back to domestic service?"

"No!" was the prompt reply, "would you?" And then followed an animated description of pre-war servitude—long hours—many spent in the dark ill-equipped kitchens, unhealthy sleeping rooms, poor pay, the petty tyranny of little minds, and above all the consciousness of inferior status, which had been endured while they knew no other life, but which had become intolerable after the experience of the greater freedom of factory life.

The ex-domestic, who, during the war, has worked at harder, dirtier work in the factory than any cook or housemaid has had to undertake, who has worked alternate night and day shifts of twelve hours, who has taken uncomfortable journeys in all kinds of weathers, who has lived dangerously in filling factories and in air-raid areas—revolts from the thought of a return to "the shelter of quiet domestic life," as she knew it before the war. For the majority, paid domestic service is an unregulated, sweated, industry, conducted by ill-trained, unorganized employers and work people.

The work of cooking and cleaning, etc., is honorable, necessary work, and if only the right relationship of mutual service and equality of status be established, it should provide worthy employment for a large body of educated women.

The most urgent reforms appear to be the regulation of the hours of work to a maximum eight-hour day, and the abolition of living in as a condition of employment; in cases where, for mutual convenience, board and lodging is given by the employer as part payment, the value of such accommodation should be stated in terms of money, to enable the worker to compare it with charges for accommodation outside the house.

Another necessary condition is that in her own time the worker's right to privacy and non-interference must be respected. Such a program involves a radical change of attitude on the part of the average mistress. The bell ringing habit must be broken. Human energy must not be wasted in running up and down stairs in obedience to the whims and fancies of idlers.

Red Cross in Palestine.

For relief in Palestine the amount appropriated to December 31, 1919, was $470,000, comprising $320,000 for industrial and social work, $100,000 for general relief, and $50,000 for medical department. The scope of the commission, headed by Dr. John H. Finley, was extended late in October to cover the Near East, including Palestine, Egypt, Syria, and Asia Minor. The suffering brought upon the Holy Land by war is shown by the fact that a third of the population of Lebanon died of hunger and disease. Epidemics have raged unchecked. Tens of thousands of people were in dire need until relief came in the wake of the British victories. In a single month the Red Cross cared for 10,000 sick civilians and thousands of Armenian refugees. — Red Cross Magazine.

BAT BOY AND HIS OLD BOSS NOW RIVALS FOR PENNANT

Joe Cantillon Often Recalls Fact That He Gave Rowland His Start in Baseball.

(By George S. Robins)

Baseball's many sided phases are well illustrated in the case of leaders in the opening game of the season at Milwaukee this year. About twenty six years ago a callow youth in kids pants brushed up to a manager of the town ball club at Dubuque, Iawo, and struck him for a job. He didn't ask much. He simply wanted the honor of carrying the bats and was willing to do it for simon nothing.

The manager of the Dubuque team was Joe Cantillon. The youngster was Clarence Rowland. The boy's manners attracted "Pongo Joe."

"You're hired," said Joe and the youngster bounded through the gate. It was his first baseball job and he was about the happiest little fellow who crawled between the covers that night after his arduous duties on the ball field.

After a lapse of more than two decades and a half these same persons will meet on the day in Milwaukee which marks the opening of the new baseball season there, but they will meet under different circumstances. The new setting will be different. Rowland is a magnate. Cantillon is still a manager.

Clarence Rowland, who toted bats for Jongo Joe that day back in the 90s., is now part owner and manager of the Milwaukee Brewers. He has passed through the very ardent old spirit competition in the majors and minors since that eventful day. Rowland managed a ball club when in his teens, later led clubs all the way from Jacksonville, Fla., to Aberdeen, Wash., and from Winnipeg, Man., to Peoria, Ill. He was made manager of the Chicago White Sox and had the proud distinction of showing the white legginged players of Comiskey to their first world flag in more than a decade. Yes, its the same person whom Cantillon met that day in Dubuque, but slightly changed.

"There's Rowland for instance," said Joe. "Clarence was my bat boy over twenty years ago in Dubuque. He won a world's championship. That's pretty good for my bat boy. I'll say it is."

This draws attention to the remarkable baseball career of Cantillon, one of the original characters of the diamond. Joe has weathered the storms of many seasons as player, manager and umpire and he's going strong yet.

"Laugh and the world laughs with you," said a poet, and Pongo Joe is always doing that little thing. It makes him young, keeps him going at top speed and makes him forget that there is a time limit to every human activity. Joe has made the whole baseball world laugh many times. His stories of the diamond are classics of their kind. In a series of articles on the life of Charles A. Comiskey written for The Daily News several years ago, Cantillon was a little saver for the writer compiling the manuscript. Joe knows more stories on Commy than any other person and this supply of fresh ones seems inexhaustible.)

WESTERN HOCKEY FANS SWEAR BY MICKEY MACKAY

(By G. C. MacLeod.)

Out on the Pacific Coast the hockey fans swear that Mickey Mackay, the marvel of the Vancouver Millionaires, is the Ty Cobb of hockey. Mackay is a youngster who plays with his head, heart and soul as well as with his hands and feet.

Mickey Mackay was born in Kincardine, Ont., on May 22, 1897, and his Scotch-Canadian parents gave him the Presbyterian name of Duncan. Mickey is therefore one more added to the list of men who have come from the County of Bruce and attained fame in the Golden West. At the tender age of six years Mickeys' parents moved to Chesley, still in Bruce County, where the youngster was destined to lay the foundation for a hockey career.

In his teens Mickey (Duncan before Mickey and has remained so since) played the game of hockey. He was so enthusiastic over it that he missed meals and sleep to cavort on the ice. At sixteen he was playing in two leagues at the same time—the Northern and a group of the Ontario Hockey Association. Some players will hardly play in one league without being coaxed, but Mickey's indomitable energy, now displayed so prominently against players twice his size, put him in a different class.

One of the other ambitious players of that time and place was Barney Stanley, now the hard-checking right wing man of the Millionaires. Stanley heard the call of the West and lit upon Edmonton as a good place to settle. Barney, by the way, has made good in business in the Alberta capital. Sport was booming in Edmonton then and they wanted the best in hockey, so when they saw Stanley perform they wanted to know if there were any more like him down east.

It wasn't long before Barney had the wires hot after Mickey Mackay, and in the winter of 1912-13 Stanley and Mickey showed the natives of Alberta some new wrinkles in hockey and to this day the fans of the foothill province talk of the great year when Mickey and Stanley, with two or three others now in the East League hockey enthused the natives with their brilliant performances.

Played in Boundary League.

Mickey came to, saw and conquered new fields the next hockey season, that of 1913-14. That winter saw him in Grand Forks, B. C., playing in the semi-pro boundary league. Many a Coast fan might never have known there was a Grand Forks or a Boundary league but for the fact that they have heard that Mickey Mackay played there the year before he went to the Vancouver Millionaires.

In August, 1914, the former kaiser of Germany threw his legions into France and Belgium in his mad desire to lay the world at his feet. Canada in quicker time than it takes to tell it arrayed herself against the Hun and her first contribution was 25,000 men. Duncan Mackay of Chesley, Ontario, was one of the 25,000, and he got as far as Valcartier, Que., but was turned back because he was too young they said.

Out of a Job.

So, instead of a free trip across the big pond, with $1.10 a day thrown in, Mickey got a free trip back to Chelsey, Ont., and was struck off the payroll. But the lure of the ice game was strong and before the first signs of cold Mickey wrote to Frank Patrick, president of the P. C. H. A. and manager of the Vancouver club, asking, not for a tryout, but for Frank's permission to try out with Toronto in the East. The agreement between the two big leagues giving the P. C. H. A. western territory for recruiting young players and the N. H. L. the territory east of Port Arthur was then in effect, and as Mickey had been in Grand Forks the year before he was western material.

"I don't think I'm good enough for pro. hockey," wrote Mickey to Frank, "but I would like your league to allow me to try out in the East, and if I dont' make good the expenses won't be so much."

Frank answered the letter and gladly gave him permission to try out with Toronto. It takes several days for a letter to go from Vancouver to Chesley, Ont., and while it was going Frank got to thinking. In due time Mickey got his letter and at once prepared to go to Toronto.

Of course, there were always numerous players wanting to get tryouts with the pros., some of them living near by, but this might be an exception, and Frank thought of what the poet said:

Gem of Forest Ray.

"Full many a gem of purest ray serene," etc., or words to that effect, that some of the finest gems lie on the bottom of the ocean, never to be seen by human eyes. Also of the roses that are born to blush unseen.

Something told Frank to rush over to the telegraph office and wire this Chesley fellow, though he didn't know him from a load of hay, and not take a chance—an outside chance it seemed, but a chance nevertheless—of Torontos grabbing a good player from him. On the very day Mickey was to go to Toronto to try out with Murphy's team, he got Patrick's wire—with transportation and expenses to the Coast.

Stood Up in Five Minutes.

That year the Millionaires had their first workout one night and everybody was invited to go down and see them. The newspaper men were present, just like a league game, and about five minutes after practice started, with Mickey present, Frank Patrick skated over to the press box with a broad smile on his face.

"Greatest player I ever saw," he said to the writers, in speaking of the new recruit.

Some of them thought he was kidding or just handing out a line of publicity talk—but they say Frank hasn't changed his mind yet. And the newspaper men had to admit that at least Mickey looked good in practice, though he might be but a dub in the pan.

Did He Guess Wrong?

The thousands in the East and the West who have seen the youthful marvel perform will no doubt answer for themselves whether Frank Patrick guessed right or not when he took a chance on an unknown player, and when he stamped him as the game's premier performer, after seeing him for but five minutes in a practice.

OBJECT TO MARSHALL.

Ottawa Hockey Team May Refuse to Play With Him.

Ottawa, Feb. 22. — The Ottawa Hockey Club players threaten to strike over the appointment of Jack Marshall as one of the officials for the championship play-off series against Canadiens, which starts at Montreal tonight. The Ottawa club was notified that Marshall and Harry Hyland had been chosen to officiate at Montreal, with Pulford and McKinley here. The Ottawa players offered to take any one President Calder would name except Marshall, and have notified the club owners that as their championship chances are at stake they will not go on the ice with Marshall as an official.

IF YOU'RE NERVOUS DON'T PLAY GOLF

MENTAL IRRITATION RESULTING FROM MISS IS HARD ON SYSTEM.

If you are 50 years old and can't putt, don't play golf, advises the Medical association of Greater New York. The mental irritation resulting from a miss counteracts all the benefits of the physical exercise.

Much has been written and spoken about the peace that passeth all understanding which one may find while batting the ball around the links, but one is sometimes skeptical. A caddy once confided that he knew a player, a man of some years and understanding, who was given to kicking trees and breaking his clubs on missing a putt and that other members in good standing, under great mental stress attendant upon a topped drive or a trapped ball, occasionally were guilty of uttering the most horrible imprecies that shocked even his callioused young ears.

Such incidents are due, no doubt, directly to the varying fortunes of the ancient and honorable game, but there are other causes contributing to an uneven temper. It was our blessed privilege, some fourteen or fifteen years ago, to attend, as a humble member of the fourth estate, a tournament at a country club where some half a hundred representative Chicagoans of mature years and wide and varied business interests, yielding rich returns, were disputing some sort of championship.

While going sneakingly about in our imitation Panama hat and handmedowns, gleaning news where the gleaning was good, we chanced to observe two gray mustached captains of industry meet and engage in a moments conversation on the lawn, in the course of which conversation one gentleman helped himself to a cigar from the pocket of his green jacket, and handed its fellow to the other. The recipient of his generosity stood holding the 25 cent panatella gingerly in his hand until its donor had taken his departure in the general direction of the locker room, when he suddenly crushed it to a shapeless mass between his wrinkled palm, dashed the fragments on the ground and trod them into the turf then turned on his heel and strode away communing with himself in an undertone.

No putt had been foozled and no drive into the rough had occurred here to provoke this terrible show of anger. And yet something had happened to disturb the equanimity of at least one old gentleman, the stiffening walls of whose arteries and the uncertain temper of whose stomach demanded only good humor and freedom from passion. It may have been that the donor of the cigar had out-generaled him the day before in LaSalle street and it may have been that he had nicked him for several thousand the week before on the board, or it may have been that he did not belong to the same social circle, so that his daughter had refused to invite the other old gentleman's daughter to her coming out party. We never learned, because we made no effort to learn, but we have occasionally wondered since how such a display of temper could have occurred on a golf course where especially middle aged and older men are said to resort that they may forget the worries and vexations that harass them elsewhere.

HOPE TO CUT DOWN LEAD.

Recount Likely in St. Catharines Bye-Election.

St. Catharines, Ont., Feb. 22.—William M. German, K.C., ex-M.P., will not attend the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier's funeral at Ottawa today. Instead he will represent W. E. Logan, Labor candidate, at the official summing up of the vote in St. Catharines bye-election last Saturday. Mr. German stated unhesitatingly that if Parnell's lead were cut down to a small figure, a recount would be demanded.

"PER ASPERA AD ASTRA"

CLASS VALEDICTORY WRITTEN BY MISS GRETCHEN GLADMAN AND READ AT COLLEGIATE COMMENCEMENT LAST NIGHT

The following is a copy of the class valedictory, prepared by Miss Gretchen Gladman, and read at the commencement exercises at the Collegiate Institute last night by James Pogue, in the absence of the author:

Mr. Chairman, Mr. Kenner, Ladies and Gentlemen:

It is with mingled feelings of regret and hope that I write this farewell address, as many before me have written, with similar feeling, I suppose—regret for the days that are past and hope for the future. It hardly seems possible that five years ago, I was looking forward to graduating from this Collegiate in the same way that one looks at the moon—as a goal attainable only in one's wildest dreams. But the time has passed with incredible speed, and now, standing on the threshold of a new experience, one cannot help but feel a certain sadness that one's High School days are a thing of the past.

I am beginning to realise the truth of that oft-quoted phrase, "Absence makes the heart grow fonder," for, in the few months that I have been away, my perspective has altered so that the petty annoyances of my five years spent here have vanished, and now, more than ever, I can appreciate the untiring efforts of the staff of the school, and the splendid advantages that are offered to the youth of this city.

This is a momentous year, one which has seen the end of the greatest world-war in history, and the beginning of a period of reconstruction. Everyone has been taxing his strength and courage to the utmost for the past four years, putting forth every effort to win the war, and the great danger of the hour lies in relaxing those efforts. For after such a stupendous and tumultuous struggle, there is bound to be a reaction. We must be on our guard against thinking that, with the war won, all danger is over. In the future there will be controversies not physical, but mental. The next war will not be a war of arms, but a war of ideas. In the wake of the struggle that has just ended will come all sorts of distorted ideas, and the world will have need of clear, earnest thinkers, people with an unbiased perception of the distinctions between the true and the false. It is the duty of each and everyone of us to equip ourselves to the best of our ability to take our part in this great task, and this we can do by making the most of the educational advantages afforded us.

These advantages are becoming more and more perfect. New systems of education are being worked out in which people will be able to specialize to a greater degree than formerly, in their particular branch of study, for this is an age of specialists. Our universities are opening out broad vistas before us and awakening the interest and ambition to investigate them. We, as citizens of the empire, will have to do our part in settling the all-important problems that are arising, and we cannot shirk our responsibilities, however small they may be.

Peterboro and this Collegiate Institute have a past record of which to be proud. Many of the pupils of this school have made great names for themselves in the world, and many of them have made even greater names for themselves in that they gave their all for the cause of liberty and right. We who follow them have a wonderful tradition to live up to, and it should be considered an honor to have the privilege of doing so.

SERMONS ON DAVID

Rev. W. L. H. Rowand Begins Series of Discourses Tomorrow Night.

Rev. W. L. H. Rowand, of St. Andrew's Church will begin tomorrow night the following series of sermons on David:

Feb. 23—"David and Samuel."
Mar. 2—"David and Goliath."
Mar. 9—"David and Jonathan."
Mar 16—"David and Bathsheba."
Mar. 23—"David and Absalom."
Mar. 30—"David, the Poet."

David is easily the chief of all Biblical heroes, for no fewer than 91 chapters of Scripture are given to him and the story is full of stirring incidents. More space is given to him than to any other man of the Old Testament. David was evidently a fascinating character. Special music will be provided at all these services. The pews in the church are all free and the public are cordially invited.

WE were among the first to put up tea in sealed packages.

We were the first to use automatic electric weighing machines so as to insure accurate weights.

We were the first to make known the qualities of the now world-famous ASSAM teas.

And we are now the first to adopt a new package for the better protection of these fine quality teas.

The lead package has served its purpose well for generations, but it was easily broken or torn, allowing not only a loss of tea from the package but exposing the tea to the air, odors and dust that it was so necessary to protect the tea against.

Our new package—the waxed board carton—is stronger; more secure and more completely air tight; altogether the best container for tea that has yet been devised.

WILL MAKE GERMANY PAY TO EXTENT OF HER POWERS

French Minister Gives an Outline of Probable Condition in Treaty of Peace—Delegates Are Urged on All Sides to Make Haste.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Paris, Feb. 24.—The atmosphere around the Peace Conference has changed remarkably in the last few days. The deliberation and caution which marked the proceedings of the important commissions have given away, and even the most conservative delegates are being carried forward at a great pace. Talk of early peace has become general. The actual directing force toward that end has been Premier Clemenceau, who, even while reclining in his easy chair, suffering from the wound given him by a would-be assassin, has summoned the Premiers of four other great powers to his side in order to impress upon them the need for hurrying the great work in their hands.

France originally doubted the wisdom of concluding peace before conditions crystallized in Germany. Now France agrees with America and Great Britain in demanding a termination of the existence of the present technical state of war so that even Germany may resume the normal ways of peace. This view was reflected today by Stephen Pichon, French Foreign Minister, in his regular Sunday talk with foreign newspaper correspondents. It is believed by some that the treaty which will be signed first must be followed by another final treaty, which will exactly prescribe the condition to be met by the late enemy powers. Several months may elapse before this can be made ready. M. Pichon said that Germany would be first dealt with because of the greater importance of the problems presented in her case, but added there were important peace questions for settlement in connection with Austria, Bulgaria and Turkey. Military experts, he said, have been instructed to examine them and have been in readiness for a speedy adjournment.

The commissioners who are considering reparations, the Minister said, are nearing an agreement. The first question to be determined is what Germany owes and then what she can pay. After this a plan can be devised by the Allies for dividing the reparation obtained among the Entente powers. In conclusion, M. Pichon said that Premier Clemenceau was about to undertake a consideration of the Russian question when he was shot. He said the subject would, therefore, await his return to his official duties.

PRESIDENT IS BOSTON'S GUEST

ARRIVED IN THAT CITY TODAY AND GREETED BY THOUSANDS

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Boston, Feb. 24.—President Wilson was the guest of Boston today on his arrival from France. Thousands of people from all part of New England arrived on the early trains to swell the throngs in the streets through which it was arranged that he should pass on his way from Commonwealth pier to his hotel in the Back Bay district. For the greater par tof the crowd this was the only opportunity to see the President, as Mechanics Hall, where he was to deliver his big address of the day, seats but 7,000 people. Buildings all along the route of the parade were ablaze with flags and bunting and a recognition of the international character of President's recent activities was shown in the frequent display of the flags of Allied nations.

The meeting at Mechanics Hall was not for 2.30 o'clock in the afternoon. A special train will start for Washington with the President and his party at 4.30 p.m.

MAJOR KELLY TO START FOR HOME

OFFICER WHO WON CROSS OF WAR TO RESUME PRACTICE

Mrs. R. B. Kelly has received a Croix de Guerre with a bronze star attached which was won by her son Major B. E. Kelly when fighting in conjunction with the French near Amoins. Major Kelly, who is attached to No. 9. Field Ambulance, is expected to sail for Canada about March 1st and will resume his practice in this city.

THE REAL OFFENDER

Looking For Man Who Gave Liquor to Farmer.

A young farmer was arrested on Saturday night in a pool room in this city charged with being intoxicated. In Police Court this morning he pleaded guilty to the accusation in accordance with the request of Chief Thompson the case was remanded for a week, in which time he hopes to gain information which will result in the apprehension of the party who supplied the liquor.

SANG PATRIOTIC SONGS BUT EVADED THE DRAFT

Edward Murphy is Held For Sentence and Bail is Refused by Magistrate.

Bail was this morning refused in the case of Edward Murphy, of Kirkfield, who on Saturday in the Police Court here, pleaded guilty to the charge of having been a defaulter under the Military Service Act. He was remanded until such time as the flat arrived from the Department of Justice.

This morning application for bail was made in his behalf but as he had acknowledged his guilt and was remanded in custody for sentence, this concession was refused as Murphy is thought to have been one of the leading spirits in the defaulter encampment which was situated in the woods in the Kirkfield district last summer and which defied the Dominion Police and challenged them to come and take them into custody.

When arrested Murphy was carrying in his pocket written copies of two popular patriotic songs, namely, "Keep the Home Fires Burning" and "The Cavalier." It is thought that he must have been making use of his talents at the amateur entertainments in his home district, and if so there was a strange incongruity in his choice of selections and his stand with regard to his country's need.

It is said that the band of absentees, to which Murphy belonged, led a care-free Robin Hood existence in the shady woodland glens of the back country and that one of their number who pretended to be learned in the provisions and application of the M. S. A. and was himself a defaulter gave regular lectures to the assembled outlaws upon compulsory military service, its iniquities and how to avoid it.

It is thought that the police may in the near future give this gentleman an opportunity to address a more important meeting in the Police Court at Peterborough when he will be called upon to give an account of why he failed to report for service when ordered to do so.

OLD CHURCH BUILDING ON MURRAY STREET IS BOUGHT BY VETERANS

Deal Was Completed Saturday and Work of Remodeling Structure Will Begin Tomorrow—Extensive Alterations Are Planned—to be Made Modern in Every Way.

On Saturday the purchase was completed by the Peterboro Branch of the Great War Veterans Association of the property formerly occupied by the Murray Street Baptist Church. This property is located between Aylmer and George street on the south side of Murray street, of 114 feet, by a depth of practically 192 feet. A lane runs along the west side of the building leading to driving sheds in the rear yard, so that the property is out of contact with other buildings.

The main building proper is a two-storey structure with a solid stone foundation of considerable thickness running up several feet above the ground level and from there on the construction is brick. There is a small cottage in the rear of the vacant lot which will be used as a caretaker's residence.

Proposed Changes

It is proposed that the basement or ground floor will be arranged for executive offices, recreation rooms, and baths. The first floor will contain an assembly hall, 40 feet by 66 feet and in addition a suite of rooms for the Ladies Auxiliary, consisting of three rooms and an up to date kitchen. A third floor will be added to the main building and will contain 12 or 15 bedrooms with bathroom facilities this will be a source of revenue and comfort for the members. It will also serve to make the hall a home to all unattached members. In the long lounge room on this floor there will be six or eight Davenport beds that can be made down for any extra occasion.

The outside of the building will be completely altered by changing the windows and the erection of balconies on the front and rear.

Start Work Tomorrow

The contracts for all changes have been let to Mr. H. A. Graham, a returned comrade who has had a number of years experience as contractor in this city. The work will start tomorrow and the veterans have great hopes that they will be able to finance all the work at the present time as a means of giving labor to some of the unemployed.

The committee in charge of the work are: Capt. R. E. Layfield, chairman; Capt. A. S. Morrison, Arthur Ringer, Harvey Staunton, and the Secretary, Sidney Whatley.

Marine Engines May Be Built In Peterborough

The deputation of working men, accompanied by Mayor Duncan left for Ottawa last midnight, to interview the Cabinet on the labor situation in this city, especially as it affects the C. G. E. plant which is almost closed down for lack of orders.

As stated in the Review Saturday the C. G. E. Company is willing to take up the manufacture of marine engines for the Government at cost for the purpose of keeping their men employed. A protest was also to be registered against the proposal to import from Sweden or the United States electrical machinery that can be manufactured in Peterborough.

The deputation was received by Sir Thomas White, acting Premier, and Hon. A. K. McLean, acting Minister of Marine. The labor situation was presented by Capt. Barnham, the Mayor and other representatives. The Ministers received the deputation very favorably and promised to give every consideration to the labor situation and demands when allocating work for marine engines and other requirements. The deputation was well pleased with the result of the interview.

ARMED TROOPS ON GUARD IN BOSTON

EVERY PRECAUTION IS TAKEN TO PROTECT LIFE OF PRESIDENT

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Washington, Feb. 24.—Ten more arrests have been made in connection with the reported plot to assassinate President Wilson. Nearly twenty-five Industrial Workers of the World are now being held in this case.

At Boston extraordinary precautions are being taken to guard Wilson from harm. More than nine hundred policemen and detectives guarded the line of march and armed troops occupied the roofs and windows of houses along the route.

Two Prisoners Saw Way To Freedom

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Simcoe, Feb. 24. — By sawing through two and one half inch bars in their cell door, and five window bars about one inch square, two prisoners, made their escape in the early hours of the morning. They were William Flock, sentenced to three years in the penitentiary, and Frank Sutton, sentenced to eighteen months both for theft.

To Hear Eulogies Ot Sir Wilfrid

Ottawa, Feb. 24. — Parliament will devote Tuesday afternoon to appreciations of its senior member, Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The present arrangement is that only two set speeches will be delivered. Sir Thomas White, Acting Prime Minister, speaking for the Government, will deliver an extended oration, while Hon. Hodolphe Lemieux has been selected by the French-Canadia nmembers of the Opposition to represent them and may speak in French.

The Acting Prime Minister stated that opportunity will be afforded other members of the House who may wish to speak of the long and illustrious career of Sir Wilfrid in the public life of Canada.

ENGLAND FACES CIVIL STRIFE

LLOYD GEORGE ASKS PARLIAMENT TO HELP TO PREVENT IT

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Feb. 24.—The United Kingdom is faced with the prospects of civil strife and the House of Commons should do everything in its power to avert it, Premier Lloyd George declared today in introducing a bill to constitute a committee to inquire into the conditions prevailing in the coal industries.

Liquor Is Now Bought As Booty

St. Catharines, Feb. 24.—Whiskey and champagne have taken the place of diamonds and precious stones as the objective of burglars in Ontario, as revealed in a robbery at the home of F. Blaikie, near Port Dalhousie, which has just been reported to the city and county police. While the occupants of the house were away burglars entered the place and carried away five gallons of Gooderham & Warts whiskey, one case of cherry whiskey, one case of champagne, a five-gallon keg of port wine, besides several dozen cases of vegetables and fruit, 16 pairs of ladies' silk stockings, several dozen silver cutlery, 20 phonograph records and various other household articles, which must have required one or two trucks to convey the booty away. The police are mystified.

DUELING WITH POLICE; SALOON-KEEPER DIES

Toledo, Ohio, Feb. 24.—Following a revolver duel with police officers at the Waldorf Hotel here today, James W. McGregor, a former Detroit saloon-keeper and a native of Chatham, was shot and killed after he had barricaded himself in his room in the hotel and defied the police to arrest him.

Shortly before noon he pulled a revolver and began firing it in the lobby of the hotel, but fortunately striking nobody. McGregor made a rush for his bedroom as the police arrived, declaring he would never be taken alive. After breaking in the door, the officers attempted to seize the crazed man, who began firing again. The fire was returned.

CLEAR MYSTERY OF DEATH OF SISTER

NUN BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN VICTIM OF VIOLENCE IN 1907

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Traverse City, Mich, Feb. 24 — Several persons connected more than a decade ago with the little convent at Isadore, near here, were being sought today by the County authorities in an effort to throw light on the disappearance in 1907 of Sister Marys Johns, a nun who the officers say they believe came to her death by violence. At the time of her disappearance it was generally understood that Sister Mary had left the convent to visit relatives but her body was recently exhumed. Among those whom the authorities expect to help in clearing up the mystery are Rev. Andrew Bienowske and Father Edward Podlowskij who succeeded Father Bienowske at Isadore.

TROOPS TO AID OF CITY

Bavarian Regiments Offer to Block Spartacans' Game

Berlin, Feb. 24.—A special despatch to The Local Anzeiger says the Bavarian regiments outside Munich have offered to come to the aid of the city if the Spartacans attempt to terrorize the capital, and also have placed themselves at the disposal of the newly-elected diet, which was to have met, Friday ,but which was dispersed by the Soviet government.

Count Von Luxburg, brothr of the former Minister to Argentina, the newspaper says, has been arrested on suspicion of being implicated in the assassination of Kurt Eisner, the late premier.

RATE MAY BE 34 MILLS

Brantford, Feb. 24.—Information is given that the tax rate this year will be 34 mills, as compared with 30½ the past year. The difference is due to the cost of the Emergency Hospital and to increased salaries and wages to the school teachers, firemen, police and works employees. An effort will be made to trim the estimates further, but the belief is held that only essentials have been asked for, and consequently little can be done.

NAVAL EXPERTS AGREE THAT WARSHIPS SHOULD BE SUNK

British and Americans Say That Such Vessels Are no Use For Commercial Purposes and Cannot Be Broken Up at a Profit.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Paris, Feb. 24.—While the Supreme War Council has not discussed the disposition of the surrendered German warships, naval experts of the Council have studied the subject. British and American officers agreeing that the proper solution of the question will be to sink them in deep water. French and Italian officers do not take this view and if the experts do not reach an agreement the matter will be taken up directly by the Supreme War Council. The British navy has been demonstrated by wreckers that the greater number of the German naval vessels cannot be broken up at a profit.

vessels taken during the war and they have a greater interest in the determination of the question, and they have the weight of opinion of the American experts with them.

There are seventy four German warships, aggregating half a million tons, or an estimated building cost of $200,000,000. These naval vessels cannot be used profitably in commerce, are too heavily engined and have no cargo space, a fact which has been proved. It has also been demonstrated by wreckers that naval vessels cannot be broken up at a profit.

Suggest Pension To Lady Laurier

Ottawa, Feb. 24. — The Ottawa Journal on Saturday made the following interesting suggestion. "One of the first duties of Parliament should be to vote a pension to Lady Laurier not less than the salary which Sir Wilfrid Laurier received as Leader of the Opposition.

"Sir Wilfrid gave his life service to Canada. He made no effort to get fortune for himself in the monetary sense, and no fortune came to him. Canada should see to it that the aged wife whom the dead statesman has left behind should receive the reverence and justice to which Sir Wilfrid Laurier's fifty years and more of stainless public service entitles her who was closest to his heart."

"Head For South And Stay Away"

NEGROES ARE BEING CHASED OUT OF PENNSYLVANIA STEEL TOWN

Coatesville, Pa., Feb. 24.—Coatesville has started to deport negroes brought to the steel town during the war labor shortage. Police are rushing the men out of town shoeless and penniless in many instances, and telling them to "head south and stay away."

The first drive in this direction was started on Tuesday, and according to public announcements made by the police others are to follow. Thirty negroes were taken to a bridge off the outskirts of Coatesville to the south and driven out of town.

The round-up was made on South First avenue, where the negroes congregate in pool-rooms and cigar stores, under the direction of Constable A. S. Jackson and State police, who have been stationed in Coatesville for some weeks. More than fifty men were rounded up.

Every man was then asked to produce his employees' check showing that he was a worker. Men who were unable to produce such checks were put in the "southbound gang," as the cops called it. Under guard of foot police an dthe mounted States constabulary they were escorted away.

Brockville, Feb. 24.—The first of a series of banquets to soldiers under the auspices of the Soldiers' Aid Commission was tendered in Victoria Hall here Friday night at 6 o'clock, when about two hundred veterans partook of a spread served by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the War Veterans.

FOOD SHIP FOR BREST BURNED AT NEW YORK

New York, Feb. 24.—The army refrigerating ship Sixaola was sunk at her pier in Hoboken to save her from flames which were raging in her holds. Two members of the crew, an officer and a boatswain's mate, who were helping fight the fire, are missing, and are believed to have perished. The vessel was loaded with beef and lard, and was about to sail for Brest.

DEALING WITH DEFAULTERS

CHARLES P. DOHERTY, of Kinmount, who pleaded guilty in the police court recently to the charge of being a military defaulter, was sentenced to the prison farm for two years less one day.

A short term in such a place of confinement involves less real hardship than the same length of time spent in the trenches of Europe. There is infinitely less discomfort and danger. The discipline, too, is not much more severe than that to which the soldiers were subject. The latter received for their services little more than their board and clothes. Doherty as a prisoner at the farm will get as much. Any service he will be able to render will scarcely be worth his keep in dollars and cents. The State really loses by his incarceration.

In private life Doherty was a prosperous merchant. There are other defaulters in the same class, men so comfortable in circumstances and so successful in business that they sought to evade the draft. For doing this they should be made to pay. A heavy fine levied upon them would be more to the purpose than giving them a short jail sentence. But sentence or no sentence the wealthy slacker should be made to help pay the cost of the war which he refused to win.

PAY OF MEMBERS OF PARLIAMENT

THE OTTAWA CITIZEN believes that the sessional indemnities of members of Parliament and the salaries of Cabinet Ministers should be increased. It believes that the present system should be revised so that there would be fewer ministers. The Citizen, however, does not favor the idea of Parliament voting itself an increase in pay, but says any such increase agreed upon should not become effective until the next Parliament so that the responsibility should be forced upon the people themselves.

The Citizen says that when the Dominion Elections Act came up for revision this session, parliament should take steps to provide for members and ministers on a more liberal basis of sessional indemnity and ministerial salary than the present rates. The allowance of $2,500 a year may have been sufficient a few years ago; but the purchasing power of the dollar has been so reduced that the present indemnity to private members is practically $1,000 better than $1,000 would have been when Parliament finished on $2,500. The sessional indemnity should be at least $4,000 a year; even then it is barely sufficient to pay the conscientious member's expenses.

Objectors may perhaps argue that there are members who do not give $2,500 worth of attention to their parliamentary duties. This may be so, particularly of some members who rarely take any part in the session's work, excepting when some special private interest demands their attendance. But the majority of members probably devote by far the most of their time to parliamentary matters, not only during the session, but all the year round. The constituencies that elect such slacker representatives penalise themselves. It is their own loss when they send reactionaries to parliament, and it is sufficient loss to the nation to have seats in the House thus barred of service. The drones in the hive should not be accepted as reasons why the workers should be indemnified inadequately for their time.

The House of Commons should take its courage in both hands this session, and as one of the necessary reforms toward independence of party funds, if for no better reason, provision should be made for a more adequate sessional indemnity. At the same time the salaries of the cabinet ministers should be brought up to a scale somewhat in keeping with administering a national department of government. The same objection about some ministers being worth less to the country than their present $7,000 a year may seem to apply in certain instances. But mediocrity in the cabinet should not be allowed to set the standard of remuneration. The ministers who do keep the government of Canada functioning probably work harder and direct policies of greater concern to the country, than the president of any dozen industrial corporation. The nation should pay its ministers, not only as well as private corporations pay their presidents and executive officers and legal advisers, but better. The people of Canada should demand this in the public interest, and from a sense of national self-respect and dignity.

The salary of a cabinet minister in Great Britain is $15,000 a year; some receive more. By setting the salary at $25,000 a year in Canada, the country would be rid almost automatically, of mediocrity in the cabinet. Public opinion would be less tolerant of it, and the national treasury would probably be so much the better off because of the change. A way could be found to have fewer ministers. Customs and inland revenue might properly become part of the department of finance, with one minister and a parliamentary secretary instead of the present separate arrangement. Railways' canals, marine and aerial transport could be incorporated with the department of public works, to come under one minister of national services, assisted by parliamentary secretaries. The present department of trade and commerce should disappear for something more practical: a ministry of industries in Canada could turn for the same kind of practical help as the agricultural industry can at present to the ministry of agriculture. A ministry of industry, with under-secretaries for commerce, agriculture, fisheries and manufacturing, would perhaps more than pay for itself in the assistance it could render to Canadian industrial enterprise.

TO FIGHT BOLSHEVISM

TWO IDEAS were dominant in the minds of certain strikers at Seattle. The first was that shipyards and other industries should be operated by the people who put their money into them. The second was that this end should be reached by paralyzing the community through strikes and other methods of coercion until it surrendered to the forces of organized labor. These two ideas are styled Bolshevism. They should be treated differently.

It is possible that the first idea may be tried out lawfully and peacefully. In Britain, where the wage earners are a majority, they can gain control of the industries of the country at any time by going to the polls as a unit. In Germany, certain industries may be handed over to a partnership between a Socialist Government and a Socialist Working Class. In both these lands the political rule of the majority may develop lawfully and peacefully, into the industrial rule by the working people. It cannot be prevented by force. The only way it can be prevented is by argument, reason and sense. It is an idea of the mind that will have to be answered by the mind.

The second idea is not in this category at all. It is savagery. It means that people having failed to convert a majority to their ideas, fail at the polls and finding themselves in a minority, say they will gain their end by force. The only answer is immediate and implacable counterforce. Every group of persons announcing the intention of destroying the will of the majority by the violence of the minority must be broken up. In the fight against the second idea, hesitation is treason and argument is cowardice.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

OUR CONTEMPORARY gives its ideas of what the new leader of its party should be, but unfortunately no such political paragon has yet been born or made.

Editor and Publisher Bittrome of the St. Catharines Standard, after forty years of service to the public as the producer of a creditable city daily, celebrated the conclusion of the same by presenting the mayor of the city with a cheque for $1500 to provide a rose garden for St. Catharines. Brotherly Love.
(Winchester Press.)

Somebody should wake up the publisher of the Chesterville Record. Not only is he asleep, but he seems to be suffering from a nightmare. The following is from the Record of last week:

"Last week the Record, through business engagements, was unable to attend a meeting of the publishers of Dundas at Winchester and partake of a banquet tendered them by the village council. We have waited with greatly aroused curiosity to know what happened at the feed. We have failed to find a line regarding it in any paper of the county. Why all this reticence, brethren? Did the bubble burst before gas masks were adjusted?"

Let us enlighten our dreaming cotem. First, there was no such gathering at Winchester; second, there was no banquet tendered; third, nothing happened because there was no food; fourth, nothing was published because there was nothing to publish; fifth, there is no reticence, because there is nothing to be reticent over; sixth, no bubble burst because there was no bubble. Even the four years' war does not seem to have brushed the cobwebs from the vision of the Chesterville publisher.

GEN. FOCH'S CONVINCING WAY

(New York Times.)

The Germans seem at last to be waking up to some of the facts of their position. Their army was beaten in the field, and they are at the mercy of the victors; but, in spite of all that has happened since, they seem to have persisted in the belief that they could negotiate with those victors on even terms. Not even their exclusion from the Peace Conference has availed to cure them of this strange delusion. It took Marshal Foch to do it, in so far as it has been done at all.

When Erzberger protested against the "harshness" of the revised terms on the ground that they would imperil the success of the new German Government, Marshal Foch does not seem to have made any elaborate argument to let the light into that darkened mind. He merely replied, so our correspondent reports, "I know only peace and war. We have not peace, therefore we have war." It had nothing to do with Erzberger's delusion that the stability of the new German Government is a matter dear to the hearts of the Allies, but it seems actually to have opened Erzbergers' eyes to the true situation in which he stood, better than a 500-page thesis could have done. In other words, he got the idea.

In the same despatch we read that the German armistice commission were greatly opposed to allowing Marshal Foch to decide all disputed points on the application of the armistice conditions; that they asked convincingly, "What is the use of our commission? You might as well have a dictator and be done with it." This is indeed the true state of the case. The commission had nothing to do except to sign on the dotted line, which was carefully pointed out to them by Marshal Foch. He might as well have been a dictator. This is the truth which the Allies, with unwearied patience, have been trying vainly to hope into some crack in the German skull. At last, although it is difficult to see how, they get the idea. It is possible that this revelation came to them through a singular circumstance, which was that, when they waited upon the Marshal as usual to tell him that they had as yet received no authority to sign the terms, the Marshal said "that he was going away at 6 o'clock and that Germany had better make up her mind by that time."

When the Spanish-American peace commission was at work ending the war of 1898, some of the Spaniards, it is said, objected to some of the terms as inadmissable, whereupon William R. Day, one of the American commissioners, informed them that "a peace treaty can contain anything that the victors choose to put in it." Bismarck, too, managed to convey the same idea to the French in 1871, so that the idea is not new to the Germans, however much they may have forgotten Bismarck and his ways. Apparently, however, they had got the notion that it does not apply to Germans, or perhaps that it applies to peace treaties only and not to armistice conventions. Foch, though famous as the man who brought the war to an end, has an additional title to fame; he seems to be the only man who can make a German understand things.

TODAY'S STORY

Some time since an Ohio man decided to invite a business acquaintance to dinner, and in consulting his wife about it gave her some of the prospective guest's private history.

"Mr. Jones," finally remarked the youngster, "won't you please drink your coffee? I am awfully anxious to see you."

"Why, yes," good naturedly smiled the guest, "if you wish me to. Why are you so anxious to see me drink it?"

The Retort Crisp.

After a grand review of German troops at Potsdam, the kaiser called out to the officer commanding the Prussian Guard in a voice loud enough to be heard by all the distinguished guests who were grouped in front of the palace: "Pick me out a hundred men from the Prussian Guard!" Then, taking the arm of King Edward VII., who was there, he said, "Come with me." He escorted King Edward very delicately round the hundred men and then said banteringly, "Well, do you think you could find a hundred men in England to beat them?"

"I don't know so much about that," promptly replied the late King, "but I could easily find fifty who would try."

NO DROP IN CLOTH PRICE

Price Likely to Remain Stationary During Reconstruction Period.

Mr. Samuel Jagger, woolen expert, of Huddersfield, England, who after a short stay in Toronto visiting Mr. A. M. Hobberlin, has started on his return journey to England on the "Baltic," his hundred and fourteenth trip across the Atlantic, said with reference to the woolen situation in England:

"Canadians need expect no rapid drop in prices, as this will be impossible because of the amount of clothing that has to be furnished to each demobilized man, who is to receive a suit, overcoat, cap and shirt. All these goods have to be manufactured into cloth for something like six million soldiers. This is going to take a great deal of machinery which has been used for military clothing, and it will take some time before it can be put to civilian use. Couple this with the fact that all of the neutral countries are without wool, and draw your own conclusions. The allied nations, with the exception of the United States, England and Australia are also without wool, which shows that there will be a great demand when the woolen market is under control again."

LAURIER'S TROPHIES

Bequeathed to Ottawa by Will It Is Said.

Ottawa, Feb. 24.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier maintained his pride and interest in Ottawa to the last. It is understood that a clause in his will dedicates to the Capital City all the tokens of honor bestowed upon him during his distinguished public career.

Many of these are of almost priceless value. They include the testimonials covering the freedom of cities in the United Kingdom. The casket containing the freedom of the City of Edinburgh, one of the most beautiful of the collection, is solidly encrusted with diamonds. The intention is that the souvenirs shall find a place in the War Memorial Building, which will doubtless be erected in Ottawa before long.

WAR SURGERY

The Editor of the Review:

Dear Sir—Permit me to correct an error which you made in reporting my talk to the Life Problem Club at the Y.M.C.A. on Friday evening. Nothing was further from my thoughts than to cast any reflection on the gallant work done by the surgeons during the war or to underestimate the contributions they have made to surgery. The idea I intended to convey to those who heard me was, that the surgery of war was usually secondary to injury and therefore of an emergency character, while in civil live the condition was often obscure and in such cases the diagnosis might be more difficult than the operation. Hence the need for a thorough knowledge of anatomy, pathology and medicine as well as surgery.

Yours truly,
A. MOIR.

LESSONS IN RIGHT LIVING

(By Dr. W. A. Brady.)

That old adage, "For every child a tooth," is as superstitious, cruel and preposterous as most of the other beliefs and teachings of ignorant old women.

The expectant mother owes it as a prime duty to herself and her child to have her teeth properly cared for, to have any necessary dental work done, no matter what operative procedure that may entail, early in pregnancy, and to visit her dentist repeatedly throughout the waiting period for the purpose of keeping her teeth in sound condition.

There are still too many dentists who pretend that it is not worth while to fill or otherwise treat the baby teeth. You can detect an uneducated, unskillful or unreliable dentist instantly by his stand on this one vital matter. If he would postpone treatment of the temporary or milk teeth "because the child won't have them long, anyway," it is far better to have nothing to do with him for no competent dentist nowadays harbors any such antiquated notion.

Another cruel and utterly absurd superstition of the ignorant is that any dental work done for the mother in the expectant period is likely to have some pernicious prenatal influence on the child. The truth is that postponement or neglect of dental work needed by the mother is the only thing that is likely to have any pernicious influence on the child.

There is no danger whatever in necessary extraction of teeth at any time in the course of pregnancy. There is a danger in attempting to postpone a necessary extraction.

There is no sense in administering lime salts, phosphates or other chemical substances purporting to be good to "nourish the teeth" — not while the patient is able to take food. These mineral elements are supplied in ample quantities and in the most assimilable form in most ordinary foods.

Constant Reader Rises To Remark

Having followed your columns for a long time, I have tabulated the important lessons I have learned:

1. There is no such thing as rheumatism.
2. There is no such thing as catarrh.
3. There is no such thing as a good tonic.
4. A layman who attempts to treat himself has a fool for a doctor.
5. Indigestion is caused by almost everything but an error of diet.
6. Teething and worms should be ignored in the illnesses of infants.
7. Physics and liver pills do much more harm than good—when not prescribed by a member of the medical profession.
8. Backache suggests everything but kidney trouble.
9. All stout persons eat too much.
10. When an old geezer like myself (33) begins to miss some of his former pep it is high time for him to worry about his arteries at least enough to pay some doctor $5 for a physical examination.

I trust I have learned my lesson well enough to deserve special credit from you. M. M. G.

Pellagra.

Please give a remedy to freshen the complexion. What causes pellagra? I have taken treatment twice from a specialist, but the pellagra returns after a few months, and now I am unable to employ a specialist again. Can it be cured by dieting? Please suggest something for the rough and cracked skin on the wrists. GEORGIA.

Pellagra is a deficiency disease caused by an insufficient quantity and variety of fresh vegetable and flesh foods in the die. If at least a pint of fresh raw milk is taken daily pellagra will probably not occur. Other foods especially valuable in preventing and curing pellagra are greens, fresh fruits of all kinds, butter, fresh beef and fresh mutton and eggs. LACE COMES BACK

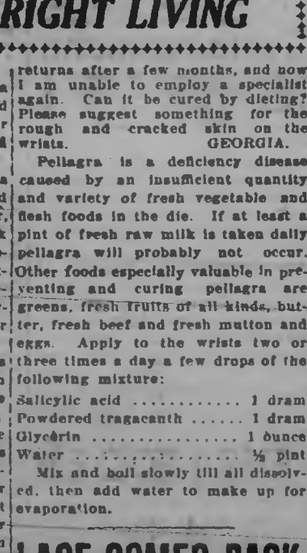
Decoration for Frocks Promises Wide Popularity.

There Is No Attempt to Relieve the Neckline of Evening Gowns When They Are Deeply Decollete.

By this time it is quite apparent to even the casual observer, states a fashion writer, that old lace has come into its own again and that there is a revulsion of feeling against the severe neck line except by women who know they look extremely well in such severity. It is not especially trying when the decolletage is square, but when round, or V-shaped it takes a woman with remarkably regular features to carry it off. This refers to day frocks. There is no attempt to relieve the neckline of evening gowns when they are deeply decollete, as the bodice is rarely of heavy or opaque material.



An Oriental Frock for Dinner and Theater, of Bright Blue Satin and Black Thread Lace. The Bodice is of the Latter. The Girdle is Caught by a Plaeque of Colored Beads.

The introduction of an afternoon frock, which now means a frock worn for lunch as well as tea, but not for the ordinary purposes of shopping or patriotic work, with a deep U-shaped, decolletage half filled in with a flat ruffle of lace, has met with such popularity to insure a reasonable every side the expression of pleased acceptance with a fashion that gives one a chance to have the face softened.

Against this judgment there are a host of objectors who insist that the severe neckline is smart and that the other is out of the picture, but as soon as enough well-dressed women adopt the advancing method then she who is out of the picture will be in it. It is merely a question of the eye. We are the victims of visual familiarity with objects. Otherwise there would not be that complete change in the fashions which occurs season in and out.

MITTENS ARE IN GAY COLORS

Woolen Hand Coverings Are Seen in Large Variety; Often Match Scarf or Cap.

One reason put forward for the vogue for mittens is that one cannot carry a muff and carry a bag, and every patriotic woman simply must carry a bag these days. Another reason, and one that holds true of the woman of moderate income, is that fur is high and a new muff is out of the question. Then a lot of women are doing outdoor work who never did it before. They are exposed to the cold nipping air of morning and evening on their way to and from volunteer or paid work. They drive automobiles and "conduct" street cars and act as messenger boys and collect bills, and for this work they need to have a protection for their hands that is more substantial than the kid glove or fabric glove of other days.

The prediction was made some months ago that the smartly dressed woman would be wearing shaggy angora gloves and mittens and some people shrugged their shoulders and felt sure that there was nothing that would tempt the well-dressed woman away from the conventional kid. Surely the fact that they had almost doubled in price would not have this effect on the woman who took dressing seriously. But the vogue has come, and where well-dressed women are seen in outdoor attire there one also sees woolen gloves and woolen mittens. They are made in the gayest colors, often to match a woolen scarf or cap, and as the season advances they will be even more in evidence than they are now.

Linings Are Colored.

A notion reminiscent of the blouses of several seasons ago, when many colors were transfused by means of many linings placed one above the other, is shown in some clever blue blouses of georgette through which red, canary or petunia shows part of the way to the yoke and again for cuffs and collar.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Women have been placed in the dining rooms of three of New York's leading hotels to take the places of striking man waiters.

More than 6,000 women served as drivers and aids in the American Red Cross motor corps service. The khaki uniform was discarded and a new one of Red Cross Oxford gray substituted.

Swiss girl singers, sometimes assisted by boys, gave street concerts in the principal towns and cities to raise money for a fund for the comfort of the soldiers guarding the borders of Switzerland.

Santa Not Enemy Alien.

Of what nationality is Santa Claus, a friend asks. Of almost every nationality, we would say. If you mean to ask the derivation of the name: It is a corrupted form of the Holland Dutch name for St. Nicholas and has no "enemy alien" taint. The saint himself was a native of Patara in the province of Lycia, Asia Minor, and was

Must Release Armenia, Mesopotamia and Syria From Domination of Turks

ARMENIA, the actual boundaries of which must depend upon what is to be the future of Russia, and upon many other questions, shall include a section of northeastern Asia Minor, where Armenians for the most part reside—a section sufficiently large to permit Armenians now domiciled without if to migrate there, should they desire to do so. Mesopotamia, where British influence would prevail, not because Great Britain desires to annex more territory, but in order to prevent Germanic domination and to assure the British position in the East, would be constituted an Arab state. Arabia and Palestine, the latter area practically a Jewish state, would be under British influence. Syria, including Damascus, Aleppo, and perhaps Alexandria, would be another subdivision in which France, which already has many interests there, would be paramount. Italy, whose claims in the Adalia region and southwestern Asia Minor are natural, might have a predominating control of that area, including or excluding Marsala. Smyrna together with a limited coastal region to the north and south of it, where the Hellenic element of the population is strong, might fall under the influence of Greece. Such subdivisions or arrangements, which could be worked out in connection with the suggestions already made, would leave Turkey in direct or indirect possession of a large section of Central Asia Minor, including Konia, Angora, and perhaps Brusa and Sivas. That section would run along the coast of the Black Sea on the north and perhaps touch that of the Mediterranean on the south, thereby guaranteeing it adequate access to the sea, which also would be provided by way of Smyrna and Beutari, ports where special commercial regimes would no doubt be inaugurated.—Asia Magazine.

Literature.

Everyone knows what books are. But what is literature? It is the ark on the flood. It is the light on the candlestick. It is the flower among the leaves; the consummation of the plant's vitality, the crown of its beauty, and the treasure house of its seeds.—Henry J. van Dyke.

RENOVATING THE "HARD" HAT

Home Milliner Can Remedy Defects and Make Top Piece Stylish and Becoming.

No woman can well afford to make herself look "hard," and there is nothing that will do it quicker than a "hard" hat. You know the kind, masculine and unbending in every line. Perhaps you have made an unfortunate purchase of the kind. So these general hints on renovating may help.

Usually the unbecomingness of this type of hat centers in the crown, which may be too tall or unbecomingly stiff, or both. The home milliner can remedy both these things by replacing the stiffened side of the crown with a softer material like satin antique, which is very fashionable for hats just now, or with velvet. Usually it is advisable to use the old "lid" of the crown for a stay. Now cut your new material of the desired height and half as long again as the circumference of the "lid." Gather it on a cord and secure to the latter. After that you can shir it both for the sake of shape and for decorativeness.

Another remedy for the harsh crown difficulty, and one almost universally becoming, is to replace half the side of the crown and the lid with the more yielding material. According to this method, you will slice off the top of the crown and as much of the side as will give you a becoming crown height. Then gather the new material as usual. It simplifies the work to do the gathering on a little disk of the former stiffer stuff.

WOMEN EVERYWHERE

Praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as the Greatest Remedy for Woman's Ills.

New Haven, Conn.—"For two years I suffered with a female weakness, pains in my back and painful periods, and I was so weak and tired that I was not able to do my work. A friend told me to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it gave me great relief. My pains left me and I am now able to do my work and feel fine. You can publish my testimonial and if your Vegetable Compound will help any other woman I will be very much pleased."—Mrs. CHARLES E. MORGAN, 37 Sea Street, New Haven, Conn.

The reason Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so successful is because it contains the curative, strengthening properties of good old fashioned roots and herbs, which act directly on the female organism.

There are women everywhere who long for children in their homes yet are denied this happiness on account of some functional disorder which in most cases would readily yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Such women should not give up hope until they have given this wonderful medicine a trial, and for special advice write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of 40 years' experience is at your service.

WOULD SCRAP GERMAN NAVY

ENGLAND OPPOSED TO KEEPING ANY OF THE VESSELS AS WARSHIPS

Paris, Feb. 24.—The basis of the British Admiralty plan which will be submitted to the Supreme War Council is that the German ships should not be retained as warships, and it is insisted that because of their construction they have no commercial value. Whether the vessels shall be sunk in the Atlantic Ocean or otherwise destroyed is a matter of indifference to the Admiralty.

The Admiralty decision is said to have been influenced largely by the belief that a satisfactory distribution of the ships among the allies was impossible. In fact, it is added, Great Britain would claim a major portion of the ships. This would only serve to increase her preponderance of sea power which, it is said might be objectionable to other nations.

Prize Winners At George St. Alleys

Prize winners at the George street alleys last week were F. Laskas first in ten pins; P. Gettas, first, in five pins, and C. Rishes, first, in boys' class. Three wood prizes will be given on this week on the different alleys.

GRATUITIES TO CIVILIANS

Employes at Military Headquarters to Receive Bonus.

Gratuities on discharge of all civilians who have been employed by the Militia Department are provided for in instructions which have been received at Military Headquarters from Ottawa. All employes who have been in the service for less than a year will receive a gratuity of eight days' pay on their release. Those who have served between a year and two years will receive two weeks' extra pay, and those who have been employed between two years and three years will be given a gratuity of three weeks' pay. All employed for over three years are provided with four weeks' pay on their discharge.

FOLLOWS PRECEDENT.

Temporary Control Given Eight of the House in 1887.

Ottawa, Feb. 22.—Old-timers here are pointing out that if on Monday the Liberals name a temporary committee to lead the Parliamentary party they will merely follow the precedent set at the time when Sir Wilfrid Laurier assumed leadership himself.

In June, 1887, Edward Blake resigned the leadership of the Opposition two months after the general election for that year, which saw Sir John A. Macdonald once more returned to power. The Liberals appointed a committee of eight to take temporary control. This group in turn, as well as Edward Blake himself, nominated Laurier. He first accepted the post only for that session. At its conclusion, however, the appointment was made permanent.

Some men find that Friday is just as unlucky as any other day.

SEVEN NEW MEMBERS IN LEGISLATURE TOMORROW

Parliament of Onta io Opens Tuesday and Everything is in Readiness for the Event

Toronto, Feb. 24.—Stripped of the panoplies of war, the fourteenth Parliament of Ontario will don the regalia of peace at its first peace-time session, which opens tomorrow afternoon. The session is the fifth held by the present House and the early cloud of war which has overshadowed the Legislature almost since it first came into being in June, 1914 has lifted at last.

All is in readiness at Queen's Park for the formal opening. The walls of the building have been repainted during the past few weeks, fresh matting has been laid upon the floors, and an army of workers have been engaged in preparing the main House for use. The very typewriters in the press gallery have been overhauled this week as a preliminary to the opening.

Seven new members will make their bow to the House on Tuesday, foremost among these is Hon. Dr. Cody, Minister of Education. His colleague, Hon. G. S. Henry, will appear for the first time as Minister of Agriculture, but was a private member of the Legislature at the last session. Other new members include R. A. Fowler of Lennox and R. F. Parnell of St. Catharines, Government supporters; J. A. Calder United Farmer candidates, B. Bowman of Manitoulin, T. W. Widdifield of North Ontario and W. K. Fraser of North Huron.

At least four members of the House will not be in their places at the opening. They are Brig.-Gen. Hogarth of Port Arthur, Lieut.-Col. A. E. Hoss of Kingston, Malcolm Long of Porcupine, and Major J. C. Tolmie of Windsor, all of whom are still overseas. Returned officers who will sit in the House include Lieut.-Col. W. H. Price of Parkdale, Lieut. T. H. Lennox of East York, Major J. J. Hart of East Simcoe, Lieut.-Col. A. C. Pratt of South Norfolk, Lieut.-Col. A. F. Rykert of Dundas, and Major Donald Sharpe of Welland.

There have been few changes made in the seating arrangements in the House, except for the positions allotted the new members. Preparations are being made to accommodate the record audience of spectators, which is expected to be in attendance for the opening. The usual list of invitations has been sent out within the past few weeks.

The formal opening takes place at three o'clock on Tuesday afternoon According to custom, the House will adjourn after hearing the speech from the throne, which will be read by his Honor Sir John Hendrie Lieutenant-Governor.

HARTLEY DEWART NAY BE LEADER

RUMORED NOW THAT TORONTO MAN IS TO HEAD LIBERALS

Toronto, Feb. 24.—It may surprise some to learn that a formidable movement is under way to make Mr. Hartley Dewart, K.C., M.P.P., leader the Federal Opposition. Mr. Dewart's champions contend that he has outstanding qualifications for the position.

He held a foremost place in Sir Wilfrid Laurier's affections. He was that statesman's first lieutenant in the famous anti-conscription tour of the Western Provinces, and he stood by his leader to the last. Mr. Dewart could be acceptable to the Province of Quebec. He would be acceptable also to all the alien, anti-war and anti British elements of the population.

An extremely clever and not too scrupulous politician he could rally to the Opposition banners all the extremist agitators in the country. He is already close to the Laurierite leaders of the Union Farmers' movement, and there is no Bolshevist or enemy section of the people who could not be utilized by the Liberal ship.

The member for Southwest Toronto in the Legislature lacks nothing in courage, and he has exceptional ambitions. He possesses the kind of "personality" that attracts the crowd. In the view of many Liberals he is decidedly "a man to cheer for" and to win elections.

HANDICRAFT WORK AT EXHIBITION

HAND WOVEN RUGS AND WORK-BAG SHOWN BY MISS ALFORD

At the Art Exhibition held in the Public Library last week, Miss L. M. Alford had among the exhibits, three hand woven rugs, two of wool and one of chenile, and which attracted a great deal of favorable comment from the visitors.

One rug Miss Alford had on exhibition a handsome workbag of silk with gold threads running through it. Miss Alford had the further distinction of being the only local resident represented in this class of exhibits.

Meeting of Workers Yesterday to Make Preparation.

There was a meeting of representatives of the different Sunday schools of the city, held in Murray Street school room yesterday afternoon, to discuss the details connected with the Sunday School Convention to be held here in the near future.

There were about 35 delegates present at yesterday afternoon's meeting, at which Mr. Joseph Wearing presided and J. J. Turner acted as secretary.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

HOW YOUNG MAN SAVED HIMSELF

LOVE OF A WOMAN PROVED SALVATION OF A DERELICT

No man or woman can sink so low in sin or in the social scale that it is impossible for them to reclaim themselves and start life all over again is the moral lesson taught in the play "The Man Who Came Back" which was presented at the Grand Opera House Saturday, after an unprecedented run in New York where it was played for 467 consecutive nights in one theatre in that city. The play is based on the story of the same name by John Fleming Wilson. Henry Potter, the hero is turned away by his wealthy father after a variety of escapades. He goes through every form of vice except that which is nurtured in the opium dens in Shanghai, where he eventually finds himself and where he discovers a former society girl whom he first met in San Francisco who has become a victim of the drug habit. One word of explanation of the other and after their marriage it is the better life for them, their home being located near Honolulu.

Eventually young Potter returns to his home in New York and makes good in his father's office, his wife remaining behind until his career has been assured. Potter is urged to renounce his marriage but refuses even though fidelity means the loss of his father's fortune. This is made the final test of his honor and when he attains the test, it means final success.

It is an excellent play, presented almost a week point in the cast. The work of James Seeley as the elder Potter, of Miss Jean Carleton as his daughter, of James Dyrenforth as the hero and of Katherine Connell as Marcelle, the faithful wife of the time outcast, was all of a high dramatic order.

The next road show will be "Vanity Fair" which will be presented next Saturday afternoon and evening.

PTE. G. PENNETT'S DEATH

Former Bowmanville Boy Taken Off by "Flu" in B. C.

Bowmanville, Feb. 24. Word has just reached here of the death in the Soldiers' Sanitarium, at Balfour, B. C., of Pte. Gerard Bennett, son of the late William Bennett, a former editor of The Statesman, in this town and later editor of The Boston World. Pte. Bennett enlisted at Victoria, B. C., with the 143rd Battalion, and arrived in France in the 47th Battalion, where he was badly gassed in an engagement and was returned to Victoria in November, 1917, and has since been under treatment with fair hope of recovery, but "flu" cut him off and he died and was buried at Nelson, B. C. He was in his twenty-seventh year.

OBITUARY

GRACE HAMPTON

The death occurred on Sunday afternoon at Lakefield of Grace Hampton, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hampton, aged 21 years, after a few days' illness. She fell a victim to influenza, which was followed by pneumonia.

Miss Hampton was a member of St. John's Church and a faithful worker in the Sunday School and Girls' Auxiliary. She leaves to mourn her loss her parents, five brothers and four sisters, John, of Peterboro, Herbert, of Victoria, Sask.; Harry, of Redcliffe, Alta.; William and Wilfred, of Lakefield, and Misses Louie and Mary, of Lakefield, Mrs. W. G. Hampton, of Govan, Sask., and Mrs. George Arrott, of Lymric, Sask.

The funeral service will be held in St. John's, at 2.30 on Tuesday afternoon.

JOHN SANDY

Mr. John Sandy passed away yesterday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. James Beatty, Bridgenorth, in his 67th year.

Deceased formerly resided in the Township of Manvers, but has been living at Bridgenorth for the past year. He is survived by two sons and six daughters, namely, Samuel, of this city; Claude, of Detroit; Mrs. John Forsythe, Peterborough; Mrs. Lev Fallis, St. Thomas; Mrs. J. Scott, Alameda, Sask.; Mrs. J. Guthrie, Millbrook; Mrs. James Beatty and Mrs. William Beatty, Bridgenorth.

Mr. F. Sandy, formerly the G.T.R. ticket agent in Peterborough and now of Lindsay, is a brother of the deceased.

The funeral will be held tomorrow morning from the residence of the son-in-law of deceased, Mr. John Forsythe, 48 George street south, at 11.15 o'clock to the Grand Trunk station and on the noon train the remains will be forwarded to Bethany and interment will be made in Fallis' cemetery, Manvers, in the afternoon.

There will be a service at the home of Mr. John Forsythe, George street, at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

ARTHUR LASURE, SR.

Mr. Arthur Lasure, Sr., passed away at his home, 554 Romaine street yesterday morning, aged 63 years.

He leaves, in addition to his wife, five sons and five daughters. The sons are Joseph and Arthur, of this city; Leo and Auntoine, with the Canadian forces, overseas, and John. The daughters are Mrs. Dr. Pinto, Sioux City, Iowa; Mrs. A. Blodgett and Mrs. Victor Wilson, of Peterborough, and Misses Amelia and Margaret, at home. Mr. Joseph Lasure, of this city, is the only brother.

The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock from the family residence to the Sacred Heart Church, thence to St. Peter's cemetery where interment will be made.

A VETERAN OF '66

Erasmus Greene passed away at the family residence Sunday morning, Feb. 23, at the age of 85. The deceased was one of the early pioneers of the city, having lived here about all his life. At the time of the Fenian Raid in 1866 he went to the front in Canada's defence as an officer of the 57th Battalion, Peterboro Militia. As a contractor and builder, he superintended and constructed many of the city's public and business buildings. He was a volunteer member of Peterboro's original fire brigade at a time when the town's only defence against fire was a hand operated fire engine, a crude machine as we view it now, but it quenched many a blaze that would have destroyed much property if allowed to spread.

About twenty-five years ago the late Mr. Greene retired from business and spent his declining years an interesting observer of the growth of the city that he had come to as a child when there was nothing here, but a little settlement in the heavy woods. He was a regular attendant at the George Street Methodist Church up to four years ago when he had a stroke of paralysis.

His wife, Mary Hewitt Greene, passed away in 1914. Surviving him are a daughter, Mrs. M. Bithray, of this city, a son, A. W. Greene, and grandson, Capt. P. W. Greene, of Chicago, the latter now serving on the staff of Major-Gen. Barth, United States army.

MRS. WILLIAM LOCKINGTON

The many friends of Mrs. William Lockington will regret to learn of her death at her home here, on Sunday afternoon. Deceased was born in County Cairn, Ireland, eighty four years ago, and came to Canada at the age of twelve, settling in Hope Township, subsequently moving to Peterborough, where she has resided for the past thirty seven years. She had been in failing health for some time and her death was not unexpected.

Surviving her are seven daughters: Miss Margaret and Miss Emma at home; Mrs. Thomas Henry; Mrs. W. J. Byers; Mrs. Dr. Johnston; Mrs. R. Byers; all of this city and Mrs. G. W. Byers of Bewdley. Mrs. Lockington was a devoted member of All Saints Church.

The funeral will be held at 2.30 on Tuesday afternoon, from the family residence on the Monaghan Road to Little Lake Cemetery.

ROBERT JAMES WELSH

Deceased was 72 years of age and was born in England. He leaves a wife and one son in this country.

The funeral was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock to Little Lake Cemetery, Rev. S. Cruikshank conducting the services.

HUGO LUNDGREN

Mr. Hugo Lundgren, a mechanical engineer in the porcelain department of the C. G. E., died this morning in Nicholl's Hospital, aged 32 years.

Deceased was born in Sweden and leaves his mother and sister. The latter, who is of Chicago, was called to Peterborough on account of her brother's illness.

The funeral will be held from 226 Brock street on Wednesday afternoon at 2.30, to Little Lake cemetery, the Rev. R. B. Grobb conducting the services.

TREATY TO MAKE WAR IMPOSSIBLE

MAIN DETAILS OF WORK OF PEACE CONFERENCE ARE COMPLETED

Paris, Feb. 24. The Supreme War Council has completed the main details of the military treaty which Marshal Foch will soon present to the Germans. It will be further perfected in detail at a meeting of the Council to-morrow, and Council of the great powers on Tuesday.

[illegible] ment one, being in its terms a permanent armistice, but in effect a military treaty, disarming and demobilizing the German forces down on a small police basis, understood to be between five and ten divisions of 10,000 men each, with a similar complete naval and aerial disarmament and the dismantlement of the frontier fortifications, as well as Heligoland and the Kiel Canal.

The economic and boundary questions with Germany are left for later determination, but from the military and naval standpoint this treaty will be completely effective in terminating the war, making impossible and resumption of it. The treaty will also have the effect of releasing all the allied troops, except in the established areas to be occupied until the definite peace treaty is signed.

This military treaty will be so effective in ending the possibility of hostilities that it is construed in some quarters as definitely ending the war although there may still be the technical question whether the final ending of the war does not await the signing of the final treaty of peace.

Ammonia.

Ammonia is found in minute quantity in air, and is a natural product of the decay of animal substances. It is procured artificially by the destructive distillation of nitrogen organic matters, such as bones, hair, horns and hoofs and is largely obtained as a by product in the manufacture of illuminating gas from coal.

Denaturing Alcohol.

Alcohol is denatured by the addition thereto of an element which renders it unfit to drink and which may not be removed from the spirit by any process short of destruction. The term arose as a convenient designation of alcohol whose nature had been altered, and its standing was made official by legislation in congress.

The World's Diamonds.

Diamonds of the weight of 28 2-5 tons, of a value of 1,000,000,000, have been taken from the earth from the earliest time to the present day. These figures, however, only concern the stones before cutting, which reduces their weight by half, but multiplies their value by five.

First New England White Child.

November 20 is the anniversary of the birth of Peregrine White, the first English child born in New England. He was born aboard the Mayflower in Plymouth harbor. After his father's death his mother married Gov. Edward Winslow, the first marriage in New England.

German Submarines Were Fooled by Dazzle Ships, Which Were British Idea

ON marine camouflage a widespread error exists. Most people suppose that its object is the concealment of ships, and wonder how it effects that purpose. Of course, it is nothing of the sort, but an attempt to break up the form of a ship in such a way as to make it difficult for an attacking U-boat to estimate the course. Though it is impossible to say how many ships have escaped destruction by means of "dazzle," strong evidence has been forthcoming of its value, together with grateful tributes from merchant captains.

The originator of "dazzle" is Lieut.-Commander Norman Wilkinson, the well-known painter of ships and the sea. In May, 1917, he submitted his scheme to the Admiralty. At that time most transports were painted black, than which no color could be more favorable to a submarine on the lookout for prey. Commander Wilkinson's argument was that if a ship could be broken up into strongly contrasted design her course could not be observed without longer periscope observation and even then not exactly. This delay and uncertainty might prevent the submarine getting into firing position until the ship had obtained a chance of escape.

The Admiralty storeship industry was the first to be painted, and served well as an experiment. "Dazzle" was next tried on 50 transports, from which encouraging reports were received. Afterwards the scheme was extended to the whole of the mercantile marine under the Defence of the Realm Act, which meant that it became compulsory on shipowners to have their ships painted. A staff, mostly of artists and architects, was collected and trained at the Royal Academy; this being the start of the Dazzle Section. The company sent out its moments to the various ports, each officer being supplied with a complete set of the plans and designs then in hand. From time to time new patterns were evolved, which were sent on to the scattered staff. As soon as a merchantman came into port she was painted under the directions of the "dazzle" officer in conjunction with the Director of Shipyard Repairs.

When the scheme was extended to all mercantile marine, models could not be made of every ship. Type ships were therefore adopted, and for each type, according to demand, a number of designs were prepared. Thus on a ship's arrival in a port where there was a "dazzle" officer, her type was first settled and one of the requisite designs applied to her. The task called for considerable skill sometimes, as, for example, when a design intended for a ship 200 feet long had to be accommodated to one of 230 feet.

"Dazzle" did not take its way into the respect of the mercantile marine without a little struggle. In his room at Burlington House Commander Wilkinson has a demonstration theatre, which has brought conviction to some very great naval authorities. If they did not [illegible] some what odd tricks "dazzle" can play even with experienced eyes. A model of a camouflaged ship is placed on a board behind a screen. In the screen is a periscope, to which the experimenting look-out man applies his eye. He is asked to indicate the course of the ship he sees on a compass-dial by his side. This indication is then compared with the direction in which the ships' bows are actually pointing; and the discrepancy between the two is found to be wide. Similar demonstration theatres were set up at the ports for the persuasion of sceptical mariners, whose discomfiture was exceeding when they discovered how far "dazzle" had led astray their wildest perception.

From the Academy school practically every maritime Allied nation has been trained. All the American destroyers and patrol boats have been painted from designs supplied by Commander Wilkinson and his assistants. France sent over four officers for lessons, and then started a dazzle section of her own in Paris. Italy was supplied with the British plans and designs. At the request of the United States Navy Department and the Shipping Corporation Commander Wilkinson went to America to advise, with the result that his scheme was adopted. Since almost every merchantman at sea in the last few months has been "dazzled" on the British lines.

Major and Minor Prophets.

The major prophets of the Old Testament were Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel and Daniel. The Old Testament books contain their prophecies. The minor prophets of the group of Old Testament writers from Hosea to Malachi are so called because of the brevity of their prophecies. Malachi was the last of the minor prophets.

Snake Story.

A species of viper (Viper macrops) from Bosnia, about 18 inches in length, seems to feed exclusively on grasshoppers. An interesting point about this little snake is that, although poisonous, it may be handled with impunity. If teased, it may hiss and snap, but never bites unless seriously hurt.

Substitute for Putty.

A cheap substitute for putty, suitable for stopping cracks in floors and other woodwork, is made by soaking newspaper in a paste made by boiling a pound of flour in three quarts of water and adding a teaspoonful of alum. Force this mixture into the cracks with a knife.

Asceticism.

Asceticism means the practicing of severe virtues, or the mastering of desires and passions. It might be termed the extreme practice of the simple life. Among the ancient Greeks it denoted the exercise and discipline practiced by the athletes and wrestlers.

Seemed Incomplete.

A new baby had come to the home, and the neighbors' little ones were allowed to come in to see him. A little one looked him over generally, then moved down to the bottom of the long dress and, quite puzzled, asked, "Ain't he got his feet yet?"

Yes, I Intend To But Not Now

Have YOU any idea what that decision is costing you—even if you live? Of course, if you die the cost is much GREATER.

Read the following facts and then decide for yourself:

The premium you would pay for $1000 of insurance at age 21 WOULD BUY YOU nearly $4000 of insurance at age 21.

The premium you pay for $1000 of insurance at age 50 WOULD BUY YOU nearly $2500 at age 21.

The premium you pay for $1000 of insurance at age 35 WOULD BUY YOU $1810 at age 21.

Besides, while you may be insurable at age 21 you may not be insurable AT ANY PRICE at the other ages mentioned.

The one great fact that touches our lives is the verdict of NOW.

COMMITTEE TO LEAD THE HOUSE

ACTION LIKELY TO BE TAKEN AT LIBERAL CAUCUS TODAY

Ottawa, Feb. 24.—It seems to be fairly definitely settled that the Liberal caucus today will select a committee of management with Mr. Jas. Robb, Member for Huntingdon, Chief Liberal Whip, as Chairman.

This proposal, which is without Canadian precedent, has derived its strength from two things:

(1)—The seeming inability of the various ingredients of the party to unite upon the choice of a leader, and,

(2)—The fact that some of the candidates strongly boomed for the post art without seats in the House of Commons. The French-Canadian members, who came here determined to vote for a Quebec leader, are said to have been quickly dissuaded from this view, but are swinging in heavily behind Hon. Mackenzie King as against the Hon. Mr. Fielding. Mr. King, it will be recalled, was one of the English-speaking members who stood by the chief in the conscription crisis, standing and going down to defeat as a Laurier candidate in North York, and this is telling mightily in his favor among the French-Canadian group of the party now. Moreover, Mr. King is known to have been a strong favorite of Sir Wilfrid, who had a high regard for his intellectual attainments, and it is noteworthy that the platform which the late leader gave the party in Ottawa a few months ago contained at least one important plank of Mr. King's construction.

Those behind the boom for Mr. King are the main supporters of the committee of management plan. Mr. King is without a seat, and, therefore, is barred from House of Commons leadership for the present; hence the proposition for a temporary arrangement.

MUST SETTLE THE IRISH QUESTION

SPEAKERS SAY THIS IS ESSENTIAL TO PEACE OF THE WORLD

Philadelphia, Feb. 24.—Speaking before the convention of the Irish race which opened here Saturday Justice Daniel F. Cohalan, of the New York Supreme Court, said that unless the doctrine of self-determination be applied to Ireland there can be no just and permanent peace coming out of the work of the Peace Conference.

"When our President laid down the fourteen points upon which peace was to be made, a just, durable and permanent peace," said Judge Cohalan, "he placed to restrictions upon the application of those doctrines. He said that self-determination was to be given to all peoples without condition of qualification."

Referring to the statement that the Irish question was one of domestic policy with the British Empire, he said:

"Surely no question which now involves the right of one people to govern another without the consent of that people can be regarded as other than an international problem and one in which all the peoples of the world have a vital interest."

Delegates representing the Friends of Irish Freedom, Ancient Order of Hibernians, Clan-na-Gael, and other organizations that desire to see Ireland free from British influence are attending the convention which will end tomorrow.

Cardinal Gibbons, U. S. Senator Borah of Idaho, Senator-Elect Walsh of Massachusetts, Gov. Sproule of Pennsylvania, and Church dignitaries from different parts of the country are on the program for addresses.

3,000 Quarts of Whiskey Seized at Toledo.

Toledo, O., Feb. 24. — More than fifty persons are in the Monroe county jail charged with contempt of court and violation of the Reed amendment following arrest by State troops at the Michigan-Ohio border Friday night.

Three thousand quarts of whiskey have been seized and are being held in the Monroe county jail as evidence.

Every road leading from Ohio into Michigan is being guarded. State food and drug inspectors today began riding in the urban cars and steam passenger trains from Toledo to Detroit. At the State line persons known to be carrying whiskey were arrested and held under the Reed amendment.

Five gunmen in a large touring car tried to drive State troops from three touring cars containing whiskey which are being taken to the county jail, but were unsuccessful.

CAPT. BURNHAM WILL VOTE AGAINST DAYLIGHT SAVING

If on Investigation He Finds That Such a Measure is a Detriment to Farmer's Interests and a Boon to Pleasure Seekers Only.

The Peterborough Branch of the U. F. O., No. 519, have sent the following resolution to Capt. J. H. Burnham, M.P., for West Peterborough:

Peterboro, Ont.,
Feb. 10, 1919.

Whereas, it has been announced in the press of the Dominion that the Daylight Saving Bill, which was in force during 1918 is to be re-enacted during the coming session of Parliament:

Therefore, be it resolved that we, the members of the Peterboro branch No. 519, U.F.O., do hereby register a protest against the re-enactment of this measure for the following reasons:

That it was enacted purely as a war measure to give urban dwellers more time for gardening and kindred pursuits in order that production of vegetables, etc., might be increased. As hostilities are over and conditions rapidly coming back to normal we think that such gardeners can find time enough to cultivate a peace time garden with the clock following standard time.

That it has been found impossible for farmers to work their farms to the best advantage when following the "new" time, owing to unfavorable conditions caused by heavy dews in harvest and frosts in early spring and late fall making it out of question for the farmer to work more than 2 to 2½ hours before dinner. If he quits work at 6 o'clock this means a loss of from 1 to 2 hours each day.

That this measure has caused a great deal of dissatisfaction among farmers sons and hired men, on farms where standard time is followed. This means a much longer day for these workers than that of the workingman in other occupations.

That it has caused much inconvenience to tens of thousands of farmers throughout Canada who are supplying milk and cream to the city dairy trade. It is necessary for these farmers in most cases to be up at 4 to 4.30 a.m. to ship their produce on the early trains. When the clock is advanced one hour, it means putting this much more work onto their day as their hour for quitting is about 7. p.m. standard time.

We fail to see why any measure which has aroused such universal dissatisfaction among the rural people, who number one half the total population of the country, and which is of doubtful value to the majority of the remainder, with the exception of the leisure class, should be placed on the statue books for another year. We would ask you to use your influence against the re-enactment of this law at this session of Parliament.

Signed on behalf of the club—Rich. R. Rogers, president; Chas. S. Brown secretary, R. R. No. 9, Peterboro, Ont.

Capt. Burnham's Views.

With regard to the matter Capt Burnham writes The Review as follows:

Editor Review: This matter has got to be threshed out and it might as well start now. To those engaged in city work the daylight saving appears to be one thing, but to the farmer, it appears to be another. If it is a mere opportunity for pleasure for some and of actual commercial importance to others, the commercial end of it will receive my vote. I cannot allow my own (or others') selfish desire for longer hours for amusement (and amateur gardening) to weigh against the interests of the farmer if that be the fact. I would like some way of finding out what the farmer does really think because if it is as set out in this petition, I will vote against the pleasure end of it and in favor of more food and greater production.

RUBBERS FOR LITTLE FEET

YOU can get the same sturdy wear—the same guaranteed quality — for the Children, that you have found so satisfactory in your own rubbers.

"The best rubbers that can be made" is the standard of the Dominion Rubber System. And this applies to ALL rubbers bearing the Trademarks of the Dominion Rubber System.

Children's rubbers are made with the same care, of the same high-grade materials that give such easy comfort, such long wear, in the rubbers for men and women.

This superior quality is necessary in Children's rubbers because they need the extra protection which good rubbers give on wet days; and they need the extra quality to withstand the rougher usage which most children give to all footwear.

Ask for these better rubbers by name:

"Jacques Cartier" "Merchants" "Maple Leaf"
"Granby" "Dominion" "Daisy"

Get the little feet properly fitted. It means more than comfort—it means longer wear, both for shoes and rubbers.

The Trademarks are your guarantee of sturdy, reliable quality and a perfect-fit for every shoe for every member of the family.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre To Hair

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound to night and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

DEMAND SEPARATION

Eastern British Columbia Favor Discussion Into Two Provinces.

Revelstoke, B.C., Feb. 24.—With a full list of delegates present the Associated Boards of Trades of Eastern British Columbia passed a resolution asking for the separation of British Columbia into two Provinces with the Cascade Mountains as a boundary line, declaring that proper recognition of the interest of the eastern part of the Province cannot be obtained from the coast. A further resolution was passed advocating that if Doukhobours are found to be violating Dominion enactments that they be dealt with as undesirable citizens and that all machinery not obtainable from Canadian manufacturers be admitted duty free.

MILITARY CROSS FOR LINDSAY MAN

CAPT. J. DOUGAN, WAS ALSO MENTIONED BY GENERAL HAIG

The Lindsay Post says that Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dougan, Victoria avenue, received a letter on Thursday from their son, Capt. (Dr.) Jack A. Dougan in which he told of having won the Military Cross on the field of battle just before the signing of the armistice. At Christmas his name was also mentioned in despatches by General Haig.

Captain Dougan is an ex-L.C.I. boy and also a graduate of Queen's University, Kingston, where he graduated in medicine. Previous to enlisting he practiced as a physician at Maynooth Ontario. Captain Dougan enlisted in Kingston with the 8th Feld Ambulance in 1915 and has seen continuous service since that time. At the time he was recommended for the Military Cross he was out on the field of battle with the troops, dressing the wounded and dying as they fell about him. When hostilities ceased Captain Dougan proceeded into Germany with the Canadians but has now arrived in England and will sail for Canada by March 1st.

This glad news brings home to us once more the valor and bravery that another of our old town boys has displayed while fighting for freedom.

NO BRANCHES IN UNITED STATES

G. W. V. A. IS OPPOSED TO EXTENDING WORK TO AMERICAN CITIES

The Great War Veterans' Association of Canada have definitely determined on a policy against organizing branches of their association in the United States. The question was forced upon them by numerous requests from south of the line, for the veterans' fraternity to establish outposts in many of the States of the Union. The last request of this nature came yesterday from Pittsburg, to Provincial G.W.V.A. Secretary W. E. Turley, who was forced to reply that it was contrary to the policy of the Canadian Association to meet the request.

It is possible, however, but an American association, called the Great War Veterans' Association of the United States, may arise very soon in the States, which in name and ideals will be closely allied to the Canadian institution.

Half a dozen requests have come from veterans and associations in Chicago, for the G.W.V.A. to extend their organization to that city. Los Angeles, Seattle, Newcastle, Pa., Philadelphia, Kansas City, Minneapolis and many other centres have recently made the same application. One veteran in the States wrote seeking membership, offering to District Secretary Conroy to send his photograph and discharge papers to him for inspection, and have Canadian comrades vouch for his service in the war.

Always Learning.

"The Allies suffered defeat after defeat, but from each defeat they learned something," said a well-known orator. "It's like the advice which the editor of the Chumsidon Scimitar gave to an unlucky wooer who had been rejected by seven girls in turn. The editor wrote: 'Unlucky Wooer—Go ahead. Don't be discouraged. Never say die. You might have learnt a lot by what you have gone through. Strikes us you might hold something like a record. Well, stick all your experience together and make love to the next girl who comes round and takes your fancy. If she don't reciprocate, try another. Remember, you only want one girl to say "Yes," and she'll probably last your life.'"

An Ancient Copper Foundry.

One of the most interesting discoveries by Egyptologists throws new light on the relative origin of copper and bronze in the Mediterranean countries. At Ortu Commidue, alongside some ancient copper mines of prehistoric age, a foundry has been discovered with all the furnaces for smelting and moulds for casting just as it was abandoned thousands of years ago in the transition periods between the ages of stone and bronze. The metBeds then obtaining in the foundry industry as here demonstrated were most ingenious. — Family Herald.

Reason for Term "Royal."

Naturally there is a good reason for calling golf a royal game, inasmuch as it was the favorite sport of the kings and queens of Scotland and England, as well as the dukes and earls in ancient times. King Charles, King James I, II, VI, Queen Mary of Scots and others were pre-eminent among the lovers of the recreation.

Famous Kaiser Wilhelm Canal.

The Kaiser Wilhelm canal was officially opened June 23, 1895. It is a little more than 61 miles in length, and for the easterly part of its course follows the line of the old Elder canal. It is 197 feet wide at the water surface and 72 feet feet at the bottom, with a depth of 29 feet 6 inches. The total cost of the canal was $39,000,000.

There can be no friendship where there is no freedom. Friendship loves a free air and will not be penned up in strait and narrow enclosures. Labor Greatly Excited Over Remarkable Problem Of Guilt of Tom Mooney

"SHALL Tom Mooney hang?" is a question that has agitated California in the past couple of years as profoundly as the question, "And shall Trelawney die?" convulsed Cornwall. The answer is now in the negative. Tom Mooney will not hang; he will spend the rest of his life in prison unless his sentence is further commuted or he is pardoned or gets a new trial. The action of the Governor of California in commuting the death penalty does not end the Mooney case. It merely ends a phase of it in which the man was in imminent deadly peril of being executed. There is no reason to believe that the millions of Mooney advocates in different parts of the world will cease their agitation. If Mooney is guiltless of wholesale murder, as charged, he ought not to be in prison for life. The decision of the governor to commute the sentence does not mean that he considers Mooney an ill-used man. He merely says that there is a doubt about the question, exactly what the trial judge said a short time ago. As long as Mooney lives it will be possible for the truth to come out and the man to be vindicated. There is no satisfaction to a dead man in vindication.

The case of Mooney is in some respects the most remarkable in history. No condemned man ever had so many partisans, men to say and to swear that he had been unjustly convicted, that he was the victim of the capitalist class, a very martyr of unionism. There are Mooney "fans" in all parts of the world, and it is reported that when the Bolshevists first became prominent in Russia they used to serenade the American ambassador to the strain, "What about Munie?" That there is in organized labor generally a strong belief that Mooney is guiltless of the crime charged and that he has been "framed" by the capitalists there is not the shadow of doubt. On the other hand, there are hundreds of thousands of people who have read the evidence in the case and have come to the conclusion that the man is a murderer, that he did throw or place the bomb that caused death or injury to a score of citizens of San Francisco, and that he has been saved from his merited doom by the terrorism of organized labor, by the threat that if he were sent to the electric chair a nation-wide strike would be called which would paralyze the industries of the country and perhaps reduce millions to the verge of starvation.

The crime of which Mooney has been convicted has been described many times. There was a preparedness parade in San Francisco on July 22, 1916, designed to arouse the people to the necessity of making preparation to defend American rights against Germany. At a certain point along the route a bomb was exploded. Ten people were killed, and others injured. Mooney and his wife and a man named Billings were arrested. Their record was bad, one [illegible] were supposed to be bachelors. They had a history as agitators. Billings was convicted of having dynamite in his possession. Mrs. Mooney was acquitted. Mooney was found guilty. The chief witness against him was a rancher named Oxman, a visitor to San Francisco who swore that he saw the Mooneys and Billings place a suit case at the spot where the explosion occurred.

Mooney's defence was an alibi. Photographs were produced in which the Mooneys and the obscure face of a clock figured. It was impossible to make out the time, and the prosecution refused to permit the defence to examine the negatives. This point was finally ceded and the photographs were greatly enlarged. They showed that apparently at the time Oxman had sworn to seeing the accused they were on the roof of a building a mile away. Notwithstanding this evidence the jury found Mooney guilty. Later on, a hotel bellboy produced some letters that Oxman had written to a friend and later thrown in a waste-paper basket, in which he asked the friend to swear that on the day of the parade Oxman was in San Francisco. It appeared that Oxman wanted his friend to commit perjury. This at any rate was the view of the defence. Oxman was tried for perjury but acquitted.

Nevertheless in the minds of most people the conviction that Oxman was at best a dubious witness or whose word to take a man's life grew. The exposure of Oxman stimulated the Mooney defence. Labor unions everywhere rallied to his help. Great counsel were engaged. Appeals were made to one authority after another. President Wilson himself was induced to appoint a commission to investigate the case and to appeal to the Governor of California to grant Mooney a new trial. This he refused to do. Attacks were made upon the state prosecutor to show malice and to prove that he was an agent of the organized capitalists of San Francisco. None of these efforts moved the governor, for there was and is in California an important element just as passionately insistent that Mooney shall pay the penalty of his crimes as the unions in demanding his release. The governor's grant of a commutation of the sentence to life imprisonment is no doubt due to the statement of the trial judge that a reasonable doubt of the man's guilt exists. In the interests of justice, it is to be hoped that the case will not end where it is now, and that Mooney will either be liberated and compensated, or his guilt clearly established in the eyes of reasonable people.

World's Finest Church.

November 18 is the anniversary of the dedication of St. Peter's in Rome in 1626. This largest Christian house of worship was begun about 1450. In 1546 Michelangelo was put in charge, who redesigned the dome. The height to the top of this dome is 435 feet, and the building is one of the most imposing in the world.

Westminster Abbey.

The name "Westminster Abbey" is shortened from the fuller phrase, "Westminster Abbey church"—the church, that is, of the abbey of Westminster. Up to the year 1504, in the reign of Henry VIII, the "Abbey," as we call it today, was the church of a Benedictine monastery.

PETROGRAD A TOMB.

Result of the Triumph of the Bolsheviki.

Ludovic Raudeau, correspondent of the Temps, writes from Petrograd that that once gay and lively city is now like a tomb. There are few people seen in the streets, and they pass like weird shades, sad, depressed and silent.

"The Nevsky-Prospect," says Mr. Raudeau, "is practically deserted and reminds one of a theatre after the curtain has been rung down and the audience has gone home. Misery stalks everywhere and hunger has left its mark on the faces of the people. Encamped around the Winter Palace are hundreds of peddlers who offer their scant wares appealingly.

"Any man who can manage to get some sugar, some chocolate or a few eggs immediately sets up a little stand on the street and tries to sell them at the best price he can get. A little lump of sugar costs one ruble, an egg 1.20 ruble and chocolate is 60 rubles a pound. A little piece of bread which can be eaten with one swallow costs 1 ruble. A half-pound of bread is allowed a family per day, and how some poor people manage even to procure that little bread is a mystery. Wealthy people are the only persons that eat any flour, which is now at the enormous price of 400 rubles a pound. Many of the wealthy families have sold their bric-a-brac, paintings, rugs and other luxuries for what they can get for them, in order to have money on hand to buy food. Numerous food stores have been rented for this purpose and daily there are auctions of fine furniture and art objects. Tobacco cannot be purchased at all and cigar and cigarette dealers have long since closed up their business. Misery and hunger are everywhere seen in the streets, and laughter and music in this once gay city are stilled."

Curious Customs and Cancer.

In parts of China where the head is shaved by public barbers the razors used are often dull and full of nicks, and the irritation of this scraping often causes cancer. Chinese men suffer from cancer of the pharynx and esophagus due to their habit of eating very hot rice, which is thrown into the mouth forcibly with chop sticks. Chinese women eat after their lords and masters, when the rice is cold, and they never have this kind of cancer. In India much cancer is caused by the chewing of betel nuts. In some parts of the country women do not chew the nut, and are free of cancer of the mouth. In Kurdistan, India, the natives wear baskets filled with hot coals across their abdomens to protect them from the cold, and more than 50 per cent. of all the cancer in that region forms in the abdomen and groin, while in other countries such cancers are very rare.

WOMEN SHOULD BOWL TO BUILD UP THEIR HEALTH

Mrs. Goldie Greenwald Talks and Wins Five Series Out of Six in Chicago.

(By Fred A. Marquardt.)

"The opinion prevalent among women that it takes a big person with a strong arm to wield a regulation sized bowling ball and be able to keep it on the alley is all wrong," is the way Mrs. Goldie Greenwald of Cleveland, the unofficially proclaimed women bowling champion of the world, explains her presence in the game. To prove her contention she points to herself, and one glance will convince one that she is right. She is just little more than five feet in height, and tips the scales at about 130 pounds.

This little, pleasant, unassuming woman, with a smile that "won't come off," whether losing or winning, has her way into the hearts of many man and woman bowling fans in the last three days while shooting in a series of matches against the six leading woman ten-pin titlers of Chicago at Bonsinger's Randolph alleys.

Won Five and Lost One.

The defeated five of her opponents and for the first time since she has been appearing in various parts of this country in exhibitions she lost a series, that to Mrs. Robt. Stockhair, the well-known North side pin expert. Nevertheless the diminutive Cleveland star smiled just the same and left last night for Milwaukee, where she is to appear in more exhibitions.

"I believe and firmly advise every woman that can possibly do so to take up bowling. To be under the impression that it takes a big, heavy set woman to wield a sixteen pound regulation size ball such as man use is all wrong," said Mrs. Greenwald, when interviewed shortly before her series. "Look at me, for instance. I use a two-fingered regulation size sphere and never have used any other since starting in the game four years ago. The result has been that from that time I have never been ill a single day and have built myself up well physically." Here she asked the writer to feel the muscle of her right arm, with which she wields the ball. It was as "solid as a rock." No flabbiness there.

Delivery Pronounced Perfect.

Her step and delivery of a ball down the alley is pronounced as being virtually perfect by many of Chicago's leading man stars who saw her perform. Many man bowlers of the city cannot get their spheres away at the pins in the quick and easy form that Mrs. Greenwald displayed. And what's more, she showed expertness in putting the "English" on the ball when she wanted to pick off an end pin or clear the boards after a railroad on the first shot.

In explanation of her being the unofficially pronounced champion, let it be said that she was the woman who recently startled the country when connected with 732 pins in three games, shooting 257, 210 and 265. At the time she was anchoring for a leading Cleveland womans' team in a match against a fast men's quintet. The women won out, not even needing the handicap that their masculine opponents had allowed them.

Mrs. Greenwald's appearances in Chicago was arranged by Mrs. Zoe Quinn, president of the Chicago Woman's Bowling Association., and the occasion was the first time that a series of exhibitions has been conducted in Chicago entirely by women, even with women scorers working. That it was a most successful undertaking was shown by the fact that a gallery of almost 400 spectators, including many women, turned out each day to see the matches.

LEWIS IN TRAINING REVERSAL

Strangler Seeks to Put on Weight Before Stecher Match.

With ten days left in which to get ready for the big test with Sailor Joe Stecher, Ed (Strangler) Lewis is preparing to put on more beef instead of reducing, as most athletes do. Manager Billy Sandaw made the declaration that he wanted the "Strangler" to weigh a ton, if that were possible. Sandow has prepared a course of training stunts for the soldier athlete which he figures will give Ed a big advantage in weight over the man with the deadly scissors when the pair clash in their finish wrestling match at the Coliseum in Chicago on the night of March 3.

"We won't tell what Lewis will weigh that night," said Manager Sandow, "but when it comes to the weight end we'll have a big advantage. This is one point in our favor right off the reel. Lewis isn't a bit afraid of the scissors hold, as he has proved on two different occasions.

"For this match we have outlined a campaign which will make Mr. Stecher feel sick inside of the first half hour. Lewis is going to be on the aggressive form the moment the bell rings for the match to begin, and Stecher will never get a single chance to wrap his legs around Lewis."

Miss Ravesloe and Miss Ethel Campbell of Philadelphia, the present holder of the Florida title, then played off for th championship.

WILLARD ISSUES THREAT TO JACK

SAYS HE WILL FINISH DEMPSEY IN VERY QUICK TIME

Champion Jess Willard appears to be in a particularly belligerent mood judging by his utterances. Tex Rickard recently asserted that Willard informed him that the champion had made up in his mind in future not to allow any opponent to go ten rounds. Latest reports from Chicago are that Willard is talking of a summary finish for Jack Dempsey on July 4.

Willard always has been such an easy-going, good-natured giant that his war talk comes as a distinct surprise. In his younger days Willard was not given to boasting of what he intended to do to a prospective opponent. And when he got into the ring he seldom appeared to try very hard to secure a knockout.

Always Lacked Pugnacity.

In fact, Willard's one great weakness was his lack of pugnacity. He could not be made to hurry until something happened to rile his temper. Then for a few seconds he became aggressive enough for any purpose. At such times he was a truly impressive sight.

One of those spells of temporary madness came over him during his bout with Soldier Kearns back in 1912, and those who were present have never forgotten the sight. In the eighth round Kearns landed a hard right to the body. Up to that point Willard had been stalling and laughing, doing just enough work to maintain the upper hand. But when the Kearns wallop landed it changed Willard from a smiling clown to a raging demon.

Scowl Replaced Smile.

The smile vanished and gave place to a scowl, while his clenched teeth showed through his parted lips. Every muscle in his great body tightened. With one spring he pounced on Kearns and with a right uppercut to the jaw he lifted the soldier's 200 pounds right off the floor. Kearns struck on his neck and shoulders and was out for some time afterward.

Those who saw that knockout never have lost their respect for Willard, even though he subsequently went through bout after bout without showing a trace of aggressiveness. They still look for him to show the tiger spirit again if ever he is prowled into a corner.

OSHAWA IS EAGER FOR BASKETBALL

HAS SENT DOUBLE CHALLENGE TO TEAMS IN THIS CITY

Mr. G. H. Roper, General Secretary of the local Y. M. C. A. is in receipt of a letter from Mr. E. L. Petley, boy's secretary & physical director the Oshawa Y.M.C.A. Mr. Petley, who received his High School Education in Peterborough has a basketball team composed of members of his Business Boy's Class, which wishes to arrange for home and home games with a local Y. M. C. A. team, whose members must be under nineteen. Mr. Petley would like this team to journey to Oshawa and play a game about March 14. He promises to give the boys a good time, and will bring his team here about a week later.

The letter also contains a challenge from the boys of the Oshawa High School, to the boys of the P.C.I., to meet them in a game of basketball on any Saturday during this or next month. They will return the match.

The "Y" is thinking seriously of sending down a team and the Oshawa Collegiate Challenge will be considered today at a meeting of the executive of the Boys' Athletic Association of the local High School.

If both institutions decide to send a team arrangements will probably be made for a double-headef basketball game in Oshawa, on Saturday, March 15th, with the return games played here a week later.

If a Y. M. C. A. team is sent it will probably be any five players of the following:— M. Brownscombe, F. Brooks, A. McLeod, C. Armstrong, J. Thirdbeck, and J. White. The P.C.I. team would be picked from the following: R. Pogue, W. Moffat, T. Pogue, G. Yeamans' H. Young, M. Cottingham, C. Elliott and A. Stevenson.

Order Everything Early.

Spraying is something that cannot wait. It must be done at a definite time. Failure to do it then means failure to get clean fruit. Experience shows there is no one factor so important in obtaining a good crop as spraying. Therefore apply business-like forethought to it. Estimate at once how much material you will need and place your order for this not later than March 1st with definite instructions to have it shipped to you by the first week in April.

If you have to purchase a new outfit find out the make you think best and have it shipped just as soon as possible. Run no risk of its not being on hand when required. If the old outfit is to be used do not fail to overhaul and test it out in March or early April. Don't leave it until the first day of spraying. If you have to send it away to be repaired remember that many others will be doing the same and if you postpone sending until April you will in the rush of work have to wait your turn and may not get it back until after spraying has begun. This often happens.

What discourages and disheartens you most when spraying? Is it not delays and poor pressure? With proper foresight and a little knowledge of the mechanism of your engine and pump you can almost entirely prevent this annoyance, discouragement and loss of time and money; so learn to do your own repairing as far as possible, pack your own pump and train your own engine. If, however, you have no mechanical ability, get a handy neighbor to help you. Work with him yourself to learn all you can.

Be determined that this year you will do your spraying right, that you will have a good working outfit with no leakages, good long hose firmly attached, good nozzles or a good spray gun, plenty of material, a good calendar to guide you and everything ready to start the first day the spraying season opens.

If you do your part the spray will do its part, and the result will be a clean crop. You cannot be too thoughtful about your spraying. Nothing about the orchard pays so well as intelligent spraying. You can't do it intelligently unless you are ready and follow directions carefully.—L. Caesar, B.S.A., O. A. College, Guelph.

HOG CHOLERA DANGER

How to Detect Disease and the Measures of Control.

Spraying to Be Effective Must Be Done at Exact Time — Have Everything in Readiness When Season Opens — Write Department of Agriculture for Up-to-Date Spray Calendar.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

THE symptoms of hog cholera differ somewhat according to the virulence of the virus and the resisting power of the hogs in any particular outbreak. Owing to this variation, two forms of the disease are recognized—the so called acute form and the chronic forms.

In the acute or severe form, the hogs sicken and die quickly, appearing to be well one day and frequently dead the next. In the chronic or less severe form, the hogs may be sick for weeks before they die or get better.

When cholera enters a herd, the hogs do not all become sick at once. One or two fail to come for their feed and will be found lying down in some dark corner. On being raised up their backs will be arched, and they will shiver as with cold. They soon become thin and waste up in the flank and sunken around when trying to walk, the hind legs being particularly weak. The eyes become inflamed, sometimes quite red, and often gummy matter causes the lids to stick together. While the hogs get affected there is a cough. Constipation is noticed at first, followed by diarrhoea; red and purple blotches appear on the skin of legs, belly, and inner surfaces of the legs. The temperature of the sick hogs will rise to as high as 107 degrees F. or even higher, the normal temperature of healthy animals being 101 to 104 degrees F.

Methods of Spreading.

So far as known, the virus of hog cholera will not propagate outside the body of the hog. As already stated, the virus is given off in large quantities in the urine and faecal discharges of sick hogs. Anything that gets contaminated with these discharges is liable to spread the disease to healthy hogs that come in contact with it. Consequently, houses, wagons, and cars in which sick animals are shipped, are potent sources for spreading the disease. The pens and yards in which sick animals have run get heavily contaminated, so that anyone walking over the same get their shoes and clothes contaminated, and may carry the disease to other herds subsequently visited.

Prevention and Treatment.

From what has been said above regarding the way the disease is spread, it will at once be seen that one way to keep the disease from a healthy herd is to take all steps necessary to prevent materials contaminated by sick hogs from coming in contact with the healthy herd.

In Canada (by order of the Veterinary Director-General)—If by any chance the disease gains entrance to a herd anywhere in Canada, the laws of the Dominion require that a veterinary inspector be notified without delay. Failure to make this notification means loss of compensation for animals slaughtered under the act and liability to a heavy fine.— Prof D. H. Jones, O. A. College, Guelph.

Henry Adams on Facts.

Adams was a man of industry, always doing more work than he confessed to. With him all facts had to be interrelated into meaning and significance. "For facts as such I have a profound contempt," he said one day in his classroom; just as in his education he remarks that, "nothing in education is so astonishing as the amount of ignorance it accumulates in the form of inert facts."—Henry O. Taylor in Atlantic.

Queer Find at Pompeii.

A soap-boiler's shop was among the things discovered in the excavation at Pompeii several years ago. The city was buried beneath volcanic ashes A. D. 79. It is said that the soap found in the shop had not lost all efficacy, although it had lain under the ashes more than 1,800 years. Soap making was quite a business in a number of the Roman cities at the time that Pompeii was destroyed.

ANOTHER SMALL NATION.

Roumania Claims Her Terra Irredenta.

Roumania entered the war primarily "to attain her national destiny," but she suffered much as a result of entering the war on the side of the Allies. As the Allies have won, Roumania hopes to realize her ambitions. It goes without saying that she will demand the abrogation of the treaty of Bucharest of 1917 imposed upon her by the Germans which so shamefully destroyed her economic independence for their benefit, "rectified" her frontiers in the interest of Hungary and gave to Bulgaria the southern part of the Dobrudja. In all these respects she will demand the return of the "status quo ante." But she will demand much more. "The "national destiny," to attain which she drew the sword, had for its aim the annexation to Roumania of "terra irredenta"—of the lands inhabited by Roumanians immediately beyond the borders of Roumania itself. These lands include much more territory than the crown land of Transylvania, to which attention is so often directed. As a matter of fact, the territory to the west of Transylvania stretching from Semendria through Temesvar almost to Debrecsin has fewer islets of Magyars and Germans in it than has Transylvania itself. On the basis of self-determination, this whole territory would in all probability vote to unite with Roumania. Roumania expects at the Peace Conference not only to secure the territory described above, but to be confirmed in the possession of Bessarabia, which she obtained as a result of the Russian debacle. Roumania will also claim upon the principle of nationality that the southern half of the Bukowina, one of the crown lands of the Austro-Hungarian monarchy, be united to her territories. If Roumania is granted her claims at the Peace Conference, she will have secured all her "terra irredenta," attained to complete national unity, and become an important state of the second rank with a population of about 14,000,000 and splendid industrial resources with which to develop strength and power. —Asia Magazine.

Everybody Sings in Bohemia.

There is an essential balance between music, poetry and story in the folk-song of fishermen. At least it is possible to observe a greater equilibrium between the musical and dramatic sense in this folk than in the case with many other people of Europe and England. If there is a pre-eminence, however, in Czecho-Slovak songs, it belongs to the music. And indeed it is true that poetic inspiration has been known to give out before the end of a song; but as melody seemed to pour from an infinite source through the consciousness of these singers, irrelevance of text in such cases was not condemned. One writer insists that Bohemians would rather sing the alphabet than not sing at all. Occasionally you find the poetic lapse in the middle or even at the beginning of a song. The tune bursts out, fearless as ever cherried, and takes what it can get in the way of textual embarrassment:

In our orchard grow spices, grow spices.
He who does not understand that—let him get married.

The faltering debut of this song is eclipsed by its amazing rational ending:

Marry, dear Johnny; take for yourself me.
Now you have one misery—then you will have two.

People's Favorite Beverage.

The great beverage in Persia is sherbet, which is plentifully supplied and of which there are many varieties—from the bowl of water with a squeeze of lemon to the clear concentrated juice of any sort of fruit to which water is added to dilute it. Only among the rich and fashionable are glasses used; in all other cases sherbet is served in china bowls and drunk from deep wooden spoons carved in pearwood.

Relic of a Lost Race.

At Casa Grande, near Florence, Italy, is the ruin, with walls still standing, of what probably was the last communal house erected on the southern plains by a race of pueblo builders that probably had departed elsewhere or had been merged with wilder tribes even before the passing to the westward of the Aztec south-bound pilgrimage about the year 1300.

Not Adapted for Pet.

The average-sized Alaska walrus is as big as an ox and often weighs more than a ton. A walrus was recently killed by some whalers near Point Barrow whose head weighed 50 pounds, and skin, including flippers, 600 pounds. The animal had a girth of 16 feet, the skin was from half an inch to three inches in thickness, and the blubber weighed 800 pounds.

REV. DR. SHOREY AT TRINITY CHURCH

FORMER PASTOR OF THIS CITY AS VIGOROUS AS EVER

Rev. Dr. Shorey of Port Hope occupied the pulpit of Trinity Church yesterday at both services. He preached impressive sermons and his many friends in this city who remember him as the pastor of George street and Charlotte Street Churches found that he had lost none of his former eloquence.

In the evening he chose as his theme these words from the 6th verse and fourth chapter of Joshua: "What mean ye by these stones?"

Reference is made to the quotation to the meand of stones raised by the Israelites upon the shore of the Red Sea to commemorate the dividing of the waters at the time of the exodus from Egypt.

Dr. Shorey applied the meaning of the text to the churches of modern times and in answering the question as contained in the words when used in this manner gave a comprehensive outline of what the Christian church means to humanity and what it should invariably stand for.

He described it as shining forth as a beacon to the traveller who is passing through this world but once and has not the benefit of former experience to guide his course. It is symbolical of the eternal life which thought, reason and the word of God unite to proclaim will follow this earthly career and will be an existence so sublime and so essentially different from this one with its narrow confines and materialism that the human mind is not equipped with sufficient powers to even form a mental picture which would attempt to do it justice.

Beyond the grave the mind of man fails to penetrate. His struggles to form a conception of what is to follow terrestial existence are doomed to failure and he must return to the promises contained in the Bible for assurance and information.

The Christian church like the pile of stones, representative of the deliverance from bondage of the children of Israel, stands forth as a constant reminder to the earthly wayfarer that God so loved the world that he gave his own son as a sacrifice to atone for its sin and that to him that believes is given an unmistakeable assurance of participation in the joys of eternal life.

FOUND CANADA A COLONY AND HE LEFT IT A NATION

Rev. Father Burke Preaches Eloquent Discourse at Funeral of Sir Wilfrid Laurier

Ottawa, Feb. 24.—Taking as his text Matthew 9: 26-21: "Moreover they bewailed him and all Israel made lamentations for him and mourned many days, saying, 'How is the valiant man fallen that delivered Israel.'" Rev. Father Burke, who was chosen to preach the sermon in English at the funeral of Sir Wilfrid Laurier eulogized the dead Liberal chieftain as "the idol of a nation, a man who for years held over the hearts of his countrymen almost unbounded sway."

Referring to the words of the text, which were spoken of Joshua, the man whom Providence raised up to be a leader of Israel, he said:

"We too have lost our leader We have lost him whom we oft reclaimed our nation's best. We mourn one who came to us from a period that is now passed. We lament the demise of him who was great, in success, great in adversity, the foe of tyranny, the lover of democracy, devoted to the service of his King and country, and as we gaze upon yon casket that contains his mortal remains there comes the pang of regret, the lump in the throat, tears to our eyes, and like the people of ancient days in Old Jerusalem, we exclaim, 'Why is that great man dead who saved the people of Israel?'

"Am I not right in attributing to Sir Wilfrid Laurier a description he once used of that lover of Canadian freedom, Louis Joseph Papineau? 'Did,' he said, 'any man ever live better fitted to be the idol of a nation? A man of outstandnig presence, of majestic countenance, of impassioned eloquence, of unblemished character, of pure disinterested patriotism. For years he held over the hearts of his countrymen almost unbounded sway."

After referring to the romantic spirit, his noble appearance and the eloquence of the dead statesman, Father Burke said:

"Let me say a word of something, which in my mind explains in a large measure his unstinted service of country and also his unblemished character. I refer to Laurier's Catholicism. He was no professional Catholic. His religion was too sacred a thing to be dragged into the arena of political controversy. He did not spend his time writing tracts or delivering unctuous phrases. The fact is his faith illuminated most of what he said or did."

The progress of Canada during Sir Wilfrid's premiership was outlined in glowing colors by the preacher. "He found the country a colony, he left it a nation, respected in the galaxy of commonwealths that constitute the British Empire. And all these things the Chieftain did, with hands unsullied. His character remained unblemished.

"His memory will not die; summer will give place to summer here in the north land: the cold blasts of many winters will rise and subside; tide will give place to tide; but while men live and heroes are respected, and mothers tell stories to their little ones the memory of Sir Wilfrid Laurier shall not perish."

ART EXHIBITION GREAT SUCCESS

SATURDAY WAS CHILDREN'S DAY AND ATTENDANCE WAS MOST GRATIFYING

Saturday was children's day at the exhibition in the Public Library building. Many children attended, and the interest they took in all they saw was delightful to observe.

The members of the local branch of the Women's Art Association of Canada have every reason to be gratified with the success of their exhibition, the first that has been held since the out-break of the war.

It was a member's exhibition, the pictures were by members of the association and were collected by the Toronto branch. Old members expressed themselves as delighted at the revival of the local branch and many new names were added to the list of members. It is hoped to have an exhibition in the near future of pictures from the National Gallery, Ottawa.

The objects of the association are the creating of a general interest in art, the establishment of art lectures and reading clubs, the holding of exhibitions of painting, designs, etc., and it aims to develop that which is spiritual and aesthetic in the human soul. Surely, it deserves sympathetic encouragement from the community.

Miss Dafries, who is doing special work for the American Embassy in connection with art, in a lecture given recently to the Social Service Department of Toronto University, declared that "our present attitude towards art is unnatural. Beauty should be given to the people. Each city should be able to produce great things, and art should provide pleasure that is not debasing. Only by art can a proper record be kept of our day." She also advocated an art chair in every university and a representative of art in Parliament, and added, "Useful things should be made beautiful."

GRENFELL MISSION EXTRACT FROM LETTER

"For two weeks we have been working night and day, that is my secretary, Mr. Finley, a Yale man, and myself, around a deep inlet known as White Bay. There we encountered so much real poverty, so much need of even the elements of life, viz., bread and clothes to cover, we came back inclined to wonder if life there, anyhow, had anything to offer. We saw men and women hungry, with both beriberi and scurvy from want of food, empty cupboards, and naked children, while the fish, plentiful enough in the north, had partially failed on this part of the coast."

This is the cause to which you contribute when you make your offering to the Grenfell Mission. Leave your offering at the office of this paper and it will be forwarded to Mrs. James Wood, treasurer, Monaghan Road.

A nutmeg may be great, but sooner or later it will meet a greater.

MONTH IN CELLS FOR REEVE WEBER

AND NEUSTADT MAN HAS TO PAY FINE OF $4500.

Owen Sound, Feb. 25.—One month in jail at hard labor and a fine of $4500 was the sentence pronounced on Reev Joseph Weber of Neustadt here yesterday. In default of payment of his fine, Reeve Weber would be imprisoned for three years in the Provincial Penitentiary, but he decided to pay the fine. Besides, he has to pay all the costs of the proceedings, amounting to approximately $300.

The trial was held in Owen Sound February 13-13 before Police Magistrate A. D. Cressor, with N. I. Davidson, K.C., Toronto, acting for the Crown, and D. O'Connell and I. W. Callaghan of Toronto for defendant.

The charge was laid under the War Measures Act of 1914, whereby Weber was charged with making seditious statements likely to hinder recruiting. It was based on words used by Weber to Arthur Mutton, when he is supposed to have said: "The —— British are licked, and they know it. Before either of my sons go to fight they will die in the hardware store. If they want any fighting let them come to Neustadt and they will get it."

Magistrate Cressor found Weber guilty on this charge and remanded him for sentence. An application for a stated case made by counsel for the accused was withdrawn.

Pleads Guilty on Second Charge.

On a second charge before the local police court Reeve Weber pleaded guilty to making seditious statements likely to cause disaffection. This also was based on the conversation with Mutton, and on it Weber received a sentence of $4500 fine and one month in jail, this sentence to be concurrent with the previous one.

In sentencing him Magistrate Cressor said that Reeve Weber was a man born in this country, who had lived here all his life. In times of danger he had used disloyal expressions and possibly influenced his sons to be disloyal also. When he was through with his sentence the magistrate hoped that he would remember that everyone living in Canada was supposed to be loyal.

LEGISLATURE TO TAKE DOWN BARS

WOMEN TO BE ADMITTED TO MEMBERSHIP IN THAT BODY.

Toronto, Feb. 25.—The Ontario Legislature is to open its doors to women. The Ontario Government, it is understood, has decided to bring down legislation this session extending the right to occupy seats in the Legislative Assembly and the Speech from the Throne to be read in the House at the formal opening today will probably make reference to the intention of the Government.

The extension of the right of membership to women has been debated in the House on more than one occasion in the past, but the Government, which sympathic, did not consider that the time had come to take the final step in the extension of equal political rights to women. A month or two ago, however, Sir William Hearst, in addressing a deputation of women, threw a broad hint that something was coming and, therefore a definite announcement will not come as a complete surprise. The fact that the Federal House is about to permit the entry of women was a further assurance that Ontario would make the plunge.

In connection with the extension of the right to sit in the Legislature legislation will probably be introduced giving women the right to hold municipal office on the same basis as men.

PAY SERGEANT ARRESTED.

Kingston, Feb. 25.—Ernest James Whitbey, a former pay sergeant, is under arrest on a charge of obtaining a sum of money by forgery. It is understood that the amount involved is between $300 and $1000.

D. D. McKenzie, Member From North Cape Breton, Nova Scotia, Chosen House Leader For Liberals

Ottawa, Feb. 25.—Until a national convention selects a permanent chieftain for the Liberal party in succession to the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Daniel D. Mackenzie, member for the constituency of North Cape Breton will take the helm for the Opposition in the House of Commons. He will be assisted in steering the Opposition's course however ,by a committee of which James A. Robb, of Huntingdon, Quebec, the chief Liberal whip, will be chairman.

It had been widely reported that Mr. Robb would be chosen as titular head of the Opposition for the time being. The caucus of Liberal Senators and Commoners which was in session during the greater part of this morning and this afternoon, however, decided otherwise. The lot fell upon Mr. Mackenzie, who, to quote the words of the resolution of caucus, will be "the recognised leader of the House of Commons. Furthermore, "to assist in the preparation and management of the party's work in Parliament" the committee already mentioned will be appointed Another committee is to be constituted to make arrangements for a national Liberal convention.

Not Senior Member

Mr. McKenzie is not the senior member of the Opposition side of the House of Commons. He entered Parliament for the first time in 1904, while Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux first took his seat in 1896, Hon. Charles Marcil in 1900 ,and Hon H. S. Beland in 1902. The member for North Cape Breton, was chosen, after the last general election, to be the desk mate of Sir Wilfrid Laurier He is a barrister and had had experience as a school commissioner, as Mayor of his home town of North Sydney, Cape Breton, and as a member of the Nova Scotia Legislature when he first took his seat in the Commons. In 1906 a county judgship attracted him and he abandoned politics. Two years later, however, he resigned the office and became candidate in North Cape Breton for election to the House of Commons. He was elected then and re-elected in 1911 and 1917. "Was never defeated in any election," says his short biography in the Parliamentary Guide He is a member of the Presbyterian Church

PETERBORO IS PROMISED SHARE OF MARINE WORK

Interview With Cabinet Members at Ottawa Was Highly Satisfactory—Acting Premier Pledges Favorable Action.

The deputation that went to Ottawa Sunday night to interview members of the Cabinet with the object of securing public contracts for the C. G. E., have returned to the city well pleased with the result of their visit. The members of the delegation were: Mayor Duncan and City Clerk Armstrong; B. D. Hall and Alderman Hamilton, representing the Board of Trade; President A. J. Bolwell and Secretary W. Stevens, of the Trades Council; President Morrison and Secretary Whatley, of the G. W. V. A., and President Peter MacArthur and Secretary Kearns of the Machinists' Union. Manager E. G. Patterson of the C. G. E., accompanied the party.

Capt. J. H. Burnham introduced the delegation to Acting Premier White and Acting Minister of Marine A. K. McLean. Peterborough's case was presented by one speaker from each of the bodies represented, those who addressed the ministers being Mayor Duncan and City Clerk Armstrong, B. D. Hall for the Board of Trade, A. J. Bolwell, for the Trades Council, Secretar Whatley for the War Veterans, and Secretary Kearns for the Machinists' Union.

The Government has advertised for tenders for the construction of marine engines for the ships now being built in the yards at Vancouver. The C. G. E. has sent in its tender along with those of other large manufacturers of the Dominion. What the delegation asked for was not that Peterborough be shown any special favors, but that the work involved in the reconstruction program of the Government be divided among the various manufacturing centres of the country instead of the great bulk of it going to a few plants in the larger cities, as is so often the case.

Acting Premier Sir Thomas White expressed himself as highly pleased with the spirit displayed by the deputation. He did not put his visitors off with the stereotyped promise of favorable consideration, but pledged his word that Peterborough would be given a share of this particular class of public work in order to carry the workingmen over to the time when the task of reconstruction will be taken up in earnest. The deputation left well satisfied with the interview and with a better feeling established between Labor and the authorities.

Mr. R. R. Hall was in Ottawa yesterday and helped entertain the delegates, showing some of them the chief places of public interest, including the offices of the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier, where the visitors were presented to the secretary of the dead chieftain.

RADICALS MAKE GAINS IN BERLIN

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS LEAVE NON-SOCIALISTS ON OUTSIDE ALMOST ENTIRELY.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Berlin, Feb. 25.—The elections in Greater Berlin yesterday showed a remarkable increase in the vote of Independent Socialists. They led the poll with several thousand votes more than the regular Socialist who made a far poorer showing than in national and Prussian elections. The killing of Dr. Karl Liebknecht, Rosa Luxemburg and Kurt Eisner, seems to have driven many of the regular Socialists into the radical ranks. Non-socialist parties fared very poorly in the election. Spartacan appeals for demonstrations did not meet with the slightest success.

WOUNDED PREMIER IS CONVALESCING

CLEMENCEAU WILL SOON BE ABLE TO RESUME HIS DUTIES.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Paris, Feb. 25.—Premier Clemenceau's progress is such that he is now classified as convalescent. Latest reports continue to indicate that he is improving and that he will soon return to work. The greatest difficulty now experienced by his physicians is in keeping him in his apartment. While at first it was very hard to prevent him from exerting himself and talking he now wants to be taken out of doors.

Attempt at Murder Work of Spartacans

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Berlin, Feb. 25.—According to information obtained by Vorwaertz from a member of the Majority Socialists in a responsible public position the attempted assassination of Herr Auer, the Bavarian Minister of the Interior, was the work of the revolutionary Workmen's Council of Munich, which is wholly dominated by Independent Socialists and Spartacans. The shooting of Auer is said to have been done by one, Lindner A. Butcher, of Munich, who is openly boasting of his deed but is still at liberty.

600 Miners Are Made Prisoners

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Amsterdam, Feb. 25.—A band of marauders in the vicinity of Essen yesterday destroyed the airshaft and other outlets of the coal mine and imprisoned six hundred miners who were at work at the time. It will be impossible to release the miners for a fortnight. The explosive magazine of the mine also was pillaged by the band.

Teachers Send In Resignations

Montreal, Feb. 25.—At least 22 of the 28 Protestant teachers in the High school and five elementary schools of Lachine sent in their resignation yesterday because it was claimed that the Lachine school board had refused to accept a scale of salaries submitted, providing what the teachers considered to be a fair basis of increase.

The resignations will not take effect until the end of the school year, in June, as the teachers are under contracts, but the resignations are tendered now in order to avoid renewals of contracts on the old terms.

The trouble may be said to be a climax of the agitation amongst Montreal and suburban teachers for better pay and which has been proceeding through various phases for more than a year.

LIEUTENANT CASHIERED.

London, Feb. 25.—Lieut. Thomas Maxwell Duncan, of a Quebec regiment, has been cashiered.

Stronger Prohibition Measures Are Foreshadowed In The Speech From The Throne At Legislative Opening

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, Feb. 25.—Important announcements of the coming Legislation and the usual formal ceremony marked the opening of the first "peace' session of the Ontario Legislature this afternoon

Among the new members assembling this morning was a small but portentious representation of United Farmers of Ontario, a "Group" which expects to be an important factor in the Legislation to be enacted this session. There are also some new members of the old line parties elected since last session to be introduced to the House.

The opening ceremony took place at 3 p.m. with his Honor Lieutenant Governor Sir John Hendrie officiating. There were the usual military and civil features.

In the speech from the Throne as already intimated mention was made of impending Legislation for the extension of membership in the House to women, stronger prohibition measures, and other important measures affecting the Province as a whole.

Jail Sentence For Destroying Letter

Guelph, Feb. 25.—At police court Louis Kneschewski, of St. Jacob's, was fined $200 and costs or three months in jail for wilfully destroying a registred letter which had been sent from the office of the registrar in London to his brother, William, knowing that the letter was from the military authorities and which contained orders for his brother to report for medical examination.

Quebec To Raise Factory Age Limit

GOVERNMENT INTRODUCES BILL MAKING MINIMUM 16 INSTEAD OF 14.

Quebec, Feb. 25.—Hon. L. A. Taschereau, Minister of Public Works and Labor, introduced before the Legislature a bill enacting that no child under sixteen years of age shall be allowed to work in an industrial plant, serve as a bellboy in a hotel, or act as a newsboy, unless he has a certificate attesting that he has attended school at least six years and that he can write and read.

Of course this is not necessarily compulsory education, but in the application it amounts to it. The age limit formerly was fourteen.

Will Obey Orders Of General Foch

MOTION INTRODUCED IN GERMAN NATIONAL ASSEMBLY TO DISSOLVE ARMY.

Basle, Feb. 25. — Delegates Loeb, Payer, Roemer and Risser yesterday moved the following resolution in the German national assembly at Weimar:

"The president of the state is authorized to dissolve the present army and to constitute a provisional national guard, which until the examination of the new military force under the law protecting the frontiers of the country, shall maintain order in the interior of the country and enforce respect for the decrees of the government.

"The new army of national defence must be founded upon a democratic basis and must comprise the associations of volunteers already existing and also new volunteers."

Students Assist National Guard

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Amsterdam, Feb. 25. — Severe fighting took place on Saturday in Prague, the capital of Bohemia, in which the national guard and students drove the anti-government communists from the public buildings which they had occupied.

G. T. P. MACHINISTS STRIKE.

Edmonton, Feb. 25.—Sixty machinists and machinists' helpers employed in the Grand Trunk Pacific shops at Calder struck yesterday on account of alleged discrimination against two of their number. The men who walked out have appointed a committee to enlist the support of men on other parts of the system.

The Canadian Pacific Railway will not make Portland the terminus for its large steamers, says President Beatty.

Truce For Poles And Ukranians

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Warsaw, Feb. 25. — An agreement was reached at Lemberg on Sunday for a cessation of hostilities between the Poles and the Ukrainians beginning Monday evening. The agreement can be renounced by either party on twelve hours notice

To Erect Statue To Sir Wilfrid

Quebec, Feb. 25.—A movement will immediately be started to erect a monument in Quebec city to the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier. No details are, of course, yet available as to whether this will be carried out by subscriptions or by the Provincial Government, but both might be done, two monuments being erected, one in St. Roch's on the Jacques Cartier market place, and the other near the Parliament Buildings, where Laurier's statue would join those o fother great men who have been immortalised in bronze by Canadian artists.

Food Board Revokes Eight of Its Orders

Ottawa, Feb. 25.—As the signing of the peace treaty will naturally limit the activities of the Food Board to a close, the board is endeavoring as rapidly as is consistent with caution to restore conditions in the Dominion food trades to normal. The board today revoked eight of its previous orders licensing certain classes of dealers. These orders are:

One dated December 13, 1917, regulating wholesale fruit and vegetable dealers; order No. 6 of December 22, 1917, wholesale fish merchants; order No. 27 of April 12, 1918, general regulation of licenses; order No. 36, August 30, 1918, wholesale flour and feed orders; No. 38, May 7 (with amending orders No. 48 and 59), packers (though in view of order-in-council the revocation here affects only those packers whose annual turnover is less than $750,000); No. 49, May 8, 1918, canners; No. 41, May 21, 1918, produce merchants; No. 54, July 1, regulating manufacturers using sugar, an order which became requisite by the unexpected shortage in the allied sugar supply.

Hunt For Souvenirs At Laurier's Grave

Ottawa, Feb. 25.—Souvenir fiends have stripped the grave of Rt. Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier of the splendid collection of floral tributes which came from all parts of Canada to the bier of the deceased statesman. Except for the superb crest sent by the city of Montreal, nothing in the floral line remains on the grave this morning, and even the Montreal tribute shows signs of "wear."

At the same time other collectors of souvenirs were enthusiastically, if rather indecorously, at work in the Basilica, and as a consequence of their activities, the ends of all the candles used in the funeral service Saturday disappeared before 6 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

The rate of call money loans rose to seven per cent. at New York yesterday.

23 SUFFRAGETTES ARE UNDER ARREST

Boston, Feb. 25.—Plans of members of the National Women's party to make a demonstration in connection with the passage of President Wilson through the city were frustrated when 23 of their number were arrested in front of the State house. They were booked on charges of loitering, and will be given a hearing in police court. Another member of the party was arrested on the Common later in the day on a charge of speaking without a permit.

Four of the women were released on nominal bail. The others declared they would fight the case out in court, and would not accept freedom for the night. Most of the women live in Massachusetts, but several of them are from other states.

The women were carrying suffrage banners near the reviewing stand at the State House some time before the presidential party arrived at the point when the police ordered them to move on. When they refused they were arrested.

At a gathering of women about the bandstand on the Common late in the afternoon extracts from the President's address at Mechanics' Hall were burned in a metal torch. While speeches were being made police arrived and arrested three women, two of whom were released later. The third, Miss Elsie Hill, daughter of Congressman Hill of Connecticut, was taken to the House of Detention

New Department Of Public Health

Ottawa, Feb. 25.—Plans for the proposed new Department of Public Health were discussed at a conference in Ottawa this morning between prominent medical men and J. H. Keefer, M.P., Parliamentary Under Secretary for External Affairs, representing the Government. That a bill to create such a department will be brought down during the session was intimated in the Speech from the Throne. It is proposed to take the work of organization in hand with the least possible delay.

Medical men present at the morning conference included Dr. Paget, Ottawa, Surgeon-General Fotheringham, Dr. Brock, Ottawa, Dr. Clarke, Toronto, and Dr. Hodgetts, Ottawa.

Easy To Go Over; Hard To Get Back

Ottawa, Feb. 25—The Government has just received the following cable from Sir George Perley, High Commissioner in England:

"Understand there are no restrictions now under Canadian regulations regarding persons wishing to come to this country. Would submit for your consideration that conditions here make it unwise for anyone to come over just now who proposes afterwards returning to Canada, unless voyage absolutely necessary and in fact practically imperative. For several months it will be exceedingly difficult for civilians to get accommodation from here to Canada, and some who have arrived lately will find much difficulty in getting back again. Would strongly advise restricting passports to minimum during next few months. All this applies with particular force to those who wish to come over and visit graves in Belgium and France. The difficulties of conditions there, and especially lack of transportation, make it practically impossible to arrange such visits just now."

FOREIGNERS OUT OF WORK

Brantford, Feb. 25.—While there are a number of unemployed in Brantford it is declared that 75 per cent are foreigners who have been let out and whose places have been taken by returned men. Most of them have large savings accounts and are only waiting for transportation to return to their home.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1919

THE ROOT OF THE EVIL.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER is sleeping his last sleep under a wilderness of the flowers that a grateful and appreciative country has heaped upon the casket of one of its most distinguished sons. The petty and quavering voice of censure has been stilled. If the dead had any human frailties, all these have been charitably forgotten. Nothing is heard but a universal chorus of eulogy for all that was great and good in the long public career of the dead statesman, the man who found his native land in the swaddling clothes of infancy and helped so faithfully to weave for it the garments of maturity.

How is it that the newspapers of the country, regardless of politics, have vied with each other in extolling the memory and deeds of the late chieftain, newspapers, too, that assailed him with partisan venom while he was yet in life? Why pelt a man with stones until he is called away, and then heap floral tributes on his grave?

Perhaps, after all, the newspepers are not the chief sinners in this regard. The public journals are the exponents of a system that stands in need of remodelling. There will be more of journalistic ethics if the politicians themselves set the example instead of assailing each other at every opportunity and calling the motives of their opponents into question at every turn.

THE FUTURE OF THE LIBERAL PARTY.

THE LIBERAL PARTY has for the past two years been a body that has passed through so many stages of disintegration that final dissolution has long been imminent. It has been rent by factional and family disputes. It has been torn asunder by conflicting opinions on the conduct of the war and on the question of Canada's relation to the Empire. It has been rent by racial and other forms of strife, and has within its household as many contentions as there are geographical divisions in the Dominion.

And now, worst of all calamities, the party is not only leaderless, but is dismayed by the slim prospect of ever being able to find in the ranks a superman who can knit the broken and disunited factions and bring harmony to the fold again. A caucus held yesterday failed to settle upon a temporary leader to guide the Opposition through the present session. If it was impossible to do this, then what is likely to happen when a convention of the party called from all parts of the Dominion attempts to select a leader to take permanent control?

Quebec stands out for what that province regards as its rights. Naturally the French members in the House hold themselves as the hub of the Liberal party with a majority of over sixty, practically the entire strength of the Opposition. The Western Liberals are arrayed against those of the East on the trade question, in which the Maritime Provinces are so evenly divided that they are hardly a factor in the reckoning. If the Liberal party chooses an English leader, Quebec is likely to rebel. If a Western man is selected, trouble is sure to arise in the East. If the choice goes to one picked from the attenuated ranks of Ontario Liberalism, the West will not bow their necks to the yoke of the faction that fails to see eye to eye with the grain growers of the Prairie Provinces on the fiscal policy of the future.

It has been suggested that the Liberal party effect a compromise by appointing not one but a number of leaders from each of the geographical divisions that at present hold the organization asunder, Quebec, Ontario and the West to have each a lieutenant. This would simply result in reducing the discord to a system, of crystallizing the discussion. The deputy leaders would be left to fight it out among themselves, just as each of the factions in a private quarrel might choose their respective champions and leave the settlement of the dispute to them.

The Liberals of Ontario will never fall into line with those of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta on the trade question. They received their lesson in 1911 on this issue. The industries that make Ontario the banner province for the wage-earner, the manufacturer and the farmer must not be placed in jeopardy by the exploitation of mere academic theories that have dismally failed whenever put into practice in a country geographically situated as Canada. College professors have yet to distinguish themselves as practical statesmen.

The West will never come to the summit of its possibilities without manufactories, and these will never be attained under such a system as the grain growers of that region are preaching today. British Columbia would be pushed into bankruptcy once the duty was removed from lumber, and her rich treasures of natural resources would become worthless. Peterborough factories that now manufacture sawmill machinery for the Pacific Province would be forced by this change in the tariff alone to close their doors. Free agricultural machinery would have the same dire effect upon other local industries that now turn out some of the best of these products made anywhere in the world. The people of Canada are confronted with stern business conditions and have no time to seriously entertain finely spun theories. Delegations that go to Ottawa from this city, made up not of manufacturers but of working men, protests sent from local labor organizations against the importation of free machinery while men here are idle, should indicate the direction of the industrial breeze.

Manufacturers of Quebec are as interested in the tariff as are those of Ontario. The Maritime Provinces have their lumber problem just as British Columbia has. British Columbia, Ontario, Quebec and the three provinces by the sea would drop every other form of difference and hang together as one if the tariff became the issue in a general election. This would leave the three Prairie Provinces to carry the free trade banner alone. No leader that the party could select would be able to pull it out of the hole into which it has fallen on this one question alone, not to speak of healing the discord on other less material but still serious differences.

THE HUNTER STREET BRIDGE.

THE CITY COUNCIL has been given a mandate from the people to transact the business of the city, and have been voted, almost unanimously, a certain sum to build a high level bridge across the Otonabee River at Hunter street. One of the best engineers in Ontario has prepared plans for that structure, and the bridge, if built in accordance with those plans, will cost more than the sum voted by the ratepayers.

There seems only one course left the aldermen, and that is to revise the plans so that they will coincide with the amount of money available for the purpose. That is what an agent in civil life would do if authorized by his employer to erect a house or any class of building. The good tailor cuts according to the cloth.

To call public meetings to discuss the question will get the proposition no further ahead, judging from similar programs of the past. If such a gathering was called, it is not hard to name beforehand the speakers who would take up the time of the session to no purpose. And then the most tangible result of the deliberations would be the appointment of a committee that would never do more than report progress.

The aldermen know the law, and, if they don't, they have a city solicitor to keep them legally straight. They know the exact amount has been allowed them in the way of funds and what is expected of them. That being the case, they should have sufficient self-reliance to go ahead with the duties they are expected to perform without leaning on the broken reed of counsel either from the ratepayers or a newspaper, as weak-kneed as they appear to assume the city fathers are.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

ANYWAY, February, 1919, has had fewer wintry days than we can hope for one year hence.

WHY DOES NOT some enterprising newspaper correspondent telegraph an interview giving the ex-kaiser's views on the League of Nations?

GRANGERS' WAREHOUSE IS NOW CLUBHOUSE FOR RICH

Millionaires Now Revel in Oakville Building That Farmers Built Fifty Years Ago to Defeat Moneyed Interests.

(By Rob Roy in Toronto Sunday World.)

The activity of the many farm organizations in the different provinces furnishes evidence of great unrest, and dissatisfaction among the tillers of the soil as well as other classes.

1919 is the third movement of a general kind among the farmers. In 1890 the Patrons of Industry were started, and for a time swept the rural sections like wildfire reaching the summit of their power in the provincial election of 1894, when they elected 17 members, their power however, dissipating in a few years.

Early in the seventies the Grange organization came to Ontario. The farmers hailed it with delight, believing that they were not getting a square deal. Halton County was thoroughly organized, the meetings of the subordinate granges developing a splendid brotherly feeling among the country toilers. Believing that a monopoly of the salt business doubled the price of this necessary commodity, they secured a well of their own and proudly boasted that in a few years in salt alone they by their organization had saved to the farmers over one million dollars in salt.

Barley Chiefly Grown.

At that time the stock and dairy business had not been developed to any great extent. The chief industry was grain growing, the greater part of which was barley. This was teamed from long distance to Oakville, loaded on schooners and taken across the lake to Oswego. The difference between the price paid by Oakville buyers to farmers and that secured at Oswego was thought to be excessive. Many also thought their grain was designated and paid for as No. 2 when the buyer secured No. 1 price for it. Dissatisfaction was also general with the weight, large numbers claiming they got short weight.

A public meeting was held and a resolution passed amid great enthusiasm to build their own warehouse and put one of their members, a farmer and granger, to buy the grain. The shares were $10 each and sufficient was quickly subscribed. A building with a capacity of 25,000 bushels was erected, it having the best shipping facilities of any at Oakville harbor.

The grain growers of the west have made a wonderful success of their business and own elevators all over the west, with tremendous aggregate capacity. But we believe that the Halton farmer, if not the first, were among the first to build and operate a warehouse, owned by the farmers and managed for the farmers by a farmer.

Ben Johnston was the grange buyer until 1886, when John Wales took charge, buying until the waning grain trade finally disappeared.

An immense business was done. Old-timers talk of a waiting line of teams loaded with barley stretching back to the old Temperance Hall, also of six schooners loaded from the farmers' building being in the harbor at the one time, having over 60,000 bushels on board. Three more buyers were buying for other warehouses among them being the veteran P. D. MacDougal, who owned the stone warehouse, but the farmers held their own among them and did the largest business of any.

Barley Trade Killed.

Elated with the success of this venture they dreamed day dreams of building their own schooners for shipping to Oswego and having a farmer there to sell their grain, thus cutting out completely the objectionable middleman.

In 1890 the McKinley bill was to come into force some time in November. The farmers were hustling to thresh and ship their barley before that measure raised the duty from 10c to 30c a bushel. A schooner load of 10,000 bushels was being loaded, the farmers working all night. It was started on the race for Oswego. However, wind and wave seemed to conspire against them. The act went into force at 12 o'clock, the schooner not arriving until 12.30 o'clock. The farmers, instead of having to pay $1000, the old rate, had to pay the McKinley tariff $3000, roaring like bulls of Bashan over the operation.

The McKinley bill killed the barley trade, and the farmers turned to stock and dairy farming, the grain trade dwindling at the lake ports until it finally disappeared. Mr. Wales bought out the shareholders, and the building became his own private property.

In the meantime a tremendous change came over Oakville. The moneyed men of Toronto and Hamilton, enamored with the beauty of the place began to build summer homes, then permanent ones. There is not another town in Canada where so many embryonic and real millionaires live.

One defect in the social life was the lack of a suitable building for a club-house. Nearly half a century before the horny-handed sons of toil had dug down into their overalls and brought up ten good dollars each to put up a building that would be the thin edge of a wedge that would break the power of the moneyed men. What demon of discord led the millionaires of Toronto and Hamilton to select this very building where the captains of industry and richly-gowned women should pass their leisure hours?

The place has been fitted up in an elegant manner, no expense being spared. The basement is used as storeroom for the boats of the members. The second floor contains a bowling alley, and caretaker's rooms. The third floor is handsomely fitted up as a ballroom, here also is the secretary's room. The polished hardwood floor is ideal for the weekly informal dance, held on Saturday nights. On Wednesday night a delightful musical is also held. The place where a tramway took in the bags from the farmers' wagons is now the promenade where the "four hundred" come into the clubhouse, the doorway through which the car carried so many thousand bushels of grain is now the chief entrance, and the place where the scales were located is now the reception room. The beams hewed out by the farmers to hold togther the building have been left exposed in the ceiling of the ball room, the marks of the axes swung by the hands of the pioneers being visible.

A promenade or balcony extends out on the river side, and in the good old summer time, canoes and motor boats pass and repass where the schooners were loaded by the farmers in old days; and soft nothings are whispered where practical farm business was formerly talked.

A most beautiful view of Lake Ontario on one hand, on the other the winding river, with its wood covered banks, the yachts of club members covering lake and river; the sobbing of the orchestra as the dancers whirl to dreamy tunes, form a scene equal to any on the Grand Canal in Venice.

But what of the men who put the building up? Most of them are now sleeping in the country cemeteries. Let us hope their rest is peaceful, not disturbed by bitter class prejudices that keep asunder some of us who are left. And may the revels in the old Grange Warehouse never be disturbed by the spirits of those grand men who put through this co-operative enterprice half a century ago.

During war time not many gatherings have been held, but it is hoped that now all social activities will be resumed at the millionaires' clubhouse.

TO-DAY'S STORY

Have you read the singular story of the death of Capt. William Martin, as recently narrated in a press despatch from England. If you did read it, have you taken home to yourself the lesson it so poignantly teaches.

Capt. Martin during the great war was the commander of a British trawler. Cruising one day in the North Sea, he sighted a wrecked Zeppelin, to which its crew were desperately clinging. Their only hope to escape death by drowning was that Capt. Martin would pick them up. In other words, war in wake.

But the crew of the trawler numbered only ten, as compared with eighteen Germans on the wrecked Zeppelin. Memories of German treachery were fresh in the English Captain's mind. He decided to take no chances, but to leave the bombers of women and children to their fate. In Germany, notwithstanding the notorious inhumanity of that country's fighting men, there was a great outcry over Capt. Martin's action. He received numerous letters threatening his life.

Nearly a year after, soon after smoking a cigarette from a gift package sent to him through the mails he became ill. At once he conceived the idea that a pro-German had poisoned the package of cigarettes and that he was doomed.

Chemists promptly analysed the package and informed him that it did not contain any trace of poison. He would not believe them—and died. "Death from sheer fright," was the verdict of his attending physician.

This may seem incredible. But the fact is that fear has killed many men besides Capt. Martin—especially when preceded by a long period of worry.

You may be sure that the death threats troubled him. It is safe to say that, consciously or unconsciously he brooded over them and over the event leading up to them.

And because of the destructive effects of worry on the bodily organism the brooding would itself have been enough so to undermine his constitution as to cause a fatal collapse when the false idea that he had been poisoned took possession of his mind.

The illness from which he undoubtedly suffered may have been nothing more serious than a slight attack of indigestion. Had his mind been serene a quick recovery would probably have ensued.

Kill worry or worry may kill you to blows over!"

...sel the warm, to be shaken from his lifeless hand, and there are thousands of us who, at this very moment, greatly need to heed that warning.

We are worrying over past faults, errors, misfortunes. We are worrying over future calamities that may never occur. One by one persistent worrying we are little by little reducing our vital resources to a point where a sudden shock or a slight illness may gain power to slay.

LESSONS IN RIGHT LIVING

(By Dr. W. A. Brady.)

The iris is the colored ring around the black central spot or pupil of the eye. It is an involuntary muscle which by contraction and relaxation under varying circumstances regulates the size of the pupil and amount of light which enters through the pupil. The iris works precisely as the iris diaphragm of a camera does, except that it is automatically controlled by the sympathetic or automatic nervous system.

Inflammation of the iris causes symptoms and appearance which resemble those of ordinary conjuctivitis or sore eyes, but it would be unfortunate to mistake a serious condition such as inflammation of the iris (iritis) for a comparatively harmless conjunctivitis.

The important difference between iritis and conjunctivitis is: First, pain, which is usually more deeply in the head, while in conjunctivitis there is rather smarting or burning than actual pain. Another difference is the redding or congestion; in ritis the vessels immediately surrounding the iris are most congested; in conjunctivitis the lining of the lids is most congested.

Iritis is often secondary to a septic focus in the tonsils or elsewhere in the body (which the old time physicians dismissed as "rheumatic" iritis) It sometimes depends upon uncured syphilis. It is more likely to occur in one who has tuberculosis or diabetes, or in one who habitually overeats and suffers consequently from autointoxication and choked elimination.

Since every change in the amount or degree of light entering the eye requires movement of the iris to alter the size of the pupil, and every change in focus requires similar movement, all use of the eye is painful and injurious in the presence of this disease. Therefore the patient should not attempt any work, but rather keep the eyes perfectly at rest under a bandage, probably with hot moist compresses (boric acid solution) constantly applied over the inflamed eye.

It is exceedingly important that the physician or oculist keep the pupil moderately dilated (enlarged) or contracted with a suitable medicine, according to the individual requirements, in order to prevent possible adhesion which would subsequently interfere with normal function of the iris.

The Baby Was Cheated.

Our baby, a year old, has been raised on condensed milk. Although seemingly normal, she looks very pale and flabby when compared with my sister's 11 month old baby, who was raised on modified milk. I am just starting our baby on cows' milk, too. My sister's baby seems more active and stronger and is certainly more contented. How shall I modify the milk? —Mrs. C. H. J.

Your baby was cheated out of vitamines, whereas your sister's baby received vitamines—the fat of fresh milk.

Gold Crowns and Disease.

I have what the doctor has called rheumatoid arthritis. I have had my tonsils removed without any apparent benefit as yet (it was done five weeks ago). I have six gold capped crowns. Could these cover abscesses or infection in the roots without giving me any pain or ache? Would you advise the removal of the crowns?—L. E. H.

Benefit from the eradication of a septic focus is sometimes immediate but more frequently it is manifest several weeks later. Yes, one or more of the teeth may have root abscesses or infected root canals without any toothache being noticed. Only an X-ray negative will determine that question. If the negative discloses evidence of infection, by all means have the crown or crowns of the infected teeth removed and the infection treated, otherwise I would not advise sacrifice of the teeth.

Tea Habit.

Is the habitual drinking of tea injurious to an adult person? Does it act as a stimulant and does one using it form a habit similar to the whisky or tobacco habit?—J. W. C.

No, the habitual use of tea and coffee are rather beneficial to most (not all- adults, I believe. The excessive use of either beverage is a harmful habit. By excessive I mean more than two cups of tea or more than two cups of coffee in a day. Tea or coffee is stimulating to the brain, the heart and the kidneys; alcohol is not a stimulant, but rather a narcotic; tobacco is also a narcotic. The tea or coffee habit, when excessive, is easily broken; the narcotic habit (alcohol or tobacco) is broken with but little less struggle than a morphine or opium habitue must make to break his drug habit. When tea or coffee is used excessively the result is emaciation, insomnia, irritability of temper, dyspepsia, anemia, obstinate constipation and palpitation

A new combination of step ladder and ironing board can be used for ironing by a person seated on a chair or will serve as a bench for tubs, a sewing table or a table to be extended over a sick bed.

LIBERALS FAIL TO NAME LEADER

CAUCUS OF PARTY IN OTTAWA YESTERDAY RESULTS IN NOTHING.

Ottawa, Feb. 25.—The Opposition caucus yesterday was unable to reach a decision as to the appointment of a house leader to succeed Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The caucus was postponed until this afternoon, and some of the opposition leaders in the city, such as Hon. Sidney Fisher, Hon. Frank Oliver and Hon. Mackenzie King may be called into consultation.

It was expected that Mr. James Robb, Chief Liberal Whip ,would be selected as chairman of a committee of management for the session but some objection was raised to this plan. Friends of Hon. W .S. Fielding pressed his appointment but the Quebec "irreconcilables" objected to the election of any man who had deserted Laurier in the last election

Apparently D. D. MacKenzie desk mate to Sir Wilfrid, is in the running and the choice lies between the two men. Mr. Robb, at the close of the caucus said that it had been decided to adjourn out of respect to Sir Wilfrid until this afternoon.

Trouble Over Funeral

Even the funeral of the old chieftain was the cause of jealousies and heart-burnings. The selection of the ball-bearers was left to the opposition front bench. Hon. George P. Graham was left off the list, although all the old time colleagues of Sir Wilfrid were named and Hon. Frank Oliver was even added at the last moment. Friends of Graham were not slow to claim it was a deliberate slight.

Whatever they do in the way of church-going when they are home, the Liberal politicians who were in Ottawa yesterday did not devote the day to religious exercises. There were private gatherings and caucuses in every vacant corner of the Chateau Laurier all day, discussing the situation and framing up opposition policies and selecting new leaders.

WEEPING ECZEMA SOON RELIEVED

A Perfect Treatment For This Distressing Complaint

Wasmo, Ont.

"I had an attack of Weeping Eczema; so bad that my clothes would be wet through at times.

For four months, I suffered terribly. I could get no relief until I tried 'Fruit-a-tives' and 'Sootha Salva' The first treatment gave me relief.

Altogether, I have used three boxes of 'Sootha Salva' and two of 'Fruit-a-tives', and am entirely well"

G. W. HALL.

Both these sterling remedies are sold by dealers at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

"Fruit-a-tives" is also put up in a trial size which sells for 25c.

HUGE CREDIT FOR THE ROUMANIANS

NOW ABLE TO PURCHASE GOODS WORTH $25,000,000 FROM CANADA.

Paris, Feb. 25.—Trade arrangements with Rumania, which have been under consideration for some weeks, have been completed, and the Rumanian Government will now be asked to purchase in Canada $25,000,000 of goods under credits extended. Of this one-fifth is to be expended for foodstuffs, one-fifth for raw material, and the remainder in manufactured articles.

The immediate urgent need of Rumania is for seed wheat, oats, barley and beans and special efforts will be made to secure shipping to carry the products to Rumania in time for the spring seeding. Other urgent needs are for woollens, railway equipment, agricultural implements and tools of all kinds. Live stock is also required. The purchaser will be the Rumanian Government.

Three of the trade arrangements have now been made, with Rumania, France and Belgium, and the chief remaining difficulty in getting these trade currents flowing is the serious lack of shipping. Expected Canadan purchases by France and Belgium will be as diversified as in the case of Rumania.

Trade during the next few years with all European countries which have been at war will be more influenced by what credits are available than by any other consideration. American business is keenly alive to this fact. Mr. Frank A. Vanderlip of the National City Bank, New York, is here in the interest of a huge American banking scheme by mhich banking facilities and credits for the encouragement of United States trade are to be given through agencies to be opened in every large city on the Continent. Until the return to more normal conditions trade will follow credits.

LITTLE BENNY'S NOTEBOOK

(By Lee Pape)

Us fellows was kicking Pudr Simkinses foot ball out in the front hall and all of a suddin Sid Hunt hollered, Cheese it, cheese it. Meening Flatfoot the cop and we all quick went and sat on my frunt steps, and Flatfoot stood down at the corner, Skinny Martin saying, G, if we had ony of thaft of it in time we could of gave Flatfoot a Krissmas present and then he wood have let us play ball in the street all we wunted.

Well, G, lets do it now, let us take up a collection and get him sumthing and tell him we bin looking for him ever sints Krissmas, I sed.

Everybody thinking it was a grate ideer, and we took up a collection of 6 sents and a committee consisting of me and Leroy Shooster ran erround to Mommy Simkinses store and bawt a bottle of green ink for 6 sents and ran back with it and Flatfoot was still standing down at the corner, and us fellows wawked down, Leroy Shooster carrying the bottle of green ink on account of him having put 2 sents and nobody elts putting more than 1 cent, and Flatfoot stood there watching us come down, Leroy Shooster holding out the bottle of green ink and saying We bin looking for you ever sints Krissmas.

Wats the ideer? sed Flatfoot.,

Its a present, sed Skinny Martin.

Well can you best that? sed Flatfoot. And he put it in his pocket, saying, I dont know what Ill do with it because I always rite in pencil wen I rite, but I aint never refused a present yet. And then Puds Simkins sed if we kicked a pritty soft football in the street wood you do enything?

Nuthing but lock you all up, thats all, sed Flatfoot. And he wawked away, me saying, G, wisz, that was a heck of a ideer. All the other fellows saying so espeshilly Leroy Shooster on account of him having put 2 sents.

NO HIGH SCHOOL BOYS FOR FARM WORK THIS SUMMER

All Must Stay at Their Tasks and Take Midsummer Examinations as Before the War—Regulations of Past Three Years Suspended

The farmers of Peterboro County who were helped out with their spring work for the past three years by the pupils of the Peterboro Collegiate Institute will have to look elsewhere this spring for their assistants. This is because a ruling recently made by the Department of Education is going to compel the boys to remain at their studies until pretty well into the summer.

For the past three years or more the Department of Education of Ontario has allowed the pupils who made a creditable showing at the Easter examinations, to go out on the farms of Ontario and by working for three months to earn their midsummer examinations with a pass standing. During the war many pupils of the Ontario High Schools and Universities, availed themselves of this opportunity to help win the war, and help the farmers solve an extremely difficult labor problem.

This year all departmental regulations regarding the earning of a pass standing in the mid-summer examinations by working on the farm have been rescinded. According to a circular received by Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, B.A., principle of the local Collegiate Institute, everybody in forms 2A, 4A, 4B and the three parts of the 5th form will have to try their departmental examinations in June and July.

The problem of finding help to take the place of the boys is not likely to be a serious one this year as it would have been last year. This is because so many men are returning from the front and because munition factories are no longer working that there is now a surplus of labor in the cities. Thus local farmers will not have to compete against the industries this spring as they have had to during the past three years.

Comfort is assured riders on farm implements by an Illinois inventor's seat, which is mounted on one end of a pivoted bar, the other end of which is attached to a coiled spring to afford balance and prevent shocks.

This Program fully sustains the reputation of the management of the Royal for showing the best pictures in the city. It is a well known fact that Programs similar to the above are shown in the largest Picture Houses in Toronto, Montreal and other large centres at much higher prices for admission than that cnarged at the Royal. 16 cents to all. Do not fail to see this excellent Program. If you have time see the Matinee in afternoon, and avoid the evening rush. Same show at both performances.

Chocolates- as a Dessert

"PASS the chocolates again, please." They certainly give a finesse to the meal, which is a most decided improvement over the customary heavy puddings or fancy pastries.

Good chocolates are quite the vogue now for the third course and as a tasty, profitable and beneficial dessert their use is a most sensible custom.

The many occasions on which chocolates can be served with relish and appreciation make them almost a household necessity.

As delicate, delicious desserts—at afternoon tea—as a relish for luncheon—'mid the family circle in quiet hours—or at late suppers—chocolates may be served with excellent taste and good form.

Chocolates are not a luxury. They are energy-producing food and can be eaten in your home with benefit to both old and young.

Canadian-made chocolates have no superiors. Their high standards of quality and wholesomeness are obtained by purity in manufacture and the careful selection of all materials used.

Serve Chocolates as a Dessert.
They are a Splendid Food.

ONUS IS ON INDIVIDUAL

New Income Tax Forms Are Now Available

The new income tax forms for the Dominion income war tax are now available at the office of the Inspector of Taxation at 59 Victoria street, and are being distributed through the local postmasters in all towns and cities throughout the country. The onus of making a return of income to the Government is placed upon the individual and penalties may be imposed for default in filing such returns.

Under the latest amendment to the act, the exemptions are so lowered that an unmarried person receiving over $1,000 and a married person in receipt of over $2,000 in 1918 will be liable to the tax. Widowers and widows without dependent children are classed with unmarried persons for the purpose of the act. Persons who have children under sixteen years of age dependent upon them are allowed an additional exemption of $200 per child.

The Government is in a position to carefully check up those who may be liable to the tax, as all employers, including municipalities and school boards, etc., are required to furnish information as to salaries or wages paid to employes and all corporations must render a statement as to dividends paid to shareholders, while executors of estates must also file returns showing income paid to beneficiaries.

Reviewed Life Of David Livingstone

Last evening the regular weekly meeting of St. Paul's Church Guild was held at eight o'clock in the church parlors. The program for the meeting was arranged for by the Missionary Committee, of which Miss Ida Lynn is "chairman."

During the evening an interesting account of the life of David Livingstone, the famous African explorer and missionary, was read, illustrated by fifty-three stereoptican views. There were between fifty and sixty young people present.

How They Love Each other

Miss Stoutleigh—Gentlemen are still very polite. Why, three of them rose and offered me a seat in the Elevated today.

Miss Boney—And you took all three, I suppose.

ARE YOU AWARE OF THESE FACTS?

GREAT BRITAIN After March 1st of this year, practically all manufactured goods from other countries will be barred from the United Kingdom, except those imported under special licenses, which at present are difficult to obtain. This regulation amounts to almost total prohibition of imports of manufactured goods, except those purchased directly by the Government of the United Kingdom. The object of this prohibition as announced by the British Government is:

To have British goods manufactured in British factories, and thus give employment to the rapidly demobilizing British Army and the war workers.

FRANCE —The tradesmen of France, generally speaking, are not permitted to buy manufactured goods from other countries except under special licenses. France is determined to keep her own factories busy and thus furnish employment for French soldiers and war workers.

The industrial systems of Britain and France are disorganized by the transition from war to peace. Consequently, they are being given the greatest measure of protection ever known in history. They are erecting encircling walls to shut out goods manufactured by other countries.

CANADA During the war, Canada scrapped many peace industries for war industries. The reverse is now being carried out. Canada must provide positions for over 200,000 soldiers who are not yet demobilized. When the armistice was signed, there were about 700,000 people employed in Canadian manufacturing establishments. This number included a considerable percentage of the 300,000 soldiers who were discharged during the course of the war, and also the makers of munitions and war material. Canada must use her utmost efforts to retain these in employment or to find them new employment.

Canadian industry during readjustment is not safeguarded by an almost impassable wall similar to those now being erected by Britain and France. Exclusive of the special war tariff, levied generally on imports, both dutiable and free, by the Government for the purpose of raising war revenue, the Canadian Customs tariff in the fiscal year 1918 imposed an average rate of only twenty-one and two-fifths (21.2-5) per cent. on dutiable goods coming into Canada.

Yet, at this critical time, insistent demands are heard from certain sections of Canada that sweeping tariff reductions must be made immediately without any preliminary study of the probable result on commercial and financial conditions. If these demands are met other countries will be encouraged to dump their surplus manufactured goods into Canada and increase unemployment here.

Shall we tear down even what safeguards we possess, at the very time that older and stronger countries are so greatly increasing theirs?

Ask Amendment To Municipal Act

At the meeting of the City Council in Toronto yesterday a letter was read from City Clerk Armstrong of Peterborough, regarding the Ontario Municipal Act referring to a resolution passed by the Council here to request the Premier of Ontario to so amend the Act as to permit of separate regulations being made for the licensing of ice-cream parlors and restaurants.

A communication from the City Clerk of Brantford was read calling attention to a resolution to the effect that the Legislature be petitioned asking that the Ontario Municipal Act be amended by abolishing the property qualification requirements for municipal office.

Paris To Laugh At Long Range Gun

Paris, Feb. 25.—One of the German guns of 75 cm. which shelled Paris at long intervals during the last few months of the war is now in its way to this city and will be placed on exhibition in the Place de la Concorde, according to La Victoire.

Marshal Foch, the newspaper says, demanded the surrender by the Germans of one of these guns, which was found by French officers at Meyence, and it is this weapon which is being sent to Paris.

FINANCES ARE ASSURED FOR BIG DAIRY COMPANY

Peterborough Members of Committee Received Word Yesterday to That Effect —Large Sums Will Be Involved.

One of the questions that has been before Peterboro County, and been the question of arisen in connection with the [illegible] now in operations as such a combination of the big dairy company that [illegible] will have to is in process of organization to take be conducted on a very large scale, over and operate several hundred of will be financed. At times hundreds the cheese factories and creameries of thousands of dollars, and possibly of the Province, including probably a a million or two will be tied up in the good many of the factories in Peter- products of the company as it will be necessary, every now and then, for the management to hold large quantities of the products of the factories in storage, and at the same time pay the farmers promptly for their milk.

This question was discussed at the recent meeting of dairymen, which was held in Belleville, to discuss matters connected with the company. The local managements in Belleville of two of the best known banks in Canada were present at the meeting and followed the discussion. Yesterday a Peterboro member of the provincial committee that has the matter in charge, received word from the manager of one of these banks that the head office of his bank in Montreal would be ready to make any arrangement that may be necessary to finance the operations of the proposed company.

It is likely that a charter for the proposed company will be applied for at the present session of the Ontario Legislature. One of the Peterboro banks has also intimated the willingness of its head office to handle the account of the new company.

WILL MERGE BOARDS.

Quebec, Feb. 25.—The merger of all the Protestant school boards of the city of Quebec will be carrier out shortly in connection with a bill presented a the Legislative Assembly by Hon. Jeromie Decarie, provincial secretary. The bill is the same as that passed at the last session merging the Protestant school boards of the city of Montreal.

DEMOCRAT BACKS NATION LEAGUE

SENATOR LEWIS SAYS UNITED STATES MAY SAFELY JOIN IT.

Washington, Feb. 25.—Speaking in the Senate in support of the proposed League of Nations, Senator Lewis, of Illinois, Democratic Whip, declared the league would not contravene the advice of Washington or the Munroe doctrine, and broadly intimated that personal and political antagonism to President Wilson lay behind the opposition in Congress.

Senator Lewis replied specifically to recent speeches by Senators Borah of Idaho, Republican, and Reed, of Missouri, Democrat. His address which because of attacks on the League was not withheld in accordance with the President's request that debate be postponed, marked resumption of Senate discussion of the league with prospects of daily speeches until adjournment of Congress a week from tomorrow.

Attacks upon the league, Senator Lewis asserted, were based on false forces and designed to awaken prejudice.

In reply to assertions of Senators Borah and Reed that the United States would be out-voted, particularly by England with her colonies included, Senator Lewis said:

"Such is not in the possibilities. There are eleven Republics of America, with eleven votes. Then, if all Britain's colonies each have a vote, the United States, with Central and South America, out-votes the Europeans on any American policy nine to five—assuming only the larger republics are admitted to the council."

In this connection Senator Lewis deplored the suggestion that there was "danger of dishonorable consolidation of the European nations."

"Every action of the allies," he asserted, "had proven the falsity of this fear."

"The document on its face refutes every attack," said Lewis. "Now, I protest against our opponents assuming to create the political issue by ... [illegible] object of the league. I oppose their designs in trying to convince the American people that the spirit of democracy was gainst nationalism of America for internationalism of the world."

He said that if the league plan had been made contemptible by the espousal of Trotzky it had been redeemed by the respectability of Lodge, whom he then quoted as favoring a league.

CHIEF ENGINEER ALMOST GIVES UP

THOUGHT HE WOULD HAVE TO STOP WORKING—TANLAC MAKES HIM WELL AGAIN

"To my mind Tanlac is the greatest medicine in the world," said O. H. Mahaffey, chief engineer of the Life and Casualty building, Nashville, Tenn.

"For two years," he continued, "I suffered awfully with the worst kind of stomach trouble and went down until I lost forty-eight pounds. My back ached terribly and I suffered so much misery from indigestion that I thought I had an ulcerated stomach and was actually afraid to eat anything but a little oatmeal and sweet milk. I got weaker every day till finally as nothing I took did me any good, I thought I would just have to throw up my job.

"My wife read in the papers where a man who had suffered like I was had been helped by taking Tanlac and she begged me to try it. After I had taken Tanlac a few days I began to get hungry and started in eating like I was starved, and nothing hurt me a bit. Soon those awful pains in my stomach and back were gone, I sleep fine at night now and get up in the morning full of life and energy and ready for my work.

Tanlac is sold in Peterboro by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield, by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Bowser's Corners, by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

PRESENTATION TO REV. H. J. KEITH

STUDENTS OF EDMONTON COLLEGE TAKE FAREWELL OF THEIR PASTOR.

Rev. H. J. Keith, formerly the esteemed pastor of Knox Church, who left this city to take charge of a church in Edmonton from which he has been called to Winnipeg, was presented with an address by the schools of Robertson College in Edmonton, previous to his departure. The Bulletin of that city has the following account of the affair:

The students of Robertson College met in the banquet room of the "Hudsonia" on Saturday at noon, to do honor to Rev. H. J. and Mrs. Keith, who are soon to leave Westminster church for Winnipeg.

Mr. Keith, who has been held in highest esteem by the student body because of his personal worth, his friendly interest in the college, and because of his inspirational and helpful lectures delivered on missionary work, was made the recipient of a gold-headed walking cane as a token of the high regard in which he is held by the faculty and students. Mrs. Keith was also the recipient of a delightful bouquet of flowers.

The presentation address was made on behalf of the students and faculty by Dr. J. M. Millar, acting principal of the college, and the presentation made to Mr. and Mrs. Keith by W. B. Mahon, one of the graduating students.

The address was as follows:

"To the Reverend H. J. Keith, M. A B.D.:

"Dear Mr. Keith,—On the eve of your departure from Edmonton to assume an important pastorate in Winnipeg, we wish, as students of Robertson College, to express our gratitude for the fine example of ministerial devotion which you have set us during the four years of your stay in this city. In particular, we sincerely appreciate your attitude of friendly helpfulness to those who are in the apprentice stage of the divine art in which you have surrendered yourself so whole-heartedly—the art of ministering hope and life to the needy.

"We have always found you kindly and sympathetic, and have come to regard you as an old brother, to whom we might apply for counsel with confidence.

"Recently we have had the pleasure and profit of listening to a series of lectures by you on the subject of missions. These earnest and cogent lectures, obviously the fruit of wide reading and sympathetic investigation, opened up a vast field of endeavor for us as future ministers. We thank you for your very enlightening and inspiring missionary messages.

"In order that you may think now and then of Robertson College, its staff and its student—we ask you in their behalf to accept this walking stick. When the going is hard or the mud heavy in Winnipeg, we trust that you may be able to lean upon it in safety.

"We beg Mrs. Keith also, to accept this bouquet of flowers as a slight indication of our high esteem.

"J. M. MILLER.
"N. D. MACDONALD,
"Pres. Students' Council."

Mr. Keith replied on behalf of Mrs. Keith and himself. He said he could get over the ordeal of being "dined" but confessed that to be caned with it was more than he expected or deserved. He said he would never forget his associations with Robertson College for when he decided to come west to live his desire was to be where there was a theological college and knowing that there was such an excellent young institution as Robertson in Edmonton he was enabled to make up his mind to come here. His association with Robertson he said enabled him to do whatever work he did do in Edmonton. In the course of his address he reminded the students of their places of leadership in the great days of reconstruction that lay ahead.

Around the festive board after the presentation had been made there were the usual toasts and other addresses which were of a very high order.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

WE EAT TOO MUCH MEAT WHICH CLOGS KIDNEYS, THEN THE BACK HURTS

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

MISS GIBBS ON PUBLIC HEALTH

INTERESTING ADDRESS DELIVERED TO COLLEGIATE GIRLS YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

An address on "The Victorian Order of Nurses" was delivered in the P.C.I. assembly hall on Monday, Feb. 24th, at 4 p.m. The speaker was Miss Virginia Gibbs, a member of the Victorian Order. Besides quite a large gathering of the older girls of the school, a number of ladies was present.

Miss Gibbs spoke chiefly about public health nursing, giving a short history of nursing from the time of Florence Nightingale to the present day. she showed the great need of having trained nurses to go among the poor families in towns and cities and spoke of the great improvement among school children since the school boards started having visiting trained nurses in the schools.

Miss Gibbs said that there was need for a great many more nurses than they had at present and that anybody taking up this work would never regret it.

Miss Gibbs was entertained at the tea hour at Mr. C. E. Jamieson's on London street. She then was entertained at dinner at the Nicholl's Hospital and later spoke to the nurses on "Public Health Nursing."

DEMPSEY'S PROWESS WILL BE TESTED IN FIGHT WITH MISKE

Will Meet the Latter at New Orleans Before His Match With Jess Willard.

During all the excitement over the signing of Jess Willard for a match in which it is presumed Jack Dempsey will be his opponent the fact that Dempsey is matched for a twenty-round bout with Billy Miske at New Orleans on March 4 has been overlooked. The result of Dempsey's bout with Miske may have a great deal to do with the big match even if Dempsey wins.

The young challenger of the heavyweight title has had little experience in long battles. The only time he went a distance was in 1916 before he began to attract attention. In that year he boxed 20 rounds with one Andy Malloy, but just what happened is not known. Dempsey's ability to maintain his form over the long distance is a mystery that may be made clear when he tackles Miske, provided Dempsey does not see fit to call off the match now that he has a chance to fight for the title.

According to reports from California, where Dempsey has done considerable boxing in four-round affairs the young challenger is inclined to lose speed after going a few rounds. It is said that in his bouts with Willie Meehan, the far coast fat boy, Dempsey invariably got the worst of it in the closing round. Here in the east, where Dempsey has boxed more than four rounds at times although it is seldom that his opponent lasts that long—he has shown no signs of weakening.

Miske is likely to carry Dempsey along for a number of rounds and demonstrate whether the latter can go the full route to top speed. It is taken for granted that Willard would prefer to box ten rounds, but if Dempsey should show signs of blowing up after going a number of rounds with Miske, it might induce the champion to decide upon a long fight when it comes time to select the battleground and the length of the bout.

Th reports that Dempsey is likely to blow up after a few rounds can be traced to those who are by no means friendly to the Salt Lake heavy, and it is probable that they were set afloat merely to injure him. Local fans have had little opportunity to see for themselves, as Dempsey usually takes all the fight out of his opponent in one or two rounds.

During the past year Miske was the only one to carry Dempsey along for as many as six rounds in this part of the country. On Thanksgiving Day, the two boxed six rounds over in Philadelphia. Contrary to some reports of that affair, Miske was no easy mark. He fully extended Dempsey for a time, and if the bout had been a four-rounder Miske would have deserved the decision.

In the last two rounds it was Miske that weakened. That enabled Dempsey to make sure of the popular decision. Still it was apparent that he was rapidly becoming arm weary, and it was a question whether he would not have become too tired to finish his man if the bout had been one of longer duration.

At the end Miske was groggy and Dempsey was tired. That is a situation that frequently ends with the groggy man outlasting the tired one. In this case Miske might not have been able to come back, but the chance was there and that is what makes their proposed match at New Orleans such an interesting affair.

Dempsey's style of fighting calls for a liberal expenditure of energy. He never stops for a rest, but is doing something all the time. He is either feinting or hitting or struggling to free himself from his opponents embrace. Dempsey sets such a hot pace that something is bound to crack before many rounds. So far, with the exception of Meehan, it always has been the other fellow that wilted under the strain.

Some day Dempsey may encounter a man whose defence is so good that he cannot overwhelm him by the fury of his attack. If that ever occurs it may go hard with the youngster for the reason that he has no defence when he is forced to stop fighting. As long as he is carrying the attack to his man, Dempsey does not take much punishment, because he keeps his opponent too busy, but if he ever is knocked groggy or is forced to stop for breath, his lack of defence will get him into serious trouble.

When Dempsey faces the big champion he will encounter a man who can withstand many a hard wallop and one who knows how to stall along without wasting his strength. And provided the champion retains anything of his form he can be expected to meet the Dempsey rushes with that long, beamlike straight left, so that Jack will have something to think about besides counting the gate receipts.

MILITARY TRAINING WILL HELP BASEBALL PLAYERS

Expert Says Men Who Went Overseas Will Be More Efficient on the Diamond Than Ever.

(By Oscar C. Reichow.)

That the war has been beneficial to the major and minor league players who discarded their baseball paraphernalia for the uniforms of the United States army and navy is the opinion of Fred Hart, expert masseur and trainer of the Chicago Cubs, who declares the men will be more efficient, both mentally and physically, as a result of their experience. He combats the idea that the players will be slow in their actions after wearing hobnailed shoes, carrying a rifle and a heavy pack on their backs while marching for miles. He also opposes the thought that the players are likely to be morbid after having been in a battle or two in which they saw their comrades fall.

Managers and club owners have been wondering what shape their players will be in after their return from France. Many have been inclined to think their men will not be worth a great deal to their teams for the first few months of the season. They believe the wear and tear of the army and trench life will have deprived them of the spirit to get out and play a spirited game of ball. They also think the hard work which many have had to endure will tighten and slow up their muscles to such an extent as to interfere with their playing. Some of the managers contend the long marches with full equipment have done the men no good.

Predicts More Vigor in Games.

Trainer Hart gives the managers and club owners encouragement. He looks for much finer baseball from the players who have been in the service and predicts that the games will be played with more vigor and discipline because of the training the boys have received. He adds the managers need not worry as the players who have served the United States will be none the worse for their experience.

"One thing is certain" said Hart, "and that is the players who have been in the service will not be short winded. They will be in better condition in every way, and when they start out to circle the bases will not slow up at third base and come in to the bench puffing like an engine on the Century Limited. The marching those who have been in the army have been compelled to do has not hurt them in the least. It has been an even and not violent exercise. The flexor and extensor muscles are the ones that are possibly overworked in marching. The former bends the leg and the latter straightens

Muscles Will Be Stronger.

"Should the players come back with these muscles a little tighter than usual that will not mean they will be slower. They will be stronger. The muscles will be more fully developed and a little manipulation in the spring will soon bring them back to their normal condition. The exercise a player obtains on a spring training trip is different from the work of the army and it will not be long before the men will be in finer condition than ever before.

"There will be no lost motion. The players will have stronger action if anything. The muscles have been drilled for that. They have been taught to endure, to climb hurriedly over and out of a trench, to run bearing a heavy weight and to attack cleverly. All the muscles they used in that exercise are utilized in a ball game. Players have to run, to throw the ball and swing the bat. In the army they had to march, run, throw hand grenades and use the rifle in bayonet work. There is a similarity of action that has enabled the player to profit by his experiences in the army.

"The impression seems to be that the men will be slower of foot because they have had to wear heavy shoes. Think what will happen when they remove those heavy hobnailed shoes and replace them with the light spiked ones! Why—they will fairly fly over the ground.

Grocers Win From Packers' Team

Last night at the Water street alleys the Grocers won two games out of three from Matthews-Blackwell. Weber, for the Grocers, was high man, with 590, and high single of 237. Dawson and Gillespie also passed the 500 mark. For Matthews-Blackwell McDonell was high with 536. The scores:

Galt Is Now Ready To Meet Stratford

Galt, Feb. 24.—Galt juniors last night qualified to meet Stratford Midgets in the N.L.H. finals, defeating London juniors in a return game here by 13-1. Throughout the game the visitors were outclassed, and at no time had a chance to win. London's only goal was scored when Keyes, Galt's right defence, poked in the puck in a mix-up in front of the net. Score by periods: 5-0, 3-0, and 13-1. The teams:—

Referee—A. Kinder, Preston.

LINDSAY LOSES CUP

Curling Trophy Won by Aberdeens of Toronto

Lindsay, Ont., Feb. 25.—Skip J. W. Brandon, of Toronto Aberdeens, visited here yesterday and succeeded in lifting the Carew Challenge Cup by the score of 12 to 8 in 16 ends. The ice was very greasy and Skip Butler's rinks, which have been used to keen ice, found the going hard. Aberdeens curled well and deserved to win.

Th rinks were never any more than three points apart at any stage of the game, until the last end. They were tied on the 8th end. Toronto Lakeviews are the next challengers. The rinks.

NEWMAN HALL WAS DEFEATED AGAIN

FAILED TO HOLD LONG LEAD ACQUIRED IN FIRST PERIOD.

Winnipeg, Feb. 25.— Argonauts last night repeated their victory of last Thursday over the Newman Hall hockey team from Toronto, when they handed them a 4 to 3 bump at the Amphitheatre rink, winning the two-game series by a total of 10 goals to 6. The home team had the best of the play throughout and only a sensational display in goal by Ernie Collett kept the score down. As it was Collett got away with a lot of slipping to the ice to save sure goals from the local forwards. Woodcock, Trappe, Sullivan and Quain played well for the visitors, while Binney, Newell and Nicklin were the pick of the winners. Line-up.

The greatest event in theatrical circles will be the production at the Grand Opera House of Dr. H. O. Girdwood L.L.D., B.A., F.R.G.S., great big nine Reel Productions (with the Empire's Fighters.) This film was made by Dr. Girdwood, who, at the risk of his life, went into the trenches to get the actual scenes of this wonderful photoplay. Dr. Girdwood was appointed by the British Government to be the official photographer, for education purposes, having been in the government's employ for fourteen years in India before the war broke out, and during the war the doctor was for four years behind the firing lines. At one time some of the scenes were actually taken eighty yards behind the German lines. Dr. Girdwood is a Canadian by birth and is the first Canadian to have the honor of giving all his entertainments under patronage of her Royal Highness Queen Alexandra. The doctor will appear and lecture at every performance to be given in this city. At the Grand for two nights and matinee. Monday and Tuesday, March 3rd and 4th.

Six New Members For The 57th Band

The following additional members have been added to the strength of the 57th band since the annual meeting held a week ago:

F. Blondin—Trombone.
F. A. McDonald—Cornet.
S. McCabe—Horn.
E. Gibson—Euphonium.
H. Gilbert—Trombone.

The committee who have charge of securing new members are certainly throwing considerable energy into their work, and at the rate of progress now being made will soon have the ranks of the old 57th up to strength again. Three of the above are veterans who crossed the seas to take part in the great war.

THIS WEEK'S BILL AT THE GRAND

EXCELLENT EXHIBITION OF MOVING PICTURES AND CLEVER VAUDEVILLE.

There is an excellent program running at the Grand Opera House Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

Edith Storey appears in the big Metro feature "The Silent Women" and Charlie Chaplin is very much in evidence in a comedy entitled "The Landlady's Pet," In addition to these there are five other good reels which make the movie part of the performance well worth seing.

Vaudeville at the Grand is especially good this week. Dickson and Bell are the performers and their dancing and other stunts are especially good.

Thursday will again be amateur night and it is expected that there will be a number of local entertainers upon the stage as attractive prizes is invariably crowed on amateur night, from the gallery to the pit which is the best evidence of the popularity of the entertainment.

John Kendrick Bangs the celebrated lecturer will appear in the fourth attraction of the Chautauqua Lyceum series on Friday night.

OBITUARY

THE LATE JOHN SANDY

The funeral of the late John Sandy was held this morning from the residence of the son-in-law of the deceased, Mr. John Forsythe, 48 George Street South, to the Grand Trunk Depot, thence to Bethany where interment was made in the Fallis Cemetery Manvers. The chief mourners were the two brothers of the deceased, Mr. F. Sandy, G. T. R. ticket agent at Lindsay and Mr. Henry Sandy, an esteemed farmer of Manvers who is aged 74 years of age, the oldest member of the present family.

WEDDING ATTIRE OF PRINCESS PAT

FLORENTINE EFFECT TO RECALL MEETING OF BEATRICE AND DANTE.

London, Feb. 25.—The following is an authoritative account of the trousseau of Princess Patricia of Connaught, who is to be married to the Hon. Alexander Ramsey next Thursday..

The wedding gown has been designed to suit the Princess's distinctive style rather than emphasize any fleeting modern fashion. It is made of broche panne velvet and it falls on long lines like those of the Florentine ladies in the picture of the meeting of Beatrice and Dante. The royal court train is of cloth of silver, richly embroidered. Her veil, which will be arranged in novel fashion, is in rare old Brussels lace. It formerly belonged to Queen Charlotte, has her crown and monogram on the border and is the gift of the Dowager Lady Rhonda.

Diamond Brooch From Canada.

When driving to and from Westminster Abbey the Princess will wear a long cloak of the same brocade as her wedding gown, lined with soft white fur and with a deep collar of white Canadian fox. Her jewels will be pearls and a large diamond maple leaf brooch. The latter was given to the late Duchess of Cannought by personal friends in Montreal when she left Canada.

The evening gowns of the trousseau are all made with a short train A sapphire blue charmeuse evening gown is embroidered in Greek key design in white diamonds. A peach brooch has a mother-of-pearl panelette top and a petticoat at one side. A powdered blue and gold frock and orange and silver brocade, and has a hanging cape of silver lace. A rest gown of turquoise blue over green chiffon has a sash of green and gold metal tissue and a floating train of chiffon apricot velvet is used a fashion a tea gown which has a long coast and draperies of black and gold metal lace.

Designs is Tailormades.

There are a number of plain and more elaborate tailor-mades, an interesting example of the former is of plain black and white striped suiting made with a waist belt; the skirt is plaited in the back and front and plain at the sides, two jumper frocks have been made by blind women working under the care of the London Association for the Blind One of these is carried out in pigeon grey knitted wool with amethyst wool effects, and the other, which is an afternoon gown, is of navy silk trimmed with beige.

The bridesmaids will wear picture frocks of love-in-the-mist blue and hats of shaded blue tulle. Two little pages will wear Highland dress, their kilts being their own clan tartan.

MOVING PICTURES OF SIR WILFRID'S FUNERAL

Will be Shown at the Royal Theatre Tomorrow Afternoon and Evening

In addition to the regular daily program at the Royal Theatre will be shown tomorrow afternoon and evening—1,000 feet of moving pictures of the funeral of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, which was held in Ottawa on Saturday last.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was one of Canada's greatest men; and in his death, as during his life, he carried with him the great love of thousands Canadian citizens, irrespective of politics, creed or nationality. And he was honored at his burial by being shown the tenderest consideration of all our deceased public men.

The attendance at the funeral was the greatest in Canadian history, and the floral offerings the grandest.

You will see it all if you attend the Royal Theatre tomorrow.

FARMERS TO HOLD DANCE AND FEAST

LOCAL BRANCH OF ORGANIZATION HELD REGULAR MEETING LAST NIGHT.

The members of the Peterborough branch, local 519, of the United Farmers of Ontario, held their regular monthly meeting last night in the Sons of England Hall. Mr. Reid opened the meeting and occupied the chair until Mr. R. B. Roger, the president of the club, put in an appearance. There was on hand a large number of quotations, re the prices of farmer's necessities, and quite a discussion on these figures arose among the members.

After the general business was over Mr. G. C. McKillican, live stock representative of Farm and Dairy, gave a short talk to the fifty or more members present on "Business Methods as Applied to Farming." This talk was greatly enjoyed by all those present.

The club proposes holding a dance in the near future and a little later a large banquet.

RADICALS CAUSING TROUBLE ALL OVER GERMAN REPUBLIC

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Berlin, Feb. 26.—Spartacans and Radical Socialists have launched a movement to overthrow the existing Government in Saxony, where newly elected diet was to assemble yesterday. A general strike has been proclaimed and railway communication with Halle, one of the principal junction points in Saxony, has been broken. The Spartacans are reported to have taken possession of Plauen and other industrial centers.

Independent Socialists in Leipzig have issued a manifesto demanding the retirement of the Weimer Government, declaring that it is "an impediment to the Socialists and to the liberation of the proletariat."

Seventy-six communists have been arrested on a charge of rebellion against the Hungarian republic at Budapest. They have admitted that the money necessary to set up an anti-republican Government came from Russia.

In the course of the debate in the German National Assembly at Weimar of a bill creating a "Reichswehr", a national defense force, Gustave Noke, who is in charge of military affairs in the German Cabinet, said the force would be chiefly used in protecting the frontiers from the Bolshevik.

BUILD SEWAGE DISPOSAL PLANT WHEN BRIDGE IS DISPOSED OF

Chairman Phelan of Board of Works so Announces---City Liable For Damage Suit Unless This Work is Taken Up.

At the meeting of the Board of Works last night less time was occupied in deciding what to do in connection with the Hunter Street Bridge question than in dealing with matters of comparatively little importance.

The Chairman and City Engineer were authorized to buy a team of horses to replace those which were sold some time ago. They will also purchase a steam drill which can be attached to the twelve horse power roller already in the possession of the city and will have the front bearings on the steam roller repaired.

Illuminated signs and their owners were again under discussion last night. City Engineer Parsons maintained that it was unfair to the man who obeyed the law and did not let his sign project out onto the street more than eighteen inches to allow his competitor in business who had obtained the privilege of hanging his sign over the street upon the ground that it was illuminated and would assist in lighting the streets, giving them a more cheerful aspect, to keep the sign there when he was not lighting it and in many cases had disconnected it from the wires.

In the contract with the city the owners had agreed to keep their signs illuminated so that the main street would have a Broadway appearance but instead of accomplishing this result the unlighted contrivances add to the gloom.

It was decided at the meeting that there should be a specified time during which these signs were to be lighted and the city engineer was given authority to act in conjunction with the City Solicitor in preparing an amendment to the by-law dealing with the privilege enjoyed by the owners of illuminated signs and the Council of Women on Repatriation

The following resolution was brought before the Local Council of Women by Mrs. Kendry and was unanimously adopted at a regular executive meeting held on Tuesday, February 25th:

"Whereas, the most important question confronting the Government of Canada at the present time is the successful repatriation of our returned soldiers and their re-establishment into the national life of the Dominion in a manner compatible in some measure with our national gratitude and honor and the very best interests of the men themselves;

And Whereas, the Federal Government has expressed its purpose to settle land for every soldier who chose to settle on same,

Therefore be it resolved, That we, the Local Woman's Council of Peterborough do request our national executive Council of Women to petition the Government that said land be granted on the community group plan in sections of not more than two miles or six thousand four hundred acres, this land, if at all possible, to be distributed throughout all the provinces of the Dominion. That the number of sections in each province be determined by the number of men desiring to settle in that province.

"That this plan of distribution be worked out between the Federal Government and the provinces on a fifty-fifty basis of cost.

"That as soon as possible this scheme be put into operation and the soldiers placed on their own sections for such a term of time as will be necessary to make the section comfortable for occupation by preparing homes, roads, schools and churches, the wages of the men for such term of time to be paid by the Government at a minimum wage not less than $3.50 per day.

"That the interest on the Government investment in this matter, we submit, should be appropriated as follows: Namely, that two-thirds of the interest should be applied to the principal to each soldier's credit, and the remaining one-third should be appropriated to the Government's credit."

BOARD OF WORKS DECIDE TO ADVERTISE FOR NEW TENDERS FOR HUNTER STREET BRIDGE

Engineer Barber Produces Figures to Show That the Bridge Can Be Built For $280,000 on His Own Estimate or For $300,000 Taking the Lowest Tender Already Received as a Basis—All enders to be in by April 1st—Work is to Start Soon After Work upon the Hunter street bridge will not be commenced for some time, as a result of action taken at last night's meeting of the Board of Works, when it was decided, in view of the fact that Engineer Barber, in an interview with the Special Bridge Committee yesterday afternoon, had shown where the cost of construction could be cut down by $72,016, to advertise for new tenders, to close on April 1st, upon a basis incorporating the recommendations of the engineer.

Yesterday afternoon Engineer Barber met the Special Bridge Committee and went into the matter of possible reductions in construction thoroughly.

How $72,016 Can Be Saved.

Taking the lowest tender, $337,338, as a basis upon which to figure, the engineer showed where a saving of $72,016 might be effected. To the amount of the tender as appearing above must in the first place be added the sum of $35,000, made up as follows: Engineer's fees, $11,000; inspection, $6000; clerical and other incidental expenses, $3000; land damages, $15,000. This would bring the amount of the construction of the bridge when worked out upon this basis to $372,338.

The sum of $337,338 was not reported by Engineers Barber and Parsons as the cost of the bridge, but was a figure made up of the sum total of all the items upon which the various contractors were asked to name a price, and included some things which were not chargeable to the bridge, and other things which had not been definitely decided on, and on the other hand did not include certain items such as engineering, which were chargeable to the bridge. The figures were computed solely for the purpose of deciding who was the lowest bidder.

In considering the all-important matter of reduction in the construction expenses, Engineer Barber stated that in the first place the cost of purchasing and erecting the trolley poles could be done away with, as it was not the intention to do that at once, and this work under the city's agreement with the street railway corporation was chargeable to them in any event. That would result in a saving of $3400.

Next, an over-estimate in connection with the cement work was dealt with, and it was found that when rectified this would result in a saving of $4516. The speaker stated that in allowing the contractor the amount necessary to purchase whatever cement was required they were safeguarded against he danger of his skimping it and making an inferior job.

$6000 Allowed for Penalties.

In tendering, the contractor had included in his figure the sum of $6000, because he estimated that it would take well over a year to build the bridge. There will be a forfeit of $40 a day paid for every day over the year, and if eighteen months is considered as the time necessary for the completion of the work, it can be readily seen that the saving to the city will be approximately $6000.

The figures quoted above were based upon the time given by the low bidder, but the period of time required by a contractor to construct this work will depend entirely upon his organization and resources, and might vary widely. Engineer Barber cited a case where four thousand feet of concrete arched viaduct had been built in one season.

Two thousand dollars was the amount of the premium quoted in connection with a guarantee bond to cover the satisfactory condition of the bridge for a term of five years. While upholding the justice and protection afforded by a performance bond, Engineer Barber did not favor a guarantee bond, which embarrassed the contractor in regard to credit long after he had completed the work, and was of little use, as there were no cases upon record of a concrete bridge collapsing after the first year. There would be from two to four inspectors looking after the construction of this structure, and there would be little risk entailed by the city. The speaker advised that this item be struck off the contractor's figure.

In arriving at his price, the contractor upon whose tender Engineer Barber was basing his deductions had considered $1.50 per square yard for filling. If he could obtain the material from Armour's Heights school ground the amount would be reduced to 90 cents per square yard, which would result in a saving of $4600.

Build London Street Bridge At Once.

It had been thought advisable at first to erect the old bridge close to the new one as a temporary solution of the traffic difficulty, but as the city was under contract to erect a bridge at London street within the next five years there was no apparent reason why the present Hunter street structure could not be placed there at once to take care of the vehicular traffic while a foot bridge could be placed across the river at Hunter street until such time as the new one is completed. If this were done, a saving of $4600 would be realized.

Would Extend the Filling.

If the Council could make arrangements which would enable the contractor to do his filling at a cost of 90 cents per square yard instead of $1.50 it would be economical to extend the fill at both ends of the bridge so as to cut out two of the arches in each case and so result in a saving of $17,600.

It had been intended to erect a flight of steps for the convenience of people going to the park and several houses on the Ashburnham side of the river, but as it was doubtful whether this as planned was in the proper place, a saving could be made of $1300 if these steps were constructed of wood instead of cement until such time as it had been definitely decided where the best location would be.

A Matter for Railway Commission.

By leaving off the ramp which would lead from the approach of the bridge on the Peterborough side of the river to the Quaker Oats plant a saving of $8000 could be made. It was questionable whether the plans including this feature would be approved by the Dominion Railway Board, and it would be of little use for heavy traffic owing to the sharp grade which would be necessary.

By adopting the cost plus per cent. or lump sum basis Engineer Barber thought that a saving of $20,000 could be effected. A contractor who was asked to risk his own capital in such an undertaking would without doubt figure upon a profit of 15 per cent., which would mean in connection with this deal $45,000. The speaker favored the cost plus a lump sum basis, and, as the city would have to back up the contractor in any case, there was no argument against such a course, and in this way $20,000, which would otherwise go to the builder as profit, would come to the city.

Engineer's Estimate Is $280,000.

Engineer Barber's estimate of the work was $20,000 less than that of the lowest contractor, and he still believes that the work can be done for that much less money. Based upon the figures submitted by the lowest tenderer, the bridge, if the reductions recommended are adopted, would cost approximately $300,000. Based upon the calculation of the engineer, the price would be $280,000.

Under the cost plus a lump sum system, which was recommended last night in the resolution passed by the Board of Works, the city will give the contractor the cost of the work and a stipulated sum to cover all overhead expenses and profit. It was felt that the percentage plan allowed the contractor too much latitude. It was looked upon unfavorably by Engineer Barber, City Engineer Parsons and by all the members present at the meeting.

No "Trimmings" in the Plans.

At the meeing of the Special Bridge Committee in the afternoon Engineer Barber took up the question of cutting down "the trimmings," as it has been often described. He showed conclusively that there were really no trimmings which could be removed from the plans without making it necessary to replace them in some way that would result in a saving which would be immaterial, and the only result would be to mar the appearance of the structure.

There was less discussion at the meeting of the Board of Works in connection with the Hunter street bridge than had been expected. It was after 9 o'clock before the routinary business was disposed of and the big problem tackled.

After City Clerk Armstrong had explained the reduction possibilities as outlined by Engineer Barber in the afternoon, Ald. J. J. Turner submitted the motion, which was eventually carried and which disposed of the question for the time being.

City Engineer Parsons did not favor the idea of placing the trolley poles between the tracks. This made necessary laying the tracks thirteen feet apart, whereas if the wires were hung in the ordinary manner with posts upon the railings of the bridge, the distance required by the Ontario Municipal and Railway Board from track centre to track centre would be only ten feet three inches, or two feet nine inches less than will be necessary under the arrangement indicated in the plans.

The Question of a Double Track.

Ald. Hamilton could not see the need of double tracking the bridge at all. He felt that it would be a very long time before such a system would be needed.

Ald. Turner reminded him that the structure would last for ages, and that in building it the people of the present day should not be unmindful of the demands of the future.

Mayor Duncan favored the double track for the bridge upon the principles advanced by Alderman Turner.

Ald. McIntyre said: "If we can dig up the money at the present time to build a bridge which will be capable of carrying double tracks, by all means let us do it."

ONLY TWELVE BACK OUT OF GRENADIER GUARD BATTALION

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Feb. 26.—The second battalion of Grenadier Guards received an enthusiastic welcome on its return to London from Germany yesterday. Although no ceremony had been arranged and the hour of arrival was uncertain, immense crowds assembled at St. Pancras station, which was thronged, large crowds being congregated outside. Massed bands played, "See, the conquering heroes come," as the men left their train.

General Fielding, commandant of the London district, welcomed the battalion on behalf of the King and then the Guards began a triumphal march across London to Chelsea barracks. Unprecedented scenes were witnessed as the troops proceeded through the crowded streets. Of the original unit that left England in 1914, only twelve men survived to take part in this home-coming.

CASE AGAINST COLLINS IS AGAIN ADJOURNED

Victoria County Man Who is Charged With Defaulting When Ordered to Report For Military Service.

Thomas John Collins of Victoria County who was taken into custody on February 18th, by the Dominion Police and appeared in Police Court last Wednesday and had his case remanded for a week was before the police magistrate again this morning.

Mr. F. D. Kerr appeared for the accused and asked for an enlargement and after some hesitation this request was acceded to. The evidence of the Crown was placed before the court by the Acting Crown Attorney J. Fordyce Strickland.

Inspector H. F. Ward in charge of the Dominion Police in this district was the first witness. He produced documentary evidence from the registrar at Kingston to show that Collins had been ordered to report for Military Service and had failed to do so. He also submitted for examination of the magistrate the letter from the Department of Justice.

Sergeant Carmody was the next witness called for the Crown. He stated that acting under the instructions and upon information supplied by the Inspector he had arrested Collins near Omemee on February 12th.

This concluded the case of the Crown and the witness was then examined by the prisoner's counsel. Sergt. Carmody was asked why Collins was being tried at Peterboro instead of at Lindsay when he had been arrested in the County of Victoria. He replied that he did not know this as he had simply carried out his instructions and that Inspector Ward could supply that information.

In answer to questions asked by Mr. Kerr the witness stated that Peterborough was the headquarters of the Dominion Police in this district that he had never been to the home of the accused though he had visited the residence of the father and that as far as he knew there was no aversion felt by the authorities towards holding a trial of his kind in Lindsay, the capital of the County in which the accused resided.

Mr. Kerr then argued for an enlargement of the case. He had witnesses who were not present and he would like to have them give evidence. In his opinion the evidence adduced by the Crown was not sufficient. Mr. Strickland with whom he had talked over the prospects of a further remand was quite agreeable but thought the Dumbells not. He thought that Mr. Kerr was asking too much when he requested a second enlargement and accused him of a disposition to deal lightly with the court. Mr. Kerr argued his point, however, and the magistrate granted his contention finally setting Tuesday afternoon as the time for resuming the case.

Sir Wilfrid's Life Was Insured

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Ottawa, Feb. 26.—Hon. F. B. Carvell, Minister of Public Works, and Sir Sam Hughes, former Minister of Militia, are expected to speak in the Commons this afternoon. Mr. Carvell has the floor when the House opens, and he will be followed by J. S. Sinclair and Dr. Sheard. If Sir Sam is not heard today he will probably be the first speaker tomorrow. A movement is on foot to provide an annuity for Lady Laurier, but it is not known whether she would accept it. Sir Wilfrid left considerable life insurance.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 26, 1919

MR. HALL AS A BRIDGE BUILDER.

THE AGITATION over the erection of the Hunter street bridge has aroused the hitherto latent ambition of more than one individual who appears to imagine that he has mistaken his calling, and could, if given half a chance, put up as good and cheap a bridge as the best of them. Some who do not care to go as far as that, content themselves with suggesting that a public meeting be held to talk things over. Mr. W. H. Pretty, bimself an expert engineer, advises that the plans of the bridge be put on exhibition at the Public Library. Mr. Pretty should know rather better than the average man that the general public would be able to make really very little out of the plans, lacking an expert like himself to explain the details.

Mr. R. R., Hall displays another latent ambition when he blossoms out as a bridge engineer in his family journal. Mr. Hall leaves considerable to the imagination in what he has to say. He does not, for example, tell us whether his bridge is to be of steel or concrete. He does make it clear, however, that if he is entrusted with the work, he will erect two piers in the river and build a bridge on flat beams, his plan calling for three spans instead of the single arch designed by Engineer Barber.

Mr. Hall's idea at least has the merit of enterprise. His bridge in the matter of length of spans would set a new record, each eighty feet in length, while the longest span of flat construction that is considered consistent with safety is sixty feet. He also claims that the maintenance cost of his bridge would be less than that of the one the city now is contemplating. How this can be the case is not apparent if he uses concrete, for the maintenance of such structures costs nothing beyond the expense of keeping up the flooring. If he proposes to use steel, such material will be required to be painted at intervals, and will eventually wear out, so that this part of Mr. Hall's argument falls as flat as the beams—steel or concrete—which he proposes to use in his structure.

But there is another and still more serious objection to Mr. Hall's design. Three or four piers erected in a navigable stream would never get by the Marine Department. The Otonabee is a navigable stream, according to Mr. Hall himself, and his modest claim that it was made so by his public service. He also modestly boasts that while he represented West Peterborough in Ottawa he secured a departmental pledge for financial aid in erecting a bridge over the river at this particular point. One thing is certain, that Mr. Hall would never get a cent of public money to help build the bridge to which he has already given a newspaper existence.

But Mr. Hall quotes anonymous experts whom he alleges are ready to back up his contention. As a lawyer no one knows better than Mr. Hall himself that he must argue from the standpoint of an expert himself or name the authority which he quotes. He does not, it seems, care to go the length of taking up the first position, and he fails to give the names of the experts who, he says, are behind him.

It is difficult to see what purpose is served by the issue which Mr. Hall raises, except it be the arousing of dissatisfaction among the unthinking, especially among those whose bridge knowledge is confined to the parlor variety.

A PENSION FOR LADY LAURIER.

THERE IS NOTHING NEW in the proposal that Lady Laurier be paid the salary and sessional indemnity of her late husband, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, for the current year, as that is the custom invariably followed in the case of all members of Parliament who die in the public service. It is further proposed to pay Lady Laurier a pension for the remainder of her days as a recognition of the service her late husband rendered the country and for which he received no compensation that permitted him to lay up a reserve fund.

Lady Laurier is entitled to a pension when the matter is considered as a business proposition or on humanitarian grounds. So is every other widow left in similar circumstances, and doubly so if such widow has a family of small children to bring up. The late Sir Wilfrid Laurier beyond all question rendered his country invaluable service, but this duty was performed according to his gifts. The man with the ten talents made the most of what was placed in his keeping. If he achieved more than the man who was entrusted with only one, it must be admitted that his opportunities for outstanding performance were infinitely greater.

There must be nothing like class distinction tolerated in a country that prides itself on its democracy. If the dependants of the men who sit in the councils of the State are to be provided for, the same consideration is due those of the men who serve their country in a humbler but no less essential capacity. The hewer of wood and the drawer of water must not be neglected.

THE HUNTER STREET BRIDGE.

ENGINEER BARBER has made it perfectly clear to the committee charged with arranging for the construction of the Hunter street bridge that the city has already available sufficient funds to go on with the work at once. All this talk of the necessity of submitting another bylaw to the ratepayers to raise more money is so much breath wasted. The bridge can be built according to Mr. Barbers' plans so as to leave a balance on the right side of the account. So far the work has not been entrusted to amateurs, and no serious blunders have been made. All the figuring to date has been on a conservative basis. The man who assumes to dictate in the matter, while pretending to seek information only, is in reality knocking the project. Peterborough will have a bridge that will be a lasting honor to the enterprise of the city, and cavilling at the start will serve only to confuse the ratepayers and to delay the work, ample provision for which has already been made.

It is true that the lowest tender received by the committee so far is $337,338, whereas the total amount voted under the bylaw which was passed a year ago was $260,000. This, however, included costs that neither the committee nor the engineer thought would be chargeable to the bridge proper. For example, the estimated cost of the trolley pole is $2400, and this expense must be borne by the Hydro Commission, according to agreement with the city.

The cost of cement was over-estimated by $4516.

There was a provision to the effect that the work be completed by the end of 1919, failing which the contractor was to forfeit $40 a day for every day thereafter that he worked upon the structure.

The contractor who submitted the lowest tender allowed himself eighteen months in which to finish the structure, and this meant adding $6000 to his contract price.

The guarantee bond Mr. Barber does not consider necessary, as no cement bridge has ever been known to collapse one year after its completion. All that the engineer deems essential is a performance bond, and in this particular another saving can be effected.

When these matters were called to the attention of the contractor, he reduced his tender by $20,000 as against the saving of $21,600 which Mr. Barber figured.

By removing the present structure to London street and putting up a permanent structure there at once, Mr. Barber shows how another substantial saving can be effected.

He also made it clear to the committee yesterday that by extending the fill on either side of the river it would be possible to cut off two arches and so effect a saving of $17,000.

Another saving of $20,000 could be made by having the work done on a cost-plus basis.

The cement steps on the east side, he believes, should not be put in until property changes are made and it can be ascertained just what is required. Wooden steps will serve the purpose for several years to come.

The ramp on the west side provided in the plan will not be allowed by the Dominion Railway Board, so that this item of $4600 is cut out of the reckoning.

Altogether Mr. Barber reduces the actual cost to $300,322. To meet this expense the city has $260,000 voted by the ratepayers, and the $50,000 as good as pledged by the Government.

The main plans cannot be changed. There are certain conditions that must be complied with. For example, it has been suggested that the roadway be narrowed. This cannot be done if the bridge is to carry a double street car track, for the Railway and Municipal Board insist that such tracks shall be thirteen feet from centre to centre, and this condition has been met in the present plans.

The bridge is to be forty-two feet from curb to curb, exactly the width of an ordinary street.

There are no trimmings on the bridge as designed, nothing in the way of ornament that can be done away with, if the structure is to be a credit to the city.

After all, now that Mr. Barber has been heard, it would appear that there is no reason for the public alarm some people seem inclined to arouse in this connection.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

ANYWAY it was not toy soldiers and cannon that won the war.

AS MANUFACTURERS VIEW IT

(New York Commercial)

Reports from industrial cities in the Middle West indicate that workmen who received unusually high wages during the past three years have wasted a very large percentage of their pay. Skilled mechanics whose earnings were very large under peace conditions have been more thrifty than unskilled men who were attracted to the factories that paid high wages for war work. These new hands learned only one operation of the use of one machine and are not fitted for general shop work under normal conditions. They still demand war wages and call themselves skilled mechanics.

Real journeymen find no difficulty in obtaining employment, but the men who "dilated" labor during the war are hard to place. Thousands of them came from the rural districts and are unwilling to go back to the farms. The spring season is opening and farmers are looking for men, but city life and war wages have made thousands reluctant to till the soil and milk cows. Manufacturers now advertising for machinists say that not one applicant in a hundred can qualify and this appears to be true of other skilled trades.

One large employer of skilled labor writes: "I think it is the duty of the Government to promptly appropriate at least a billion dollars for the purpose of employing idle labor in the construction of national highways." He realises that the Government must not offer very high pay to those employed on "relief work" of this kind, because farm labor would be depleted. It is doubtful whether fair wages for road work out in the country will draw the unemployed from the congested cities. Most of them have saved no money and cannot migrate to other parts of the country if transportation is not provided. If the Government undertakes relief work on a large scale, how many of the unemployed will it draw from large cities, where thousands persist in seeking light indoor work at high wages?

The head of a large industrial plant in Indiana says: "My thought is that there must be a way found by which we can educate the working people to understand that it is not a question of high rates per hour, but the purchasing power of the money they receive for a day's wage. I am a mechanic by trade and I have held all of the positions in my industry. I feel that I know the working man fairly well, and at heart he is an honest, upright, fair minded man; but he has permitted many foreign radicals to confuse his viewpoint, so that he now is at a point at which he will hardly believe the statemen's of bankers, merchants or manufacturers telling that these different ones have an inclination to take something from him in some mysterious way." This growth of class consciousness is an importation from Continental Europe of the last half century. Native Americans of English-speaking stock have always regarded themselves as the equals of the rich and socially prominent and have not been addicted to class hatred and prejudice. Descendants of serfs one generation removed from that form of slavery cannot rid their minds of class consciousness, and they tend to poison the minds of those with whom they come in contact. They are not endowed with the old American spirit of self-reliance. In their new found liberty they still ask the Government to do everything for them, and they therefore advocate socialism and Government ownership of industries.

This article is published as the consensus of hundreds of manufacturers and business men who are trying to improve labor conditions and maintain the prosperity of the country.

WIT AND WISDOM

Improving.

Yeast—But he's too old to work now, isn't he?

Crimsonbeak — Indeed, not. Why he's doing his best work now.

Yeast—Really?

Crimsonbeak — Truly; he just worked me for $5.

That Settled It.

"Have you seen the lady candidate I told you to vote for?" demanded Mrs. Wombat.

"Um, I guess we'll vote the other way."

A Promising Singer.

Wife — That girl in the opposite flat is quite a promising singer.

Husband—Well, get her to promise that she wont' sing any more.

Was It a Compliment?

An English knut, taking refuge in Ireland recently, found it necessary to put up for the night at a country hotel, where he was obliged to share a bedroom with Pat.

He was just about to retire, when our hero, who was watching him, intently remarked:

"Ye should be a powerful grand singer, mister."

"How so?" inquired the knut.

Fame's Sliding Scale.

Landlord of Country Hotel — You can have the bedroom in which Charlie Chaplin slept—two guineas—or that once occupied by Mr. Parnell—a guinea and a half—or the one Mr. Gladstone used when electioneering here—one guinea.

Visitor—Thanks. But might I, do you think, have a look at the one in which Robinson, or James or Smith put up when down this way?

His Night's Rest.

Father — I hope you had a good night's rest in the old, familiar room, son.

Son (returned soldier) — Pretty good, dad. I ducked under the bed only once.

Father (alarmed) — Why, what was the trouble?

Son — The garbage man's attack on the cans at 5 o'clock.

TO-DAY'S STORY

(By H. Addington Bruce)

On a recent Sunday I went to church in a state prison to hear a friends of mine, a well known New York physician, preach to a congregation of "hardened criminals." Some hundreds of them there were, with about one out of every five serving a life sentence or the equivalent of a life sentence.

I looked in vain for any uniformity of expression or of head structure, conforming to the familiar Lombrosian dogma of the "born wrongdoer."

A few—though comparitively few—showed obvious signs of so called degeneracy. The great majority were men of quite normal aspect.

Excepting only for the telltale prison garb and prison pallor they looked much like any other large gathering of men. And they listened as attentively and interestedly to their doctor-preacher as would any congregation outside prison walls.

For forty-five minutes he told them the life story of the young American poet, Joyce Kilmer, who fell on the field of honor in distant France. And at intervals in the telling of the story he read to his criminal congregation some of Kilmer's most beautiful poems.

My friend himself knew Kilmer intimately. He knew the laughter and joy in his life as well as the pathos of the heroic passing that cut short the promise of great achievement. And as he told the story, with rare wit and feeling, that prison chapel rang with the laughter of its inmates, while anon tears glistened in their eyes.

It was all so human, so tremendously human. There surged up in my mind those wonderful words of Pascal:

"Every child at the beginning of his life is a little impulsive being, rushed indifferently toward good or evil, according to the influences which surround him."

These murderers and forgers and thieves were little children once. If society now finds it necessary to cage them like wild beasts, whose is the fault?

Theirs, or that of the parents who did not surround them with good influences in childhood? Theirs, or that of a social system which has tolerated conditions mayhap preventing their parents from being able to influence them aright?

And withal, caged like wild beasts though they may be, they remain human, tremendously human.

When the speaker had finished there was a hurricane of applause. The criminals would have cheered. I asked the doctor what he was going to do that afternoon.

"Why," he made answer, with a twinkle in his kindly eyes, "I'm going to lecture to the young ladies of the seminary. And I'm going to talk to them about Joyce Kilmer, just as I talked to the prisoners this morning."

Some day, please God, society will awaken to its responsibility for the making of criminals, and then we shall have a really decent world.

IN MISERY FOR YEARS

Mrs. Courtney Tells How She Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Oskaloosa, Iowa.—"For years I was simply in misery from a weakness and awful pains—and nothing seemed to do me any good. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so, and got relief right away. I can cordially recommend this valuable medicine to other women who suffer, for it has done such good work for me and I know it will help others if they will give it a fair trial."—Mrs. LIZZIE COURTNEY, 108 8th Ave., West, Oskaloosa, Iowa.

Why will women drag along from day to day, year in and year out, suffering such misery as did Mrs. Courtney, when such letters as this are continually being published. Every woman who is troubled with displacements, inflammation, backache, nervousness, or who is passing through the Change of Life should give this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial. For special advice write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The results of its long experience is at your service.

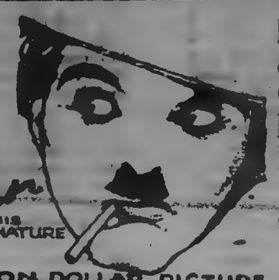
40 FIRST RUN REELS — THEATRE ROYAL — 40 FIRST RUN REELS



IN HIS SECOND MILLION DOLLAR PICTURE

"SHOULDER ARMS"

For the next three days, commencing to-day, the Royal has provided an extra special program consisting of Forty Reels of the finest pictures that can be produced. Included in the special features will be Charlie Chaplin in his second million dollar picture "Shoulder Arms." This is a muddy story of trench life, cooties, camouflage, rookie training and Hunnish influence. This feature has been secured by the Management of the Royal at a great expense. It is in 3 parts.

Another feature to be shown during to-day and to-morrow is a thousand foot film of the funeral of the Late Sir Wilfrid Laurier, which was held in Ottawa on Saturday last.

No expense has been spared to make these three days the best in the history of the Royal Theatre from the standpoint of its patrons. There will be a show every afternoon and evening starting to-day and last until Friday night.

THE FEATURES—"A Vagabond of France" is another 5 reel production to be shown. This is a Pathe Drama. A Vitagraph feature "The Iron Test," in 2 parts, is another feature. Blue Ribbon feature, featuring Bessie Love in "The Encharnted Barn," in 5 parts, will complete one of the cleanest and best shows ever presented in the Royal Theatre.

The above program is equal to that shown in the largest Theatres in Toronto, Montreal and other cities for which an admission of 50cents is usually charged. For this special three day schedule the following Prices will prevail, Matinees in the afternoons—16 cents to all, this s es War Tax. Evening performance—25 cents including War Tax. On Monday next, the Royal will resume its old price of 16 cents to all, both afternoon and evening.

Patrons are asked to attend the matinees for the next three days as much as pos ible and avoid the rush in the evening. You can save money by attending the afternoon show. For the benefit of the School Children of the city we are retaining the Charlie Chaplin feature which ill be shown at a special Saturday morning show opening at 9.30. ADMISSION 10 cents.

LESSONS IN RIGHT LIVING

The thyroid gland, which is situated in front of and on each side of the breastbone, and which is enlarged in goitre, controls iodine utilization in the body. Food from natural sources contains iodoine, and the iodine is conveyed to the thyroid gland where it is converted into an organic protein iodine compound which is fed into the blood as required.

In the blood the iodine compound has a special affinity for certain tissues, as the sympathetic nervous system and those tissues concerned in oxidizing food, waste and poisons fairly dused through the body.

The thyroid secretion is the fan to the fire of life. When the secretion is excessive the fire burns too fast, that is metabolism is increased. That means a heightened excitability of the vegetative nervous system (nerves and nerve centers controlling all body functions) as occurs typically in exophthalmic goitre (overactive thyroid gland with wide, staring or prominent eyes as one symptom.)

The thyroid gland is required to work overtime in most germ diseases for its part in aiding the body first to resist the germ poisons, then neutralize them and finally destroy them, and the germs themselves, is vital. The gland is constantly overworked in persons who persist in overeating and neglecting daily exercise as long as no serious breakdown occurs—and that means most of us who are rather too well nourished. The thyroid function has everything to do with the success of any antisyphilitic treatment. For that reason, one taking such treatment must not extravagantly squander thyroid integrity in the abuse of alcohol, tobacco or food.

Autointoxication, which makes A miserable and fails to impress itself upon B, who never bothers his head about such things at all, is neutralized in B for a certain period of months or years because of the functional efficiency of B's thyroid gland. But B must pay the bill some day, nevertheless.

Emotional excess of any kind is a strain upon the functional integrity of the thyroid gland. The anxieties and worries associated with child birth likewise tend to exhaust the tyroid gland. Hence we find many women from 30 to 40 years of age who metabolism begins to slow down on account of a sort of thyroid fatigue. For the domestic squabbles and the family shortcomings the wife and mother pays. She pays doubly, for her condition spoils her pristine charms for her lord.

Case of Bad Indigestion

In such cases I use caution. I endeavor: first to determine what ails the patient, and then not to frighten him if it happens to be heart disease, gallstones, appendicitis, Bright's disease or something like that. I can't diagnose in this department. It wouldn't be fair to you.

BLACK VEILS ARE PREFERRED

Color Takes Lead for Universal Becomingness—Blue Also a Strong Favorite With Women.

The possibilities of the veil are practically unlimited. Chosen with care with regards to color, size and design, a veil has power to make even the plainest women startlingly attractive. On the other hand, a veil can make a really pretty woman hopeless.

Perhaps the most important consideration is color: Black must take the lead for universal becomingness. After that comes blue; but it must be quite a dark blue, and preferably of a coarse undotted mesh. The blue veil is becoming to blonde and brunette alike, and is wonderfully effective in suggesting fineness and clearness of skin. Most trying of all though, is the white veil. Only she who knows her type to perfection and has proved the becomingness of the white veil should attempt it. But brown veils for charming red heads by all means!

As to size or shape, the unimpeachably groomed person may go in for the long flowing veil, hanging loose from the face. But the average woman, if she would look her triggest best, must have her veil snug.

Unbeautifying splashy scrolls of the all-over kind are usually not the choice of the carefully dressed woman, no matter how modish the pattern. The same thing is true of dots. Dots well spaced on a veil carefully arranged have a positive fascination. But you know the funuy side of a dot misplaced, don't you?

Good Stain Mixture.

Take an ounce of sal-ammoniac and salt of tartar, mix and pour over them a pint of soft water. Dip into it those parts of a white article stained with wine, fruit or mildew. After the stains have thus been removed, wash in the usual manner.

Marriage Custom.

For women to take their husbands' names on the marriage day was a Roman custom. For example, we have Octavia of Cicero, meaning Octavia, wife of Cicero. Now we omit the "of."

Slipper Styles.

Optimistic Thought.

It is a bad cause that cannot be talked over in public.

Mother of Thousands.

The destruction wrought on all but the hardest wood by the white ant, or termite, is not surprising when a few facts are known of its prolific character. A nest, some six feet in height, was found in the tropics, and about one foot below the level of the ground was a central mound of hard earth. Inside this dwelt the queen mother. After careful observation she was found to lay 9,120 eggs in an hour. On account of her great size she was unable to leave her cell, her only function being to lay eggs.

Bruges' Sacred Relic.

In Bruges, Belgium, is a reminder of the past, the chapel of the Holy Blood, built by Theodoric, a distinguished crusader, who, on his return from the holy land, brought with him, so the legend says, some drops of the holy blood of the Savior, which had been preserved by Joseph of Arimathea. Whether the legend is true or not, the Church of Saint Sang, with its dainty little oratory, bears testimony to the belief of the people of that time.

Hired Hessians.

The half German king, George III of England, employed about 30,000 troops from 30 different German states, especially from Hesse, against the colonists, before the United States was a nation. The reason was that the war was very unpopular, few men enlisted and the government dared not conscript Englishmen to fight their brothers in America.

Only Things That Prevail.

What a fallacy to define riches as anything sensual! For all that is of the flesh fleshy and of the earth earthy must one day perish like weeds that are slain by the reaper in the hot sun. Only love and truth and beauty and their divine fellowships are immortal, and only these are worth the husbandry of the undying soul.—Exchange.

African Trees.

A wonderful tree, known as the shea, is beginning to attract commercial attention in western Africa. It supplies the natives not only with nuts, which they highly prize, but with a butter that may become an article of commercial importance. It is already exported to Europe, where makers of artificial butter find use for it.

"The Sport of Kings."

A mantle of rich silk or cloth appears to have been the usual prize for horse racing in the fourteenth century; bells and gold maufles were run for in the fifteenth century; cups gradually came into fashion in the sixteenth century. Racing colors of silk and satin seem to have been in use in Henry the Eighth's reign.

Insignia of Army Officers.

An officer of the rank of general is allowed to choose his own insignia of rank. Some recently appointed chose four stars on the shoulder. We have, therefore, this rule to indicate the different grades of general officers: One star, brigadier general; three stars, lieutenant general; four stars, general.

Berlin Trying to Dance So That World Tragedy Will Not Oppress Them

A CURIOUS make-believe gaiety has come to Berlin. By day a sinister quiet lies upon the city. White faced people walk the streets. Groups of soldiers—hungry eyed, purposeless automatons — lounge through Wilhelmstrasse and Unter den Linden. From the corners hungry old men are vending newspapers with news of the Bolshevik. To-morrow there will be shevikl. To-morrow there will be and railroads will stop running throughout Germany. To-morrow the city will be in total darkness and to-morrow the meat ration, already pot enough to satisfy a grasshopper, will be curtailed. Berlin standing like a white immaculate ruin listens to these tidings.

Sorry and with half of the city starving and the other half waiting in fear of further Spartacan outbreaks Berlin celebrates at night. The movies fill up. The vaudevilles and cabarets become crowded. Men and women flock to the cafes, drink and dance—music and wine being almost all that money will buy — through the half-lighted streets couples stroll, humming songs and embracing. Laughter comes through open ballrooms and cafe doors. During the brief hours of this curious gaiety there is no hint of the terror heralded for the morrow.

I sat with two Germans in a cafe. "The people seem at this moment to be rich and happy," I said. The two Germans smiled and raised in their seats as if acknowledging a compliment. "They wished to spend their money," said one. "It will buy nothing but gaiety and so they buy that. And to-morrow will come the taxes. Then the money will be taken from them. Or the Bolsheviki will come and take the money."

"Do the people realize that they will have to pay indemnities?" I asked.

One of the Germans shrugged his shoulders. "Walter," he cried, "three more beers please or will you have wine?"

The music burst forth. The people resumed dancing. We went out and walked through the streets. "You do not want to go to the residence districts," said one of my companions. "It is dark there and you bump into too many hungry people."

A soldier in uniform stopped us. We were in Unter den Linden. "Do you want to buy two pounds of sugar?" asked the soldier. "I sell it cheaper—3 marks ($2)." I bought the sugar. "If you want to buy something," said my companion, "I know where you can buy butter for only 40 marks ($10) a pound. But you must order two days in advance."

Later in the evening I presented my companion with a cake of soap. He looked at it with astonishment and then wrung his hands. "Such soap as this is worth 50 marks ($12.50) if you can find it," he said.

The memory of last night's music and gaiety seemed a dream. Again hungry old men were vending newspapers, crying words of terror coming of mine and factory strikes and even doctors' strikes. I walked the daylighted streets past empty grocery stores and butcher shop windows into districts where hollow-cheeked children and peaked-faced woman congregated in groups and talked. I saw a pair of shoes labeled "200 marks" ($50), and suits at 1,500 ($375). They were shoes and clothes such as the average Chicago clerks wears on a rainy day. All was quiet in the streets. A regiment of German soldiers passed, flying neither flags nor marching to music. I noticed only a few people who stopped to watch them.—Ben Hecht in Chicago Daily News.

Builder of Pagoda.

The Burman, if he acquires wealth, must also acquire merit—"Kutha"—and this he must do by building a pagoda on which shall be set out on a marble slab how much money he spent on building it. He likes people to address him as "Builder of a Pagoda," and he will say to his wife before others: "Oh, wife of a builder of a pagoda!"

An Old Firm.

The Cutler's Company, of Sheffield, England, was incorporated by Act of Parliament in 1624 and invested with powers "for the good order and government of makers of knives, scissors, shears, sickles and other cutlery wares."

Skin of Fish Makes Strong Leather.

The Government fisheries bureau says the skin of the codfish provides an excellent leather, tough as parchment and very durable. The same is true of salmon skin.

Every Man to His Trade.

Madame Aubernon sat at dinner between Dumas the elder and a well-known general. Both men talked but little, and tired of their reticence, Madame Aubernon whispered to Dumas: "Why do you not tell the general some of your witty stories?" "Mon Dieu, madame," replied Dumas in his most ingenuous tone, "everyone to his trade—I was waiting for him to fire off a cannon."

A Possibility.

The hoary-headed examiner glanced over the top of his spectacles. "Are you sure," he inquired, "that this is a purely original composition you have handed in?"

"Yes, sir," came the answer. "But you may possibly, sir, have come across one or two of the words in the dictionary."

Cellar Theatres.

One of the most enterprising of Parisian theatre managers has opened two cellar theatres, one for each of his two houses. The regular performance begins in the upstairs' auditorium.

CHIC NEW SWEATER BLOUSE

Garment Devised With Purpose of Conserving Wool, but Without Giving Up Good Points.

An extremely serviceable and smart garment is the new combination sweater blouse, devised by some one who wanted to conserve wool without giving up the good points of the sweater.

A blouse of some gay striped silk is first made according to a pattern that opens down the front with fronts that fold back and join in a wide sailor collar. But the sailor collar is not made of the silk. Instead, it is made of wool of some color that goes well with the stripes in the silk, as are also the cuffs for the sleeves and a foot wide hip band that forms a tight-fitting peplum for the blouse. To put it on it is simply pulled over the head. It is charming to wear with the walking suit skirt, and the wool is placed just where the additional warmth under the suit coat might be most welcome of frosty mornings.

Germs flourish in the seams and joints of ordinary milk-pails. No matter how carefully you scald and cleanse, you never can be quite sure that some crevice does not harbor a colony which will make trouble later on.

EDDY'S INDURATED FIBREWARE MILK PAILS

are 100 per cent sanitary, because there are no joints or seams to cleanse. They are made in one piece from wood pulp, under tremendous heat and pressure. The hard, glossy surface is baked on at high temperature, and is absolutely non-absorbent to liquids. Eddy's "K" Pails are practically indestructible. They cannot be dented and no cracks can develop on the surface. Rust cannot attack them and no odor or moisture will do them injury. They cost no more than ordinary milk pails. SIR THOMAS WHITE PRAISES CAREER OF SIR WILFRID ELOQUENT TRIBUTE PAID IN PARLIAMENT TO DEAD LIBERAL LEADER.

Ottawa, Feb. 26.—Tribute was paid in the House of Commons yesterday to the memory of the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Sir Thomas White the Acting Prime Minister, said the death of Sir Wilfrid had removed a most distinguished and commanding personality from the stage of public life.

"During his long career," said Sir Thomas, "he had been identified with all the great political controversies since the period of Confederation. His fame has carried far beyond the boundaries of Canada and in Britain and France and United States as well as in other countries the name of Sir Wilfrid Laurier has long been respected and admired as one of the outstanding statesmen of the age.

Such a Career.

"With such a career, with such titles to distinction, we of this House may well look upon this occasion with profit to ourselves, and in appreciation of him examine as to the nature of the political principles to which he subscribed, his characteristics as a statesman, the personal qualities and attributes of the man himself, and the sources of the great power and influence which he exercised within and without the halls of Parliament."

Sir Thomas said the principles which guided Sir Wilfrid's political action were his strong attachment and devotion to the ideals of freedom and liberty, personal, civil and religious. He believed in freedom of opinion, free speech, freedom of conscience. That these were his views might be gathered not only from his own speeches, but from the names of those whom he most admired, Fox, Gladstone, Bright and Lincoln. These names were often on his lips, and he had diligently studied their careers and utterances.

Admired British System.

"From this starting point of attachment," said Sir Thomas, "he was led to greatly admire the British political system and the security and guarantees for liberty which it embodies and affords. He was a great constitutionalist, an ardent upholder of principles of free government with all that it involves. It seemed to me at times that in his character of constitutionalist and in his continued interest in the constitution he was the dignified and solitary survivor of that great group of statesmen, giants in their day who, after prolonged and fiery discussion and controversy, laid broad and deep the constitutional foundation of Canada's national life.

"National unity he regarded as of paramount importance in a country of mixed races and diverse creeds such as Canada. He was regarded for the fights of minorities and strong advocate of tolerance towards the opinions and convictions of others upon all questions. He was a believer in democracy, but there was always in him a moderating and restraining influence, a pragmatic respect for experience and for the past which disinclined him to sudden or violent change and exercise a steadying influence in the determination of his policies."

Sir Thomas said that the late Liberal Leader took the highest rank as

DISABLED MEN SHOULD REPORT

EX-SERVICE MEN TO BE RE-EXAMINED AT STATED INTERVALS.

Ottawa, Feb. 26. The Repatriation Committee in a memorandum just issued for ex-service men in necessity for ex-service men in receipt of pensions for partial disablement reporting for re-examination at stated intervals. It is pointed out that failure to report for re-examination is often the cause of suffering and inconvenience. "It would be well," says the memorandum, "in every case of misunderstanding regarding the hold-up of a pension or delay in payment, to make inquiries immediately as to whether the pensioner has reported whenever requested by his local office. In a great many instances it will be found that the economic loss suffered has been due to such failure on his part."

KEEP URIC ACID OUT OF JOINTS

TELLS RHEUMATISM SUFFERERS TO EAT LESS MEAT AND TAKE SALTS.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meat, but drink plenty of good water.

Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urin! the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which helps overcome uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.

PHONES WILSON 800 MILES AWAY

SECRETARY OF THE NAVY USES RADIO TO REACH PRESIDENT.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26. Secretary Daniels transmitted a telephonic greeting to President Wilson last week by naval radio. From his desk at the navy department the secretary's voice was carried to the transport George Washington nearly 800 miles off the Atlantic coast.

Mr. Daniels opened his message by stating that it was the secretary of the navy talking and that the message was for the president. Whether Mr. Wilson was personally at the receiving instrument on the ship or not did not develop here. The secretary said that a great welcome awaited the president in Boston and again in Washington when he reached the capital.

Tells of Reception Details

He told how Mayor Peters of Boston and Rear-Admiral Wood had made arrangements to have naval vessels and aircraft meet the George Washington and while ashore there would be an escort of troops. Mr. Daniels repeated his sentence several times to make sure that he was understood.

"Good-by," the secretary said into the instrument. "I will see you Monday. Good-by."

The president's ship was reported in a position estimated at less than [illegible] miles off the coast at 1 o'clock seas and with its own convoy, the armored cruiser North Carolina, was in the morning. It was in smooth making sixteen and one half knots an hour through good weather. This should bring the ship into Boston harbor early Monday morning.

MAJOR BERESFORD TOPP, D.S.O., M.C., with a bar, formerly on the reportorial staff of The Mail and Empire, Toronto, has gone to London, England, to represent the Information Branch of the Repatriation Committee.

Major Topp left Canada in the first year of war to act as war correspondent for his paper but became a combatant June 3rd, 1915. He was wounded in July, 1916, in the Ypres salient; wounded again at the battle of the Somme, October 1916, and the third and last time at Cambrai, September, 1918.

In London he will be associated with Major A. G. [illegible] son of the Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment Committee at C. Hanover Squire.

SUGGESTS USE FOR HUN FLEET

MAJOR DAVIES SAYS IT SHOULD BE TAKEN OVER BY LEAGUE.

London, Feb. 26. The Daily Chronicle reports in a Paris despatch that the suggestion that the German fleet be sunk in the Atlantic has excited a storm of criticism in the French press, and the French people want their Government has a part [illegible] to a number of these vessels by way of compensation for their naval losses.

Major David Davies, chairman of the League of Nations Union, according to the Chronicle despatch, suggests that the German fleet should be handed over to the League of Nations as the nucleus of an international police force, which could be relied upon to enforce the decisions of the League. Doubtless, says Major Davies, such an international naval force would have to be built up step by step. It is unnecessary that the entire fleet should be commissioned at the same time. Thus a long period would elapse before it could possibly rival existing national fleets, but as confidence in the League of Nations develops and as the financial strain of competing armaments becomes more acutely felt, the tendency would be to transfer sea power more and more to the international fleet.

DRINK HOT WATER IF YOU DESIRE A ROSY COMPLEXION

Says we can't help but look better and feel better after an inside bath.

To look one's best and feel one's [illegible] is to enjoy an inside bath each morning to flush from the system the previous day's waste, sour fermentations and poisonous toxins before it is absorbed into the blood. Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of incombustible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken each day leave the alimentary organs a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not eliminated, form toxins and poisons which are then sucked into the blood through the very ducts which are intended to suck in only nourishment to sustain the body.

If you want to see the glow of healthy bloom in your cheeks, to see your skin get clearer and clearer, you are told to drink every morning upon arising, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless means of washing the waste material and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Men and women with sallow skins, liver spots, pimples, or pallid complexion, also those who wake up with a coated tongue, bad taste, nasty breath, others who are bothered with headaches, billious spells, acid stomach or constipation should begin this phosphated hot water drinking and are assured of very pronounced results in one or two weeks.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs very little at the drug store but is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanses, purifies and freshens the skin on the outside, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the inside organs. We must always consider that internal sanitation is vastly more important than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do.

Big Store Burned In Quebec City

Quebec, Feb. 25. The large wholesale and retail store of the Mechanics' Supply Company on St. Paul Street, this city, was almost entirely wiped out by fire yesterday. The loss will amount to not less than $750,000 with insurance [illegible] fire started apparently in the furnace room, although this could not be established. The flames were discovered shortly before 7 o'clock by an incoming employe who turned in a general alarm.

BUILD SEWAGE

Chairman Phelan and Engineer Parsons are to buy the season's supply of road oil from the Imperial Oil Company as it was shown that in a short time the price will move upward and it would be good business to purchase at the present time.

A motion was passed giving Chairman Phelan and the City Engineer authority to offer the Henry Hope Company $350 for one of their steel tanks. If this offer is not accepted they may purchase the tank offered by Mr. E. R. Wilson. The city is badly in needed of a new tank in which to keep their road oil, as the old one is leaking badly.

City Engineer Parsons was authorized to barricade part of the Monaghan Road as the construction work in connection with laying the tracks for the street railway extention has left it in a dangerous condition which cannot be remedied to any extent until the frost is completely out of the ground.

Alderman Edgar brought up the question of the Sewage disposal plant. He reminded the members of the Board of Works that as long as this work was allowed to remain unattended to a law suit was hanging over the city. Mr. Peck as the solicitor for the townships had brought up the matter several times and had acted in a most moderate manner and Alderman Edgar felt that it would not do to strain the patience of the complaining parties and their legal representative too far. Chairman Phelan assured Alderman Edgar that the work would be commenced just as soon as the bridge question had been disposed of. The Board of Works knew that it had to be done and were anxious to do it as soon as possible.

BOARD OF WORKS DECIDE TO ADVERTISE FOR

Chairman Phelan of the Board invited Engineer Barber to make any remarks in connection with the matter which he felt would be of any assistance to the members. He acquainted him with the nature of the motion which had been passed and of the decision which had been arrived at.

Engineer Stands By His Figures.

In answer to a question put by Mayor Duncan in regard to the distance required by the regulations of the Ontario Municipal and Railway Board between interurban tracks under conditions such as obtained in this case, Engineer Barber maintained that thirteen feet was the minimum space allowed, from centre to centre. Engineer Parsons had read an order by this organization dated 1916 which called for only ten feet three inches, and upon being confronted with this statement, Mr. Barber replied that there might have been more recent legislation in the matter as he could not be mistaken in his information, having asked the chief engineer of the Board about the matter only recently and with the Hunter street bridge at Peterborough as the case in point, and that official had stated that thirteen feet was the minimum and that nothing less would be approved.

As far as the trolley poles were concerned, they were not elaborate in any sense of the word. Little if anything could be saved by placing them upon the hand rails of the bridge, as it would require a greater number of them on account of the lights being placed upon them, and under such conditions the illumination would come from the sides instead of from the centre, which would be more expensive, requiring double the number of poles.

The motion, which had as its seconder, Ald. Gainey, authorizes Engineer Barber to advertise for tenders for the construction of the bridge under the new conditions prevailing as a result of the adoption of his reduction recommendations. The ramp remains in the plans for the present, and the engineer is still authorized to make any changes which would cut down expense. The date of the closing of the period for receiving tenders was set at April 1st, and they are to be addressed to the chairman of the board of Works.

REACHED PARIS BY SUBTERFUGE

IRISH DELEGATE TO THE PEACE CONFERENCE WILL INSIST ON A HEARING.

Paris, Feb. 26.—Sean O'Ceallig[h] whose name in plain English is [illegible] O'Kelly, who is seeking recognition by the Peace Conference as the envoy of the Irish government, arrived very quietly in Paris more than two weeks ago, having, according to his own statement, secured a British passport by a subterfuge.

Ostensibly he crossed the Channel as the representative of the corporation of Dublin to press an invitation upon President Wilson to visit Ireland. Tucked away in his baggage, however, O'Cealligh carried credentials as the delegate of the provisional Irish government.

Yesterday O'Cealligh said that thus far he had received no reply to letters and telegrams sent to President Wilson, asking the President to set a date for the reception committee to present to him the freedom of the city of Dublin. Since his arrival O'Cealligh also wrote to President Wilson, asking that he be received as the delegate of the Irish republic.

"Ireland," said O'Cealligh, "is building a lot on President Wilson because of his pronouncements regarding the rights of small nations. He never mentions Ireland, but everybody there thinks he meant us, and his words have been read eagerly in every household."

3,000 British To Be Accounted For

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Feb. 26.—Replying to the question in the House of Commons Captain Guest, said that the number of officers and other ranks officially reported as war prisoners who had not yet been accounted for by the Germans approximated 3,000 including Imperial and Colonial troops and the navy. It was not expected that many were alive. As a result of a recent search in Germany, sixteen sick and wounded prisoners were reported and remained because it was not advisable to move them.

CONCRETE WHARF FOR LINDSAY

GOVERNMENT LAYS DOWN THE TERMS WHICH TOWN ACCEPTS

Lindsay, Feb. 26.—In all probability Lindsay will have a new Government wharf, the same to be built in the course of the coming spring and summer.

At Monday nights meeting of the Town Council the following communication was read from Mr. J. W. Pugsley, Secretary of the Department of Railways and Canals:

Sir, Referring to the request that has been made by the Corporation of the Town of Lindsay, Ont., that the Department repair the public wharf in that town, on the Trent Canal, I have to say that the Department would be willing to take over the wharf in question, and to repair and maintain the same, provided that the Corporation will convey to the Department any vested rights it may have in the premises referred to."

J. W. PUGSLEY, Ottawa.

On motion the offer of the Government was accepted and the premises in question will be handed over to the Government on condition that a new concrete wharf be built.

ARMED SPARTACANS TAKE POSSESSION OF ALL CIVIC ELECTION RETURNS

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Feb. 26.—The Workmen's and Soldiers' Council of Munich has sent a wireless message to all countries announcing that a dictatorship by the proletariat and peasants has been proclaimed in Bavaria.

After the elections for the town council had been held in Dusseldorf last night, says a Cologne despatch today, bands of armed Spartacans compelled the officials to surrender the ballot boxes at the point of revolvers and made bonfires in the streets of the ballots and all the election documents. The Spartacans wound up with a little promiscuous shooting, resulting in several casualties.

DROWNED WHEN CAR BROKE ICE

ONE OF VICTIMS WAS FOUR YEARS IN GERMAN PRISON.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

St. John, N. B., Feb. 26.—Robt. L. Johnston, broker, of St. John, N. B., and E. R. Osten, recently returned from Germany, here he was a prisoner for four years, were drowned in the Kennabac River, near here, while crossing the ice in a closed car with Col. McAvity, who escaped with his chauffeur by breaking out of the car and rising to the surface. The bodies were recovered but the car remains at the bottom of the river.

BEGIN WORK ON THEIR NEW HALL

WAR VETERANS PROPOSE TO HAVE UP-TO-DATE QUARTERS.

Work was commenced today by the G. W. V. A. clearing the seats out of the old Murray street church in preparation for its renovation into one of the finest halls in the country. The local branch have purchased this property but recently and are losing no time in setting to work upon the remodelling of the building.

In the Association in Peterborough every trade is represented from a master builder to a laborer and the Veterans are showing an example which might be profitably followed by other business organizations in the country when they decide not to go outside their own society for workmen unless absolutely necessary.

Many of the men who have recently joined the local branch are out of work and the building of the new hall will afford much needed employment to these and while the work proceeds the members of the society will have the satisfaction of knowing that the money so far as the amount spent on workmen is concerned is being spent amongst their comrades who might otherwise be out of employment in these dull times.

DOCTORS ARE OVERWORKED

Spanish "Flu" Has Broken Out Again at Meaford.

Meaford, Feb. 26.—Spanish influenza has broken out afresh in Meaford and surrounding country. Almost every house has a patient or two and in some instances whole families are prostrated. One of the local physicians reports that he was called to attend sixteen new cases in one day. The result is that the doctors are overworked and in some cases are unable to keep up with the constant demand for their services. While there are of a great number of cases very few of them are thought to be serious, and all are hoping for the abatement of the disease before long.

NORWOOD

(Special to The Review.)

Norwood, Feb. 26. — Mr. Donald MacNaughton and family were pleasantly surprised last Friday evening when all their near neighbors assembled at their home to do them honor and to spend a social time together prior to their departure for their new home, near Peterboro.

All were participating in games, etc., when Mr. W. T. Birck arrested the mirth and jollity for a short time by calling Mr. MacNaughton and family to a prominent place. He spoke of the good-will and kindly feeling existing among the neighbors on the Hastings road and of the high esteem in which Mr. MacNaughton and each member of the family were held by their neighbors.

Mr. John Marks then came forward and read a skilfully worded address while Mr. Joseph O'Keefe made the presentation of a mantel clock and a sum of money.

The address is as follows:

To Mr. Donald MacNaughton and family:

As the time when you will remove from our midst is fast drawing near we, your friends and neighbors, have gathered here to express our sincere regret at your leaving our neighborhood and to wish you God-speed in your new home. You have always been deeply interested in matters, touching church, state, school and our own community and at all times have stood conscientiously for those things which you believed to be highest and best, and as neighbors you have ever been ready and willing to help when help was needed.

As a token of our esteem we ask you to accept this clock. May it in the years to come prove as faithful to you as you have to your friends and neighbors, whom you are leaving. It is our earnest prayer that in your new home you shall be blest with health, happiness and prosperity.

Signed on behalf of those present—

W. T. BUCK,
J. D. O'KEEFE,
J. MARKS.

Mr. MacNaughton replied feelingly after which refreshments were served, followed by music, etc.

The members of the Baptist Church congregated at the home of Mr. Donald MacNaughton Tuesday evening Feb. 18th, to say farewell to Mr. Alex McNaughton and Miss Vida MacNaughton prior to the family's departure for their new home.

After a few social hours Mrs. Lewis Fyfe read an address to Miss Vida MacNaughton, who for some time has been such a faithful organist of the church, Sunday School and B.Y.P.U. also a teacher in the Sunday School. Rev. J. B. McCormack read the address to Mr. Alex. MacNaughton, who had for the past few years so successfully filled the offices of church clerk and president of the B.Y.P.U. Each address expressed sincere and deep regret that the church was about to lose such willing and efficient co-workers, but trusted that the same noble and willing spirit would have greater happiness and a wider and even more active field of usefulness in their new home.

Mr. Geo. Hubble and Mr. Arthur McKay made the presentation to each of a quarter-cut oak leather upholstered rocker.

Refreshments were then served followed by a program of instrumentals solos, readings, etc., and a very happy evening was brought to a close by singing "God Save the King."

Mr. Joseph Carley of Fenelon Falls, was a guest of Mr. C. G. Richardson on Monday.

Corp. J. A. G. McBride Home

A great crowd of the citizens of Millbrook was at the station Monday evening to welcome Corp. Gussie McBride home. Corp McBride enlisted at Kingston with the 21st Bn., in October, 1914, went overseas in May 1915 and to France in September of the same year. He was transferred to the machine gun section in which he was a gunner. He was gassed twice and received several slight wounds. He was with the army of occupation at the Rhine.

All are glad to welcome Corp. McBride home. He enlisted when about 16 years of age, went through many hot engagements and fought like all gallant Canadians did and all honor is due to him.

Chautauqua Entertainment

The entertainment given by the Pierce's on Friday evening was by far the most pleasing of the Dominion Chautauqua Festival series yet given. Mr. and Mrs. Pierce are delightful entertainers. The audience that filled the hall was more than pleased, and if they ever visit Millbrook again the Town Hall will not be large enough to seat all who would want to hear them. Even as good as they are it comes from good authority that the Royal Hawaiian singers and players can go them one better. Don't miss this great entertainment.

REV. H. J. KEITH PREACHES FAREWELL TO HIS FLOCK

Former Pastor of Knox Church in This City Takes Leave of His Congregation in Edmonton.

Rev. H. J. Keith, formerly of Knox Church here, of Westminster Presbyterian Church, preached his farewell sermon to his Edmonton congregation on Sunday night prior to his departure for Winnipeg, taking as his text Isaiah 42:16: "I will direct the blind by a way that they know not I will lead them in paths they have not known." His theme was "The conditions suggested by the passage were quite appropriate and in keeping with the minds of the minister and people of Westminster church," Mr. Keith said. "Four years ago, when I came to Edmonton and Westminster, in the midst of financial strain and war, it was with the hope of getting close to the people under such conditions and thus building up a larger work on the basis of that confidence. I had not thought of pulling out of Westminster church when the war was over, and the only explanation I can offer now is the working of that Providence that shapes our ends, rough-hew them as we will. We have passed through the trying experience of war together; many homes have been visited where the supreme sacrifice has been made We have passed together through the harrowing experience of a railway wreck, and we have also faced together the influenza epidemic with its heavy losses to our church and our homes. Through it all Westminster church has passed safely. She has made manifest progress. Her obligations have been fully met and increased, her membership has been largely increased, and she has definitely linked up with missionary effort at home and abroad. She has done a fair share of war work, keeping in touch with the boys at the front and planning for a share of the reconstruction work when they return. At this stage we have come to the parting of the ways. We are in the position of blind pilgrims. The future is unknown to me, I know not what which is general in the world today. The world is full of anxiety for the future, both the nation and the Church are on the lookout for what is coming next.

"I am not leaving Westminster because I have lost faith in its future. We have but laid the foundation of a much larger work still to be accomplished. I am not leaving Edmonton because I have lost faith in this great city and her people. I am going because I am under compulsion of the Eternal, must and have to go. I am comforted in the thought of His promise, 'Lo, I am with you always,' and we can be confident that He will keep this word. I commit Westminster church, her members and her friends, into His keeping, knowing He will not forsake but will guide and bless. We are pilgrims and if our ways separate for a time we shall yet meet at our final goal, the city whose builder and maker is God."

Mission Band Presents Gift.

At a mass meeting of the Sunday school in the afternoon, the presentation was made of a beautiful flower basket from the Mission Band to Mrs. Keith, who made a suitable reply. Through Mrs. Keith's efforts the Mission Band has grown to be one of the best in the West. Prizes were presented to some of the Sunday school pupils for note-book work, etc. Miss Anna Gillis received first prize for note-book work, and Master Douglas Robertson for story of the life of Moses.

FAVORS COOLIE LABOR FOR U. S.

AMERICAN INVENTOR CITES CANADA AS A CASE IN POINT.

New York, Feb. 26.—A plea for complete restriction of immigration during the next few years, in order that aliens now in this country may be Americanized, and American standards of living lowered no further by "flooding the labor market" was made by Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, in an address here at a meeting of the council of foreign relations.

A plea of an entirely different nature was made by Hudson Maxim, the inventor, another speaker. He urged that while the immigration laws be altered to bar "timber for Bolshevism, anarchy and discontent," 1,000,000 Chinese coolies be brought into the country immediately for employment solely on farms and as household servants.

In offering his plea for Chinese labor, Mr. Maxim declared that America was sadly in need of more workers.

"We need cheap labor to cheapen the cost of production of the necessaries of life," he said.

Mr. Maxim declared that the coolie

LEADER MACKENZIE HELD OUT OLIVE BRANCH TO LIBERAL UNIONISTS.

Ottawa, Feb. 26.—On the first day of the leadership of the Liberal Opposition in the House of Commons Sir Daniel D. McKenzie held out the olive branch to the Liberals who differed from the Opposition on the conscription issue. He concluded his speech with these words: "I am glad the war is over, because of the returning boys who are to be welcomed throughout this House as they now wend their way home to the dear old place which they have left. Let me tell my good friends that the light is in the window, the latch-string is on the outside, and you are all welcome."

The motion was received with much cheering and applause.

Real Riches.

He who has fortune in love and truth and beauty is entitled to be called rich. Time and change and adversity have no power upon them. They are the only things a man can take with him when he goes. In the process of acquiring them they become part of him inseparably. He who has them "wears his commendation in his face," for it may be read as he passes that his converse is with the higher and finer things and his daily walk is on the plane where the noblest meet and greet familiarly.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

G. W. POWELL,

Count Michael Karolyi

Was Radical Aristocrat

And Now Leads Democracy

FROM Tisza to Karolyi; for the Magyar people these four words condense the political evolution of a century into four tempestuous years. Was it not but yesterday that Count Stephen Tisza ruled Hungary with the power of a military despot and dictated the policies of the cantonfuage empire of the Hapsburgs. And to-day? Count Tisza is dead, his heart pierced by the bullets of Magyar soldiers whose brethren he had sent to the slaughter by the hundred thousand—crushed by the very forces he more than anybody else, not even the Kaiser excepted, had helped to turn loose upon the world. And his once derided and insulted rival, Count Karolyi, is the beloved leader of newly-born Magyar democracy.

A good way to explain Karolyi is to contrast him to Tisza. Typical representatives, each in his way, of their race and caste, these two aristocrats have but one quality in common—indomitable courage, physical and moral. Bodily valor, however, is the common heritage of Magyar aristocracy whose life is a mixture of English outdoor exercises and the discipline of cavalry officers. The different manifestation in each of the quality called moral courage is one measure of the gulf that separates the two men. For Tisza, moral courage was an impenetrable armor behind which he defied the twentieth century in the terms of the fourteenth. He had a certain style, a simplicity of outline, which commanded the admiration even of his enemies. This style is not the property of cowards. Karolyi's moral courage helped him to battle his way through the Chinese wall of caste feeling and class interest, to face social ostracism for the sake of democratic ideas.

If sheer force of character and oneness of purpose are desirable standards, Tisza was by far the greater man of the two. He was a splendid specimen of Junkerdom—not of the Prussian variety, though. He had no use for the scientific methods of oppression, did not believe in bribing people into submission. He was all for the whip and the sabre as the instruments of political education for the masses—feudal baron merged into a Russian police general. His Magyarism was simply caste feeling and Oriental exclusiveness. His stern religion finishes the picture. He was a Calvinist crusader—at the same time a devout servant of his Catholic master the King. A Cromwell willing to fight and die for the divine right of James II.

The pragmatic test of social usefulness establishes the undisputable superiority of Karolyi. His is a flexible, developable, receptive mind—Tisza's opinions were of cast iron. He is as cosmopolitan in education and attitude as Tisza was parochial—as European as Tisza was Asiatic. Socially and intellectually, the two men compared as a granite statue of Sulla compares to a live Paris clubman.

It goes without saying that his activities as Radical leader did not tend to popularize Karolyi among his fellow-aristocrats. They affected not to take him seriously — derided him as a crank and a doctrinaire.

Now members of the ruling caste had a very legitimate grievance against the "Red Count." Heir to the Karolyi entail, second only to that of the Prince Esterhazy and reputed to be worth about $30,000,000, Count Michael started public life as president of the Hungarian Agricultural Union, the representative body of Magyar Junker reaction. One day he announced to that distinguished gathering of Magyar Westrups and Leventlows that he was through with them for good, that they were all wrong, that the future belongs to democracy, and that he was going to fight for the rights of the common people.

The question naturally arises: Why does Karolyi not live up to his principles and turn over his vast estates to the Hugarian people? This is the favorite question of his hecklers. But he has an answer: "I will not give my estates to the Magyar people because I want the Magyar people to come and take them away. I won't give alms to my people, and I won't bribe them. The land rightfully belongs to them—when they will awaken to this, they'll go and seize it, and as far as I am concerned they are entirely welcome."

His record during the last four years is more or less known to the Canadian public. In Parliament he opposed bitterly submarine warfare, demanded renunciation of all imperialistic aims and a peace program along Wilsonian lines, attacked the Germans whenever he saw a chance, and professed pro-Ally sympathies with increasing frankness. His endeavors were duly honored when, early in 1918, he was indicted for high treason on a charge brought by his own cousin, Count Emery Karolyi. The German Government appreciated his activities by establishing at Budapest a special secret service to watch him. The thing came out; there was a big scandal in Parliament, and Major Cousten, the German secret agent, had to make a hurried exit.

Karolyi advocated just treatment for the subject nationalities ever since he turned Radical. Nevertheless, he was denounced by Slovak and Roumanian spokesmen as a Magyar chauvinist because of his insistence on the indivisibility of the Magyar State. He stood but his ground alike in the attitude of Russian liberals toward the Ukraine. But there is every reason to assume that Karolyi has at last realized that the friendship of the Czecho-Slovaks and Jugo-Slavs and Roumanians can be gained only through co-operation with their free national states. His whole development points in this direction.

Even his best friends would refrain from calling Karolyi a genius of the first rank. But his good-will, his sincerity, his zeal to do the right thing, are coupled with a keen sense of justice, a European outlook and power to grasp the international foundations of genuine democracy. Above all, he lacks that cocksure, parochial, intolerant haughtiness which characterized almost all Magyar statesmen since the death of the two real Liberals, Deak and Eotvos.

Leon Gambetta has shown the world how a high-spirited nation can turn defeat into victory. Fate has put Count Michael Karolyi into a position where he might prove the Gambetta of Hungary. The interest of Europe and the world demands that he succeed.

Aeronautics.

What is to become of aeronautics after the war? This problem is discussed in Le Petit Journal of Paris by Jacques Mortane.

Considering the enormous progress aviation has made during and on account of the war, he says, only one answer to the above question is possible. Regular aerial lines of communication will be established throughout the world. And these lines will serve not only passenger traffic and the mails, but they will be used in increasing proportions for long-distance freight transportation.

The establishment of regular commercial air routes, however, has to be accompanied by the working out of an international code of air navigation.

For one thing, how will the air be mapped out between the different nations? Shall each country have not only its own aerial fleet and stations, but also its own exclusive lines? Is it possible at all to establish a rigid system of right of way in the air? How far will the jurisdiction of a country apply to lines internationally used?

But there are other no less complicated problems. What qualifications will be demanded from commercial pilots? Will a pilot's certificate issued in one country be accepted as valid in another? This question involves the safety not only of aerial shipping itself, but also that of the population above whose heads the shipping passes.

Will there be a standardization of machines? This is an important question, as it pertains to the safety of traffic and to the facilities of relaying and repairs.

What about aerial customs regulations and policing?

It is comparatively little known that as early as 1910 an international conference was held in Paris to consider some of the above outlined questions. Difficulties of a military character, however, prevented reaching an agreement.

Origin of One Proverb.

One obtains historical glimpses in proverbs. The familiar "robbing Peter to pay Paul" is said to derive its origin from the fact that in the reign of Edward VI the lands of St. Peter at Westminster were appropriated to raise money for the repair of St. Paul's.

Fish You Cannot Eat.

While there are many varieties and great quantities of curious fish in the abysmal depths of the ocean (some have been trawled up from depths of three miles or more), none of these are eatable. The limit to which fish fit for food is found is 1,600 feet.

Their Need for Safety Pins.

An archeologist recently dug up a safety pin from the ruins of ancient Babylon. Judging from the pictures in the Babylonian section of the histories, however, it seems that safety pins were worn mostly by the grownups in those times.

His Word Is His Bond.

Notwithstanding his barbaric customs, an Albanian's word is his bond. A promise given by those savage tribes is never broken. If a stranger eats of their food, even though he be an enemy, he is sacred for 24 hours afterwards.

Hope for the future of Albania lies in the fact that the Albanian, though a warrior and a man who prefers to go always armed, is, unlike the Montenegrin, a hard worker. Among his barren mountains he is a first-rate shepherd, and, where he has the opportunity, a skilful agriculturist. The Albanian of the towns excels as an artificer, armorer, and maker of fine stuffs. The Albanian zarfs, or coffee-cup holders, of silver filigree are celebrated all over the Near East for their beautiful workmanship.

There are no schools in Albania except those established by Italian and Austrian monks as a part of the political propaganda of those powers. Italy and Austria for years have been exerting every effort to curry favor with the natives, a fact which has been apparent even to the rough tribesmen. The North Albanian may be entirely uneducated, a barbarian and at heart a brigand, but he is certainly no fool. Although he has always considered both Italy and Austria equally his enemy, he has fought valiantly by the side of the Italians in driving out the Austrians.—Family Herald.

Stand by "Holstein."

At the annual meeting of Alberta Holstein Breeders the request of the British breeders of the black and white to change the name to Friesian came up for consideration. The request was unanimously rejected, all the members being opposed to such a change in Canada, since the cattle here are more popularly known by the name Holstein than by that of Friesian.

Russian Wolfhound.

The swiftest dog in the world, the borzoi, or Russian wolfhound, has made record runs that show seventy-five feet in a second, which would give it a speed of 4,500 feet in a minute if the pace could be kept up.

Reason Must Dominate Love.

Love is atavistic. It sprang from our prehistoric ancestors, who dwelt in the cliffs and went forth and secured what they desired by brute force. It was not a question of intellect or sentiment at that time. As the human race has advanced intellectually this instinct has become polished, modernized, but the same force which actuated the cave man is still the predominating factor of modern society, and until reason displaces sentiment, until intellect displaces instinct, we shall be slaves.—Chicago News.

The Snoopo.

It is bad manners, and almost bad morals, for one office employee to pry into the business of another. Be careful not to show curiosity or to examine without permission any paper left on top of a desk or pages left in a typewriter or in the drawers of a desk. Each worker's desk is his private sanctum and should not be violated by the prying eyes or hands of others.—Bldg. Bee.

OLD TIME UMPIRE TELLS YARNS OF KID GLEASON

Latter Tried to Kick Himself Out of a Close Game Once on a Time But Joe Cantillon Blocked Him.

(By George S. Robbins.)

Reminiscences of the olden days of baseball—at least olden days relatively speaking—were on tap at a fanning bee at Comiskey park between Kid Gleason, manager of the White Sox, and Pongo Joe Cantillon, part owner and leader of the Minneapolis club and former big league umpire. Repartee and wit flowed freely. That was all that flowed, for Gleason is a teetotaler. The Kid is an exponent of the grape juice high ball. He believes the lacteal fluid and aqua pura have it all over the amber stuff for ball players to quaff in training.

The subject of umpires was brought up. Memories of the old days when one umpire ruled the diamond furnished a lively topic of conversation.

"Those were the days of real sport for an umpire," said Pongo Joe.

Blocked Kid's Little Game.

"I'll say they were," piped the Kid. "Do you remember the day I tried to kick myself out of a game and you blocked me?"

"Yes, I recall the day and it's been a long time ago, Kid," replied Cantillon. "You usually wanted to be in there and that's what made it stand out. When a fellow wanted to kick himself out I usually kept him in. You weren't fooling anybody."

"Do you remember what I called you that day?" asked Gleason.

"They were pet names all right, Kid, but I was used to 'em," replied Pongo Joe.

"I said 'Go back to your peanut stand around the corner where you belong—you Dago blankety blank,'" Cantillon nodded as if he recalled the incident and the words.

"It seemed as if you would put me out after that," said Gleason.

"No, I punished you by keeping you in the game," replied Cantillon.

Hot Time in Quaker City.

This reminded Cantillon of one of his experiences with Dan Murphy, a player on the Philadelphia club, one hot day in Quakertown.

"The day was about as hot as they make 'em in that town and that was going some," said Cantillon. "The game was about as hot as the day, things were popping and I was having a peck of trouble trying to watch everything and attend to Murphy, who was becoming obstreperous. He was on the coaching line and his club needed all its men, for a number had been used and were warming the bench.

"'Clear the dust out of your lamps,' said Murphy, or something to that effect, following his admonition with a lot more advice.

"'Guess you are looking for trouble,' I said to Murphy as he kept on pelting me with words.

"'What are you going to do about it? You can't put me out of the game,' he said.

"'No I can't put you out of the game,' I said, 'but I can put you in the game and that'll be the worst punishment you could get,' I told him.

"'How do you figure that, Joe?' asked Murphy.

"'That's easy,' I replied. 'I'll fire your catcher out of the game and you'll have to take his place,' I had no more trouble from Murphy that day."

Gleason said umpires these days thought they had lots of trouble but they didn't know what it meant in comparison to the arbitrators of the olden times when the one umpire system was in vogue.

"No, you fellows didn't have trouble in those days," said Gleason. "You didn't have any more than the kaiser has had."

That reminded Cantillon of another story about umpires that happened in St. Louis, the city that has sent more arbitrators into exile, perhaps, than ny other in the American league.

"One of the American league umpires had just gone through some heavy shell fire in St. Louis," said Joe. "Reports of the rumpus came to the league head. I happened to be with one of the clobs that was a party to the proceedings.

Worst Language Outdone.

"'I have heard a report of the language that was used on this umpire and it was outrageous,' said Ban Johnson, meeting me several days later. 'It was the worst I ever heard about.'

"'No, Ban, it wasn't that bad.' I replied. 'I was an umpire in the American league and I've heard worse than that.' When I was the only umpire on the field I heard some language that had it beaten a city block. After what I have heard, it sounded tame by comparison.' Johnson agreed I must have got an ear full."

Gleason and Cantillon agreed that it wasn't what a player said to an umpire that usually caused a penalty to be imposed. It was how he said it and the motive back of the speech. A player often kicked to be thrown out of the game and in such cases the arbitrat punishment he could be handed was to keep him right in the thick of the fray, they thought.

U. S. NOT TO COMPENSATE BRITISH BREWERS LOSSES

London, Feb. 26.—In the house of commons, Cecil B. Harmsworth, under-secretary for foreign affairs denied that the British Government had made diplomatic representations to the United States government on behalf of British investors who may sustain losses as a result of the spread of prohibition in the United States.

Mr. Harmsworth said the British embassy in Washington had reported that no provision had been made by the United States government for compensating brewers for any losses they may incur.

BASEBALL PLAYERS WHO HAVE WON FAME AT FISTICUFFS

Kid Gleason Was Not the Only Expert in That Line—Frank Chance and Others Who Were Handy in a Scrap.

When Kid Gleason was appointed manager of the White Sox his prowess at fisticuffs was exploited at length. Gleason is a good man in a brawl, a rough ready and efficient customer, although no brawler. He is good-natured, yet determined, and like most of the men in baseball who can go hard and fast in a fight, is opposed to notoriety in that line.

George Moriarity, the umpire and former third baseman, can mill it with the best of them. He can fight like fury when he has to. Those in baseball who are able to put it over on him are few, if any, yet he is adverse to that sort of thing, and is a quiet, decorous gentleman. Same way with Charles Rigler, the umpire, big, strong, game, but who does not seek a quarrel and dislikes any reputation that links him with fame of pugilistic or quarrelsome description.

Frank Chance Quit To Fight.

Frank Chance was a battler with a gunpowder temper. He was quick to anger and had the size and strength to make him formidable. They say he offered to thresh Jim Corbett at one time; also that Heinie Zimmerman once gave him a fierce battle, or was ready to. The Detroit club has had several members of more than ordinary skill in self-defence. Besides Moriarity, there were Charles Schmidt and Bradley Kocher, both catchers. Kocher was inoffensive and reserved, but give him just cause and anybody who elected to be his opponent had his hands full. Another former Detroiter, Edward Barrow, now pilot of the Red Sox, is a gentleman by nature, but a warrior to be feared if there is occasion to make warfare. Nature blessed him with a splendid physique, yet Edward lives up to the Shakespearean precept that it's fine to have a giant's strength, but not to use it as a giant.

Two of the best boxers ever in the game were Giants, Al Bridwell and Arthur Devlin. Devlin could hold his own in a hand to hand fight with anybody in baseball. He knew how to hit and could hit hard. He was lightning quick and a clean hitter. He was tall, long of reach, fiery, but clear-headed, a capable in a stand-up, man to man combat, as anybody baseball has had. Jim McAleer, tall, slender and not robust looking, was nevertheless a good man in his day, with his cool head, long, well-developed arms and quickness of hand and foot.

Kid Elberfeld was one of the best of the little scrappers; one of the best of the big, if scrap he must, was Bobby—Uncle Wilbert, of the charming disposition, fast on his feet for a big man, and powerful. Not many men cared to tackle Otto Jordan, former Brooklyn second baseman, active, strong and fast in a mill. Like Kid Gleason, he was built close to the ground, a big little man. A former team mate of Jimmy Smith's, lately of the Giants, then of the Braves, describes him as a "fighting fool"—in the complimentary sense—a slim, medium-sized lad, but a whirlwind when stirred to battle pitch.

Earl Neale of the Reds, who has engaged Fred Toney, Kill Killefer, and Lee Magee on the field in recent years, evidently can mix it in telling fashion. He has a good physique to support belligerency, yet doubtless the game has undiscovered ones who would trim any of those mentioned.

BONSPIEL AT MILLBROOK

Three Days of Roarin' Game Last Week Was Closed With Banquet at Waverly.

Millbrook, Feb. 26.—A very interesting bonspiel was held under the auspices of Millbrook Curling Club, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of last week, when seven rinks participated and great enthusiasm was shown. The skips of the several rinks were: Messrs Cecil Larmer, T. A. Bradley, Ross Edmunds, H. B. Allen, W. A. O'Brien, J. E. Allen, and W. G. Hetherington. Many spectators enjoyed the games in which many brilliant plays were made. After the final game on Thursday night, the curlers took the Waverly by storm and in a few minutes were sitting down to a splendid oyster supper.

Mr. A. Smith who acted as chairman in place of the President, who was absent spoke regarding the bonspiel and the splendid showing the winning rink and particularly the skip had made. He then presented the prizes to the winners, viz. Messrs H. Allen, skip, and W. T. Wood, vice-skip, S. R. Nichols, 2nd, and John Clarke, lead. All made suitable replies.

Mr. Smith then called on ex-reeve Doak and Reeve Burnham to say a few words. Mr. Doak spoke of the first curling club of Millbrook of which he was a member. He said that Millbrook had just as good curlers as any other place, but that they did not have the numbers. He expressed the hope that the club would get younger blood into it.

Reeve Burnham, who is a member of the present club said that he curled for the fun there was in it. He spoke of the splendid showing the rinks we sent to Peterboro had made. He expressed the wish that another bonspiel might be held here this winter.

Mr. Smith then called on two of the premier curlers of Millbrook viz. John Allen and John Steele. Both spoke very highly of the ability of the curlers and expressed their pleasure at being present, some of the younger members were then called on, among them being Messrs H. Armstrong, W. O'Brien, W. G. Hetherington, H. B. Price, W. Sayles, and W. B McCririck. All expressed their pleasure at being present and spoke of the good time they had had at the bonspiel even though they had been beaten by superior playing.

Mr. Nelson Jones, who is an old curler, although this is his first year in Millbrook, was then called on. He said he was in favor of holding another bonspiel and also expressed the hope that next year some of the boys who had taken part would join.

Mr. Edmunds who was found guilty of arranging for the bonspiel was thanked for his trouble and was called on to say a few words. He said that he was very glad to help at any time during the season at the rink.

A vote of thanks was proffered to

Printers Defeat League Leaders

The Printers and the C.G.E. teams met in a ten-pin league fixture last night at the Water street alleys. Much interest was taken in this match as the above teams are the league leaders. The Printers won two of the three games and are now tied with the C.G.E. for the top rung of the ladder.

For the Printers Kirn was high with 545. Fielder had 509 for the C. G. E. and Jackson came in for high single of 222. The scores were as follows:

U. T. S. EASILY BEAT AURA LEE

GAME IN TORONTO LAST NIGHT RESULTED IN SCORE OF 7 - 6.

Toronto, Feb. 25.—This season has been one of surprises, but U. T. S. capped the climax last night when they defeated Aura Lee, 7 to 6. They won strictly on their merits, and many who saw the game voiced the opinion that the Blue Shirts will win the round. The losers were favored to win by a wide margin, but disappointed a host of supporters by their wretched showing, particularly in the early stages. The same teams meet in the final fixture tomorrow night, and one of the most exciting battles of the season should result.

University Schools played combination and got results. Their passing was superb, and Coach Frank Carroll the man responsible, deserves every credit for this achievement. On several occasions the Aura Lee defense were made to look foolish by the easy manner in which they were drawn out. The first two goals of the night were scored by Jeffreys and Aggett on pretty passes from Munro and Powell.

Losers' Strong Finish.

Aura Lee, with the score standing 5 to 1 against them, made a gallant attempt to come from behind in the final period, and might have succeeded had not penalties at critical times caused their downfall. Hegarth and Rutherford added two to their total but as this stage Rodden was penalized, and during his absence U. T. S. ran in two goals. With four minutes to go Rodden, who had been playing in a helpdesical manner all evening returned and immediately cut out a terrific pace. He scored two goals after making two sensational end-to-end rushes, while Hegarth also turned the trick. The teams:

U. T. S.—Goal, Sullivan; defense Munro and Powell; centre, Aggett; right wing, Jeffreys; left wing, Greey. Substitutes—Kearns and Gunn.

Referee—J. LaFlamme.

SPORTING MEN HELPED WIN WAR

GREAT PART PLAYED IN RECENT CONFLICT BY FOOTBALL HEROES.

New York, Feb. 26.—Says N. O. McGeehan, in The New York Tribune:—One of the indications of the alacrity with which England is returning to her sport is a report from London in regard to the attendance at the soccer games. The Daily Mail records that there were 74,000 persons at the five London Combination games the other week. While this attendance is not on a par with the attendance at such games before the war, it is decidedly encouraging.

Soccer is to the British Isles what baseball is to the United States. One must remember that the man power of Great Britain has been sadly depleted, also that many of the professional soccer players of five years ago are dead. They died at Gallipoli, they died in Flanders, they died in Italy. The heroes of the soccer fields were heroes in the battles that raged in Europe. And the bleachers that used to watch them—the ranks of the men in the bleachers have thinned pitifully.

It is a good game, that soccer; it developed men. There are tales of how some of the soccer players in the British army went over the top dribbling a soccer ball before them, and these are true tales.

Athletics, both amateur and professional, will come to their own. The value of a healthy body and a clear eye has been demonstrated. The men who were fit did the big work of the past four years. What the Duke of Wellington did or did not say concerning the Battle of Waterloo being won on the playing fields of Eton was more or less justified by the part that athletes and sport lovers played in the war—especially British athletes, amateur and professional, and British sport lovers.

Guelph Investigates High Price of Coal

Guelph, Feb. 26.—The fair price committee appointed by the City Council is out to ascertain the reasonableness of some prices that Guelph people are paying. Ald. Westoby stated that he was securing figures regarding the buying and selling of coal by the local merchants; is getting the freight rates from the mines to Guelph what it cost to handle the coal after it gets here, and other data in connection with this matter, and will then try to reach some conclusion as to what margin of profit the coal dealers are making.

GILGOUR—WHITE

A very pretty wedding was held this morning at 11.30 in St. Paul's Church, when Miss Sibyl I. White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John White, Aylmer street, became the bride of Mr. James Gilgour, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Gilgour.

They were unattended. The ceremony was performed in the presence of many friends by the Rev Robt. Pogue. Mr. Allen presided at the organ and played the wedding march.

Mr and Mrs. Gilgour left on the noon G. T. R. train for a wedding trip and on their return they will reside in the city.

Miss Ida Sanderson and Miss Bulenh Galt have returned from Toronto, where they have been attending the Mendelssohn concert.

Mr. John Kendrick Bangs will arrive in the city on the 5.03 G.T.R. train on Friday evening and will be a guest at the Empress Hotel.

Pte. Leo. Fontaine has left for Toronto where he will receive his discharge after serving for four years overseas.

LEADER WROTE RESIGNATION

Ottawa, Feb. 26.—That Sir Wilfrid Laurier resigned the Leadership of the Liberal party at the time of the debate over the Lapointe bilingual resolution, but was persuaded to retain his post by his English-speaking followers, was a piece of secret political history disclosed to the Senate in the course of a notable tribute to his memory by his life-long friend and supporter, Senator Raoul Dandurand. "When passions were aroused to a dangerous degree over a school and racial question between the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec," said Senator Dandurand, "he expressed to his followers his intention to raise his voice in the Commons on an impending motion, counselling a friendly solution of the difficulty. It was my mission to inform him of the divergence of views among the members of his party. I have still before me his sorrowful attitude. He stood silent, with eyes gazing afar, and then he sat down and scribbled a few lines addressed to his first lieutenant, Hon. Mr. Graham, conveying his resignation as leader of the Liberal party. He had come to the conclusion that his usefulness was at an end, and that his most cherished hope of a happy and united Canada was a vanishing dream. I owe this testimony to his English-speaking supporters, that it was through their blessing intervention that Sir Wilfrid continued to lead their party."

LOCAL DOCTOR'S GOOD WAR WORK

DR. W. V. DOVER, OF ASHBURNHAM, HAD CHARGE OF CHEMISTRY PLANT.

In a speech recently made in New York the president of the State University of Missouri mentioned among the various services rendered the country by the university during the war, the work of Dr. M. V. Dover, of Ashburnham, who is a member of the staff of the Department of chemistry at Maryland Institute. Dr. Dover was given leave of absence to take charge of the women chemists employed by a well known powder companying, operating a large U. S. Government institute powder plant and was chemist in charge of the administrations' laboratory of the plant.

Dr. Dover recently returned to the University of Missouri to resume her teaching work.

AN EVENING OF DELIGHTFUL MELODY WITH TRINITY CHOIR

Concert Last Evening Huge Success—Mr. Frank Oldfield and Mrs. King Heard to Splendid Advantage in Solo Numbers—Very Large Audience Present.

The Trinity Church choir concert last evening was a gratifying success both as to the large attendance present and in the real festival of voice and instrumental melody furnished by the entertainers.

The work of the admirably trained choir did credit not only to themselves but also to their leader, Mr. George H. King, whose skill as choirmaster was delightfully reflected in the several difficult numbers rendered. This commendable choral organization is melodiously balanced and of acceptable volume. His premier piece last evening was "A Slumber Song," a soothing lullaby which, unaccompanied by the organ, gave an entrancing demonstration of the harmony and beauty of human voices in choral and quartette effect when expertly trained and correctly blended. For "tuneful" volume this choir was fully appreciated in "Unfold, Ye Portals Everlasting," from "The Redemption," by Gounod.

Mrs. King, the church's talented soloist, was heard to encore-provoking advantage last night. Her clear, distinct enunciation and sweet soprano voice is quite refreshing, and her delivery is always appropriately expressive of the sentiment her numbers are meant to convey. Her banner number last night was "A Khaki Lad," so faithfully and irresistibly sung that one could not help but recognize the poor, crippled, khaki-clad soldier as "finer than any king." Her other contribution was "My Laddie," but she cheerfully responded to the audiences' demand for an encore in each case.

Mr. Frank Oldfield, the popular baritone, was a valued assistant to the occasion. He is well and favorably known in this city, to which he is always generously welcomed by lovers of good vocal music, and last night proved no exception to the rule. He carried his audience away with him in each of his four numbers, and responded to their applaudits with three encores. He was in splendid form for this event, and his rich, full and versatile voice thrilled the audience again and again. His contributions were delightfully varied, and expressive of pathos, passion, love and humor. His "Lighterman Tom," a spirited, cheerful, happy-go-lucky Thames Barges song, was rendered in contagious form, while in "Sussex by the Sea" he filled the building with soul-stirring, martial melody.

Mr. George H. King, in both organ and piano accompaniment, is to be commended for his admirable contribution to a program very acceptably selected, splendidly rendered and carrying a touch here and there of refined and appropriate humor.

Dr. Girdwood, who was at the outbreak of war engaged on important educational work in India, realized the necessity of having some pictorial representation of the work of the Indian Expeditionary Forces in France and he volunteered to do this vital publicity work. The film which he took without thought of commercial gain, and as a set-off to German propaganda, has cost him over £8000 and nearly four years of service, and not one penny in salary or expenses has been incurred by the Government. This great attraction will be at the Grand Opera House for two nights, Monday and Tuesday, March 3 and 4 Matinee each day.

AMATEUR NIGHT AT THE GRAND

EXCELLENT PROGRAM IS ARRANGED FOR TOMOROW EVENING BY MANAGEMENT.

Tomorrow night an extra fine program is being offered at the Grand Opera House. It is the ever popular amateur night, and in addition to this, eleven fine reels are being screened.

The feature picture will be a big Western drama starring Harry Carey and entitled "Roped." This picture is a most popular one and comes well recommended from other theatres where it has been shown. There will be a two reel railroad drama, "The Robber," with plenty of excitement. There always is a peculiar interest attaching to railroad stories and pictures and this will be present in a remarkable degree in the feature being shown in the Grand tomorrow night. There will be a two-reel Ailce Howell comedy, which is sparkling with fun and altogether the eleven reel performance tomorrow night will be hard to surpass.

Tomorrow evening will see the last of the amateur performances under the present management. There are quite a number of entries already, one of them as a Harry Lauder impersonator, others in musical features and dance. There will be $10 offer-

OBJECTS TO USE OF PRISON STRAP

HARTLEY DEWART CALLS FOR RETURNS ON THIS SUBJECT.

Toronto, Feb. 26.—The prison at Burwash was a subject in the House last session and the Government would give up no information upon the repeated demands of Mr Mageau of Sturgeon Falls. Mr. Dewart yesterday wrote out a question for the Government:

"Has it taken any action since the report in the New York Press of Feb. 5, 1919, concerning Supt. Neelands of Burwash Industrial Farm, having regard to a report that at the annual conference in New York of the national committee on prisons and prison labor, Supt. C. F. Neelands of the Industrial Farm at Burwash, Ontario, said that when everything else failed in the management of a prisoner, he used a strap on him?"

Mr. Adolph Lewisohn of New York denounced such treatment and other men and women expressed similar sentiments.

Mr. Dewart asks is it the intention of the Government to abolish flogging at the Industrial Farm.

Enforce Dry Law In United States

COMMITTEE ON CONGRESS RULES ASKED TO GIVE IT PREFERENCE.

Washington, Feb. 26.—A bill to enforce the provisions of the war-time prohibition law, which goes into effect on July 1, was reported favorably by the House Judiciary Committee. The measure gives the Commissioner of Internal Revenue and his assistants power to investigate any reported violations of the act to the United States District Attorney, who is charged with the prosecution.

One radical provision in the bill would give the Government power to proceed against the owner of a building where liquors are sold in violation of the law, and if it is known to the owner that the law was being violated, the Government may get a lien against the property to cover the cost of prosecution.

Representative Barkley, author of the bill, is very anxious to get it through the proposed legislation in this session and will ask the Committee on Rules to give the bill preference in the House. Even should it pass the House in the remaining eight days of the session it is not expected to get through the legislative jam in the Senate.

DAYLIGHT SAVING DEPENDS ON U. S.

IF NEIGHBORING REPUBLIC CONTINUES THE SCHEME, CANADA WILL.

Ottawa, Feb. 26.—Continuation of daylight saving in Canada will depend on the stand taken by the United States congress. If Congress decides to repeal its daylight saving measure, it is felt here that merely confusion would be created by putting Canadian clocks forward one hour during the summer months.

The legislative situation in the two countries differs. The act passed by the Dominion parliament last session empowered the governer-in-council to bring daylight saving into effect for last year only. A new act will be necessary for continuation of daylight saving this year.

Doubt Across Line

In the United States daylight saving again comes into effect on the last Sunday in March, unless repealed by act of congress. But, as a result of protests from farmers, considerable opposition has already developed at Washington. A motion favoring repeal of the act was unanimously carried by the senate committee on agriculture, and some doubt is felt whether the act will be permitted to stand.

In the circumstances, action by the Dominion government will be deferred pending a more definite attitude by congress. If daylight saving is continued across the line, it will be continued here.

Mrs. G. H. King and Mr. Jarvis in Recital

Music lovers of Peterborough may look forward with keen pleasure to the vocal recital to be given by Mrs. Geo. H. King on Thursday evening, March 6th. Mrs. King, the talented soprano soloist of Trinity Church, will be assisted by Mr Harold Jarvis, tenor soloist of Detroit, and this combination of vocal talent will unquestionably offer a program of vocal harmony which should assure a capacity audience.

OBITUARY

ALEXANDER EASON.

Alexander Eason, son of the late Thomas Eason, of Asphodel, died in Pittsburgh on February 24th, at the age of 47 years.

Deceased had resided in Peterborough for the past sixteen years and leaves, in addition to his wife, the mother, who resides with her daughter, Mrs. A. G. H. Rutherford, 325 Hollis street.

The remains will arrive in Peterborough on the 12:30 C. P. R. noon train tomorrow. The funeral will be held from the depot to Little Lake Cemetery, the Rev. J. A. McKenzie conducting the service.

IN MEMORIAN

A tribute to him who has lived his life a worthy example to those whom he has preceded into eternity; whose creed was his duty to God and to his fellowmen; to whom unerring adherence to principles of honor, justice and right was a stay in the Path of Life; who was sublimely happy in this world of sorrow because his was the glorious happiness attained from untiring efforts to bring joy to others; who got the most out of life because he so freely gave of himself to the welfare of others—Hugo J. Lundgren. May God rest his generous kind soul.

Private Detectives.

Since the matter of private detective agencies has grown ominous in the administration of law, the following question by Mr. Dewart is most timely:

"Is the 'W. J. Burns International Detective Agency' licensed to do business in the Province of Ontario as a private detective agency? What surety or guarantee company undertook to guarantee 'the faithful, honest and lawful conduct' of its business by the said agency? Were representations made to the treasurer of Ontario that no license should be issued or renewed to enable the Burns agency to do business in the province? Will the Government make a

DAUGHTER OF ROYAL FAMILY IS WEDDED TO A COMMONER

Princess Patricia Married to Commander Murray With Imposing Ceremony—The Bride Carried Bouquet Presented by Canadian Battalion of Same Name and Bound With Regimental Colors

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London ,Feb. 21.—Princess Patricia of Connaught and Commander Alexander R. M. Ramsey, R.N., were married at Westminster Abbey, at noon today. No other social event since the outbreak of the war has created such public interest. Crowds assembled early in the day along the route over which the Princess drove with her father, the Duke of Connaught, from St. James' palace to Westminster Abbey about which throngs waited patiently for a glimpse of the popular bride.

The ceremony was performed by the archbishop of Canterbury, assisted by the Dean of Westminster and other noted ecclesiastics, in the present of King George and Queen Mary and a great assembly of members of the Royal Family. A guard of honor of the "Princess Pat" regiment was station at the door, sharing the honors with seamen from H. M. S. George V. Court mourning over the death of Prince John was waived for the occasion and the elegant gowns of the ladies lent a festive air to the assemblage.

The wedding presents ,which are still arriving number nearly an even hundred and range from homely market baskets to priceless diamonds. Princess Patricia presented Commander Ramsey with a bust of herself, his gift to the bride was a Chinese lacquered cabinet.

The bride entered the abbey by the west door, which is used only on occasions of importance. Her gown was of a white brocaded panne over silver lace, the outer gown being caught up with silver lover's knots. She carried a bouquet presented by the Princess Pat. Canadian regiment and tied with the regimental colors.

After the ceremony there was a procession of the Royal Family down the aisles of the historic cathedral. It was led by the Duke of Connaught and Queen Mary, Ging George and Queen Mother Alexandra and former King Manuel of Portugal and his wife who was formerly Princess Augustus Victoria of Hohenzollern. Peers and Peeresses followed.

LABOR ISSUES ITS ULTIMATUM

Informs Industrial Parliament That Workingmen of England Have Set New Value Upon Themselves and Will Insist Upon Better Wages and Living Conditions.

London, Feb. 27.—The Industrial Parliament, composed of representatives of employers and employed and government officials assembled in Central Hall Westminster, this morning .Premier Lloyd George and others addressed the gathering. The delegates to the Parliament number 800. It is estimated that more than 10 million workers are represented. James Henry Thomas, member of Parliament and general secretary of the National Union of Railway men, said he was deputed to make the following observation of the triple alliance of miners, railway men and transport workers.

"The organized workers of Great Britain have made up their minds to obtain for themselves an increasing share of the wealth which their labor has produced and produces. The workers of the three-fold organization are determined to shorten materially the hours of labor in their respective industries.

"Labor has become increasingly alive to its sovereign power and will shirk no responsibilities and will be denied none of its rights and privileges.

"The miners, railway men and transport workers demand immediately for ownership by the state of mines and railways and the means of inland and coastal trasport."

The statement declares that for most of the prevailing unions "The scandalous profiteering countenanced by the Government during the period of the war" is responsible.

The statement continues:—"Realizing these facts and inferences from them the workers have resolutely set their faces towards some order of society which will improve their lives and conditions in accord with the new valuation they have set upon themselves. No longer are they prepared to contest themselves with every wage advance being thrust upon the consumer and consequently cancelling every improvement instantly and automatically. Rent, interest and profits are not inviolate .

"Statesmen of every party must make up their minds that there is going to be a drastic change. Wise men will allow and provide for it. Others will be convinced only by the compelling power of events.

"In every country we see the workers seeking changes. We in this country may be able to see these changes brought about peacefully and orderly."

The blockade of Germany could not be raised until Germany had signed a peace treaty which would make war impossible Premier Lloyd George declared in speaking at the industrial parliament this afternoon.

MONARCHISTS IN GERMANY PLANNING DECISIVE MOVE

Have Been Quietly at Work Getting the Whip Hand and Are Now Said to Control the Government—Unrest Noted in All Sections of the Former Empire.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Feb. 27.—The Monarchists of Germany are contemplating an early move in the opinion of the Mail's correspondent at Berlin, who says that the old officer class, with its general staff, has been gradually getting the whip hand there since January, and now holds the Government in its power.

Dr. Wilhelm Muehlon, former director of the Krupp works, has arrived at Munich and is negotiating with the Socialist leaders there with a view to forming a new Bavarian Cabinet.

Trains Stopped.

Berlin, Feb. 27.—The Parliamentary special train for Weimer, which left yesterday, has been stopped at Leipzig. It is reported that the Government Courier, who left Berlin Berlin yesterday, has been stopped at Tuesday night, has not yet arrived at Weimer.

Herr Hoffmann, the Bavarian Minister of Works and leader of the Majority Socialists, is a complete nervous wreck and is in retirement, according to a despatch received here from Munich. Major Gen. Garres, ministerial councillor who was wounded during Friday's riot in the Bavarian diet, has died of his injuries, it is reported.

The Munich Post, the organ of the Majority Socialists, demands that the Diet shall make an unequivocal declaration of its undisputed sovereignty and directs that the proclamation of a Soviet republic there means a rebellion against the Empire.

ASK HYDRO TO BUILD ELECTRIC LINE FROM WHITBY TO PETERBORO

Railway Committee of City Council Take Important Action on Question Brought Up by Ald. Edgar—Radial Service to Stoney Lake

Alderman Edgar, chairman of the Railway Committee, at its meeting last night, was responsible for having a motion passed urging the Hydro Commission to take over the Toronto and Eastern radial line which was started by Mackenzie and Mann with the intention of having Cobourg as its terminus, and build it northeast from Whitby to Peterborough, thence to Lakefield and on to the Kawartha Lakes.

In introducing the question, Alderman Edgar stated that it was not good business, as far as he could see, for the Hydro, which was trying to get possession of the road in so far as it is built, from the Mackenzie and Mann interests, to attempt to compete with three steam roads along the front.

If the Commission could be induced to take over the projected line and build it northeast from Whitby it would be good business from their standpoint as it would serve territory between this city and Whitby which was not tapped by a railroad, and would be well patronized by the people of Peterborough, which city was a larger and more important centre than they could enter by following the original survey.

Peterborough's Opportunity.

It would mean, continued the chairman of the Railway Committee, that Peterborough would have better facilities for getting to Toronto and points along the western lake front. In the summer tourists would find it an added inducement to visit our city and the Hydro might, if they saw fit, take over the Grand Trunk line to Lakefield, electrify it, and include it as a link in the system to the Kawartha Lakes. McCracken's Landing would be the logical terminus of such a road, which in the summer season would have all it could do to accommodate the traffic to the summer resorts. It would be a direct route

SIR WILFRID WAS WORTH $160,000

THAT IS ESTIMATED VALUE OF ESTATE OF LATE LEADER.

Ottawa, Feb. 27.—The late Sir Wilfrid Laurier's will is to be entered for probate within a fortnight.

It is understood that he left an estate valued at about $160,000 and that practically the sole beneficiary is Lady Laurier.

The estate includes the revenue from the government annuity of $100,000 purchased for him by friends some years ago, residential properties in Ottawa and Arthabaska, life insurance, and some stocks in Canada Cement ,Montreal Power, and other companies.

According to the estimate made the personal property will total around one hundred thousand dollars and the Ottawa real estate, a house situated at 355 Laurier Ave. East, is given a valuation of between thirty five and forty thousand dollars. The property at Arthabaskaville, Que., where Sir Wilfrid had his summer home is estimated as having a value of between ten and twelve thousand dollars.

According to figures obtained at the City Hall, the assessed value of Sir Wilfrids' Ottawa property was divided as follows: land $10,550; buildings $10,500, in all $21,050, which represents about seventy five per cent of the actual valuation. The taxes amounted to approximately $330, and the income tax of the departed statesman amounted to around $188.00 additional.

Though nothing of an official nature has been given out in connection with it, it has been heard that several charitable and benevolent bequests will be made.

NAMES DR. CODY FOR NEW LEADER

Toronto, Feb. 27.—In reference to an Ontario Conservative caucus here today, the Star, Liberal, says the rumors are that party may be seriously disrupted on prohibition and others be reorganised, with a new leader and Premier, the name of Hon. Dr. Cody, present Minister of Education, being the most prominent mentioned in this connection.

FARMERS OPPOSE DAYLIGHT SAVING

PETITIONS POUR INTO PARLIAMENT PROTESTING AGAINST PROPOSED CHANGE.

Ottawa, Feb. 27.—If the counties of Perth, Middlesex, Dufferin and Victoria are an index of the general feeling of rural Canada and daylight-saving, there will be a tremendous batch of petitions against the clock being put on an hour for the summer season of 1919. Parliament has received petitions from the Councils of the counties named, and the petition in each case is similar in form and substance. The claim made in each instance is that the tampering with the clock hindered rather than helped production, and caused trouble with labor at a time when labor was scarcer than it had ever been. The "dislocation of established custom," in the words of the petition, compelled the farmer to pay largely increased wages for shorter hours of labor.

Five Veterans Are On Their Way Home

Word was received by Mayor Duncan this morning that five Peterborough returned men left Montreal this morning for this city. They will in all probability arrive on the 5.30 G. T. R. train this evening. The information was wired from Kingston.

LIEUT. PATTERSON DIES IN ENGLAND

PETERBOROUGH MAN FELL A VICTIM TO THE DEADLY "FLU."

The many friends of Lieut. Wm. R. Patterson (Billie) will deeply regret to learn that he died in Bramshott Military Hospital, England, on the 4th inst., from that dread scourge the Flu.

Mr. Harry Goodwin, Hart Avenue, yesterday received a letter from the young wife, to whom Lieut. Patterson was married last October, containing the sad news.

He had not been suffering from any serious sickness, although not in the best of health for about two months, and had recently been to London to receive his commission, returning to Bramshott at the end of January.

On the 4th of February, Mrs. Patterson was notified of his serious condition and arrived just in time to see him pass away.

He left Peterborough at the commencement of the war to join the Princess Pats and was a considerable time on active service.

The Provincal Housing bill was given its first reading.

TARIFF DISCORD IN EAST AND WEST

HON. J. A. CALDER SAYS HOUSE MUST SOLVE THIS PROBLEM.

Ottawa, Feb. 27.—"In the west all the elements of disunion exist. I am referring to the tariff cleavage between the east and west. We might as well look the facts straight in the face. There is no use dodging it. That situation is there. What are the people of Canada going to do? We will have an opportunity later in the session to consider the matter, but it is one of the questions on the horizon that looks dangerous. If Canada is to be what it will be, an honest, earnest attempt must be made to solve that problem."

These somewhat impressive words ware delivered in the house of commons this afternoon, not by a grain grower nor by a free trade member of the opposition, but by no less a person than Hon. James A. Calder minister of immigration and colonization in the Union government. Mr. Calder, in speaking upon the address from the throne in the House on Wednesday afternoon last, referred to the fact that many members had dwelt upon the need for national unity.

Where Danger Lay

He intimated that the danger of disunion lay not in diversity or race or creed but in the widening of the cleavage on the tariffs between eastern and western Canada. Later on he disputed the dictum of Mr. McMaster, Liberal member for Brome, to the effect that the Liberals who believed in tariff reduction must immediately cross over to the opposition benches. Mr. Calder suggested there were problems pressing for immediate solution which ought to be first dealt with by the Union Government, as at present constituted. The tariff question he admitted to be of primary importance, but on the other hand, he asked, "But are the people of Canada asking us to look horns just at this moment on a question which has divided Canada for the last forty of fifty years?" Mr. Calder thus left himself an avenue of escape but he clearly intimated that the tariff question might be dealt with at the present session. There is every prospect thit it will be, and that it cannot be shelved as it has been expected for another year.

Premier Clemenceau Is On Duty Again

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Paris, Feb. 27.—Premier Clemenceau resumed his official tasks at the Ministry of War this morning.

Debate in the Legislature on the Reply to the Speech from the Throne has begun.

DISTINGUISHED PARTY PASSED THROUGH CITY THIS MORNING

General Paul Mary Caesar Gerald Pau, commander of the Legion of Honor, and the one-armed French military leader, passed through Peterboro this morning on his way to Ottawa from Toronto.

General Pau is the head of the French mission to Australia, which mission is returning to France via Canada. This one-armed French war veteran, is accompanied by M. Andre Siegfried, general secretary of the mission, who is an author and traveller of much distinction. The party also include M. Le Commandment d'Andre, aide de camp to the general, M. Corbiere, a horse and cattle breeder from Normandy, representing agriculture; Mr. Meadows Smith, British consul, attached to the mission by the British and Australian Governments; M. Leclercq-Motte, a wool manufacture of Roubaix, and M. Mathiew, a silk manufacture of Lyons. While in Toronto the party was entertained by the city, Empire Club, Canadian Club and the Provincial Cabinet. Yesterday the party of twelve visited Niagara Falls.

General Pau commanded the French right at the opening of the war. He lost his right hand at the battle of Noerth, against the Germans in the Franco-Prussian war. He was in charge of the French forces which protected the retreat of the Belgians from Antwerp, late in 1914, having been transferred to that theatre of war from Alsace, after the battle of the Marne. It was he who worked with General Joffre to stop the first onset of the Huns upon Paris.

TWO YEAR SENTENCE FOR ED MURPHY, DEFAULTER

Sentence Passed on Young Kirkfield Man by Magistrate Dumble This Afternoon.

Edward Murphy of Kirkfield, who pleaded guilty in police court here several days ago to the charge of having been a defaulter under the M. S. A., was this afternoon sentenced by Magistrate Dumble to a term of two years less one day at the Guelph prison farm.

Inspector Ward of the Dominion Police, Sergt. Carmody and Constable Lyons gave evidence for the Crown which was represented by the acting crown attorney, J. Fordyce Strickland. It was shown that the young man had received his order to report for service, and the only excuse he could advance for his failure to do so was that he was too busy on his father's farm.

John Alton, reeve of Cardon township, and George Heathvan gave character evidence in favor of the prisoner, and the aged father was in attendance.

G. N. Gordon made a moving plea for leniency for Murphy, drawing the attention of the court to the fact that the young man was only 22 years of age, had been sober and industrious, and save for this one instance had never broken the law of the land. He was an unsophisticated country youth living in a backward part of the country and looked upon military life with an abhorrence which was not characteristic of the urban youth. He asked his Worship to consider these extenuating circumstances in passing sentence.

Magistrate Dumble stated in sentencing Murphy that this young man was the kind that his country needed in her hour of distress. He had sent back the order to report for service and had refused to obey the law and shoulder arms in defence not of England or of Ireland, but of the whole British Empire, of which Canada, his native land, was a part. He could not, therefore, treat his offence lightly, and Murphy was sentenced to the jail farm for two years less one day.

START PUBLIC WORKS AT ONCE

Government Will Give Employment to Hundreds of Men Within Ten Days.

Ottawa, Feb. 27.—Hon. Frank B. Carvell, announced in the debate in Parliament that public works to give work to unemployed would be started within the next ten days in Montreal, Toronto, Calgary and probably Hamilton. In Toronto, he said, it is proposed to build a general Federal building, including customs. In Calgary also there will be a general public building.

Hon. Mr. Carvell said it was his intention to start work before the vote was passed in the House, in the belief that his action would be endorsed. In reply to Mr. MacKenzie, he stated that the work should be done by tender and contract. In Montreal there would be an extension of the custom [illegible]. The Hamilton and Calgary building would include customs [illegible] but there would, in addition, be a general federal building. These works were justifiable because they were necessary, he said. Rentals were tremendous and he thought it would be good business for the Government to erect buildings in many places besides those mentioned.

Aim is to Give Work.

Hon. Mr. Carvell said the Government was spending a large amount of money on its shipbuilding programme. He admitted that if the Government had gone into the open market after the declaration of peace, the ships might have been secured at a lower price. But a year ago there was nothing the Allies needed so much as ships. And if the Government had waited till peace the ships might have been secured too late. He argued that the programme would be of great assistance in meeting the unemployed problem.

Bolshevist Army Meets With Defeat

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Feb. 27.—Although it is reported that the Bolsheviki are planning an offensive against the Entente and other Russian governments on all fronts, official statements lately indicate that the Trotsky-Lenin forces are sustaining defeat at many points. According to reports from Archangel, the Allies in the Murman region advanced twenty-six miles, reaching Soudgoggo, and inflicted very heavy casualties on the Bolsheviki armies.

Delegates Said To Be Leaving

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Geneva, Feb. 27.—The Swiss newspapers print a Berlin despatch that says that owing to the sudden suspension of the armistice negotiations at Spa the German delegates have returned home, and that Hindenburg and Ludendorff are expected in Berlin shortly. There is no confirmation from other sources.

FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 1919

TWO YEARS VERSUS SIX HOURS.

IN PETERBOROUGH a military defaulter gets two years in prison. In Quebec a confinement of six hours with a light fine is regarded as sufficient punishment. The magistrate in this city and those in Quebec are working under the same law, which Magistrate Dumble says he will question interpret correctly and deals out simple justice, as the Act calls for.

In Ontario a man of alien birth is fined $4500 and sent to jail for six months for expressing a friendly feeling for the scrapings of his native land. In other provinces men have been known to tear down the Empire's flag, assault British soldiers, and get away with it unpunished.

There is certainly something wrong somewhere, and the Union Government at Ottawa is in a position, if any Administration ever was, to get at the root of the matter.

THE PRIVATE DETECTIVE.

HARTLEY DEWART, lieutenant of the Ontario Liberals, and a man who beyond all question aspires to first place, is certain of popular support in his move to root out the private detective evil in this country, for, while that evil is not only tolerated but encouraged by administrative action, the liberty and happiness that is supposed to be assured the common people is under the shadow of a constant menace. The regular police force that costs the ratepayers so much for maintenance is, or should be, sufficient.

The private detective works along entirely different lines from the orthodox officer. Set him to the task of catching an offender, and it is up to him, for the sake of the reputation and the money there is in the job to deliver the goods. If, for example, he is required to catch a thief, he is not to be balked by such a trifling circumstance as there being no such a character really available. He proceeds to manufacture one. If the private detective is engaged by a firm or corporation to capture a defaulter, he proceeds on the same easy principle and sets traps at every corner to get his man, traps into which hitherto blameless citizens may innocently walk.

In short, the private detective shines chiefly as a manufacturer rather than a preventer of crime. It is, unfortunately, an easy matter to tempt humanity into the ways of evil. Mankind is already prone to move in that direction. The object of all reformers, however, is rather to guard the masses against offences. The police officer who knows his business is intent on keeping the people straight rather than waylaying them and working upon their inherent moral weakness. The private detective of the dime novel shines as a sleuth largely because he is first furnished by the author of the marvelous story with a set of circumstances that lead him by easy stages to the quarry.

The police of Peterborough could fill the cells at the police station every night if they followed the tactics so popular with the private Sherlock Holmes. They could easily persuade usually peaceful citizens to disturb the public peace. They could leave store doors open to tempt the morally weak to pilfer. But in these enlightened days a police officer is judged not by the number of convictions recorded, but by the amount of crime which he prevents and the degree of peace which he preserves in the community.

It is, however, as a strike-breaker that the private detective's malign influence peculiarly offends us the people, for such ruffians are set on working men whose one crime it is to secure what may eventually turn out to be simple justice. In short, the modern private detective is an evil which any legislature, by uprooting, will perform a desirable public service.

THE SILK HAT.

The Hamilton Spectator is aroused over a fanciful hat-tation against the silk hat. It maintains that no piece of headgear has yet been devised which so well tops off the human biped for social functions, and says that the opposition to the plug is inspired by envy and jealousy of its price. But then, again, we may recall that the fellow that sold us that mining stock wore a silk hat.—Ottawa Citizen.

AND UNFORTUNATELY the silk hat covers the dome of the moonlight and the shady politician alike, and has since been brought into disrepute by being compelled to keep up sartorial association with a sack coat and red vests.

THAT SHORT STEP.

IT IS ONLY A SHORT STEP from the sublime to the ridiculous, and now the good people of the United States seem really to take it. Only a few weeks ago they were devoting all their patriotic energy, all their national resources, and the best young lives in the nation, to deciding the issue as to whether military force or eternal justice was to prevail in the world. Having settled that stupendous question to the lasting benefit of humanity, the Americans now propose to settle a dispute as to whether one Jess Willard or a Mr. Jack Dempsey is the better prize ring gladiator.

The United States sent men into a man's sized war, into real warfare, where human life was regarded as only so much canhon food, and paid them the royal compensation of $30 a month. The pugilists are to receive for their performance a monetary reward that makes the soldier's pay look like a beggar's dole by way of the back door. Mr. Willard, the present champion, who is to defend his title and his honor—save the word—will be paid $100,000, whether he succeeds or fails in his arduous task. Mr. Dempsey's financial prize will be $20,000 regardless of the outcome of his exertions. The battle with ten rounds, two minutes rounds, something over an hour, allowing for the resting spells permitted the mighty combatants, and each will wear specially padded gloves to preserve his own hands and the countenance of his antagonist from serious injury.

It will be claimed, however, that the Willard-Dempsey engagement is a private enterprise for which the American nation can in no sense be held responsible. It is, in fact, nothing of the kind. No such pugilistic function can be pulled off without the special sanction of some state legislature. For the credit of the United States, let it be said here and now that there is at present not a single commonwealth in the American Union in which the Willard-Dempsey hippodrome can be legally staged. The promoters, having arranged the preliminaries, are next concerned with finding a suitable location. To do this it will be necessary to interest a majority of the members of a state legislature to the extent of having them pass a special Act legalizing the impending battle argument. This will involve no end of diplomacy and will call for the expenditure of various sums of money judiciously placed so as to produce the desired effect.

But there is still a chance—and a hope—that all these negotiations will fail and that if the issue is ever settled the exhibition will have to be held outside the boundaries of the United States.

DOCTORS AND THE SPEED LAW.

A TORONTO MAGISTRATE warns the doctors of that city that they will not be allowed to break the speed laws, even if they are on their way to answer a hurry call to a patient.

Why should a doctor urge as a reason for excessive haste that a human life is at stake, while at the same time he places in jeopardy the mortal existence of scores of pedestrians? Why rush to deal with one casualty while creating others as he pursues his career through the city streets?

Equal Before the Law.
(Woodstock Sentinel-Review.)

In theory, of course, all men are equal before the law; but as a matter of practice, can this be said? Is the man who has no money with which to employ a great lawyer or to carry a case from court to court on the same footing as the man who has plenty of money? Will anyone who knows anything about the methods of the courts say he is?

WHAT IS WHITLEY REPORT?

Although this report was widely circulated and gladly concurred in by both capital and labor in the British Isles in 1917, very little notice seems to have been taken of it on this side of the Atlantic. An editorial on labor conditions in the official publication of the Canadian chartered accountants, published in January, finished up with the query: "What is the Whitley Report?"

In March, 1917, the British government named a commission under the chairmanship of the Right Hon. J. H. Whitley, M.P., to enquire into the relations existing between the employer and employe. Between March and October of the same year this report was submitted to the Government in three parts and the findings were accepted as a basis for the reconstruction of industrial relations by Prime Minister Lloyd George.

In view of the present world-wide unrest amongst the workers and the fact that the Whitley Report provides a practical solution for the industrial unrest, the essential features of that report should be known by every employer and employe on this continent, because it requires no clairvoyance to realize that a change is coming in human relationships international in its scope.

For Better Intelligence.

This report realizes that the elevation of the composite intelligence of the mass of workers must be raised, so that their intelligence may be directed to the improvement of the methods and tools they use so as to increase output or efficiency; in other words, so that the growth of invention and skill shall result in the production in a shorter time than is now generally being done, the needs of existence for every twenty-four hours.

It recognizes that competition without universal minimum standards would enable unscrupulous competitors to prevent the maintenance of decent living; it renders impossible the undermining of industrial standards, and it realizes that international standards must be raised before the best good can accrue to the workers of any nation.

Briefly the plan is to organize each industry into works committees, district councils, and national councils, all working along similar lines, bringing together the representatives in each industry of the trades union and employers' union. The object is to undertake the continuous consideration of matters affecting the progress and well-being of each trade from the point of view of all parties engaged in it, consistent with the general interest of the community.

Summary of Findings.

Two basic aims are sought: The one will apply to the equal enforcement of standards throughout each trade; the other will secure co-operation by granting to the workers a greater share in the consideration of matters affecting their employment.

The following is a brief summary of the findings:

1. Better utilization of the practical knowledge and experience of the work people.

2. Means for securing to work people a greater share in and responsibility for the determination and observance of the conditions under which the work is carried on.

3. The settlement of the general principles governing the conditions of employment, including the methods of fixing, paying and readjusting of wages, having regard to the need for securing to the work people a share in the increased prosperity of the industry.

4. The establishment of regular methods of negotiation for issues arising between employers and work people, with a view both to the prevention of differences and to their better adjustment when they appear.

5. Means of ensuring to the work people the greatest possible security of earnings and employment without undue restrictions upon change of occupation or employer.

6. Methods of fixing and adjusting earnings, piecework prices, etc.

7. Technical education and training.

8. Industrial research and the full utilization of its results.

9. Facilities for full consideration and utilization of inventions, and improvements designed by workpeople and for the adequate safeguarding of the rights of the inventors and designers of such improvements.

10. Improvements of processes, machinery and organization and appropriate questions relating to management and the examination of industrial experiments with special reference to co-operation in carrying new ideas into effect and full consideration of the workers' point of view in relation to them.

11. Proposed legislation affecting the industry.

WIT AND WISDOM

Inexpensive Tonic

"What is the best appetizer you know of?" asked Smith.

"The absence of the price of a meal," replied Jones.

"Do you enjoy educative films?"

"Yes, indeed," replied the old-fashioned man. "It's a positive relief to me to see pictures of a great industrial plant in operation, assured that no villain is going to appear on the scene and concoct a fiendish plot to get the fair heroine caught in the machinery."

A Sinking Fund

Mrs. Spendall (looking up from newspaper)—What is a sinking fund Arthur?

Mr. Spendall (fiercely)—Mine is.

Dinner Persiflage

"Allow me to help you to a piece of Washington pie."

"No, thank you. I admire George's purity, perserverance and patriotism, but his pies I detest."

"If you were obliged to swallow a man, what one would you prefer?"

"Oh, Cordelia! what a silly question. Really I don't know."

"A little London porter."

LITTLE BENNY'S NOTEBOOK

(By Lee Pape.)

Last nite I was erround at my cuzin Arties and I thawt of a good one, saying, Lets call up my house and ask for Mr. Spindle.

Whose he? sed Artie, and I sed, He aint nobody, thats the joak. And Artie called up my house, me putting my ear rite next to Arties ear so I could heer too, and pop answered the fone, saying, Hello, Hello like sumbody in a hurry.

Is Mr. Spindle in? sed Artie.

I never herd of the gentleman, youve got the rong number, sed pop And he hung up and pritty soon Artie called up agen, pop coming to the fone and saying, Hello, hello, hello, like sumbody in a even bigger of a hurry.

Can I speek to Mr. Spindle? sed Artie.

No doubt you can if you understand his langwidge, confound it, Im bizzy shaving and I dont look like a Spindle and I dont feel like a Spindle, and this is not the number you wunt.

Well will you please tell me wat number I wunt? sed Artie.

You better look up the hug house, thats wat I think sed pop. Meening Artie must be krazy. And he hung up with a bang, and after a little wile I tried it, taking a long wile for pop to come to the fone, wich wen he did he started to tawk without waiting for me to say enything, saying, If youre still after that spindle legged persin, he's ded.

Wat did he die of I sed, disgizing my voice to sound like sumbody elses and pop sed, Well Ill be— say, who is this? Benny? Benny?

Wich I quick hung up saying to Artie, G, I think maybe he a spected it was me.

And wen I got home I found out for sure he did.

SIX HOURS FOR DRAFT DODGERS

LIGHT PUNISHMENT IS HANDED OUT BY JUDGE IN QUEBEC.

Montreal, Feb. 27.—Judge Lanctot had before him in the police court sixty men charged with being absentees under the Military Service Act. Ten cases were disposed of. All the young men admitted the charges against them. Judge Lanctot said he could not consider the men in the same class with murderers and thieves and send them to the county jail with such criminals. He sentenced four of them to six hours in jail, two were fined $25, two $10 and two of them were discharged.

The clerk of the court advised all the young men to plead guilty and obtain a conviction, which would render them exempt from further prosecution for their offense.

Judge Lanctot's remarks follows: "I must not send these men to jail and when society is so eager to reclaim criminals, how can they expect me to confine me, otherwise good, with murderers, common burglars, inmates of disorderly houses, and criminals of the worst type who would act as bad influences upon them. Is this justice? Certainly not."

WILL INCREASE TAX ON INCOMES

EVERY MAN EARNING $1,000 A YEAR MAY BE INCLUDED.

Ottawa, Feb. 27.—Speaking in the Commons yesterday, Hon. F. B. Carvell estimated the additional expenditure which Canada would have to face each year, as a result of the war at $175,000,000. To offset this there would be this year these receipts: customs, $140,000,000; excise $25,000,000; business profits and income tax, $30,000,000. Mr. Carvell could see no way of increasing these items to any great extent. "No doubt," he said, "the income tax can be increased and will be increased."

Mr. Carvell, expressing a personal view, would like to see the income tax extended upwards and downwards. He would like to see every man with an income of a thousand dollars paying some income tax.

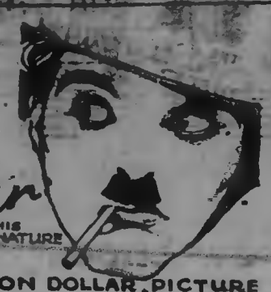
13 REELS For To-night Only THEATRE ROYAL ENTIRE CHANGE TO-MORROW



IN HIS SECOND MILLION DOLLAR PICTURE
"SHOULDER ARMS"

For the next three days, commencing to-day, the Royal has provided an extra special program consisting of Forty Reels of the finest pictures that can be produced. Included in the special features will be Charlie Chaplin in his second million dollar picture "Shoulder Arms." This is a muddy story of trench life, cooties, camouflage, rookie training and Hunnish influence. This feature has been secured by the Management of the Royal at a great expense. It is in 3 parts.

Another feature to be shown during to-day and to-morrow is a thousand foot film of the funeral of the Late Sir Wilfrid Laurier, which was held in Ottawa on Saturday last.

No expense has been spared to make these three days the best in the history of the Royal Theatre from the standpoint of its patrons. There will be a show every afternoon and evening starting to-day and last until Friday night.

THE FEATURES—A Vitagraph feature "The Iron Test," in 2 parts, is another feature. Blue Ribbon feature, featuring Bessie Love in "The Encharnted Barn," in 5 parts, will complete one of the cleanest and best shows ever presented in the Royal Theatre.

The above program is equal to that shown in the largest Theatres in Toronto, Montreal and other cities for which an admission of 50cents is usually charged. For this special three day schedule the following Prices will prevail, Matinees in the afternoons—16 cents to all, this includes War Tax. Evening performance—25 cents including War Tax. On Monday next, the Royal will resume its old price of 16 cents to all, both afternoon and evening.

Patrons are asked to attend the matinees for the next three days as much as pos ible and avoid the rush in the evening. You can save money by attending the afternoon show. For the benefit of the School Children of the city we are retaining the Charlie Chaplin feature which will be shown at a special Saturday morning show opening at 9.30. ADMISSION 10 cents. Entire Change To-morrow with the best Actors on the Screen Emma Petrova, feature drama, 5 parts, also Douglas Fairbanks, a love story feature in 6parts. In addition Charlie Chaplin by request

(By Dr. W. A. Brady.)

AN IMPORTANT LITTLE GLAND.

Lying at the base of the brain above the roof of the back room of the nasal cavity is a little ductless gland called the pituitary body. The posterior lobe of this little gland is presumed to be the brain centre of the sympathetic nervous system. The anterior lobes secretes and feeds into the blood an "internal secretion" or "hormone" (chemical messenger) which has an important influence on the various functions of the body.

The individual accumulates a great excess of fat. The hair becomes scanty upon al parts of the body If the individual is a male; if a female, on the contrary, there is a tendency toward the growth of hair on the skin after the masculine type. If the condition develops in a boy before puberty (which is between the twelfth and fifteenth years) the skeleton assumes the feminine type—tendency toward knock-knees and wide hips and tapering digits. In these cases of hypopituitarism, as the condition is called, there is almost always an abnormal capacity for drinking water and a greatly increased functional activity of the kidneys as regards the excretion of water. Another rather characteristic feature is a tremendous capacity for sugar and sweets—to which the obesity is popularly but wrongly attributed.

The skin of an individual with a functional insufficiency of the pituitary gland is smooth and soft, pale and thin. Quite different from the skin of one who is overweight or obese from thyroid deficiency, for in this case the skin is coarse, and dry, and thick, and sallow. The blood pressure in hypopituitarism is below the normal, usually the pulse rate is rap'd, and in general the individual is not so strong as others of his age.

The condition is remediable only if taken early and treated over a period of many months. Most parents are either indifferent or complaisant enough to subject he child to any and every remedy except medical management, and therefore comparatively few cases of hypopituitarism are brought about, with the exception of those which nature happens to effect in early adult life.

AFTER THE "FLU" WAS OVER.

I had a severe attack of the "flu" about two months ago, and since I got out-I find that my hair is falling out in handfuls. Would a good tonic help it? Can you recommend something? GLADYS ELLEN.

The hair is likely to fall out excessively following any severe illness, but with full recovery it will regain its pristine vigor. Whatever "tonic" you happen to use would, therefore, establish a reputation for itself. Properly applied, self-massage of the scalp is the best hair tonic.

TONSILS AND HEART DISEASE.

1. If diseased tonsils were the cause of valvular heart disease (with dilatation) would the tonsils have to be removed before a cure could be expected? 2. Where is the best climate for one so afflicted? 3. Is there any place in the United States where they make a specialty of treating such heart disease? 4. Is eating an apple at bedtime harmful? 5. Is popcorn hard to digest and how does it rank in food value? 6. What is heart cough? D. J.

1. It would be necessary to eradicate the infection in the tonsils in one way or another. 2. I can see no influence from climate. 3. Yes, for instance, at the Glen Springs, Watkins, N. Y., where the famous Schott treatment (brine baths) and graduated exercises are administered as at Nauheim. 4. It is rather helpful for most persons. 5. Popcorn is very easy to digest, and ranks with potatoes or bread, weight for weight, in nutritive value. It is a good delicacy for victims of constipation. 6. Cough caused by some lesion of the heart or of its covering membrane.

The Mocking Bird.

The mocking bird is a native of America and the West Indies, and is remarkable for its vocal powers and for its fidelity for imitating other birds as well as different sounds which it hears. Its voice is full and musical, and capable of modulation, from the clear tone of the woodthrush to the scream of the eagle.

Chinese Horse.

The Chinese horse is really a pony somewhat after the type of the western broncho. It comes from Mongolia and is known as the Mongolian pony. It is an exceedingly hardy animal, thriven on food on which a western animal would starve, is able to carry heavy loads long distances, and is very useful in many ways. As a racing animal it is characterised by speed and stamina. China exports between 1,500 and 2,000 of these ponies each year.

More Baby Boys.

Figures given in the quarterly return of the British Registrar-General show a remarkable increase of baby boys compared with girls. From the average of 1,040 the rate has sprung up to 1,048 to each 1,000 girls.

The birth rate has fallen from 24.1 in the year before the war to 17.8 in the third quarter of this year but the number of births was 5,935 greater than in the same period of last year.—London Mail.

Japan Prospers.

FOR STREET WEAR

One-Piece Dress Important Part of the Wardrobe.

Tailored Frocks, Not Suits, Predominate in Fashion Thoroughfare During Shopping Hour.

The one-piece dress for street wear is by far the most important single item of a well-dressed woman's wardrobe. Selecting garments for wear at home, whether for morning, afternoon or evening, is a simple task. Making these garments is equally simple; but a woman's reputation for being well or poorly dressed depends upon the selection of her street apparel. The suit long ago took second place. The fact that many suit manufacturers have included dress lines in their output during the past few seasons helps to prove this, if any proof is needed. A glance at any fashionable thoroughfare is another proof. Fully 80 per cent of the women seen during any popular shopping or promenade hour will be found garbed in tailored frocks, not suits.

Each season brings out its own special colors, with navy blue always in the lead, and this year much black is being worn. It is not the dull, lus-

The semitailored street frock shown in the sketch would be smart made of black velvet embroidered in color and with a touch of color on the collar, sleeves and belt. The skirt of this dress, while straight, shows cleverly arranged fullness, with the upper part gathered in to the straight band at the foot.

Inasmuch as a great deal of fur is being used as a trimming for street dresses this season, the frock shown would be handsome made of velvet in black or color with wide skirt band, girdle, collar, and cuffs of a fat fur such as Hudson seal, beaver, puttie, squirrel, kolinsky, etc. If fur is used to trim the dress a muff and little fur toque to match may be supplied, and a charming outfit be the result.

OILCLOTH FOR GAME TABLE

Substitute for Linen Now in Marked Demand and Serving Numerous Good Purposes.

The vogue for using oilcloth, or any one of the new compositions which go under the same name, in place of linen is growing apace. And now comes the most serviceable game table cover of the oilcloth stenciled in the corners with appropriate designs. The advantage of such a cover can easily be appreciated when one considers how easy it is to wipe off the cover with a damp cloth after a strenuous game. Tapes stitched across the corners tie it to the legs of the table.

And again comes oilcloth in the very place where you might expect to find it—for a tablecloth and bib for the kiddie. This time the sanitary material is a light biscuit color and is stenciled in brown with nursery characters. A band of the brown paint around the edge of bib and tablecloth—which is really only a place cloth, large enough to fit the tray of the high chair—is the only finish necessary.

The Vogue of the Panel.

The vogue for loose flying panels on dresses seems to be increasing as the season develops. At first confined to the back, these loose and full-length panels are seen now on both front and back of formal, semiformal and afternoon frocks. They are frequently of a material different from that in the body of the dress and sometimes are of a different color. The combination of satin and serge is seen a great deal, and where the dress is all silk, the body of the garment may be of a shiny material while the panels are dull finished though of the same color.

COATS FOR LITTLE MISSES

Chinchilla Cloth, Cheviot Serge, and Fur Trimming are Favorites—Capes Not Practical.

Chinchilla cloth is always a favorite and the gray chinchilla coats have been fitted this year with small gray squirrel collars, making them extremely good looking. For general wear these heavy coats will be found smart and practical.

Cheviot serge is a new fabric this season. It is made up only in dark blue and has a rather wide, heavy stripe which will not always recommend it for a small child, though it is stylish. The dressier coats for little girls are made up in velvet, but the broadcloths in the soft, pretty baby shades are more favored.

A trimming of some sort of fur, in very narrow banding, dresses these cloth coats beautifully, the dark fur contrasting handsomely with the light colored material. A favorite color is ..., next in popularity being the legerly blue known as Belgian.

Military capes for little girls are seen, but as it is hard enough to keep small folks warm in the tightest fitting garments the capes are not practical. Heavy coats of fur are very smart, nutria especially and gray squirrel being most desirable.

IF YOU WISH TO LOOK YOUNG

If you expect your hair to be fair to you then pray be fair to your hair. If you expect your hair not to make you look any older than you are, and to lend itself to becoming arrangement, then remember that there are certain indulgences and attentions that you owe to your hair, writes an authority.

One thing American women don't do very often, and they really ought to do, is to let their hair hang down loose. The English woman will take the pins out of her hair and let it ripple unconfined over her shoulders every chance she gets. If she takes a little mid-day nap she is not content unless her hair is down and she really enjoys giving her hair a sunbath when she finds a little leisure on a winter's day and a sunshiny window in which to do it.

On the other hand, American women are more fastidious about washing their hair than are any other women. They should remember that sometimes an air and sun bath is as beneficial as a water and soap bath.

Even oldish women's hair has a wonderful way of restoring itself to health if it only has a chance. Sometimes what it needs more than anything else is seeming neglect. For women had lustrous and luxurious tresses before there were any hair tonics and restoratives and electric massage. And if you notice it is not always the woman who devotes the most time to hair treatment whose hair is thickest and in best condition.

One of the worst things that you can do for your hair is to keep it forever confined under a hat. That is the way the housewife so often has better hair than the woman whose duties keep her very much dressed for the street. Another very bad thing for the hair is to overdo the hair curling process. Some women as soon as they take out the pins that confine their hair in one position all day ... for a hurried brushing, twist it in kids or other curling devices that constrict just as much as does the daytime position. There is hardly a time when the hairs are not being given more or less strain, hardly a time when they are allowed the free play of air and ventilation.

And of one thing beware—that is the hair dresser and shampooer you cannot vouch for. In fact she must be more than superficially clean. She must practice as thorough sterilization of her implements and her hands as we expect from the dentist or surgeon.

To prevent a cow switching her tail against a person milking her there has been patented a clamp attached to the stool spring to be twined around each leg.

Dr. Mary Walker's Long Life Ended

Dr. Mary E. Walker, pioneer suffragist and lecturer and surgeon in the American Civil War, died at her home on Bunker Hill near Oswego on February 22 in her 87th year.

Dr. Walker was born in Oswego N.Y., whee he fathe was the "country doctor," and at the age of 23 she was a graduate doctor with the degree of M. D. When she was 16 she was a public school teacher in New York City, and her life-long reform dork for women had already bee begun. At that early date she had already discarded the more decorative order of women's attire, but it was not until, at the age of 29, she became a practising physician and army surgeon in Washington, D. C., that she completely went back on skirts. She volunteered her services at the beginning of the war, entering the Union army as an assistant surgeon, with the ranks of First Lieutenant.

Although a pioneer in the woman suffrage movement, Dr. Walker was out of sympathy with the methods or some of her sister workers.

Dr. Walker never married. Her proudest possession was the bronze medal she wore on the posom of her frock coat. On the yacg was engraved this legend:

"Presented by the Congress of the United States to Mary E. Walker, A A. Surgeon, U. S. Army."

KINMOUNT MEN IN POLICE COURT

JOHN BACON AND SEWARD CREGO CHARGED WITH BEING DEFAULTERS.

John Bacon and Seward Crego both from Kinmount, Victoria County, were this morning charged in police court with having been defaulters under the M. S. A.

Acting Crown Attorney Strickland applied for an enlargement of the case until Monday afternoon next, so as to obtain evidence and the flat from the Department of Justice.

Mr. J. F. O. Birnie, who represented the prisoners, stated that his clients would not plead, as the Crown was asking for a remand. Bond for their appearance was furnished by Bacons' father, $2000 being required in each case, $1000 being offered by each of the accused and a similar amount by their boudsman.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, and luxuriant.

ASK HYDRO TO

The Request That Failed.

City Clerk Armstrong outlined the procedure which was laid down by the Commission to be followed in case a municipality wanted an interurban line built. It was necessary to have the municipalities through which it was proposed to build it pass resolutions asking for its construction, so as to show that they were in accord with the move and would give the project their support.

Just before the outbreak of the war it had been decided to have the Hydro build a radial line from Cobourg to Peterborough and around the foot of Stoney Lake, doubling back on to the main line again. Every municipality through which the proposed electric line was to run passed the required resolution, and the budget was forwarded to the headquarters of the Commission at Toronto, where it has lain ever since, as far as the interested parties know. Nothing has since been heard of it.

Ald. Turner's Views.

Alderman Turner thought it advisable, if the Hydro was to be asked to construct an electric line to serve Peterborough, to press for the original one mentioned by the city clerk. If this were not done, the officials at Toronto would conclude that the people of this part of the Province did not know their own mind, and that if they let the new proposition gather dust on the shelf for another year the people of Central Ontario would not object in any way, but at the end of that time would in all likelihood come along with another idea.

Useless Competition.

Alderman Edgar thought that the line from Whitby linking us up with Toronto would be far more practicable, and saw no reason why the Commission would not favor it. Along the front they would have to compete with three excellent steam roads—the C.P.R., G.T.R. and C.N.R. —by any one of which the Queen City could be reached more speedily from Cobourg than by the electric line and would therefore carry the through traffic. These three roads gave an excellent service to the towns along the lake front, and the people there found no difficulty in getting to Toronto or any of their neighboring towns at almost any time of the day or night.

Alderman Turner did not belittle the advantages offered by a line such as was proposed by Alderman Edgar and was quite ready to second a motion asking the Hydro to build it. Alderman McIntyre having already tabled such a resolution. Alderman Turner thought, however, that some cognizance should be shown in the motion of the former requisition to indicate that the people of Peterborough meant business and were consistent in their stand.

Alderman Edgar Prevails.

A motion was accordingly drafted by City Clerk Armstrong urging the Hydro Electric Commission to take over the Toronto and Eastern line and build it northeast to Peterborough, thence to Lakefield and McCrackens' Landing on to the Kawartha Lakes. This city undertakes to have the requisition endorsed by the municipalities through which the line would be built just as soon as the Hydro will furnish some idea of its route so that these could be determined therefrom. Alderman McIntyre was the mover of the resolution and Alderman Turner the seconder. Alderman Morrison favored the project and spoke and voted for it.

Montreal dentists' request to be allowed to advertise in newspapers was refused by a committee of the Quebec Legislature.

CAVAN

Several schedule games were played at the curling rink last night and resulted as follows:

Ferguson vs. Brightman—17-18 for Brightman.

Martin vs. Bradburn—This game would have gone by default even had skip Martin not been defeated in the play as several of his players did not put in an appearance. As it was he played the game with a pick-up rink.

Bowes vs. Read 12-7 in favor of Bowes.

Connal was to have played Benno but several of the players did not turn up and the game was not played.

Morrow vs. Davidson 11-6 for Davidson.

Thompson vs. Foote 12-9 in favor of Foote.

MAY ADJOURN AT EASTER

If So Parliament Will Hold Session in Fall.

Ottawa, Feb 27.—It is rumored in the lobbies that the Government contemplates making a proposal to the Opposition that Government legislation should all be passed by Easter and that another session should be called in the fall.

No overture regarding this have yet been made.

Say Dentals Will Play at Renfrew

Ottaw, Feb. 27.—The Toronto Dentals runners-up last winter for the championship of the Ontario Hockey Association and the Allan Cup, will make their appearance in the east Friday night when they play an exhibition match against the Renfrew team at Renfrew. The game was arranged as a memorial for the late William Fishenden, Lieut. Ian McKinnon and Lieut. Alfred Anderson, three of Renfrew's heroic boys, who fell in action. The proceeds will be applied for the purchase of a suitable war memorial who gave up their lives in the noble cause. Captain Boy and all their regulars will play. The Dentals endeavored to arrange a game in Ottawa also, but it did not materialize

Saginaw Will Be In New League

Toronto, Feb. 27.—Organizer "Knotty" Lee of the Ontario-Michigan League arrived home last night from the organization meeting in Saginw, Mich tte says that nothing remains to be done but select four cities from the seven in Michigan which desire franchises. Any of the collection of Wolverine State towns would be acceptable, Lee says. The acleetion will be made at a meeting in Flint next Sunday.

Upon his arrival here Lee found a telegram from Judge Clement of Saginaw, which said that enough money had been subscribed in that city in one day to carry the club through the season.

Woodstock Wins From Sudbury

Sudbury, Ont., Feb. 27.—Woodstock last night won the first of home-and-home games from Sudbury in the O. H. A. junior semi-finals, 9 to 4. The visitors appeared to be the better team, but the score does not by any means indicate the play. Ironstone in goal for Sudbury, playing the fourth game of his career, and the sensation of the Barrie series, fell down badly, three goals siding past in the second period without sleaving the ice.

The teams:

Referee—Tackaberry.

Well-Dressed Women In Washington

Washington, D. C Feb. 27.—With the White House a social center completely eliminated by reason of the presidential and Mrs. Wilson in less than a fortnight capital society is assuming many new angles and more or less interesting but with many regrettable features for the competitive newcomers in the official world; these lacking the well defined leadership of nearly a century are in the language of the day just out of school likely to lose out on Washington's most interesting social features.

The Cabinet hostesses are at home to their friends, but are not keeping "days" for the well dressed and socially inclined multitude as in former years. Hence the increasing popularity of the congressional at home of Tuesday or Thursday afternoon as the case may be, according to the head of the family serving in the house or senate.

In this company of hospitable women may be found Mrs. Saulsgury of Delaware, Mrs. Knox of Pennsylvania, Mrs. Poindexter, of Washington; Mrs. McLean of Connecticut, Mrs. Kellogg, of Minnesota; Mrs. Mrs. Henderson of Nevada. The latter a very recent recruit to the senatorial circle. Mrs. Medil McCormick, who brought a series of brilliant Tuesdays to a close last week, will, after March 4, be in the ranks of the senatorial hostesses.

Mrs. McCormick's drawing room will be the center of attraction on whichever day she is at home, as those Tuesdays brought together each week not one particular set of prominent people, but the best representatives from each of the many sets in which greater Washington is subdividing itself.

Lady Wilbert, who poured tea, was the recipient of many congratulations from [illegible] American friends on the elevation of her clever young husband, Sir Arthur Willert, late Washington correspondent of the London [illegible] to the Knighthood.

Mrs. McCormick welcomed her guests in a demitoilet of cream colored chiffon on the straight line of the moment with the tunic, which [illegible] a slight and close as the ankle length foundation skirt richly embroidered in self-colored floss.

Lady Wilbert's gown was violet crepe, also on modish lines, with a round hat of the same color velvet, faced in lighter toned crepe.

Miss Francis Hoar, the elder of Mrs. Frederick H. Gillett's two daughters by a former marriage and one of the acknowledged belles of resident and diplomatic circles, is wearing some of the newest of fur wraps in some present day brown pelt made to fit the shoulders closely as an Eton jacket, then permitted to flare in cape fashion to the knees. With an extremely narrow skirt of mustard colored tricolete totally untrimmed and a broadbrimmed hat of brown satin bent in cavalier shape Miss Hoar is a conspicuously smart figure on the fashionable promenade after having devoted nearly a year to actual war work with a desk in the state department from 9 to 4.30.

Miss Cecelia McCullum, a debutante of last season, also a war worker of six months is again a real ornament to society and joy to her friends in a smart little suit of dark blue broadcloth, with gray fox furs and small velvet hat.

"Miss McCallum, although one of the heiresses of resident society, as well as a granddaughter of the late John Sherman of Ohio, may be said to have originated simple dressing along smart and becoming lines, as she danced through her first brilliant season in the daintiest of mulle and organdy frocks, which were promptly copied by five of her particular friends and by spring became a favorite model for bridesmaids' gowns, not only in Washington, but pretty much everywhere that war brides held to the tradition of war time economy.

Mrs. F. Louis Slade a recent guest of Mrs. V. Everitt Macy, is wearing a particularly smart suit of dark green cloth, trimmed generously in sealskin, with very becoming fur ban of the same fur. The narrow skirt is trimmed in bands of cloth an inch and a half wide, which at short intervals are laid in double plaits or flat pemplike bows, a very Frenchy application in tailored effect.

Mrs. David Wagstaff who has a house on Massachusetts avenue for the winter, in another charming young matron, with real 5th avenue clothes, whose fur trimmed cheviot suit of light brown is smart, becoming and most seasonable on a round of afternoon visits. The trimming here is of sealskin with long and deep collar coming to the waist line.

MONARCH LIFE IN FRONT RANK NOW

ONE OF THE 3 CANADIAN COMPANIES TO REACH $15,000,000 MARK IN SHORTEST PERIOD.

The annual report of the Monarch Life Assurance company shows that the great war has, if anything, increased public confidence in the value of insurance.

The Monarch enjoys the distinction of being one of the three Canadian life companies to reach the fifteen-million-in-force point in the shortest period of years. Of the twenty Monarch men who went overseas, eighteen are safe and being provided with a position by the company. The company has fifteen millions of business on its books and with a strong organization the outlook for 1919 is very promising. The applications received for the month of January alone amount to over $600,000, which augurs well for another good report for the present year.

The pervious directors were all re-elected, namely, J. T. Gordon, president; W. A. Matheson, first vice-president; F. W. Adams, second vice-president; managing director, J. W. W. Stewart; directors, W. R. Bawlf, Col. H. A. Mullins, C. E. Gordon, H. W. Echlin, R. G. Ireside; secretary and actuary, J. A. Macfarlane, A.I.A.; medical referee, T. S. Pophan, M.D., and Wm. Rogers, M.D.; auditors, John Scott & Company; solicitors, Taylor, Ross & Leach.

GOD'S NIGHTINGALES

(By Mrs. A. F. Calder.)

To cheer the traveller's flagging steps
Along life's toilsome way;
They sing in sweet inspiring strains
A high, and heavenly lay.

When sinks 'mid clouds of gathering gloom
The broad, bright sun from sight,
Still clearer, stronger swells their song
As darker grows the night.

But ever do they sweetest sing
With pinions closely pressed
Over some secret, bleeding wound
Deep buried, in their breast.

GOVERNMENT CARE OF VETERANS

Canada's scheme for re-establishing her fighting man in civil life, while varying in application amount of compensation, and time, makes provision for every disability incurred by them while on active service.

Pensions are the provision for amputation cases and those disabled by wounds, but there are sometimes cases of a man apparently physically unfit who is not in receipt of a pension, where the general public are apt to jump to the conclusion that he has been neglected.

In the first place it is well to remember that neglect is possible if the man in question, or his relatives, fail to report the case to the right quarters, and secondly that if due inquiry is made it will be found that some form of provision has been made to meet every disability.

Every returned man not up to the standard is eligible for some form of government care, though not always in the shape of a pension.

For instance, there is no pension award for functional disability, such as shell shock. The explanation for this is that the condition arising from shell shock is one likely to clear up at any moment under proper treatment and environment.

It is a sad condition where the patient needs every encouragement and help to gain his normal outlook and grip of life.

Those skilled in every science and art of healing have discussed the question from all angles and present regulations are the result based upon experience in individual cases

The object of all provisions should be to return the soldier to intelligent self supporting citizenship. To give a pension for purely functional disorders was considered to work away from this end.

Give a man who has lost his nerve and spirit through shell shock sufficient to live upon and what more natural than that he should sink into a chronic state of invalidism. There would be no incentive to pull himself together. On the other hand if a desire is kindled to begin life anew a goal is set for the patient.

It must be remembered in these cases there is no disease present. Often the shell shocked patient is physically most robust and fit, and his cure is merely a matter of patience, time, and the right treatment.

The provision that has been made, therefore, for these cases, is that administered through the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-Establishment. Here the patient is given the best consideration. Each case must be handled differently. Some recover more rapidly than others, but during the time the patient is receiving treatment he will be given the same pay as that received while in the army. Though now an ex-soldier he is still considered on the strength of the army until he is sufficiently cured to be able to take his place again in the civilian ranks.

In time the functional disability entirely disappears. Through his re-education course the man is often in a better and stronger position than that held before the war.

He is not faced with a future of long defendence upon a certain payment every month but may go out and compete for the best position that is going, physically fit and strong as any of his fellows.

Other functional cases are treated along the same lines.

Canada's ideal is not to make a nation of dependence but to build up a stronger citizenship, of men who will be fit in every way.

GRACE BEFORE MEALS

Is Advised by Delegate to Baptists' Convention.

Toronto, Feb. 27.—The final afternoon session of the Baptist Convention yesterday was attended by some six hundred delegates who came from all over Canada.

Rev. R. J. Smithson gave a brief address on the "Stewardship in Life," and stated that faithful stewardship was perhaps more difficult to attain in the home than in public life.

Mr. Smithson strongly urged the delegates the desirability of some expresion of thankfulness to Christ made in every home before each meal. The speaker believed that if regular family worship was a daily occurrence in every home, the young people would not be so indifferent to church services.

BURGOYNE TO QUIT

Hamilton Coach Complains of His Treatment.

Hamilton, Feb. 27.—Coach Stanley Burgoyne of the Tigers announces that he will immediately resign his position despite the outcome of the game here last night in which Tigers eliminated Dentals of Toronto from the O.H.A. senior race. It is intimated that the Hamilton Hockey Club will endeavor to secure the services of Coach Dick Carroll of the Dentals, since the latter are now in the discard.

Things have not been running smoothly for Burgoyne of late, and, while there has been some dissatisfaction with his work, he claims that he has every reason to be peved at the way he has been used.

GRAND TRUNK SERVICE IS DISCUSSED BY COMMITTEE

Steps Will Be Taken to Secure a Revision of Present Schedule—Street Car Question Again Taken Up.

At last night's meeting of the Railway Committee a letter was submitted from Superintendent R. W. Scott of the C. P. R. asking permission to place a turn table on Water street south of Dalhousie street.

After some discussion it was decided to invite Mr. Scott to meet the committee and lay his project before them in a more detailed manner when a decision could be arrived at.

The question of extensions to the street railway on Park Street from Albert to Lansdowne streets was discussed last night. The commission was asked to move in this matter some time ago and a motion was drawn up last night and fathered by Alderman McIntyre and Turner suggesting that the work be commenced in the near future, as this is an improvement to the service which is sadly needed.

Information Wanted

Upon motion of Aldermen Turner and McIntyre the Hydro Electric Commission were again asked to furnish the Council with full information regarding the question of the purchase of the street railway and the gas plant by the city. When the information is prepared they were further requested to send a representation here or to receive a deputation from this city to discuss the matter.

As a result of last night's meeting of the Railway Committee the Hydro Commission will have another question to answer in regard to the street car service in Peterborough. They will be asked to state when they will place new cars in commission in order that the service on the Jackson Park line may be improved as a result of a motion submitted by Aldermen Turner and Morrison.

Grand Trunk Service

Train service over the Grand Trunk was thoroughly discussed last night and the consensus of opinion seemed to be that there was plenty of improvement possible. A motion tabled by Alderman Turner and McIntyre authorized Chairman Edgar to communicate with the G. T. R. authorities and arrange for an interview with the proper officials to discuss the possibilities of a more efficient train service to this city. When the appointment is made Campbellford and Hastings will be asked to send representatives to state their case and show the Company that they consider the present service inadequate.

Care of the Parks

The Horticultural Society having asked to be relieved of the responsibilities of keeping the parks of the city in proper order from this time forward it was decided at last night's meeting of the Committee to recommend to the council that the contract of planting flowers, and the care of Victoria and Central parks be let out by tender.

How Britons Escaped.

The establishment of "escape committees" among the British prisoners in German camps and the ingenious schemes devised by captives to get away, are described in an article in a London newspaper by an officer who has returned after twenty-two months of captivity.

"If you wanted to escape," says the officer, "you had to state your case before the committee, giving the full details of your scheme. If your plan interfered with the chances of another officer that committee would 'sit on it.'

"For instance, suppose I told the committee that a certain hour each day a certain sentry was in the habit of neglecting his duty in some way and that I meant to slip by him, the committee had the power to say: 'That is a way out for six others; you must all make the attempt in three days' time,' and their word was law. In this way obviously impossible schemes were brought to light and vetoed, both in the interest of the officer contemplating flight and his comrades remaining in prison.

"One officer told the committee he had constructed an improvised parachute out of a big umbrella, and he wanted to jump with it off the roof of the prison, which was close to a highway and float down into the road. But the committee said 'No!'

"One of the big escape inventions brought before the committee was a chute made of a long dinner table with a slippery polished top. This was let down from a window of the prison and on it officers were able to slide down and drop into the road outside."

U. S. Soldiers for Canadian Land.

Western Canada is going to get a great big bunch of United States soldiers when the American army gets back from France. Already a percentage so large as to alarm American economists are turning their eyes toward the great friend and neighbor across the international boundary. The American boys want land (a third of the men in the U. S. army came from farms) and the United States has no lands to offer them. But the boys who have been in France for the last year have been rubbing up against the Canadian boys, and they know there is land in Canada in such quantities that there is room for all.

Real Bonanza Kings.

The "bonanza kings" were James S. Flood, A. S. O'Brien, John W. Mackay, and James C. Fair, four men of Irish parentage who acquired vast fortunes from the gold and silver mines on the Pacific coast. They had various imitators and successors who shared the name, but these four men were the "only original" bonanza kings.

ALD. EDGAR HAS INTERVIEW WITH SUPT McMILLAN OF G. T. R.

Ald. Edgar Chairman of the Railway Commission of the City Council interviewed Mr. McMillan, superintendent of the G.T.R., today at noon, restoring the Port Hope local, leaving here at 8.10 a.m. and returning at 12.10. Mr. McMillan is fully in accord with this idea and advised a consultation with Mr. Horning, District Passenger Agent, when he would be glad to lend any assistance he could in the matter.

It was suggested by Ald. Edgar that this train might be scheduled to arrive so as to bring the daily papers here before twelve, but Mr. McMillan could not say anything definite about this. However, this will be taken up later, at any rate the papers might be sent by this route and would arrive about twenty minutes earlier than they do at present.

SYRUP OF FIGS FOR CROSS, SICK FEVERISH CHILD

IF LITTLE STOMACH IS SOUR, LIVER TORPID, OR BOWELS CLOGGED.

Mothers can rest easy after giving "California Syrup of Figs," because in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile and fermenting food gently moves out of the bowels and you have a well, playful child again. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, and they become tightly packed, liver gets sluggish and stomach disordered.

When, cross, feverish, restless, see if tongue is coated, then give this delicious "fruit laxative." Children love it, and it can not cause injury. No difference what ails your little one—if full of cold, or a sore throat, diarrhoea, stomach-ache, bad breath, remember, a gentle "inside cleanslag" should always be the first treatment given. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no smaller size. Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

MINERS AGREEE TO POSTPONE STRIKE

ACCEPT GOVERNMENT'S INVITATION TO HOLD CONFERENCE ON THE SITUATION.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Feb. 27.—The conference of the National Federation of Miners decided today to postpone the strike notices which were to become effective on March 15, for one week.

After consultation between Premier Lloyd George and officials of the Miners' Federation the conference decided to accept the Government's invitation to be represented on the commission to inquire into the mining industry.

WIDOW OF FORMER SECRETARY STATE INDORSES TANLAC

MRS. OATRIE GAINS TWENTY POUNDS AND HEALTH IS RESTORED

A great many people, especially ladies of culture and refinement feel a great reluctance in publicly endorsing a proprietary medicine although they have derived untold benefit from its use, as publicity is more or less distasteful to them.

To a great extent this is the case of Mrs. D. E. Patrie who lives at the Portland Hotel, Portland, Oregon. However, to use her words, "she feels that she would be ungrateful and delinquent in her duty if she did not tell others of the wonderful benefit she has received from Tanlac."

While Mrs. Patrie has lived in Portland, a number of years, her former home was in Idaho. Prior to his death her husband was one of the most prominent men in Idaho, having been Sheriff of his county several years, and later being elected Clerk and Recorder of Bingham County. Afterwards he was elected Secretary of State, and at the same time served as chairman of the Central Committee of the State Republican Party.

In speaking of her experience with Tanlac, Mrs. Patrie recently said: "I weigh just fifteen pounds more now than I ever did in my life, and have actually gained twenty pounds since I began taking Tanlac. My health failed about a year ago. My appetite left me almost entirely, and I didn't relish what little I did eat, and I just felt tired and listless all the time. I was extremely nervous and never slept well, and would just lie in bed and long for day light to come. I finally decided to take a trip back to Idaho thinking that a change might do me some good but I didn't improve at all.

"In a very short time after I began taking Tanlac I could see that it was going to do me lots of good, and it is simply wonderful the way I have improved. I have a splendid appetite now and thoroughly enjoy my meals without any bad effects. My nerves seem to be in perfect condition and I am thankful to say that I get good, sound, refreshing sleep every night. It is wonderful how my weight and strength have increased and I can truthfully say that I am as well and strong now as I ever was in my life. I never lose an opportunity to praise Tanlac, and when my friends remark about my wonderful improvement, it affords me great pleasure to tell them that Tanlac is entirely responsible for it.

Tanlac is sold in Peterboro by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield, by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

BOLSHEVISTS ARE BASERTHAN BEASTS

HORRIBLE ATROCITIES WERE COMMITTED UPON THE PEASANTS OF ESTHOMA.

Copenhagen, Feb. 27.—An appalling narrative of inhuman crime is revealed in the official report of the Esthonian authorities on Bolshevik atrocities committed in Esthonia, especially Wesenberg and Dorpat.

The graves of those murdered at Wesenberg were opened on Feb. 17 in the presence of the town governor. Three graves were found to contain eighty-two corpses. Skulls were shattered, bodies bayonetted and even eviscerated. An eye-witness of the execution who escaped described the terrible scene when the victims were paced on the edge of the graves and shot indiscriminately, trampled into the graves, and finished with the butts of rifles. The vicinity of the graves was littered with torn clothing, brains, fragments of skulls and hair, while the grass was covered with congealed blood.

Similar bloodthirstiness was evinced at Dorpat, where the murdered victims were dropped into the river through holes in the ice. Recovered bodies revealed many arms and legs broken, and one with the eyes put out.

The prisoners captured were robbed of clothes and valuables, led to a cellar and killed with hatchets or bombs. Examination of the cellar showed bodies piled up thickly in unnatural positions. The walls were splashed with blood.

Bolshevik fury also raged against the peasantry, many of whom were mutilated and murdered. Thirty women were killed at Narva by stones being tied round their necks and being thrown into the river.

John William Davis Sent As American Ambassador To the Court of St. James

JOHN WILLIAM DAVIS, of West Virginia, appointed by President Wilson to succeed the late Walter Hines Page, is the thirty-fourth diplomatic representative of the United States at the Court of St. James, exclusive of charger d'affaires, the sixth ambassador, and the first chosen from his state, although Virginia, of which West Virginia formed a part until the Civil War, has been distinguished by three such appointments.

Robert T. Lincoln, son of Abraham Lincoln, was the first diplomatic representative of the United States in Great Britain bearing the title of minister extraordinary and envoy plenipotentiary. Thomas F. Bayard, who had long served as a United States senator from Delaware, was the first to be given the title of ambassador. Sir Julian Pauncefote, later Lord Pauncefote, being the first British ambassador in Washington. The legations, in both instances, were raised to embassies in 1893.

A citizen appointed to represent the United States at the Court of St. James is called upon to encounter up with a line of men of exceptional intellectual equipment. From Thomas Pinckney, of South Carolina, appointed by Wilson, the average of United States diplomatists at the British capital has been very high. There were two Pinckneys, by the way, Thomas, already named, and William, who served under Jefferson; and neither of these should be confounded with Charles Cotesworth Pinckney, who was a United States ambassador to France in 1796, and who, with reference to certain threats, deliberately or inadvertently voiced, made use of the famous declaration, "Millions for defense, but not one cent for tribute." In the list are the names of four representatives, James Monroe, John Quincy Adams, Martin Van Buren, and James Buchanan, who later were Presidents of the United States, the names of others who came very near reaching the highest office in the nation, and the names of several who no doubt would have filled the chief magistracy with signal ability and grace.

The name of Washington's second minister to the Court of St. James, Rufus King, of New York, has faded but little in a century. He was so successful on his first mission that John Quincy Adams sent him back twenty-five years later. Names like Albert Gallatin, Washington Irving, Edward Everett, George Bancroft, George M. Dallas, Charles Francis Adams, John Lothrop Motley, James Russell Lowell, Thomas F. Bayard, John Hay, and Joseph H. Choate are not soon forgotten, even by a democracy.

It is a matter for mutual congratulation between the United States and Great Britain that in these later years each nation has been represented in the other, as an almost invariable rule, by men who have been granted, by the respective countries, something more than official recognition, and a great deal more than perfunctory courtesy or cut-and-dried hospitality.

The only objection that can be brought against John William Davis as an appointee to so high a post is one that, if sustained, would unfit the great majority of Americans for all preferment, namely, lack of experience in the duties which he is called upon to perform. This, however, is on a par with the objection of youth brought against one who had been chosen for a place of importance. "That," said his sponsor, "is something he will outgrow." Mr. Davis, from all accounts, has little save inexperience in diplomacy to overcome in his new post, and, unless that post has been greatly changed, it is quite certain that he will outgrow this defect before he is in London very long.

A Substitute for Milk.

In Japan there is said to be a very satisfactory substitute for milk, just as the nut margarines are a substitute for butter. Cows are very scarce in Japan and the people are using an artificial milk derived from the soy bean. The bean is first soaked and then boiled until the liquid turns white, when sugar and phosphate of potash are added. The boiling is resumed until the liquid has the appearance of ordinary condensed milk. When water is added soy milk is hardly to be distinguished from fresh cow's milk.

The Reason.

Wife—I used to like the smell of cigar smoke before we were married, but I don't now.

Hub—Well, you see, my dear, I could afford to buy quite a different brand before we were married.

Dr. Masaryk a Great Patriot

THE Czecho-Slovak people owe their splendid preparation for unity and independence to the labors of a group of devoted patriots! to Masaryk, Benes Stefanik, and others. Of these, Dr Thomas Masaryk, President of the new Czecho-Slovak Republic, is the most remarkable. Like Mazzini, his whole life has been given to the cause of liberty and nationality, which he has tried to realize by strengthening and deepening the spiritual and cultural life of his people. He is really the last of the "awakeners" of Bohemia. He has always urged his people to assimilate the progressive ideas of other nations, particularly those of the western democracies.

He became known throughout Europe before the war as the fearless critic of the brutal and reactionary regime that held Austria-Hungary in its grip. Every attempt at injustice was sure to find him in the opposition. The attempt to rouse anti-Semitism in Austria through accusations of ritual murder failed largely because of his noble defence of the Jews. When the 53 Jugo-Slavs were convicted of treason in the celebrated Agram trial of 1909 and sentenced to death, Masaryk proved that the documents that had supplied the proof of their conviction had been forged by officials of the Austro-Hungarian Foreign Office in order to bring about a war with Serbia. It can be readily understood how the Austrian Burenerats have hated him. He was, indeed, a marked man, and when the war broke out had to flee for his life in order to continue the work of redeeming his country.

I had the pleasure, writes Stephen P. Duggan in the American Review of Reviews, of an afternoon visit with him and came away impressed by the depth of his patriotism, the soundness of his judgment, and his magnanimity. He is probably the greatest enemy of the Magyars and Germans of Austria-Hungary, but he does not hate them, nor does he wish their destruction. He does demand however, that while they shall have the opportunity to lead their lives as they will, they shall be compelled to grant the same privilege to the nationalities they have hitherto suppressed. Dr. Masaryk is not opposed to federalism, but the federation must be one voluntarily formed by free states.

The Czecho-Slovaks are the most western of the great Slav peoples They are composed of the Czechs who inhabit Bohemia, Moravia and Silesia, which are provinces of Austria and of the Slovaks who live in Slovakia, i.e., in the most northern counties of Hungary. They number about 9,000,000, of whom three-quarters are Czechs and one-quarter Slovaks. Both peoples are of the same race, and the two languages are so closely akin that a person who knows Bohemian (Czech) can read books and newspapers printed in Slovak probably more readily than an Englishman can read Robert Burns. The Czechs are far more advanced, politically, industrially, and intellectually, and have had a truly heroic history. The Slovaks have had no independent history since they were conquered by the Magyars (Hungarians) early in the tenth century.

When the great war burst upon Europe the Czecho-Slovaks were filled with consternation and horror. They were called upon to fight the nations which they loved and to take up arms in favor of their own oppressors—to weld their own chains the firmer. They refused. The Czech regiments went to the front singing their own national anthem, and when they arrived there they deserted to the enemy. It is estimated that altogether more than 200,000 of them went over to the Russians, Serbians and Italians. The people at home refused to buy the Austrian war bonds, gave valuable information to the enemy, and indulged in every variety of obstructive tactics to cripple the Austrian war efforts. This brought forth the most ruthless form of terrorism on the part of the Government. It is estimated that not less than 30,000 Czechs have been executed since the war began and the prisons are still full. But persecution at home only brought forth increased efforts abroad. Under Masaryk's inspiration Czech emigrants to England, France, Russia and especially in America, formed powerful organizations for the purpose of carrying on the fight for freedom.

The Bohemian National Alliance and the Slovak League formed in the United States have been the principal financial support of Masaryk's campaign, for he declared at the start that the Czech fight must be backed by Czech money and he refused to accept funds from other friendly sources. With the money thus contributed he raised and equipped volunteer armies on the French and Russian fronts. When the Russian revolution broke out he went to Russia and organized the 400,000 Czecho-Slovak prisoners of war into an army which rendered invaluable service against the Germans before the Russian collapse, and which is still the main hope in Russia of the Allied nations.

A Religious Struggle.

A wealthy English gentleman on reaching home detected a strange and disagreeable odor pervading the place. He asked the footman whence it came. "Well, you see, sir," said Jeames, "to-day's a saint's day, and the butler, 'e's 'igh church, and is burning hincense, and the cook, she's low-church, and is burning brown paper to hobviate the hincense, sir."

Modern Domesticity.

Mrs. Jones—The cook refuses to get up earlier than 7.30.

Jones—Ask her if she won't do it for a couple of days until I can rearrange my business.

Odd Foods.

Lizards and alligators are the latest propositions in the way of food variety. They do not seem very alluring to the United States appetites, yet lizards have been extremely popular in the Bahama islands, and Florida alligators have a reputation of being quite delicious.

Shields Protect Propellers.

Because of the great number of salmon nets spread in the Columbia river and in the sea near its mouth, boats plying those waters are provided with propeller and rudder shields. These enable the boats to run over a net without becoming entangled.

One Possibility.

The British Government, beginning with December 10 and continuing for six months, is paying men and women out of work sums ranging from a trifle over $6 to $15 a week, the latter going to the head of a family with several children.

So There!

MISSOURI SAW FOOT RACE THAT COST SPORTS $5,000

Harry Bethune Pulled Clever Trick and Cleaned Up Big Bunch of Money.

Back in the early '80s, when professional footracing flourished in the New England states and Canada, where the townspeople had been relieved of their money by the crafty sprinters, the crack short-distance runners began to wend their way West.

Among the first to hear of the easy money in Missouri and Iowa, was Harry Bethune, one of the fastest runners of those days. Harry had won his pile in the East, where the fans were so wise to him that he could scarcely enter a new town without his identity being known.

Warrentown, Mo., a short distance from St. Louis, was noted in those days for its fairs. Footracing was one of the annual features. Naturally each surrounding town had its sprinter whose fans would wager on him to beat anything that entered the races.

Warrentown also boasted of its sprinter, named Henry Rittenhouse. He had met and defeated every runner of note in the state and was considered unbeatable by the townspeople. In fact, he was proclaimed champion of the Missouri Valley. He could step the century in about :10 2-5 consistently but never made faster time.

Of course Bethune heard of the Warrentown fair and knew just how fast Rittenhouse could run. Crafty Harry laid his plans and they worked out to perfection. Bethune worked on the theory that money must be spent to make money, and as he had cleaned up in the East he was prepared to spend some, figuring to get it back and some besides.

Mingles With The Fans.

Bethune landed in Warrentown on a dull afternoon. He registered at the ideal type of athlete. He sat in the lobby of the hotel on the first night of his arrival and decided to journey to the fair grounds the next day to look over the track. The sprint races were held on the stretch of the trotting track. The surface was covered with clay, which was not too hard to allow spikes to sink in.

In the evening the sports gathered in the lobby to talk over various subjects, but Harry was careful not to be drawn into these arguments, for a time at least. He finally picked up an acquaintance with a traveling man, and during the course of their conversation Bethune told his new friend he had come from the East to purchase a farm. He asserted he wanted a small place near some town, so that he would not be too far away from civilization.

Bethune was sitting in front of the hotel one night after dinner when he was appealed to to decide the relative merits of some Eastern sprinters. Bethune purposely misinformed them, which convinced the better posted fans that he knew nothing about foot racers or running. Bethune admitted he did not know much about the history of the runners, but boasted he could beat any one in the bunch.

This remark brought forth jeers from the gathering and a race was made at once between Bethune and three members of the party. The contest was for the drinks. Bethune won easily, and while the drinks were being served the vanquished sought revenge.

On the following evening Rittenhouse went to the hotel. Of course, the home town idol intended to run against Bethune, which was just what Harry wanted. Another race was discussed. Finally all but Bethune and Rittenhouse dropped out, for some reason or other. The race was held in the middle of the street in front of the hotel. Rittenhouse won by a few yards.

Suggests Another Race.

Bethune invited the bunch inside the hotel to buy the drinks. After he had purchased the second round, Bethune asserted he thought he could beat Rittenhouse if they ran in racing outfits. This was agreed to. Of course, Harry had to borrow one.

The result of the second race was the same as the first. Again Bethune purchased the drinks. Then he asserted he thought he could beat Rittenhouse if given a little time to train. This caused merriment among Rittenhouse's friends and joshing of Bethune.

When Harry started to talk about betting it was a more serious matter. Rittenhouse's friends could not get their hands into their pockets fast enough.

The pair were matched to run at the fair grounds. Harry put up $2,000 with the hotel clerk to cover all the Rittenhouse money in sight. When that had been taken he produced more. Bethune and "strangers" who thought well of his chances had close to $5,000 bet on the result when race day arrived.

The runners got away to a perfect start. Bethune suddenly gained a yard advantage, which he held to the finish without even extending himself. Rittenhouse put forth all his energy, but his best was of no avail. Harry won by just a large enough margin to get the money and avoid suspicion.

Unlike most footracers, the sports were satisfied. They did not register a single complaint. After a few months, however, it leaked out that Rittenhouse and his backers had wagered against one of the fastest runners in the country.

NEVADA MAY BE SCENE OF WILLARD-DEMPSEY BATTLE

Provided Legislature Will Pass and Governor Sign a Bill Making Such Affairs Legal.

Should Governor Boyle, of Nevada the sagebrush state, sign the bill providing for twenty-five round boxing bouts, there is hardly a doubt that Jess Willard and Jack Dempsey will meet at Reno in a championship battle July 4. There is excellent ground for the belief that the shrewd promoter of the $127,000 ring contest knew before he made the match that Nevada would welcome the bout and would make suitable legal arrangements so that there would be no danger of interference.

In the event of Reno getting the pugilistic plum, it will mark the third heavyweight championship bout that has taken place in the confines of Nevada.

The pioneer battle was that in which Bob Fitzsimmons wrested the heavyweight title from Jim Corbett at Carson city, March 17, 1897. After that historic contest pugilism remained aloof from Nevada until September 3, 1906, when Rickard staged at Goldfield the celebrated bout between Joe Gans, lightweight champion, and Battling Nelson, challenger, which ended in the forty-second round in a decision of foul against the Battler.

Scene of Johnson-Jeffries Bout.

Four years later, after Rickard had made an unsuccessful attempt to put Johnson and Jeffries in the ring at San Francisco, the promoter shifted the scene to Reno, and Jeff was beaten in fifteen rounds. This contest took place on July 4, 1910, and there is every project that Willard will meet Dempsey there on July 4, 1919.

After the Johnson and Jeffries affair at Reno the legislature passed a drastic anti-boxing law, which grew out of the distaste of the settlers for contests between whites and blacks. The humiliating defeat that Jeffries suffered at the hands of the giant negro was not relished by the patrons of boxing in the state. As the present bill contains a clause forbidding matches between blacks and white, it appears that the objection to mixed matches still exists in the state.

Although Nevada is a long distance from the large cities of the east, Rickard doubtless has decided that the lure of a 25-round bout without danger of interference will draw boxing enthusiasts from all over the country.

Willard Has Fought In Nevada.

Willard already has fought one battle at Reno, and should feel quite at home there. He boxed a bout with a chap named Al Williams at Reno, July 4, 1913, and won in the eighth round.

Dempsey has boxed in many places, and if he faces Willard there it will be his first fight in that state.

Of the heavyweight bouts in which the title has changed hands Louisiana has had two, Sullivan-Ryan and Corbett-Sullivan; Nevada has had two, Fitz-Corbett, Jeffries-Johnson; New York has had one, Jeffries-Fitz; Australia one, Johnson-Burns; and Cuba one, Willard-Johnson.

California, which produced two champions, saw Jeff twice defend his title, while Corbett's only championship match on the coast was as a challenger of Jeff.

Coney Island has had three heavyweight championship fights, Jeffries-Fitzsimmons, Sharkey-Jeffries and Corbett-Jeffries.

INTERNATIONALS FAIL TO DECIDE

NO AGREEMENT REACHED AS TO THE HAMILTON FRANCHISE.

New York, Feb. 27.—The International League failed to decide at its schedule meeting the most advantageous disposition of the Hamilton, Ontario, franchise, although applications for it were received from Montreal, Ottawa, Scranton and Syracuse. The franchise was located in Syracuse when the 1918 season opened, but later was transferred to Hamilton.

Montreal Without "Sammy."

President Fultz said a delegation from Montreal would appear to make the league a proposition, but that Sammy Lichtenheim, former owner of an International franchise in Montreal, was not interested in the proposition, which will be made.

Three offers were received for permission to operate the Newark franchise, now owned by Joseph Lannin, who also owns the Buffalo franchise, and who backed Hamilton last year. According to Fultz, all three bidders are willing to build a new park in Newark, provided an available place of real estate can be found at a fair price. Lannin had been trying to sell the franchise for $225,000, but none of the bidders is willing to pay that much.

Try It Again Today.

An effort will be made to dispose of both the Newark question and the location of the eighth franchise at today's session. If it cannot be done President Fultz will be empowered to decide as soon as practicable.

The league voted in favor of a season of 140 games, the season to begin April 30 and close September 14. The schedule was adopted only in part, and cannot be completed owing to the uncertainty of the location of the eighth city.

The league raised the player limit of fifteen players to sixteen, excluding the player-manager. This is an increase of two players over 1918.

A new salary limit also was adopted which Fultz said was a increase over the 1918 limit, but the amount was not announced.

Double Umpire System.

The International League also returned to the double umpire system and approved a staff of eight umpires. Last year the league employed only five.

Fultz announced that contracts had been sent to all players, except those who are on the reserve lists of Newark and Hamilton clubs.

The clubs were represented as follows: Buffalo, Joseph Lannin; Toronto, J. J. McCaffery; Rochester, Chapman; Baltimore, Jack Dunn; Chas. Knapp; Jersey City, [illegible]

HAMILTON TIGERS DEFEAT DENTALS

LAST NIGHT'S GAME IN AMERICUS CITY RESULTED IN 6-3 SCORE.

Hamilton, Feb. 27.—In another of those ding-dong battles that have characterized all of their many clashes on the Tigers last night eliminated the Dentals from the O. H. A. hockey championship race by defeating them by 5 to 3. The Dents came here with a lead of one goal to win as result of last Saturday's game in Toronto, and even their most sanguine supporters felt that they had their work cut out for them to maintain the advantage. As a result there was very little speculation on the contest.

There is no question about the Dentals being entitled to the victory, they having the better of the play in practically every period, although there were times when it looked as though they had a mighty tough row to hoe in order to come out on top. Both teams were at full strength, and while the locals were playing with the desperation of despair, the Dent's were hanging on with a grim determination. In fact after about ten minutes of battling in the first period they increased their advantage when Hudson took a shot from the box and scored the first goal of the game, giving the visitors a lead of two goals. That looked to be about enough to win the round and the group honors.

The Dents were stronger on the defense than on the forward line, but despite the rough treatment accorded last Saturday night, Bob appeared to be in fine form and his rushes were one of the features, while he took in the last period was hardly the most spectacular of the game. Bridges also made some brilliant rushes, but he found the Tiger defense much difficult to penetrate than on former occasions. Wild Bob Smeaton, who managed to break up a number of the Tigers' attempt to score, and but for the work of this pair the locals would undoubtedly have had a commanding lead before the close of the first period. Watson, who was used as a substitute, performed creditably while on the ice, and had the honor of scoring one of the visitors goals.

The line up:—

Tigers—Goal, Rennie; defence, Reise and Matte; centre, Rankin; wings, Green and Duncan; substitutes, McCarthy and Parker.

Dentals—Goal, Stewart; defence, Fox and Brown; centre, Hudson; wings, McCaffery and Smith; substitutes, Wemple and Bridges.

Referee—L. Whitehead.

Judge of Play—K. Hawitson.

Four Rinks Play At Bobcaygeon

Teams from the local curling club went to Bobcaygeon, to play the second match in the Simpson-Bottom-Shiels contest. The Peterborough end of the game was played on the day previous to the Bobcaygeon here, and resulted in a win for the visitors in the number of rinks won or not. Many of the honors for the day are many in Bobcaygeon today in regard of prowess displayed. Okt, Wow a great match.

Secretary gates of Bobcaygeon strongly disregarding all for the warning the automatic alarm tomorrow of this [illegible] by a number of passengers killed and injured during the year amounted to 364, an increase of 68 over previous year. Ball Players' Pay

Charles Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, has been charged by some fans with underpaying his ball players. It has been local gossip that the Chicago National league club has always given its men higher salaries. The contract Eddie Collins, second baseman, has with the White Sox club does not make it appear that the players on the south side were getting rich. Collins is one of the highest salaried men in the game and in the last four years probably has drawn more money than any player in the major leagues, with the exception of Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker. The second baseman's contract with the White Sox expired [illegible] time of the opening baseball game in 1918. Collins, it has been claimed, has received $50,000 for the year, but [illegible] has been $50,000. SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Rev. J. R. Webb and Mrs. Webb are in Toronto attending the conference in Jarvis Street Baptist Church this week.

Dr. and Mrs. Scott are attending the Baptist conference in Toronto this week.

Mrs. Harry Crossman received yesterday for the first time in her new home, Homewood avenue, looking very smart in a handsome cream gown. Miss Jessie Crossman received with her wearing a very pretty frock of pink crepe. The tea table, which was presided over by Mrs. Killaly, was most artistically decorated with real lace, green tulle and centered with a basket filled with fragrant spring flowers. A great many called during the afternoon.

A bridge party was held by the Peterborough Club last night when a large number of patrons spent a very enjoyable evening. There were eight tables of progressive bridge, after which supper was served. After the supper a large number took the floor for dancing.

The Woodmen of the World held the first dance of the season to be given by that order last night, and the entertainment was attended by a large number of young people. Splendid music was supplied by Moller and Fitzgerald, and dainty refreshments served.

FIRST DANCE OF FARMER'S CLUB

NOVEL AND ENJOYABLE FUNCTION WAS HELD AT VICTORIA HALL.

The first annual dance of the Peterborough Farmers' Club was held in Victoria Hall last night. To say that it was a success is to put it mildly. The program was of a varied nature, consisting of square and round dances, some of which were quadrilles, lancers, fox trots, one and two steps, barn dances, Paul Jones, eight hand reels, grand marches, Sir Roger de Coverly. The music was furnished by the Tucker Orchestra and was satisfactory in every way.

There were twenty-nine numbers, and it was well into the early morning hours before the revelers remembered that there was work to do on the morrow and they hied themselves to their respective homes. The fun never lagged for a moment from the opening of the first number.

A young man who has attended all the dances of late was heard to remark: "Talk about your low neck (or no neck at all) and high sleeve dances at the Empress. Say, for pure, unadulterated, genuine fun give me the Farmers' Club dances every time.

The success of the dance was due to the untiring efforts of the committee, who were Messrs. Howard Quinn, Robt. Shaw and Wm. Reid.

It is safe to say that the next dance of this club will be eagerly looked forward to by those who were present at last night's dance.

NEW IDEAS FOR THE HOME PIANO

AMONG THE NEW SWEATERS

Sleeveless Garments Made of Ribbon; One With Long Ends Which Tie in the Back.

"Ribbons and laces and feminine graces" have been so continually linked together in verse that one suggests the other to the mind of the average person and in consequence the new sleeveless sweaters made of ribbon seem the most delightfully feminine of all such garments.

They are by no means as impractical as they sound either, and can be recommended both for beauty and for warmth. The very narrow baby ribbon in any shade can be used and with large knitting needles one could easily duplicate the sweaters now on sale in the shops. Most of them are buried about the waist and are finished off with bow-knots, but of course they could be made as elaborate or as plain as one desired. The ribbon being so much heavier than the average wool, it requires fewer stitches, but as it does not stretch as much as wool does one must be careful to allow plenty of leeway to slip it on over the head.

Another new type of sweater that is proving very popular is the one with long ends which cross in the front and tie in a sash at the back. These are newer than the slip-on sweaters, but are a little harder to make. They should be very loosely knitted, of course, and the sleeves may be knitted kimono style or made afterward and set in. As for the sweater itself it starts at the waist line in the back, and is knitted like the ordinary sweater up to the neck. Then when the stitches are cast off and the shoulder knitted, the fronts are done separately, adding on two stitches at every row until the bottom is reached, and then a narrow sash is knitted and fastened to the end. These are only pretty when they are done in what some people call "in and out" stitch, that is knit a row and purl a row, so that there are no ribs to show, and should be done on very large needles. Needless to say, these are made of one of the new wool substitutes.

VEILS ARE NOW THE RAGE

Face Covering Has Gained a Prominence That Has Not Been Equaled in Many Years.

In looking over present modes, notes a fashion correspondent, we can surely say that the accidentals seem to be more important than the key itself. Take veils, for example. Perhaps you have not been addicted to veils for some time. No matter. This year you will go out and buy yourself one. Veils are now raging with a virulence not known for many a day. For morning wear those of the best taste are fine mesh varieties, often with a georgette hem attached with French knot variety. For more elaborate occasions this accessory becomes more and more skittish.

Thus we have all sorts and conditions of hems for veils. It may be chenille clover leaves with jet blossoms, it may be ostrich blue embroidery, and again, your hem is apt to be edged with dogtrix matching the dogtrix of the turban. Another popular conceit at present is to border the veil with the same material and color which face the hat brim. So one can take the black veil with henna or with taupe. There is no end of flavorings for this accessory.

Hats, too, are doing much to enliven the dress world. Feather tams are seen occasionally now. So is the hat trimmed with cock feathers—a pleasant little souvenir of the gay Italian bersaglieri who, with their fluttering plumage, marched down the avenue during the Liberty loan drive. Many of the smartest hats are of black and some of them show little trimming.

PREMIER HEARST EXPLAINS GOVERNMENT'S HOUSING PLAN

Immediate Object is to Provide Work For the Idle—Legislature Takes Steps to Put Project in Operation.

Toronto, Feb. 27.—Preceding formal consideration of His Honor's speech at the initial business session of the legislature bills were introduced by the Prime Minister providing for the carrying forward of the Government's economical housing scheme and the related measure for the amendment of the Bureau of Municipal Affairs Act so that Mr. J. N. Elis may become the first occupant of the office of Municipal Director; and Hon. Mr. Macdiarmid secured the initial reading of an act for the creation of a Department of Labor. These occupying the first half hour of the session, it was 3.40 o'clock when Mr. Z. A. Hall arose amidst applause to move reply, he to be followed by Mr. Irwin Hilliard, as seconder, while Mr. Proudfoot is to move the debate's adjournment.

In representing the Housing Bill Premier Hearst explained that no endeavor would be made to rush the measure, the principle of which would be fully considered upon second reading, while the Government was none the less anxious that it should become law with a minimum of delay for two reasons: First to meet the present urgent demand for houses in certain centres of the province, and second to provide for unemployment in various districts. Tracing at some length the history of provincial action toward the relief of the house-shortage situation.

He explained that, with the exception of loans to farmers to assist in the provision of accommodations for their workers, loans would be made only to municipalities through special commissions, of 5 per cent.

A sufficient explanation of the general purpose and provisions of the bill was given by the Government leader, who expressed the desire of the administration that the bill shall be advanced through its various stages and receive the royal assent as soon as possible.

While the chief operations of the Government in assistance of house-building will be directed through the municipal commissions, construction companies and private individuals may, under certain condition, take advantage of the Government loans advances up to 85 per cent. being allowable to companies making not more than six per cent. on their operations and private lot owners being granted loans in the amount of the total cost of houses erected. In the event of lots not being owned and paid for by the prospective builders, loans can be obtained on ten per cent. In the cases of returned soldiers or widows of such soldiers, insistence upon these cash payments would be waived. The payments provided for under the house provision plan would be adjusted on a monthly instalment arranged, under which a $3,000 home would be secured and paid for by rental payments of but $20 per months.

JOHN KENDRICK BANGS' BOOKS IN GREAT DEMAND

Enquiry at the Public Library indicates that many of the citizens who intend hearing Mr. Bang's lecture tomorrow night have been interested in looking up his works at the library as the librarians state that there has been a good demand for them. Following is a list of his books obtainable at the library;

"The House Boat on the Styx."
"The Pursuit of the House Boat."
"Enchanted Typewriter."
"From Pillar to Post."
"Mr. Bonaparte of Corsica."
"Paste Jewels."
"Peeps at People."
"Olympic Nights."
"Mr. Munchausen."

John Kendrick Bangs was born in 1862. In 1883 he graduated as a Bachelor of Philosophy from Columbia University and then studied law. He was married to Mary Blakeney Gray of New York in 1904. At various times in his life he has been associated with the following magazines, with some as editor, with others as associate editor: Harper's Weekly, Metropolitan Magazine, Puck, Literary Notes, The Drawer, Life. He is at present editor of The Rambler, published in Boston.

Iron Duke Was Good Musician.

Most of you have heard of the Iron Duke, the duke of Wellington, who was one of the great commanders of England, winning glorious victories for her. But none of you, perhaps, know that this Iron Duke, notwithstanding that he was a famous warrior, was also something of a musician. At one time, observes a writer in the Brooklyn Eagle, he directed a concert in England, after he had become famous as a commander. Not every soldier could do that, and turn so easily from one kind of work to another.

Homes Help Community.

A wealthy Englishman once said that a good home was an institution for civilizing a community, and instead of surrounding his own home by a high hedge, like many in the vicinity, he built about it an open fence, so that whoever passed, rich or poor, might enjoy the beauty of house and lawn and garden. It is a good thing for the girls of today who are to be the home makers of tomorrow, to grow up with the idea that the home owes something to the community.

The Woolsack.

The woolsack is the big red bag, without back or arms, on which the lord chancellor sits when presiding over the deliberations of the house of lords. Its origin is curious. An act was passed in Elizabeth's reign prohibiting the exportation of wool, and to keep this source of national wealth in their lordships' minds the kindergarten notion of making them sit on wool bags was tried. Nowadays, when a new chancellor is appointed he is said to be appointed to the woolsack, and to sit on the woolsack.

Vegetable Diet.

A well-balanced diet does not necessitate much meat. The leaf vegetables, like cabbage, spinach, celery, onions, etc., are new in their prime, and should be used as the basis of a number of appetizing dishes. Supplemented as they can be by a liberal allowance of milk, cereals and a limited number of eggs, the proper food values are fully maintained.

Proud of His Regiment.

It was a wise decision on the part of the British Government to create no new regiments when they entered the great war. Instead, the number of battalions in existing regiments was increased. Many of these regiments were very old, and about them hung the traditions of a glorious past.

In uniting himself to such a body as the Royal Scots, the Welsh Fusiliers or the Black Watch, as the case might be, a man unconsciously lost the sharpness of his own individuality in the greater desire to conform to the traditional characteristics of a great company. He was, in a way, no longer John Doe or Richard Roe, but a Royal Scot or a Welsh Fusilier, guardian of the usages of an age-old organization, exemplar of its soldierly conduct. Proud of his regiment, he was taught to prove his pride in his manner and dress.

It was with the view of emphasizing every detail of this pride that British military authorities decided to replace the bronze buttons of uniforms with buttons of brass, which the soldiers are required to polish daily. Even in the trenches officers and men must shave daily, and when after a week of hard fighting and sometimes short rations, the remnant of a battalion is relieved, it is required to march at attention, with parade-ground precision, as it leaves the trenches for its holiday rest in the rear. It is this rigid subjection to every detail that has in part made possible the heroic stand that British troops are making today against a more numerous foe. Their lines bend back, but they do not break; they lose bit by bit the ground they fight over, but never their fighting spirit, their cohesiveness, their esprit de corps.—Century.

ANNOUNCEMENT

MR. H. W. STOCK announces to his customers that the baking business heretofore carried on as WM. STOCK & SONS, has been incorporated into a Joint Stock Company and Mr. Stock will be President of the Company, Mr. James Dutton will continue his position as Superintendent and Mr. Percy Stock who has been three years overseas, part of the time in the Royal Air Service, and who was wounded and discharged, will act as Assistant General Manager.

On account of the bread business of William Stock and Sons having increased to such large proportions it was found necessary to incorporate it into a Company, which will carry on the business with the same standard of service as given up to the present time. It is not the intention of the Company to carry on any other business except bread making, but to give every attention to increasing its output and the development of the business which has already had a most striking growth.

This Company is a purely Peterborough Company and Wm. Stock & Sons, have been known for the last quarter of a century as being at the front with up-to-date methods, sanitary appliances and large and well ventilated bakeries in which the Company will continue to carry on bread manufacturing.

UNITED STATES SHOULD KEEP OUT OF LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Senator Lodge so Advises in a Vigorous Speech in American Senate.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Washington, Feb. 28. — Senator Lodge of Massachusetts warned the American people today to carefully weigh the consideration of the League of Nations as presented to the Peace Conference at Paris and to insist upon its fundamental revision. Speaking in the Senate, the Republican floor leader declared his conviction that instead of safeguarding the peace of the world, the League, as now planned, would engender misunderstandings and strife. Deducing his first public utterance on the subject since the constitution became public, the Massachusetts Senator vigorously opposed the plan and made specific recommendation for amendment.

He declared that as now drafted, the constitution would contravene the Monroe doctrine, strike at American sovireignty, involve Americans in all foreign disputes, substitute internationalism for nationalism, and be of benefit principally to Europe.

Senator Lodge, who is expected to be chairman of the powerful foreign relations committee in the next Senate, which will act on the peace treaty and any plan for a League of Nations, was given close attention by the Senators and crowded galleries.

He said that while in the interests of peace it might be necessary to abandon the Monroe doctrine, the policies of Washington and other principles of Americanism, the nation should reflect and hesitate before it acts.

"Germany is lifting its head again," he said. "Let us have a definite statement as to whether the League is to have an international force of its own or is to have power to summon the armed forces of the different members.

"Let it be stated in plain language whether the measures, recommendations or suggestions of the Executive Council are to be binding on the members and are to compel them to do what the League delegates and Executive Council determine.

"Unless some better legislation for a League than this can be drawn, it seems to me," he said, "that if the League is desired it might be made up by European nations whose interests are chiefly concerned and that the United States could co-operate fully and at any time, whenever co-operation is needed."

Rioting Is Renewed In Munich

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Copenhagen, Feb. 28.—German government troops yesterday occupied the town of Hamborn, in the Ruhr industrial region, after a fight in which a number of Spartacans were killed. The Government troops captured 116 prisoners. Rioting broke out anew in Munich on Thursday. Three thousand Spartacan soldiers marched to the Parliament buildings in an effort to force the Diet to proclaim a Soviet republican in Bavaria.

The Town Hall and stores in Leipzig, Saxony, have been closed as a result of a strike by the Bourgeoise acording to a despatch from Berlin.

SARNIA MAN MURDERS TWO THEN COMMITS SUICIDE

Jealousy Supposed to be Cause of a Triple Tragedy in the Railroad Y. M. C. A.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Sarnia, Feb. 28.—Thomas Wooley, aged 37, his wife, Beatrice, 45, and Arthur Seigmiller, 28, are all dead as a result of a double murder and suicide at the railway Y.M.C.A. here this morning. Wooley, who was a cook at the "Y.," me Seigmiller, a Grand Trunk freight engineer, in the washroom and, after some argument, shot him dead. Then he went upstairs and killed his wife, afterward shooting himself. Their little girl, aged seven, ran out of the bedroom crying, "Daddy has shot my mother and himself."

All the parties were of Sarnia. It is supposed that jealousy was the cause of the tragedy.

ALWAYS WAS AND WILL BE FRENCH

ALSACE AND LORRAINE WANT NO PLEBISCITE AS TO STATUS.

Paris, Feb. 28.—The superior council of Alsace and Lorraine at its first meeting in the French war office, adopted a resolution declaring against the German proposals for a plebiscite in Alsace-Lorraine. The council was created to adjust various matters connected with the provisional administration of the two provinces. The resolution says:

"We refuse to stand for any foreign interference in our national affairs such as those attempted at Weimar (the seat of the German national assembly) and elsewhere, with the object of making the future of Alsace and Lorraine depend on a plebiscite. We most energetically deny to all Germans the right of manifesting solicitude for us which comes forty years too late. We are, and will remain, French without any plebiscite, through the restoration of the rights violated in 187[illegible]."

CHARGED WITH SELLING LIQUOR

TWO MEN ARRESTED LAST NIGHT TO BE SENTENCED TODAY.

Alfred Huffman of this city and Melleville Manson Moyse, who is well known in the towns along the lake front, were arrested last night and this morning faced charges in the police court of selling liquor contrary to the provisions of the Ontario Temperance Act.

It is stated that the accused went to a dance at Buckhorn where they received a cordial welcome on account of the invaluable nectarine which they brought along.

Moyse pleaded guilty to the charge as preferred and will be sentenced this afternoon when the court sits at three o'clock. Huffman denied his guilt and his trial will be held this afternoon, also. In addition to these two cases there is a military defaulter scheduled to appear before Magistrate Dumble.

QUEBEC LOOKS FOR PLEBISCITE

BEFORE FIRST OF MAY PEOPLE TO VOTE ON PROHIBITION.

Quebec, Feb. 28.—While no official outline has been given yet to the Quebec license bill which has been presented in the House by Hon. Walter Mitchell, and which is expected any day now, it is understood that measure provides for a referendum throughout the province, which would be taken before May 1 next, to have the people choose between absolute prohibition and beer and wine.

In Two Sections.

The bill, it is intimated, is divided into two sections, the first confirming the Act passed at the last session enacting absolute prohibition to take effect on May 1, 1919, and the second providing for the legalizing of the manufacture and sale of beer containing not more than 2½ per cent. of its weight in alcohol, and wine not containing more than 6 per cent. alcohol over-proof. The second section provides for the referendum.

The death occurred at S. Petersburg, Florida, of Samuel Gillies, of 70 St. Clair avenue, Hamilton

EX-PRESIDENT TO TALK ON PEACE

MR. TAFT TO SPEAK FROM SAME PLATFORM AS PRESIDENT.

NO PLEBISCITE AS TO PRESIDENT.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York, Feb. 28.—Former President Wm. H. Taft has accepted an invitation to speak here next Tuesday night on the same platform with President Wilson, the League to Enforce Peace announced today. In his telegram Mr. Taft emphasized his desire to do everything possible to help make clear to the country the non-partisan character of the League of Nations issue.

Autoists Ask For Change in Act

Toronto, Feb. 28.—When Ontario Motor League delegates make their annual legislative pilgrimage to the Parliament Buildings today they will ask, among other things, that no motorist be convicted of exceeding the speed limits upon the evidence of a single witness. Heretofore the evidence of a motorcycle speed constable has almost invariably been accepted as against the sworn testimony of the person charged, and motorists have complained that in some courts conviction is a foregone conclusion.

Another important change in the same section of the Motor Vehicle Act is to be asked. Speed traps of 100 and 200 yards are too short motorists claim, and they will ask the Provincial powers to make the tests at least a quarter of a mile in the country and an eighth of a mile in cities, towns and villages. They will point out to the Government that a short burst of speed is sometimes necessary to avert traffic tangles or worse.

Restrict Candle-Power of Lamps

Still another important piece of legislation asked is that the Lieutenant-Governor in Council may make regulations to restrict candle-power of headlighting devices on motor vehicles. It is virtually a request that the Government officials try again to [illegible] regulations which will discriminate between a light that throws a glare and one that does not. There is a dormant clause in the act regulating lights and reflectors, but it has been deemed unworkable.

RED CROSS PLAN PEACE SERVICE

DOMINION PARLIAMENT WILL BE ASKED TO AMEND THE CHARTER.

Toronto, Feb. 28—Application will be made to the Dominion Parliament at its present sitting by the Canadian Red Cross Society for an amendment to its charter whereby it will be permitted to extend its activities to the civilian population during peace times for the alleviation of pain and suffering wherever it may be found. The passing of a resolution to this effect was the outstanding feature of the annual meeting of the society held yesterday afternoon in Convocation Hall.

In moving the resolution Hon. Sir Richard S. Lake, Lieutenant-Governor of Saskatchewan, explained that in view of the forthcoming convention of Red Cross Societies to be held at Geneva, Switzerland, there was some doubt as to the wisdom of proposing the step without bringing the question before that convention. He explained, however, that he had written to Sir Arthur Stanley of the British Red Cross, asking his advice, and that a cable received during the course of the meeting stated that the British Red Cross had already approached the Privy Council for a similar amendment and that, therefore there was no reason for the Canadian body to wait further.

CHARGED WITH DODGING DRAFT

LEO A. FORBERT OF LINDSAY BEFORE MAGISTRATE DUMBLE

Leo A. Forbert, of Lindsay, was charged in the Police Court this afternoon with having been a defaulter under the Military Service Act. His counsel, Joseph Wearing, stated that while prepared to plead guilty, there were circumstances in connection with this case which he felt His Worship should be acquainted with before sentencing the man.

Mr. Wearing was not prepared to state these in open court but wrote them down for the personal consideration of the magistrate. He asked for a remand of one week upon the ground that he could obtain witnesses who would bear out the statements made in the testimony he had submitted.

Magistrate Dumble did not look kindly upon the idea of granting an enlargement, but finally acceded to the earnest representations and arguments of Mr. Wearing and not only granted his request for an enlargement, but allowed the accused to retain his liberty upon adequate bail being furnished.

Mr. Wearing, in connection with this case, brought up a contingency which has not arisen in cases tried in Peterborough heretofore. He claimed that Forbert had given himself up to Inspector Stewart at Scotia Junction at the time of the general amnesty granted to defaulters last November, but that the prisoner had been stricken down with the flu and pneumonia upon the same day, and his illness had lasted until after the signing of the armistice.

Mr. Wearing reminded the magistrate that cases of this kind had their individual peculiarities and should be dealt with accordingly. If there were extenuating circumstances they should be considered in the same manner as in the case of a man charged with theft. There is no fixed period of imprisonment for a man charged with another offence, and there was no reason why a defaulter's case should not be dealt with likewise. If there were extenuating circumstances they should at least be considered.

FINED $500 FOR SELLING LIQUOR IN PETERBORO

Manson Moyes and Alf. Huffman Jointly Guilty of Offence Charged.

Melville Manson Moyes, of Port Hope, and Alfred Huffman, of this city, were charged jointly in Police Court this afternoon with having been engaged in selling liquor contrary to the Ontario Temperance Act, and upon pleading guilty were ordered to pay a fine of $500 with $9.10 costs, or go to jail for a term of six months. It is thought that the guilty parties will pay the fine, which will amount to $250 apiece, with the costs divided.

Moyes admitted bringing the whiskey to Peterborough from Port Hope and showed a disposition to assume most of the blame in the matter. Huffman accompanied him to the country, where the liquor was hidden in a bush, and Magistrate Dumble decided that he was equally blameworthy and that they were jointly responsible for the breach of the law.

GOVERNMENT SHOULD AGREE UPON WHEAT PRICE POLICY

Until This is Settle There Will Be Unrest in Milling Industry.

If confidence is to be restored to the milling and kindred industries of the country in the near future the Government will have to take action to fix a price for the 1919 wheat crop and it cannot move in that direction too soon, judging from the conditions prevailing in this city where one of the largest cereal plants of the Dominion is situated and is at present practically idle. Conditions affecting it can be considered as applicable to the industry throughout the Dominion and the state of affairs reigning today at the Quaker Oats plant of Peterborough are, in all probability, no worse than in other cities, which boast large cereal mills. A review of the situation here will consequently throw a good deal of light upon the general situation as far as Canada is concerned.

There are, at the present time, 400 or 500 employes of the Quaker Oats in this city out of work, not on account of lack of orders, as there are plenty of orders to be filled in this country and an abundance in Europe, but because of the scarcity of shipping facilities.

The Quaker Oats has at the present time 600,000 tons of shipping tied up in various sea ports for the lack of ocean freight accommodation. This goods is consigned to the European market and until such time as transport can be found for it will perforce remain in the giatted transshipping sheds of the port to which it was sent.

Looking forward with confidence to the solution of the shipping problem the employes of the company in this and other cities are living in hopes of brighter days ahead. Their optimism is justified in the light of reason as there is not the slightest doubt but that the demand for the products of the cereal plant is as great or greater today than it ever was before, a statement which is borne out by a peculiar feature of the local situation, which is to be found in the fact that the largest force of men on duty at the Quaker Oats at present is that engaged in making local deliveries.

When the shipping conditions return to normal once more there is every reason to believe that the cereal plant in this and other places will run day and night to supply the demand.

It cannot be said that the situation at the company's plant in Peterborough is encouraging as disclosed at the present time. The cereal department is entirely closed. A few hands are retained in the puffed rice department and the office staff alone has been kept on duty as a unit. In the flour department there are only two packers engaged.

A number of officials from the headquarters of the company in Chicago are expected in Peterborough in the near future to discuss the situation and make arrangements for the boom period, which is sure to follow the present depression.

Royal Bride's Stock of Nightgowns

At the meeting of the Industrial Parliament in London yesterday the meeting itself was picturesque in the fact that Labor smoked its seasoned briars under the very nose of the Premier. Nor was it without humor, especially when, as the wedding bells of Westminster Abbey across the street were ringing and the Princess "Pat" was nearing the church for her marriage, one of the Labor men referred to the bad impression on the workmen created by the report that the princess has 70 night gowns in her trousseau, while some of the working women hardly had one. This convulsed the Premier.

What was manifest in the Government's attitude as expressed by the Premier and the Labor Ministers, was the recognition that the workers would never accept the old conditions. The most acute students of Labor problems in England expressed their belief that a great good had been done at a critical moment by the Premier's call for an Industrial Parliament, for it gave opportunity to Labor to state its case and to remove the notion that bolshevikism is behind the upward striving of the masses.

SPARTACANS NOW CONTROL MUNICH

HAVE SEIZED GOVERNMENT PRESSES ON WHICH MONEY IS MADE

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Paris, Feb. 28.—The situation at Munich is grave, according to the Berlin Vossische Zeitung. Spartacan forces not only are masters of all public buildings and transportation services in the city, but have also seized the presses on which the Government bank notes are printed. These presses, it is said by the Berlin Lokal Anzeiger, are kept busy. Foodstuffs are being rationed at Munich, the amounts issued to the Bourgeois being only half of those given workingmen.

FAIR DIRECTORS ASK FOR GRANT

DEPUTATION PRESENT CASE AT MEETING OF FINANCE COMMITTEE.

At the meeting of the Finance Committee of the City Council held last night a deputation from the Fair Board were present and asked for a grant for next year's exhibition. The matter was laid over for future consideration. Upon the deputation were R. Denne, President of the Board of Directors; F. J. A. Hall, R. M. Glover, J. W. Fraser, P. Brown and F. Roy.

In addition tot the meeting of the Finance Committee the Legal Committee also held a short session.

280 FATALITIES ON THE RAILWAYS

AND 800 PEOPLE WERE INJURED DURING THE PAST YEAR.

Ottawa, Feb. 28.—In three great volumes, covering the work of the Dominion Railway Commission during the year ending March 31, 1918, as tabled by Hon. J. D. Reid, Minister of Railways and Canals, there is one little section which deals with the work of the board in administering the railway grade crossing fund in actual construction work on various devices for promoting the safety of those using the highways. On 444 crossings the following means were taken to protect the public: 241 electric bells, 108 gates, 50 subways, 20 overhead bridges, 20 diversions of highways, three closings of streets three removals of obstructions to the view of the people approaching the crossing, one shelter and two towers.

Act Too Restricted

The Commission feels that the act has too limiting restrictions. It is pointed out that in the larger cities such works would run into amounts exceeding $100,000, and occasionally as high as several million dollars, whereas the Commission is limited to $5,000, not to be applied to more than three crossings in one municipality, or more than once to the same crossing. That amount would be, in large cities, just a fraction of the amount involved. That this field of effort is an important one is shown by the report of the board's chief operating officer that the number of highway crossing accidents during the past five years totalled 621, causing 280 persons killed and 566 persons injured. Of these 158 accidents were at protected crossings, where there were 71 killed and 140 injured, and 463 at unprotected crossings, with 209 killed and 426 persons injured. There were 48 automobile accidents at such crossings, in which the casualties amounted to 31 killed and 77 injured and of these 39 accidents occurred at unprotected crossings, 26 being killed and 58 injured.

Public Carelessness

Though this shows an increase over the previous year, there are no data as to the increase in automobile traffic to see whether the increase is one in percentage or not. The board notes that there are many instances of public disregard of protective appliances, a great many crawling under the gates or going around them or disregarding the alarm given by the automatic signal bells.

The number of passengers killed and injured during the year amounted to 364, an increase of 68 over the previous year. There were also 1,357 employees killed and injured out of the 136,175 employed in the country.

Damage from Fire

The report of the fire inspection department shows that out of 4,097 fires originating within 300 feet of the track, those definitely attributable to railway causes made 76.84 per cent of the total. Of the fires chargeable to railway causes, 240 or 28.46 per cent, expended themselves without doing any damage. The total damage from such fires reached $185,000, of which the railways are charged with 24.42 per cent. In the Prairie Provinces the railways have constructed 10,994.26 miles of fire guards.

Have New Plan To Deal With Russia

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH"

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1919

MR. GORDON'S DEFENCE.

MR. G. N. GORDON made a plea for mercy for a defendant in the Police Court yesterday, and his eloquent address is sure to have a lasting impression upon all who heard it. It did not sound like the usual cut-and-dried argument for leniency that attorneys put up for their clients as a rule. The inspiration of the remarks had the ring of genuine feeling. It was such an address as any man who knows frail human nature might have uttered, spontaneously and without any material consideration as a motive.

A young man pleaded guilty to the charge of being a defaulter, of failing to answer the call to arms under the Military Service Act. He hid in the woods, and so evaded the draft, but the Dominion Police after the war was over ran him down.

Without any attempt to apologise for a man who violated a law of the land, it must be admitted that there were extenuating circumstances. Living far removed from the centres of population, spending all his life in the solitude of a farm, this young man lacked the inspiration that was created in many a heart by the patriotic meetings, by the playing of martial airs and by the sight of marching men, heard and seen in the towns and cities of Canada. His world was bounded by the confines of his own neighborhood. Probably in all the twenty-two years of his life he never spent one night away from the shelter of his parental roof. Natures developed under such environments seldom nurture an ambition for another, certainly not for a military, life. When the call came, every feeling of repulsion was aroused, and this does not necessarily imply the lack of physical courage on the part of the defaulter. He simply could not understand. All he asked was that, seeing he had no voice in starting the war, he be allowed to live his own life in peace. If he had been asked to take a hand in a combat between two neighbors, the request would not have appealed to him, even if the restoration of community harmony had been cited to him as a reason.

The war has created many problems, and one of these is the matter of dealing with defaulters. The object of punishing offenders, we are taught by those in authority to believe, is to furnish examples that will deter others from falling into the same course. There is, it is alleged, nothing of vengeance in court sentences. If this be so, the lesson which it is sought to impress now by sending draft dodgers to jail is likely to be lost. No such necessity as compulsory military service is ever likely to arise again in Canada. The thousands of men who have defaulted, if all are apprehended and treated alike, will fill the jails of the country and add new war burdens to those already carried by the people. And the citizenship of all these defaulters will be lost to Canada. No young man who for such a cause spends two years in jail will be any the better patriot for his experience.

The magistrate who sends a defaulter to prison for two years is simply doing his duty. There is the law before him, and he must, if faithful to his charge, govern himself accordingly. But it is an outrage on the popular idea of justice to have defaulters punished in one section of the Dominion and allowed to escape with a nominal fine or a few hours' imprisonment in another. Not all magistrates, any more than all drafted men, are rising to their duty. The law is binding on one as upon the other.

Men see the law broken with impunity all round them. They have since the beginning of the war seen those in high place plunder the public in broad daylight and escape with their spoils. They have seen men steal from the public funds that the nation has been taxed almost to the breaking point to raise. They have seen the trusted officer appropriate the money handed over to him with which to pay the soldiers who every day were risking their lives. They have seen officers maintained in comparative idleness and living in unaccustomed luxury, fattening on the misfortunes of their country like so many parasites. And compared to all these offences the man who dodged the draft regards his own failure in duty as a relatively unimportant matter.

OPPOSE PROHIBITION.

SENATORS Dandurand and Casgrain say they are opposed to prohibition and will resist every attempt at its enactment. Even senators are entitled to their personal opinions, but every man should guard against the egotistical blunder of taking himself too seriously.

WAR PROPHETS.

THE AGE OF PROPHECY seems by no means a matter of history. Modern seers made tolerably accurate forecasts of the late war, not only as to its origin, but as to the agencies that would decide its settlement and the results that would follow the conflict.

Back in the eighties, Rev. Dr. Wild, who, as pastor of the Bond Street Congregational Church in Toronto, established a reputation as one of the outstanding orators of the day and who earned the title of prophet, always had his eye set upon the probable events of the future. The part that the United States was to play in shaping the destiny of the world and in bringing new and vigorous support to the cause of humanity, was one of the doctor's favorite themes in pulpit or on platform. In a lecture dealing with this topic he was wont to close with an eloquent peroration in which he outlined just such a war as the recent conflict, in which nation was to rise against nation. The blood of the human race was to pour forth like water, the face of the earth was to become moundy with the graves of the fallen. Then, just at the crucial moment the United States, that vigorous young giant of the West, was to throw the might of its strength upon the side of right, and the cause of civilization was to triumph for all time. The late doctor may have been given to sensationalism, but he knew history and understood national characteristics as he did those of individuals.

Coming down to a still more modern prophet, we have "The Final War," a book written in 1896 by Louis Tracy, who says that the destiny of England and America is to rule the world, to give it peace and freedom, to bestow upon it happiness and prosperity.

Hand in hand, with a singleness of purpose never known before, and with an unselfish interest in the task before them, the two great nations are working out that destiny now. They will attain their objective, too, despite all the obstacles that may be placed in the path of progress by the ephemeral politicians on either side of the ocean.

In a preface to his book Louis Tracy says: "I have tried to write a story of adventure. It may interest and amuse the reader, but I shall have utterly failed in my task if he does not rise from its perusal feeling proud if the English language be his mother tongue, and sad if it be not."

Perhaps the preface savors somewhat of boastfulness. In the late war there were nations on the side of the Allies whose soldiers could not understand a word of the language that every Briton believes will eventually become universal. But the different races understood each other, believed in each other, nevertheless. The cry of humanity for support was the velapuk of a world at war.

RADIAL SERVICE FOR PETERBOROUGH.

UP AT THE KAWARTHA LAKES Peterborough has one of the finest summer resorts in Canada. All that is lacking is development, and this can never be attained until transportation is provided. At present this resort is inaccessible to the city except by the boats that ply on the Trent Canal, and, excellent as this service is every year, it is still inadequate for the purpose.

Alderman Edgar and his colleagues on the City Council's railway committee have taken the right track when they decide to have the city ask the Hydro Commission to build a radial from Whitby to Peterborough and thence to the summer resort region. There should be no difficulty about securing this concession, as the Hydro Commission is a public institution and the various municipalities interested have a right to get what they want and are willing to pay for.

Alderman Edgar very properly takes the ground that it would not be a businesslike policy to extend the radial from Whitby along the lake front in competition with three already established lines of steam railways which, instead of competing with each other, have been allowed to increase their rates from time to time by the Railway Commission in order to save themselves from bankruptcy. The Council has no assurance that the Hydro Commission will not adopt this very course. When Sir Adam Beck spoke in this city a year ago he made it clear that he was not averse to building radial lines in direct competition with steam roads, leaving the latter two alternatives—to improve their service or go into liquidation. Sir Adam has already established a reputation as a demolisher of private industries. He bought a steam road from London to Port Stanley, rebuilt and electrified it, and operated it as a rival of a private electric road that was giving excellent service. He cut rates until he had the old line on the rocks. Then he raised his own figures above the record.

The program as agreed upon by the railway committee is one that is essential to the future of Peterborough. The more visitors induced to spend the summer at the lake resorts to the north, the better for the city in every respect. The natural advantages of Peterborough both as a place of residence and as an industrial centre can be established in no better way. The opportunity for Peterborough to grow bigger and better is within sight. The present City Council has already attained a reputation for taking up big measures for promoting the general welfare, and in this policy the alderman should have the support of the Board of Trade and every class and interest in the community.

How Prohibition Works In Sweden

There is plenty of evidence in Sweden that official prohibition does not prohibit. Experience here shows that restrictive measures are effective up to a certain point but forcing them beyond that point creates an overgrowing class of secret distillers and boozemakers and produces more drunkenness.

There has been an enormous sale of distilling apparatus in Sweden, and it has not lain idle. The detectives at Norrkoping declare that in half the houses in that city there is at least one person who systematically busies himself or herself with secret distilling or rendering poisoned spirit innocuous. The latter method is more popular as distilling is easily done with sugar and yeast, though fruit and jam are used also. Often the sounds of battle rise on the still night air, and when the police come they find that a fight has arisen between a couple of distillers and find the floor strewn with broken retorts, curly pieces of pipe and the rest of the gear.

Though spirits restrictions have become more and more severe, Stockholm police records show a great increase in drunkenness, amounting in September to more than 300 per cent over September 1917.

The Stockholm and Gothenburg police say that rooting out secret distillers is a hopeless job. Chief of Police Harleman here recently said that "masses" of reports had lately come in to him about distillers and that not a day passes without one of the offenders being caught.

In Stockholm, as elsewhere, the denaturing of gasoline and other forms of spirits intended for industrial uses is very prevalent. Matters have passed the stage of pioneer home research. The path has been blazed and the pioneers have made a gift of their knowledge to all thirsty mankind. The authorities say that the various methods converting unpalatable and poisonous industrial spirits into good drinks "seem to be fully worked out and generally known."

Gasoline is scarce indeed in Sweden but distillers and boozemakers obtain their supplies by theft of secret purchase from fishermen, farmers and manufacturers, who have been allotted rations for their vital industries. A quart of this doctored gasoline easily fetches $5.

TO-DAY'S STORY

Sailors are superstitious men and even at the admiral's table the accidental ringing of a tumbler is instantly muffled, for the sound is supposed to portend early death by drowning.

But here are some queer legends about haunted ships. There is, for example, one occurrence that is still wrapped in mystery. In 1917 a convoy of 12 ships was on passage, when at dawn on the day after sailing the escort commander discovered 13 ships under his charge. While the identity of the extra ship was being discussed the convoy was suddenly attacked by German light cruisers and most of the escort and 9 of the merchantmen were sunk. The Germans then made off.

Survivors who witnessed the whole proceeding positively assert that there were 13 ships and that the mysterious vessel disappeared as strangely as she had appeared; that she was not sunk is certain. Official inquiries fail to throw any light on the nature of this vessel; it was ascertained that she could not have been a disguised German raider, and her presence was "logged" by the escort commander.

Perhaps it was Vanderdecken, the old Dutch captain who in the "Flying Dutchman" wished to witness the discomfiture of his old enemies, the English.

In one ship an officer who lost his reason committed suicide under particularly tragic circumstances, after escaping from his cabin on the half deck. Within a few days the sentries on this post began to complain that someone was dogging their footsteps as they paced up and down during the night watches. They declared that they could feel a presence, but on turning round could see no one. Eventually the sentries had to be sent on duty in pairs, as a solitary sentry would sometimes desert his post in terror. This ghost is probably laid, as the ship in question was sunk in the Dardanelles.

Another case is that of a haunted cabin on board a more modern ship. The owner was found to be missing at sea and was presumed to have been washed overboard by accident. In due course another officer was allotted this cabin. One night the flat was aroused, by shouts; a crowd of officers and men soon rushed to the door. They found the new occupant sitting up in his bunk in an obvious state of terror.

He declared that soon after turning in, he felt something touch his head and that the bunk was invaded by something damp and smelling of seaweed. The same thing happened to another tenant later on, and after that the cabin was unused for three months. In the end the ghost was exorcised and the cabin used by a Roman Catholic chaplain, who never complained of further manifestations.

"It's a long lane that has no farming."

"Squared another grudge against somebody, eh."

"I'd like to know one thing, pop."
"What is that, son?"
"Do they pay the submarine crews from the sinking fund?"

A Big Feature

Bannon—That is a rather enterprising magazine.

Shannon—Yes; and they announce that next month they will print a full-length novel complete in one issue, and a full-width picture of Fatty Arbuckle in one issue.

"I see you a good deal with young Flubdub. I hope you are not going to marry a spendthrift."

"Oh, no. I don't think I'll marry him. But it's nice going around with one."

Arrogant Wealth

He boasts his wealth,
Which I detest,
He wears an egg-stain
On his vest.

Now comes peace, and invention is required to be constructive and fill many a long felt want.

For example, the times cry out for a self-washing dish, However—What effect would that have upon matrimony?

Wouldn't Do

The sportsman strode into a poulterer's shop and with the air of a man who meant business, said:

"Can you sell me a nice plump pheasant?"

"I'm sorry I have not a pheasant left, sir," replied the shopman, "but here are some fine sausages that I can highly recommend. I'm sure your wife will be delighted with them."

"Sausages be blowed," yelled the sportsman, "how can I tell my wife I shot sausages."

OPPOSED TO PROHIBITION

Two Senators Go on Record Against the Proposition.

Ottawa, Feb. 27. — In the Senate yesterday Senator Dandurand said that while he was in favor of temperance, he was strongly opposed to prohibition, and he would resist with all his power any legislation which sought to bar French wines from the country or which aimed to deprive people of the use of light beer.

Senator Casgrain, who followed expressed opposition to the proposed prohibition legislation, wanted to have more information about the Canadian Northern Railway and the situation in respect to the Grand Trunk. He said Sir Robert Borden was playing a minor role at the Peace Conference.

LITTLE BENNY'S NOTEBOOK

BOOKS

There is little books on jest one jeck,
And big books on sevrel, like dicktionerry,
And a hole lot of diffrent books all at one time.
Is known as a lybererry.

Enybody can set down to rite a book,
Saying, "I can be a author, I bet,"
But if you come back later to see wat they rote.
All they have did was to set.

A good meny authors is alive today
But more than twice as meny have died.
And you can't blame the author if you dont like the cover
But you can if you dont like the inside.

For the covers are very important
To know ware to end and to start,
Everybody who has ever red mutch
Looks inside for the instructive part.

The invention of printing was a grate thing for books,
And also the discovery how to rite,
But if nobody had never lernt how to read.
It would jest be a case of good nite.

Elixers of Youth

Many different methods have been tried by which man may lengthen his term of life on earth. We often smile at the attempts of the scientists of olden days who were always hoping to find the "Elixir of Youth," which would enable them to live for ever but even in such a progressive country as the United States, in these prosaic days, there are men searching for methods of prolonging life almost as fantastical as the old alchemists.

For instance, a Dr. Fair, of Boston, originated the theory that it was possible to live for a thousand years by adopting the following rules:—Dress in white, live on vegetables and nuts, sleep in a draught, take long "dinner hours," and remain alone for half an hour every day. It is said that the doctor had no fewer than a quarter of a million followers, but whether any of them will reach the thousand years or not of course remains to be seen!

Another American doctor named Starkey, stated in 1912 that he had discovered an elixir of youth, although he was more modest than Dr. Fair, and only claimed that it would prolong life for an additional twenty years. The recipe for the elixir was a secret, but the doctor thought so much of it that he experimented with it on his own mother, aged seventy, and after a time he declared that he had succeeded in making her look not more than fifty, and that he had been able to remove every wrinkle from her face.

CLEMENCEAU IS ACTIVE

French Premier Attends Session of Drafting Commission

Paris, Feb. 28—Yesterday afternoon Premier Clemenceau went to the Foreign Office, which he reached at 2.50 o'clock. He alighted unassisted walked into the building, and was present at a session of the drafting commission.

M. Clemenceau did not remain long in the building leaving it at 3.15 o'clock entering his car without assistance and being driven off at a speedy pace. Bystanders remarked that he was looking remarkably well.

HARRY LAUDER'S DOUBLE WINS THE AMATEUR PRIZE

Another of Those Popular Features at the Grand Opera House—W. Thompson, W. Leonard and Ed. Parsons Carry Off Laurels

Amateur night at the Grand Opera House was the most successful of the series, which will be a source of satisfaction to the retiring management as it is the last event of such a nature which will be held in the theatre before it changes hands on March 1st.

A splendid movie program was provided in addition to the entertainment afforded by the amateur performers and it was 10.45 before the show came to an end. Those who attended the Grand last night certainly got their money's worth.

Ed Parsons sang the popular song, the sentiment expressed in which finds an echo in so many hearts in the audience, "Oh, How I hate to Get Up in the Morning." This was the first time that this young man had ever appeared upon the public platforms in the role of an individual entertainer and there is not the slightest doubt, judging from his expression, that he never realived before just what a sea of human faces gazed up from the pit and galleries of the Grand at the performers upon the stage.

He did not get stage fright, however, which is saying a good deal for him, but after sizing up the capacity audience which was before him, got down to business and sang his song very well indeed. A hearty encore followed the first number and Edward was forced by the storm of approval to return to the glaring foot lights once more and sing "Take Me Back to Dear Old Blighty."

Mr. Webber Turner, who presided during this part of the program, next announced a number, in which the entertainer was to impersonate the celebrated Scotch comedian Harry Lauder. The hearts in the audience was at once aroused and they peered at the wings of the stage anxiously for the Caledonian minstrel to appear. A wave of consternation ran through the spectators when a coon dressed in an airy summer suit, red neck-tie and white collar, which last set off the ebony hue of his shiney features to perfection, marched into full view.

One prominent son of the Auld Land, who had been boasting about Bobbie Burns all night and extrolling the virtues of his countrymen ever since hearing that there was to be an amateur-imitator of Harry Lauder on the platform, was shocked into silence at the appearance of the colored man, another said in his wrath that if he could get a gun the career of the coon would end right there, while a third bemoaned the fact that all his turnips were at home in the cellar.

Mr. Turner saw that a terrible mistake had been made and hustled the coon out of sight hoping, meanwhile, that the Irish section of the audience had not become wise to the joke. He explained that this performer had appeared out of his turn and hoped that the audience would forgive him for the anxiety he showed to appear before them.

When Harry Lauder's double did heave in sight, he was the real thing and his appearance in kilts, and his guttural burr acted as soothing balm to the wounded spirits of his fellow country-men who still had visions of the dark apparition which had got loose upon the stage at the wrong time.

Mr. W. Thompson sang "Nanny," one of the great comedian's favorite hits and the clamorous approval of the audience was the most eloquent tribute which could be paid to his clever imitation. Mr. Thompson had everything in his favor. He was a Scotchman to begin with, he looked like a Scotchman, was dressed like one, had the Scotch brogue and wit and possesses a splendid voice. He carried off the elocutionary parts so naturally that those who had heard the great entertainer were surprised and pleased. He had the gesture down to perfection and the number which he contributed as a response to the hearty encore which he received was if anything better than his original selection.

Mr. Stanley Bishop gave an instrumental solo, which showed skill at the piano and was well received and worthy of the approbation shown in the encore which he received.

W. Leonard, the coon, then made his appearance, sailing under his own colors this time. He sang the favorite, "A Lump of Sugar" so well that even the Scotchmen in the audience after glancing about carefully to see that they were unobserved clapped their hands enthusiastically. He responded with a well chosen selection which suited his fine voice to perfection.

Baptiste Babnette (Archie Barbeau) the iron man, in a test of strength, did exceptionally well and added a pleasing variety to the program. He raised heavy weights, which were marked as tipping the scales at 1,000, 200 and 300 pounds and showed the terrific strain to which his muscular system was subjects by the ordeal. Of course the audience suspected that the weights and the barrel, which purported to be filled with salt, were made of wood and were empty, but the howl which greeted a small boy when he stepped out onto the stage and removed the weights with apparent ease, tipping them up to show that they were hollow, showed that the spectators had not been sure of the fake which was carried out so well by Mr. Barbeau.

The audience were allowed to select the winners themselves. The four performers were lined up in a row and the appluse which greeted each was taken as the deciding factor. Mr. Thompson as Harry Lauder got first prize; W. Leonard as the colored gentleman, second, and Ed. Parsons, third.

Last night's performance pleased the people immensely. The remainder of the program was extra good. The six reel feature, "Roped," was as fine a Western picture as has been seen in this city for a long time and the comedy was a real side splitter.

Tonight the Chautauqua entertainer, John Kendrick Bangs, the celebrated American humorist, appears in the Grand.

Tomorrow, the last day under the old management, the stunning musical comedy, "Vanity Fair," will be produced.

OBITUARY

ESTELLE EVA RISHOR

The death occurred this morning of Estelle Eva Schneider, wife of Mr. Chas. Rishor, 166 London Street, and youngest daughter of the late Geo. Schneider.

Besides her sorrowing husband she leaves three sons, Maxwell overseas. George and Noell of this city. She also leaves two brothers, Frank and George also of this city.

Mrs. Rishor was an active worker in St. Paul's Church.

The funeral will be held on Monday at two o'clock to the Little Lake Cemetery.

The petitions to the Quebec Legislature asking for stronger beer now carry 80,000 names.

ORATORY NOT SO POPULAR TODAY

HARD WORK RATHER THAN ELOQUENCE IS RULE IN THE HOUSE.

Ottawa, Feb. 28.—In these days of active legislative building, when problems of great moment take up the time and attention of the men in Parliament, there seems little opportunity for feats of oratory in the forum. The House of Commons now in session here and facing a program of the heaviest nature, promises to recall little enough of the glamor that mighty men of words have given to the name "Parliament."

It may be that the day has dawned when eloquent deliverance is not so important as it once was. The weight of a public man's speech today is judged not so much by the applause of his immediate auditors as by the amount of space he secures in the press. For instance, no man is quoted so generously as President Wilson, who lacks the fluency and fire of the traditional orator. But Wilson addresses a wide audience. He keeps in the forefront of political progress. The biggest portion of his audience never sees nor hears him.

Oratory is not so necessary today as once upon a time. Ideas are eloquent, thoughts stir the throng. Around the evening fires of the people's homes, where the vast audience gathers each night, there is no occasion for loud and prolonged cheers. The applause that counts is agreement and conviction, won by presentation of the facts. It is not audible, but it is very impressive.

On the first day of Parliament this week there was no approach to an historic oration. It will be said that, with Laurier gone and other great debaters overseas, not outstanding speaker was left. That is not so. There are still men in the House capable of rising to heights of declamation, but the old reasons for eloquence do not exist, nor does the old opportunity for it.

Every public man today speaks under the giant sounding-board of the daily press. Rapid communication and printing, with the huge circulation of big newspapers, has enlarged the public forum so that no man's silver tongue and golden throat can strike the fire of enthusiasm formerly invoked. The importance of the hundreds who listen is dwarfed by the importance of the hundreds of thousands who watch and read. The matter in a speech means immensely more than the manner of its delivery. And over every public meeting now here broods this sense of the vastness of the theatre, making the auditors thoughtful and the speakers wary of their task.

Cabinet Ministers today are immersed in a feverish round of pressing duties. The only way to win back the pomp and sway of Parliamentary oratory would be to divide up the Cabinet, with a squad of "shock troops" to lead the way in debate.

Deaths From Ful Equal War Losses

London, Feb. 28. — In the last four years about 700,000 of the pick of the British race were lost on the battlefield, declared Dr. Christopher Addison, President of the Local Government Board, in moving in the House of Commons Wednesday the second reading of the bill to create a Ministry of Health, and in October, November and December of last year the mortality from influenza in the United Kingdom was as high as the average monthly losses during the war from war causes. Under the terms of the bill, the Minister said, the various Health and Insurance Bureaus which are now connected with the Local Government Board, the Home Office and the Ministry of Pensions would be amalgamated. In regard to the poor law, it was proposed to thus disentangle sickness from destitution. Dr. Addison said he was prepared to make the bill applicable to Ireland as far as he could.

C. E. Linton, of Kingston, a veteran carriage builder died suddenly on Barrie street. He was 59 years of age.

The Manitoba Government has been asked for a commission to investigate the whole question of shortage of teachers, causes and possible remedies.

All the World recognizes the Pathephone as the Greatest of all Phonographs —and why? Hear TWO phonographs playing, one after the other, and playing the same Records. THEN you will agree that one is— a PHONOGRAPH, to leave it at least its name—AND THAT THE OTHER IS A

Pathephone

Listening to one TO-DAY, to the other a week LATER, the untrained ear might not always note the great difference;—but hear them together and the superiority of the Pathephone will be immediately apparent: it is like setting up dross against GOLD! The Pathephone, built with ideals of ART and TRUTH, renders the art and truth of MUSIC at its BEST!

Period Design Pathephone "WILLIAM & MARY" Price $300.00 in Mahogany and Walnut

The wonderful inventive genius that brought the Pathephone to its perfection and has maintained it ever in the lead, has manifested itself in several remarkable devices, such as the Sapphire Ball, which not only greatly improves the tone, but also does away with needle-changing and ensures long life to the Record, and the tone modulator, permitting you to augment or decrease the volume of tone at your pleasure. Then, there is the ingenious device which makes it possible to play ANY make of Record!

You must hear the Pathephone to realize what a wonderful and artistic Music Maker it is. It is splendidly built in modern as well as in Period designs. They are exquisite examples of the Furniture maker's art, and still they cost LESS than ordinary Phonographs and are sold on terms of payment which make buying convenient.

MEMBERS FOR INCREASE IN SESSIONAL SALARY

Present Indemnity of $2,500 Should Be Raised to $3,500 Owing to the High Cost of Living.

Ottawa, Feb. 27. — Government supporters in both Houses gathered in full caucus yesterday and continued in close conference until the dinner hour. W. S. Fielding was not present.

The movement to have the sessional indemnity increased from $2,500 to $3,500 per annum was mentioned at this caucus. Members claim that with the cost of living doubled throughout the country, and accentuated at the capital for temporary residents by the shortage of accommodation they are unable if a session is prolonged "to make both ends meet." Several previous efforts have been made on the part of members to have their indemnity enlarged, but without success.

Mr. J. E. Armstrong presided at the caucus, and Sir Thomas White addressed it.

Mr W. S. Middlebro, the Chief Government Whip, stated at its conclusion that the discussion had been "most harmonious."

"The spirit displayed augurs well for the permanent unity of the party," he said. "It was the best and most encouraging expression of opinion regarding the solidity of the Government party that I have ever heard in a caucus."

It was decided to leave the larger questions over to be passed upon by special caucuses. There were some references to the tariff question, and it is stated by one of the prominent members, that a leading manufacturer, who is also a member of Parliament, made the suggestion that to effect a compromise between the East and the West on this important matter, the tariff should be reduced.

Legal, But Constables Are Liable For Damages

Toronto, Feb. 28. — A letter to Mayor Church protesting that under the O.T.A. constables could search the grips or other baggage of consuls of foreign countries was read to the Board of Control.

City Solicitor Johnston stated that under the act officers charged with its enforcement had the right to search grips. "If they find liquor they can prosecute, and if they do not they can be sued for damages providing a jury decides they did not use proper discretion," the solicitor said.

Con. Cameron—"The O. T. A. overrides every other act. It goes too far. There is nothing in the B.N.A. that permits search of travellers' baggage. I'd like to see them try it on me. There would be two of us in jail."

Dr. H. Platt of Picton, Ont., is dead.

UNIONIST GOVERNMENT SEEMS LIKELY TO HANG TOGETHER

Good Feeling Prevailed at Caucus Held Yesterday—Early Plebiscite on Prohibition Is Probable.

Ottawa, Feb. 28. — Plain speaking and constructive criticism marked the deliberations of the Government caucus yesterday, but, from what can be gathered, the Government and private members alike are well satisfied with the result. In fact, so well satisfied are they that it has been decided that further caucuses at regular intervals will be held, and that practically no action will be taken by the Government on new legislative matters without the members being acquainted with the nature of it.

To Discuss Issues.

Indeed, one of the chief matters of criticism related to the fact that in the past members were required to vote in the House on questions regarding which they had never been consulted, especially on questions involving heavy public expenditures. Another caucus will be held one week from yesterday and thereafter it is intended that each important issue shall have a day of discussion to itself. This refers especially to the tariff, which was discussed but tentatively this morning, on the understanding that an entire caucus would later be devoted to it.

Giving Coin to Provinces.

There was it is said an element of caucus which strongly criticized the Government's policy of handing money over to the Provinces for expenditure on roads, housing, etc. An insignificant element even went so far as to object to the policy on the ground that the greater number of the Provinces were Liberal and only half-hearted in their support of the Government. In fact, probably, the only discordant note in the caucus was the claim of some that the Government if it were to stand should pre-empt to itself once more the old prerogative of patronage.

Unionists To Stick.

On the question of prohibition, it is stated the majority of the members of the caucus favored the holding of a referendum as soon as possible, with the provision that alternative proposals looking toward the restriction of the liquor traffic might be voted on.

The general impression is that the Unionist members, barring accidents or quite unforeseen developments, will hold together during the session, although with party lines still in a state of flux.

(Special Correspondence.)

Havelock, Feb. 28.—Donald, the ten year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Forde of Toronto, passed away in that city on Friday morning of last week from rheumatism of the heart. The funeral took place at Toronto on Monday, and was attended by Mr. David Forde of town, brother of Mr. Percy Forde. Havelock friends extend sympathy.

24 Hour Telephone System

An effort is being made to secure enough subscribers for the telephone system, so that a 24 hour service may be instituted. The movement is meeting with great success, and Mr. Harold Francis who is the energetic father of the idea, feels confident that the required number will soon be obtained. A telephone in the home, when a 24 hour service may be obtained, is a necessity in almost every home.

Father and Son Banquet

Last Thursday night a unique banquet was held in the basement of the Methodist Church when a large number of men and boys sat down to a banquet and spent a most enjoyable evening together. For some time past the boys of the Methodist Sunday School have been carrying on the standard Canadian efficiency test as outlined by the National Council of Boys Work of Ontario, and it is a credit to them that the recent banquet was such a decided success. The object of the evening was to further boys work and to enlist the sympathy and co-operation of the fathers in the work that is being done for the boys. The objective is to teach boys to think and only in so far as it is possible to teach boys to think right thoughts for themselves, is it possible to prepare them for the battle of life—which is a contest of thinking. Mr. A. C. Denike was in the chair and the speaker of the evening was one of the officials of the movement, Mr. Vaughan of Toronto.

FORTY THOUSAND WIDOWS IN CANADA AS RESULT OF WAR

And as Many Other Women Who Will Require Help That Salvation Army Is Ready to Give.

Montreal, Feb. 28.—"There are 40,000 widows in this country, the product of this war," said Commissioner Richards, head of the Salvation Army in Canada, "and there are an additional 40,000 young women in Canada who will not be married because there are no husbands for them," he continued. Nature will not stop. This is not a time to hide our heads behind our hands and exclaim, 'Oh, this is a moral question,' because it has to be faced. We know many of these women will give birth to fatherless children and who is to provide for them?"

"The Salvation Army looks at this matter from a different standpoint to the others," he continued. "I do not mean to say that other people do not see but perhaps the Salvation Army sees further than most people. At any rate we are going to provide for these women.

Looking After Mothers.

"There are some returned soldiers inefficient, too poor to provide sufficient accommodation for their wives to be properly confined. I was speaking to the medicos at Halifax and they admitted that there was here a great danger of the pre-natal influence. The mother, if in want and worrying about the future, will transmit that to the child before birth and the child will come into the world defective in some way and either grow up to be a burden to the state or society, or die before it reaches maturity."

He said that in Australia and New Zealand the respective governments look upon a child as an asset to the state and grant £5 to each child born and besides this subsidizes the Salvation Army who takes the fatherless children and rears and educates them until they are 17 years of age and then turns them out into the world equipped to battle with life.

In Halifax a site has been given the Army by Dalhousie College valued at $26,000 and funds have been raised for the erection of a splendid maternity hospital. In Toronto a similar hospital costing $250,000 is being erected by the Army.

Not Satisfied With Progress.

"The Army has never been satisfied with the amount of work it was enabled to do in Montreal. Somehow or other we get up against a stone wall every now and again," said Commissioner Richards. "We secured a site here one time but the neighbors objected and we had to abandon it; later we got another site where the present hospital stands and we are not permitted to enlarge it on account of the objection of the neighbors, but we hope that with the business men of the city behind us in this campaign that we will be able to get that permission and build something that will be a credit to Montreal. A small thing is not good for a city like Montreal."

In Montreal the Army has within the past few days secured a man and a woman to attend the police court each day and take charge of such of the prisoners who are up for petty offences that the magistrate will turn over to them. The building in University street, near the Army headquarters, formerly used by the Immigration authorities, has been secured recently by the Army and this is being fitted up to take care of the women who are secured from the police court and a similar place will be found for the men taken over.

EX-KAISER WAS RICHEST GERMAN

In January, 1914, when the first war levy was made in Germany, the Kaiser was the richest person in that country, with an estimated fortune of $98,500,000. Next came the Grand Duke of Mecklinburgh-Strallitz, with $89,000,000, and Frau Krupp von Bohlen, with $80,000,000.

Houses owned by the Kaiser in Berlin were valued at $14,500,000, while castles and lands in other parts of Prussia were valued at $27,500,000.

It would not be easy to realize on these assets even if they were not confiscated by the new German government, but his other assets were enormous. He was, for example, one of the largest stockholders of Kruppa and had investments in many other commercial enterprises, notably shipping companies and export business in general.

The foundation of the present Hohenzollern fortune was laid by Frederick William III., the ex-Kaiser's great-grandfather. After the Napoleonic wars Frederick William III. set about restoring the Hohenzollern private fortune and left about $5,000,000 to his son.

In the next half century this sum was judiciously handled and William II. came to the throne with excellent prospects. He was just as good a business man as he was a war lord and retired with nearly $100,000,000 on paper.

His great trouble seems to have been that in his division of interests he overlooked the possibility of the war lord speculation, forcing the prosperous and growing business into bankruptcy. Bank cashiers have tried the same combination with equally disastrous results. And now there is talk of extraditing William.

NEW FARMER MEMBERS IN THE ONTARIO LEGISLATURE

Two of These Frankly Acknowledge Fealty to the Liberal Party.

Toronto, Feb. 28.—On the back benches of the Opposition, on the west side of the House, sit three new members of the Ontario Legislature, elected in bye-elections since the close of the last session. Two of them, Messrs. J. A. Calder, of North Oxford, and W. H. Fraser, of North Huron, describe themselves as Farmer-Liberals, holding the endorsation of two parties. The third is Beniah Bowman, of Manitoulin, the youngest member of the House, a straight United Farmer candidate who proved a story petrel at the opening of the House on Tuesday, and who was finally introduced by the chief whips from the two established parties.

Mr. Bowman is a ruddy-faced man of youthful appearance, and admits that he hardly feels at home in the House as yet. He stands upon the platform of the United Farmers in every detail.

"Does that include endorsation of the Ontario Temperance Act?" he was asked.

"Yes, the U.F.O. have endorsed the measure, although favoring the submission of a referendum as soon as the men return from overseas."

"And the extension to women, of the right to sit in the House?"

"Yes, that also is included in our platform."

Mr. Bowman had nothing to say in regard to several other questions including that of the political truce, and whether its continuation was desirable. He stands prepared to support any measure, by which rural Ontario will benefit.

Mr. J. A. Calder, of North Oxford, is another comparatively young member. Although elected as a Liberal candidate, he received the U.F.O. endorsation also, and is therefore entitled to style himself, as he does, a Farmer-Liberal. He is a great believer in blunt, straight-forward speaking, in calling an axe an axe and a spade a spade. It is largely for this reason that he sees no need for a continuance of the political truce, which has existed at Queen's Park during the last year, considering that the political fight might as well be renewed at the present time as six months from now.

Mr. Calder endorses the Government's temperance policy, except for the fact that he considers some check should be placed on the wholesale issue of doctors' prescriptions. He agrees with the policy of a referendum, feeling that if any amendments are to be enacted meanwhile, their tendency should be to strengthen the Act rather than to lessen its restrictions.

Mr. Calder designated the Government's housing policy as "Very foolish." He states that there are hundreds of unoccupied houses throughout the country districts of Ontario. Higher wages, more amusements and more attractive living conditions, has been the lure that has drawn a large percentage of the rural population into city life of late, and to this Mr. Calder attributes the shortage of houses in the large urban centres. He points out that a return to normal conditions is necessary if the land is to be properly cultivated.

Mr. Calder is also in favor of allowing women to sit in the House.

"If we grant them the vote, we must allow them that also," he said.

Another debutante direct from the U.F.O. school, who has not yet made his bow to Parliament, is J. W. Widdifield, of North Ontario, who was elected only last week, and who is not yet entitled to take his seat, as the official returns from his riding have not been made. Mr. Widdifield expects the certified figures to reach him soon, however, and is certain of being introduced to claim his seat, before the end of the week. Meanwhile, he evinces a tendency to be wary of publicity, defining his platform as being strictly in line with that of the United Farmers' Party.

WOOD PRICES DROP

Dealers Report a Decrease of $1 a Cord

There is a slight rift in the high cost of living cloud. Some fuel dealers report a drop in the price of wood from $10 to 9 a cord for mixed and from $13 to $12 a cord for hard wood. No change in the price of coal has so far been registered.

Fire broke out in Broadway Drill Hall, Windsor, yesterday, and in a few minutes the building was destroyed. The cause of the fire is as yet unknown.

A civic reception at the Armouries is planned for Sir Sam Hughes when he arrives in Windsor Saturday afternoon.

ANNOUNCEMENT

MR. H. W. STOCK announces to the customers that the baking business heretofore carried on as WM. STOCK & SONS, has been incorporated into a Joint Stock Company and Mr. Stock will be President of the Company, Mr. James Dutton will continue his position as Superintendent and Mr. Percy Stock who has been three years overseas, part of the time in the Royal Air Service, and who was wounded and discharged, will act as Assistant General Manager.

On account of the bread business of William Stock and Sons having increased to such large proportions it was found necessary to incorporate it into a Company, which will carry on the business with the same standard of service as given up to the present time. It is not the intention of the Company to carry on any other business except bread making, but to give every attention to increasing its output and the development of the business which has already had a most striking growth.

This Company is a purely Peterborough Company and Wm. Stock & Sons, have been known for the last quarter of a century as being at the front with up-to-date methods, sanitary appliances and large and well ventilated bakeries in which the Company will continue to carry on bread manufacturing.

AURA LEE TEAM AGAIN BEATEN

U. T. S. QUALIFY TO MEET CORNWALL IN O.H.A. SEMI-FINALS.

Toronto, Feb. 28.—Before one of the largest crowds to attend a junior fixture here this season, University Schools last night qualified to meet Cornwall in the O. H. A. semi-finals when they defeated Aura Lee 4 to 2, and won the round by 3 goals. The winners showed grand form from beginning to end and clearly demonstrated that they are worthy of their laurels.

The game proved of the thrilling variety and the spectators were on their feet the greater part of the time. The University Schools Rooter's Club were there in large numbers and cheered themselves hoarse as it became apparent that the Blue and White were bound to win. Aura Lee gave the best that they had, every player working with a will, but they could make little headway against the fierce backchecking of the U. T. S. forwards, the stonewall Munro-Rowell defence of the ace of junior goalkeepers, Joe Sullivan.

The losers started out fast and kept up a continuous bombardment on the U.T.S. citadel, but without success. During the first five minutes play was in the Blue Shirts' territory 95 per cent of the time, but Sullivan unscathed. After eighteen minutes of the first period had elapsed Aggett put his team two goals up on the round when he beat Devitt with a wicked shot. Thereafter it was an uphill struggle for Aura Lee, but try as they would they were unequal to the task!

Loser's Force Play

Aura Lee forced the play from the face-off and swept in on the U.T.S. defense like hornets, but Sullivan was right on his mettle and turned everything aside. Rowell and Munro got away for an occasional dash from end to end, but for the most part play was in U. T. S. territory. After eighteen minutes of battling Aggett took a pass and from twenty feet out beat Devitt with a wicked waist-high shot. There was no further scoring in this period.

The teams cut out a fast pace in the final period and finally Rutherford beat Sullivan on a shot that the little goaler never saw. With Aura Lee battling with might and main to pull the game from the fire Aggett dashed down the side and placed the issue beyond dispute by notching the fourth and final goal. Connacher lessened his teams chances a trifle from behind when he drew two penalties in rapid succession in the final moments of the game. The teams:—

U. T. S. —Goal, Sullivan; defense Rowell and Munro; left wing, Gresy; right wing, Jeffreys; centre Aggett. Substitutes—Kearns and Gunn.

IRELAND AT WAR WITH ENGLAND

AMERICAN CARDINAL PRESENTS RESOLUTION TO THIS EFFECT AT CONVENTION

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 28.—A resolution presented by Cardinal Gibbons urging the Peace Congress to apply to Ireland the doctrine of national self-determination and a declaration of principles demanding that if any league of nations be created, all features which may infringe on the traditional American policy, including the Monroe Doctrine shall be eliminated, were adopted unanimously at the closing session of the convention of the Irish race in America.

The declaration says a state of war exists between England and Ireland, "which in the interests of the peace of the world the Peace Conference cannot ignore."

The cardinal, who recently celebrated his golden jubilee commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of his entrance into the priesthood of the Catholic Church, presented the document without a formal speech, asserting that his "advanced years and consequent infirmities" rendered him incapable of making such an effort.

Freedom in the Air

"I hold my hands," said the Cardinal, "a resolution on behalf of Ireland which should appeal to every lover of liberty and justice.

"My friends, there is liberty in the air. The nations of the earth are clamoring for liberty. And why should not freedom loving Ireland join in the general cry. Yes, Ireland wants freedom to breathe the air of stretch her brawny and sinewy arms. She wants freedom to develop her resources. She wants freedom to develop the riches of her soil. She wants freedom to carve out her own destiny.

"As we are here today to plead the cause of Ireland's sons and daughters that they may stand erect, redeemed, regenerated and disenthralled on their own sacred soil."

DUTY ON TRACTORS.

Must Be Levied if Industry is To Survive.

Brantford, Feb. 28.—John Muir, head of the Goold, Shapley Muir Co., of this city, declared that if the manufacture of tractors was to be developed or even continued in Canada, a reasonable tariff protection would have to be afforded the industry. The tariff was removed as a war measure over a year ago, and conditions were now changed. Mr. Muir stated that the big American firms, as a matter of policy, were selling their machines in the Canadian West cheaper than in their own country, and Canadian manufacturers were scarcely able to keep up with this competition. A 15 per cent. duty instead of the former one of 27½ per cent., was considered reasonable.

DO POLITICIANS PRAY

Higher Citizenship Needed to Christianize the World

Toronto, Feb. 28.—"How many of our politicians are praying men?" was the question asked by Dr. Wearing, principal of Woodstock University, in the course of his address at the close of his address at the closing session of the Baptits Conference in Jarvis Street Church. He spoke of the great need of Christian leaders in both political and business life.

The responsibility of training the children in the homes so that they may lead Christian lives and become a power for good in the country was seriously touched upon by the speakers, who included Prof. J. H. Farmer and Rev. F. W. Stewart, of St. Catharines.

Mining Institute In This District

BRANCH FORMED AT DELORO AND OFFICERS ELECTED FOR YEAR.

At Deloro, Ont., Feb. 19, a branch of the Canadian Mining Institute was formed, to be known as the "Hastings District Branch" Canadian Mining Institute, the boundaries to cover the following centres and surrounding district:

Deloro and Marmora. Madoc. Tweed and Sulphide. Kingston, Belleville and Trenton. Havelock and Cordova Mines.

The following officers were elected for the coming year:

Chairman—S. B. Wright, Deloro.
Vice-Chairman—Geo. H. Gillespie, Madoc.
Sec-Treas.—R. A. Elliott, Deloro.
Councillors:—
Kingston—Prof. McKay, Queen's University.
Belleville—J. W. Evans.
Tweed—W. H. DeBlois.
Havelock—G. W. Rayner.
Madoc.—S. Wellington.
Deloro—R. A. McNally.

It was decided to hold monthly meetings at the different centres at which anyone interested in Mining and Moetallurgy would be welcome. At these meetings papers on subjects connected with the mining industry will be read. Discussions will take place on local topics and ever effort will be made to bring the advantages and possibilities of this district before the Mining and Metallurgical World. Student members of the Canadian Mining Institute will be enrolled in this branch free, and any person wishing to secure membership should get in touch with the local councillor for their district or communicate with the secretary.

This district has a great future in the production of economic minerals & it is up to the local people to interest themselves, or others will come from outside and take the cream, therefore when a local meeting of this Institute is advertised in any of the above centres take advantage of the opportunity to become acquainted with what this branch of the Canadian Mining Institute is doing to boost the Hastings district.

EAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS

Take a glass of Salts to Flush Kidneys if bladder bothers you.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acid in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; make a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

WAY TO HOLD BALL PLAYERS IS TO TREAT THEM PROPERLY

Magnate Jim Dunn of the Cleveland Indians Has a Plan Which Prevents Holdouts

There is one magnate in major league baseball who has no holdout problem for the simple reason that there never are any holdouts on his ball club. His name is Smiling Jim Dunn, of the Cleveland Indians.

"How do you eliminate the holdout problem from your ball club?" was asked of President Dunn.

"That's easy," replied the Cleveland club owner. "I treat 'em right and they have no come back. I beat 'em to it."

Dunn has reversed the motto of the tankers in the world war—"treat 'em rough"—he's getting results just as did those intrepid fighters.

That Dunn has eliminated the holdout problem from his ball club is shown in the case of Smoky Joe Wood, veteran pitcher, and in other instances. This player used to be a chronic kicker for a higher stipend and his protests were periodic.

Wood was completely cured of the holdout malady by the medicine given him by the Cleveland baseball club specialist. This medicine was a combination of proper treatment and a monetary compromise. It should be tried by other magnates. The wholesale manner in which players of many clubs are holding aloof from their contracts and the absence of a real holdout on the Cleveland club emphasizes the value of the Dunn remedy.

This subject bobbed up today when President Dunn was asked if Tris Speaker was a holdout. The Indian chieftain answered in the negative. He replied that he and Speaker was on the best of terms and that his renowned center fielder had no complaint. This is borne out in recent letters from players to the Cleveland baseball writers.

"As for Speaker well Spoke never will have any salary row with James C. Dunn, owner of the Indians," says Ed Bang of the Cleveland News, ain his Quaker lineup.

close critic of conditions on the American league team in the Forest City "Jim and Spoke are firm friends and each had a mind to be fair in his dealings with the other."

Dunn was asked about several other players and denied that they were holdouts.

"Have you any holdouts on your ball club?" was asked.

"Not that I know about," replied the railroad builder.

Wood, who used to pester Boston club owners with holdout demands, said recently that there was no chance of his ever having an argument with Jim Dunn on the salary question. He declared Dunn had convinced him, in the two years he had been with the Indians, that he wanted to be 100 per cent. fair with the players and that he would just as soon sign a contract with blanks where the figures should be and permit the Cleveland owner to write in his own numerals, as he knew the boss would give him a square deal.

Wood long has been considered one of the smartest ball players in the American league and no player, especially a smart one, would make an assertion like that unless he was sure of his magnate.

Bobby Roth, it turns out, is not a holdout. It was understood some time ago he would be swapped to some team in the American league. Bobby was informed that he would not be embarrassed by being kept and compelled to play for a manager with whom he had been on the warpath. A three cornered deal among the Boston, Cleveland and Philadelphia American league clubs has practically been completed. Roth is the pivot about which this swap swings. He is headed for Boston to take the place of Duffy Lewis. Manager Barrow of the Red Sox has a number of players whom Manager Mack wants

LOOK FOR REVIVAL THIS YEAR IN HORSE RACING

Unless Cabinet at Ottawa Takes Further Action This Sport and Betting on it Will Be Carried on as Before the War.

Toronto, Feb. 28.—Horse racing will come back in May of this year unless Ottawa intervenes. The matter has not been considered by the cabinet, but the order-in-council that prohibited gambling on the tracks was worded to expire six months after the cessation of hostilities. Unless the cabinet takes further action racing and betting will be in vogue again as before the war. If any further action is taken, according to advices from Ottawa, it is likely to include a ban on bookmaking and the limitation of the number of tracks in each locality.

Situation at Windsor.

However, the "reconstruction" of racing does bid fair to be an interesting feature at the coming session of parliament. The ball was started rolling at a hot meeting of the friends and opponents of racing in the Border City chamber of commerce in Windsor, when the members of that body passed a resolution to have no further discussions on turf matters. The discussion at Windsor was precipitated when it was rumored around the city last week that a stock company was being formed to take over the Devonshire race track and open the same for racing the moment the law allows it. This gave the enemies of racing their chance to bring their opposition before the public, and Contractor Westcott, who sponsored a resolution to ask the government to continue the order-in-council prohibiting racing, has intimated that he will carry his fight for Ottawa.

Deputation of "Antis".

Headed by Archdeacon Ingles, chairman of the Toronto committee and W. E. Raney, K.C., solicitor for the social service department of the Methodist church, a large anti-racing deputation will go to Ottawa within a fortnight to fight any effort which may be made to have racing resumed in Canada under the old order. On the deputation, which will make Ottawa its headquarters for some time will be representatives of the anti-racing interests in Hamilton, London, Windsor, Niagara Falls and Port Erie.

"We are never going to permit it," said Mr. Raney, "a return to a rehabilitation of the racetrack gambling which we have had in the past in this country, for we do not believe that the public will stand for it.

To Go the Limit.

"We are not going to bother asking the government to continue the racing in this country. We are going to go much deeper. We will return to our position in 1910. We will urge the government to repeal the section of the criminal code which permits legalized gambling on licensed race courses in this country. We are going to ask the government to make betting on the race tracks just as illegal as it is now in a handbook or in a pool room.

"This is what we asked of the government in 1910, before the committee, which at that time reported in favor of our bill to kill race track gambling. The present lieutenant-governor of Ontario, however, headed a lobby, which was successful in having the house not adopt the bill by one vote. The time has arrived now, and we are determined to put up our best fight to have the criminal code altered so that legalized betting on race tracks or anywhere else will be a thing of the past.

Approve Personal Wagering.

"We are not going to interfere unduly with the habits of the people as to personal betting," said Mr. Raney, remarking at the time that he could see no real harm to the public in private or personal betting, even at a race track.

Mr. Raney was not in a position to give the names of the deputation. The personnel was at present under consideration.

FOOTBALL RIVALS IN HOCKEY MATCH

BANKERS DEFEAT THE COLLEGIATE STUDENTS BY SCORE OF 5-4.

Those old rivals on the hockey field, the two teams, Bankers and P. C. I., were antagonists last night in a hockey match, played on the Brock street rink, between 5 and 6. The best ice on which a P.C.I. team has played this winter, and the largest crowd, about 150, which has witnessed a Collegiate game were there last night, the Bankers being victors at the end, with the big part of a 9 goal game.

The playing was fast from whistle to whistle, both teams being out to win the game. The game was remarkably clean. Mr. V. R. Henry, of the Collegiate Institute staff, who acted as referee, handing out only one penalty, which went to S. Hagerman in the first period.

The first goal was scored by Hunter who shot the puck into Mahood's nets from the centre of a scramble before the goal, but Eaton soon evened it up for the Bankers, with Parks driving in another one for P.C.I. a little later. Just before the ball sounded the end of the first period S. Hagerman passed to Eaton before P. C. I.'s nets, and Jack slammed it in.

In the second period Hagerman soon notched another for the Bankers, but the score was evened up when Park scored again for the boys from Central Park, a goal which was immediately followed by another for the seniors, after knowledge, shot in by R. Stevens. During the rest of the period Eaton scored another goal, thus tying the game. But before the bell rang S. Hagerman, coming from behind Catchpole's nets, slipped one in from the side.

Eaton was the star last night, scoring three of the Bankers' five goals, while Parks starring for P.C.I. scored two of P.C.I.'s four goals.

There was quite a bit of substituting done by both sides, the goalers being the only fellows on the ice throughout the game, but the line up in general was:

Bankers—Goal, A. Mahood (Royal Bank); centre, J. Eaton (Bank of Nova Scotia); left wing, S. Henry (Bank of Montreal); right wing, S. Hagerman (Bank of Nova Scotia); right defence, S. MacNeilly (Royal bank); left defence, A. Sharpe; subs, J. Thirnbeck, J. Taylor (Dominion Bank).

P. C. I.—Goal, Alvin Catchpole; left wing, R. Hunt; right wing, R. Stevens; centre, B. Park; right defence, K. Harstone; left defence, C. Armstrong; subs., H. Hunter, M. Cottingham, D. Fitzgerald.

Referee—Mr. V. R. Henry.

BASEBALL HERE NEXT SUMMER

PROSPECTS ARE ALL IN FAVOR OF STRONG DISTRICT LEAGUE.

Mr. M. J. Dedman, treasurer of the Lindsay Baseball League, received a communication from Mr. Jake Solomon of Peterborough, relative to organizing a purely amateur baseball league, the same to comprise the towns of Peterborough, Port Hope, Cobourg and Lindsay.

Plans are very indefinite as yet, but it is understood the intention is to play the games either by twilight (taking advantage of daylight saving) or Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Solomon has been assured that Lindsay will be a member of the league, and a meeting of baseball fans will be called to talk matters over in that town.

Mr. Jake Solomon has also received letters from Cobourg and other towns stating that they will enter teams in the new Midland League which he is organizing for this summer. Oshawa, Port Hope and Bowmanville are also expected to enter teams.

A meeting of those interested will be held in the near future. Everything points to a successful ball season this year. It is to be hoped that there will also be a city league here. The league will be run on strictly amateur lines.

Local Curlers In District Finals

Toronto, Feb. 28.—This morning at the Granite Rink the final of the District Cup was played between Peterborough and High Park of Toronto. The first round and semi-finals were played yesterday, when London Thistles and Owen Sound defaulted, leaving Peterborough, High Park, Cobourg, Orillia, Dundas, and Guelph Royal City to battle it out.

Yesterday afternoon Peterborough administered a decisive beating to Dundas by 50 to 22, but Orillia and High Park engaged in the best game of the competition. D. M. Clark's High Park rink was victor over the Orillia four skipped by John Carruthers, by 18 to 10, while A. B. Thompson's Orillias downed H. M. Patton's men by 16 to 9, High Park thus being up eight shots on one rink and down seven on the other. After the twelfth end the score was exceedingly close. When Carruthers played his last stone the other rinks had finished and High Park lay one shot. The game depended on this stone, but the Orillia skip was wide with it, and the game ended in favor of the white clubs by a single shot. Scores:

Lakefield School Defeats Warsaw

The Lakefield Preparatory School Hockey team defeated Warsaw team on the Lakefield ice Thursday afternoon, the score being 11-8. The Grove school has been undefeated in ten games played this season. The Warsaw team played Lakefield five years ago. Lakefield line up was as follows:

Goal, Smith; defence, James, Hamilton; forwards, Hamilton, McKenzie and McDonald.

CANADIENS WIN FROM SENATORS

FLYING FRENCHMEN OUTPLAY SENATORS ON LAURIER ICE AND WIN 5—3.

Ottawa, Feb. 28.—George Kennedy and his Canadiens took a strangle hold on the championship of the N. H. L. last night when they defeated the locals by 5 to 3, thus making it two straight in the post-season series to decide which all star Eastern teams shall go West to play against Vancouver for the Stanley Cup. The series now stands 2-2 in the Canadiens and in order to tie it up Ottawa must vanquish the Montreal team at the Arena rink Saturday night, then win again here in the fourth game on Monday next.

Last night's defeat came as a blow to the Ottawa club and all the players, but on the hour's play Laviolette and his team-mates deserved the battle, as they out-generalled the home team, showed a superior brand of hockey throughout the match and were particularly strong and steady in the pinches.

The Senators on the other hand lacked their usual aggressiveness and were outskated time and time again by the flashy red shirts.

O. Cleghorn Scores Two.

Both teams came out strong for the third, but play had only been in progress one minute when a shadow descended over the Ottawa's prospect Pacific coast jaunt. Boucher nearly scored from the face-off and Corbeau carried it down. Boucher chased Berlinquette into a corner and the Canadian man slipped the puck to Odie Cleghorn, who was apparently locked by Cameron in front of the Ottawa nets. In some way Cleghorn got free and slapped the puck in, while the crowd groaned. It was a gift, though Cleghorn played it cleverly. In five minutes O. Cleghorn got another goal for the Frenchmen. That made it four to two and Cleghorn also got the next one. Ottawa tried hard to overcome the lead, but it was an impossible task, and their only following goal fell to Cy. Denneny, who went through unassisted and tallied from close quarters.

Referees, Harvey Pulford and Charlie McKinley.

Lindsay Curlers Fail To Arrive

Curlers from Lindsay, who had been expected to arrive in the city today to play off the Peterborough end of the Peterborough-Lindsay rink competition were unable to come, although the Lindsay end of the game is being played in that town today, the four local rinks who went to Bobcaygeon yesterday to play the return end in the Fitzgerald-Burnfield contest.

The Marconi wireless station at Barriefield is being used to send messages about troops returning from overseas. A quick method of communicating with Ottawa has been arranged.

FOUGHT OUT BITTER GAME

Vancouver Retains Its Lead in Pacific Coast League

Seattle, Wash, Feb. 28.—Vancouver retained its lead in the Pacific Coast League in a struggle, which will go down in the archives of history as one of the bitterest games ever contested in this city. The strong feeling between the contestants culminated in clashes between opposing players, which resulted in the injury of Mickey, MacKay, Vancouver forward, and the fining of "Cully" Wilson, Seattle wing, for assaulting the visiting rover. The score was 3 to 1.

"The Pierrot Players"

COMING TO "THE GRAND"—AUGMENTED LADIES ORCHESTRA

Every standard high class entertainment has its bright spots when every line spoken, every situation created causes chuckles of laughter on all sides, and unfortunately for the muse it has its weak spots. But think of a performance that contains the cream of twenty distinct musical productions woven together by bright dialogue, melodious song, and sprightly dance. This is the unusual performance of the Famous English Pierrot Plays at the Grand Opera House, Wednesday, March 5 with popular price matinee, a positive novelty in stage attraction that delights the theatregoer who has so often been disappointed. In New York the Washington Square players are creating a niche in the dramatic field and their big brother the Pierrot Players are doing the same thing in the musical sphere. Each number in this performance is a gem, a charming combination of fun that is really funny and singing that is really singing. The cast headed by Eugene Lockhart late of the Reviera Girl Co., are augmented by a special ladies orchestra.

NOT A PARTICLE OF DANDRUFF OR A FALLING HAIR

SAVE YOUR HAIR! DOUBLE ITS BEAUTY IN JUST A FEW MOMENTS.

"DANDERINE" MAKES YOUR HAIR THICK, GLOSSY, WAVY AND BEAUTIFUL.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair, and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow, long, strong and beautiful.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter for a few cents and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

Will Be Held in George Street Church Monday With Special Services Sunday.

The Sunday School workers of Peterboro have been exceptionally active during the last week preparing for their big annual convention which will be held in George Street Methodist Church next Monday, March 3rd, commencing at 9 a.m. and continuing right through what will be one of the most important days for those men and women who have the responsibility of the spiritual and moral training of our children in the Sunday School.

The Convention will really start on Sunday, March 2nd when the pulpits will be supplied as follows:

11 a.m.—St. Andrews Presbyterian Church.—Rev. P. K. Dayfoot, M.A.; George St. Methodist Church—Rev. T. A. Halpenny, B.A.; St. James' Methodist Church — Rev. C. A. Meyers, B. A.

7 p.m.—Murray st. Baptist Church—Rev. P. K. Dayfoot, M. A.; Mark St. Methodist Church—Rev. C. A. Meyers, B. A.; Bethany Tabernacle—Rev. T. A. Halpenny, B. A.

Contrary to the general custom of mankind to rest on the Sabbath these ministers will have a very strenuous day for, when the Ministerial Association got through allotting pulpits to them, the Sunday School workers got busy and arranged for the afternoon as follows:

3 p.m.—Murray St. Baptist—Rev. P. K. Dayfoot, M. A.; George St. Methodist—Rev. T. A. Halpenny, B. A.; Trinity Methodist—Rev. C. A. Meyers, B. A.

3.45.—St. Paul's Presbyterian—Rev. P. K. Dayfoot, M. A.; St. Andrew's Presbyterian—Rev. T. A. Halpenny, B. A.; Knox Presbyterian—Rev. C. A. Meyers, B.A.

It is hoped that all parents and teachers will see to it that their children and themselves are present at as many of these services as possible to show that our interests are centered in the rising generation, for our future depends almost entirely upon the proper cultivation and moulding of the mind of the child.

The visiting clergymen upon their arrival in the city will be met by representatives of our Sunday Schools and through the kindness of some of them they will be entertained in their homes.

The program of the Convention will be in these columns and will be very interesting to those who are active in Sunday School work. The Secretary of the local Association, Mr. J. J. Turner, has sent invitations to all the County Clergymen and workers to be present at this convention and it is expected that a large representation form the County will be here and they coupled with our city representatives will no doubt tax George Street Methodist Church to its capacity. Sunday and Monday will be days long to be remembered by fathers, mothers, Sunday School Superintendents, teachers and scholars. Many of our busiest business men will devote most of the day Monday to this work for which parents should be very thankful.

TWEED RESIDENT TAKES OWN LIFE

H. C. PAINTER, EXPERT CHEMIST, SHOOTS HIMSELF WHILE TEMPORARILY INSANE.

Tweed, Feb. 28.—Our town was shocked when the word passed hurriedly around that Mr. H. C. Painter had committed suicide by shooting himself.

Mr. Painter was a chemist in the employ of the Nichols Chemical Co., at Sulphide and enjoyed not only the confidence and esteem of the firm but of all with whom he associated.

He came to town in his car which he ran into the sheds at the Ford garage.

He made some calls and in a short time went back to the car, where the deed was committed.

That the deceased was mentally irresponsible at the time is very apparent. He had been bereaved within the year, of his mother and a brother, both of which events he felt very keenly at the time he had also previously lost two brothers through accidents. His own health was in a precarious condition and his eyes especially were causing him a lot of trouble and worry.

Mr. Painter was most highly esteemed by those who knew him best. He possessed a kindly disposition and ever sought to be helpful to those about him, social, genial, good hearted, everybody liked him and the deepest regret filled every heart when the sad event became known.

The funeral service was held in St. Andrew's church and was very largely attended and especially by his Masonic brethren, deceased being a member of Tweed Lodge, No. 329, A. F. & A.M.

The pastor who was intimately acquainted with the deceased delivered a most impressive discourse.

Mr. Jas. S. Painter, a brother, of Toronto, was present. The remains were taken to the old family home at Pulaski, Virginia, for burial.

PEOPLE OF MADRID RISE IN REVOLT AGAINST THE HIGH COST OF BREAD AND MEAT

Mobs Make Raid on Bakeries and Butcher Shops and Martial Law is Declared—Government Takes Over the Control of Provision Stores

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Madrid, March 1.—Martial law has been declared in Madrid and troops are patrolling the streets. Order has been restored but some theatres have been closed. This action was the result of rioting against profiteers today, provision and butcher shops being attacked by mobs. The Government has taken possession of the bake-shops.

Premier Romanones has issued a statement saying that protests against provision dealers had assumed such an aspect that it was necessary to take serious precautions and that martial law had been declared so to enable the Government to work better for the settlement of pending social questions.

The trouble began during Friday afternoon when attacks on bakeries and food shops occurred, principally in the suburbs, and in the evening there was a movement by the people which resulted in their occupation of the butcher shops. Skirmishes, with some stone throwing, occurred between the demonstrators and the police around the markets.

THE WEATHER

The remarkably fine and mild weather that has prevailed this winter is a subject of common remark. During February the thermometer did not once go below zero, in fact the last time below zero was reached locally was January 12th. A February without any below zero days has not been known in Peterboro before. The nearest approach to the present conditions was February of 1897 and February of 1909. Each of these months had three days of zero weather. The usual average here is about twelve days of severe cold during the month of February.—W.P.

Ontario Soldiers Land at Halifax

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Halifax, Mar. 1.—The transport Lapland arrived this morning with two thousand returning Canadian soldiers and many civilian passengers About one half the soldiers are for Ontario points.

CANNOT VISIT FLANDERS FIELDS

Passes to Relatives to View Graves Not Yet Issued.

Ottawa, March 1.—The Militia Department desires to inform all soldiers' relatives and others interested that the Imperial Government is not in a position to grant passes to visitors to soldiers' graves in France. In some instances there is no transportation whatever to the places where the graves are located. Where transportation exists it is indirectly taken up for military purposes. There is also little or no hotel or housing accommodation.

Cable advice has been received from overseas to the effect that a number of people not in possession of the above information have arrived in England with a view to visiting France to see the graves of relatives, but it is not possible to effect the object of such visits at the present time.

To remedy the ice storage at Welland an artificial ice plant, costing $35,000 is to be installed.

Koreans Ask Help Of United States

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Peking, March 1.—Members of the "Independence Committee," representing the Korean people living in China, have presented to the American Minister a petition asking that the United States Government intercede with the Peace Conference in behalf of Korean people.

Dates Arranged For Hockey Finals

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, March 1.—Secretary W. A. Hewitt, of the Ontario Hockey Association, has announced the following dates for playing of the finals in the Senior, Intermediate and Junior sections:

Seniors.

NEW PAPAL DECREE

Rome, March 1.—Pope Benedict has authorized the faithful to substitute some other day for Saturday as a day of abstinence during the coming Lenten season.

Memorial For Ontario Pioneers

Members of the Farmers' Club in Peterboro County, as well as others, will be interested to learn that Rev. Father Galvin, of Downeyville, has been appointed to act on a committee the committee is to gather information about the early pioneers of the province with the object of having some suitable memorial established in their honor. Other members of the committee include Rev. A. W. Amos, of Palmerston; Peter McArthur, of Ekfrid; Mr. Carrou, of Carran; Mrs. G. A. Brodie, of Newmarket, and Miss Griesback, of Collingwood.

The United Farmers have also appointed a committee to prepare a platform dealing with provincial issues. The Farmers' National Policy is devoted practically entirely to National problems. In the recent Ontario bye elections the farmers were criticised for not having any clearly defined provincial platform. It is evident from their action that they intend to be better prepared in future on this point.

HUNGER AND IDLENESS THE REAL CAUSE OF BOLSHEVISM

British Papers View the German Situation With Alarm and Urge the Allies to Lift the Food Blockade at Once—Trouble Everywhere

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Mar. 1.—Several of this morning's newspapers feature articles on the internal demoralization of Germany and the dangerous growth of Bolshevism as a result of the lack of food and the increase of unemployment, and express editorially deep concern at the problem thus created for the Allies. Various reports concur in declaring that the situation is extremely urgent. A Reuter report describes the position of Germany as more precarious than it was last November.

"Discontent is growing, people are hungry and dispirited, and the Government is unable to improve material conditions," this report says. "Far sighted and well informed men are pessimistic and apprehensive at the ominous signs which show tendency towards anarchy."

Urgent necessity of the immediate relaxation of the Allies food blockade of Germany is emphasised by many leading British papers.

Trouble Everywhere.

Copenhagen, Mar. 1.—Muenster Government troops entered Dusseldorf on Friday and occupied the railway stations and public buildings. Spartacan leaders escaped and the town is quiet. Spartacan forces offered very feeble resistances to Government troops when Crefeld took Hamborn on Thursday and gave up two cannon, three thousand rifles and a quantity of munitions.

Bolsheviki Defeated.

Lithuanian troops, closely pursuing the Bolshevik forces, have passed the line of Schaulen, Sjaulena, Vieves and Varena, which towns are in Lithuanian hands. Owing to their defeat, the Bolsheviki have requested suspension of hostilities, but the Lithuanians refused.

Martial Law in Bavaria.

Paris, Mar. 1.—The Soldiers' and Workmen's Congress at Munich has declared martial law for all of Bavaria.

EX-KAISER KNEW HE WAS BEATEN

AS EARLY AS AUGUST LAST GENERAL LUDENDORFF ASSERTS.

Copenhagen, Mar. 1.—A despatch from Berlin quotes an interview with Gen. Ludendorff, former First Quartermaster-General of the German army, in which Ludendorff repeats former statements that he desired peace on the basis of the status quo, both in 1917 and in 1918.

Ludendorff is reported to have said that the events in August of last year showed that the value of some units in the German army had depreciated, and that no improvement was not to be expected, in view of the fact that the war had broken the will of the people at home. Afterwards the ground had become shaky, said Ludendorff, and he informed the Government that it was no longer possible to make Germany's enemies desire peace by means of war, and that the warfare should be ended quickly.

After the collapse of Bulgaria according to the interview, Ludendorff demanded that the German Government make an offer of peace, but he added that it was a mistake to say that he demanded an armistice within twenty-four hours. Ludendorff dwelt on "the Kaiser's love of peace" in the interview. He said the Emperor was kept informed of the entire situation, and after August 8 recognized that the war could not be won by Germany.

Ludendorff denied reports of dissensions between the Emperor and the Crown Prince. He said the Crown Prince often spoke of peace by an understanding. Ludendorff ex-

EAST PROPOSES A COMPROMISE

LIBERAL MEMBER MAKES TARIFF SPEECH THAT SURPRISES HOUSE.

Ottawa, March 1.—Parliament pricked up its ears when Mr. W. F. Cockshutt, M.P., for Brantford, hitherto one of the uncompromising high protectionists in the House, made the somewhat startling prediction that the Minister of Finance will bring down a tariff that will satisfy even Mr. McMaster, the Liberal member for Brome, who is a Manchester Guardian free trader, "and who is one of the hardest men to please, because he thinks everything about the tariff is wrong."

Tariff Issue Over All

Still regarded by many as the rock upon which the Government ship may split, the tariff issue is the one big question before the Parliament that will not down. "I see my friends opposite are begining to sit up and take notice," observed Mr. Cockshutt, as he approached the momentous issue. He did not think that the tariff was very far wrong as it was, but he did not think that it was perfect, or that in some respects it might not be pared down. Though he was a high protectionist he had never asked that any great amount be passed over to any great industry with which he was connected. He believed that if the subject was approached aright there was a way out of all the difficulties and a wise solution could be arrived at.

OPERA HOUSE CHANGES HANDS

H. S. Dahn on Behalf of A. J. Small, Toronto Takes Over Management Today.

The ownership of the Grand Opera House passed today from Messrs J. J. Turner & Sons, to Mr. Ambrose J. Small, the well known theatrical magnate of Toronto. Mr. Harry S. Dahn took over the active management of the house today and will become a permanent resident of the city. There will be no changes in the office or other staffs of the theatre so that the patrons will be assured of the same courteous treatment as that to which they have become accustomed.

Mr. Dahn is an experienced theatrical manager having been with Mr. Small in that capacity for years besides holding other responsible positions in the same line. He was for some years manager of Mr. Small's theatre in London.

Mr. Dahn says that the local theatre is one of the best appointed houses of the kind on the Small circuit and he compliments the former owners upon the high standard which they have always maintained in the arrangements. All the appointments are as near perfection as it is possible to attain.

Mr. Dahn was at one time connected with the publicity department of the Toronto exhibition and is interested in such enterprises. His experience in this line is likely to be utilised by the directors of the Local Fair which Mr. Dahn regards as one of the best advertising assets in the possession of the city.

FIREMEN FOUGHT WITHOUT WATER

OUTBUILDING OF BERT MORROW WAS BEYOND THE CITY LIMIT.

At 7:21 this morning the fire brigade were called to the residence of Mr. Bert Morrow at the foot of Sherbrooke street, where fire had broken out in the drive shed of the barn.

Being out of the city limits, no water was available, and the firemen had to set about saving the buildings as well as they could under this handicap.

The drive shed was connected with the barn, which was a fine brick structure, and this in turn was linked up by a fence with the ice-house and a storehouse from which led a covered passageway to the residence itself.

Chief Grange and his men cut away the fence in an effort to keep the fire from spreading to the ice-house, but the rolling flames jumped the gap, caught the ice-house, and spread to the storehouse, which they completely demolished, and it was only by cutting away the passageway and exerting every effort that the home was kept from falling a prey to the flames.

Early this morning the blaze was noticed by one of the street railway men who lives in that vicinity. He rushed to the house of Mr. and Mrs. Morrow, but was unable to awaken them. Passing on to the barn, to which the fire at that time had not spread, he looked to see that there were no horses or cattle within, and then returned to the house, and after some difficulty succeeded in arousing the occupants. Immediately afterwards he rang in the alarm by phone to the firehall.

The drive shed, barn ice-house and storehouse and part of the passageway leading to the kitchen of the dwelling were entirely destroyed, and it was remarkable that without the use of water the city fire fighters were able to stay the progress of the flames before they reached the house.

Chief Grange estimated the loss somewhere in the vicinity of $3000. The cause of the fire is unknown.

SINN FEINER CAN SOLVE PROBLEM

SPEAKER AT HIBERNIAN MASS MEETING IN OTTAWA URGES SELF-DETERMINATION.

Ottawa, March 1.—Self determination for Ireland as an act of common justice was advocated in eloquent appeals by several eminent Irish-Canadians at the mass meeting in the Russell Theatre under the auspices of the Ancient Order of Hibernians. The principal speaker of the evening was Hon. J. Hall Kelly, M.L.A., of Quebec, who devoted his speech to what he called removing the prejudices which existed against Sinn Fein.

"If I had a voice in Irish affairs," he declared with emphasis, "I would vote Sinn Fein the only party which can solve the Irish problem." a declaration which was received with loud applause.

Mr. C. J. Foy, K.C., M.L.A. was in the chair, and in presenting the resolution of the evening made a fervent speech in which he declared that all Irishmen asked was that their country be allowed to determine how it should be governed.

A resolution which was carried unanimously called upon Premier Borden to use his powerful influence with his colleagues at the Peace Conference to the end that the people of Ireland shall have a voice in determining how they shall be governed.

The other speaker of the evening was Rev. Father Cavanagh of Almonte.

pressed a willingness that his actions should be tried before any unprejudiced man of common sense.

DOUBLE PLATOON SYSTEM FOR LOCAL FIREMEN WENT INTO EFFECT TODAY NOON

Four New Men, Three of Whom Are Veterans, Have Been Added to the Brigade—The Men Off Duty Are Subject to Call at Any Time

At noon today the two platoon system went into effect in the Peterborough Fire Department and a long needed reform in the treatment of the city's fire fighters was adopted. These men will now have an opportunity of becoming acquainted with their own families and [illegible] o'clock today a new life in which some of the comforts of an enlightened age will have a place opened up for them.

At noon the shift which will long be remembered as ushering in a different and happier order of events was made. These men will be on duty until 6 o'clock this evening when the relief will arrive and remain until 7 o'clock Sunday morning. For the next two weeks the shift will be made at 7 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Four new men have been added to the brigade three of whom are returned soldiers. This brings the staff up to twenty.

Chief Grange stated this morning that not having sufficient power to operate a system of alarm bells in the men's houses has had the telephone substituted and had made arrangements with the Telephone Company to give proper connections in record time in case of an alarm.

LECTURER PLEASED WITH HIS RECEPTION.

Mr. John Kendrick Bangs stated after the entertainment at the Grand Opera House that in all his career as a lecturer he never faced a more intelligent appearing or appreciative audience than that which listened to his address last night. He will certainly carry away with him pleasing impressions of his visit to Peterborough.

After the lecture Mr. Bangs was entertained at the home of Dr. and Mrs. F. C. Neal, where he met a number of invited guests.

SURRENDER DEFAULTERS

Regina, Sask., March 1.—The Great War Veterans at their regular meeting passed a motion asking the Dominion Government to demand the surrender of 50,000 defaulters in Canada, and that they be disfranchised for a period of ten years, in addition to suffering the present penalties provided by law.

UNION BRANCH BANK AT INDIAN RIVER.

In consequence of a largely-signed petition presented by the farmers of Indian River and the surrounding country, the Union Bank of Canada has decided to open a sub-agency at this point, which will be under the management of Mr. C. H. Pennefather, manager of the Union Bank of Canada at Peterborough, Ont.

NO EXTRA SESSION

Washington, March 1.—President Wilson will not call an extra session of Congress until after his return from Europe. Senator Martin of Virginia made this announcement after a conference with the President. The final return is expected by June 1.

DOMINION POLICE LEAVE.

Dominion Police stationed at Peterborough, with the exception of Inspector Ward, who has remained to wind up the affairs of the department, have left for eastern points.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS

The stage is set, the instruments tuned, the public enthused and the [illegible] anxious for the curtain to rise for the Big Sunday School Convention in George Street Methodist Church, Peterborough.

[illegible] following Clergymen arrived today:— Rev. T. A. Halpenny, B.A.; who will be the guest of Mr. Walter Fisher, Water Street. Rev. P. K. Dayfoot, M. A., who will be entertained by a fellow M.A., Mr. Joseph Wearing; while Rev. C. A. Myers will accept the hospitality of the home of some member of Knox Church.

The people of Peterborough will be glad to know that one of our own ladies in the person of Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner, B. A., has an important place in the program. The subject she will deal with will be "Lesson Preparation and Presentation." Never in the history of the Association did the enthusiasm run so high and rightly so for never in the history of our Empire was the [illegible] so great, the demand so apparent, the importance so imperative [illegible] as now, facing as our boys and girls are a new dawn filled with responsibilities we had not to face in our day. So it is little wonder that those tireless, unselfish men and women, the Sunday School workers, who have the future of our children so much at heart, get all excited anticipating a Convention which will be not only interesting and instructive but will fit them the better to help our children.

The officers expect a large County representation and are anxious lest our Country cousins will attend in greater numbers than our city folk and let it be thoroughly understood that the public are heartily invited and it is hoped that many will avail themselves of this opportunity of learning how their children are trained. If you are interested in your boy or girl your presence will show it.

FARMERS AND DAYLIGHT SAVING.

JUDGING FROM the petitions that are being sent to Parliament, the farmers of Ontario appear to be about a unit in their opposition to daylight saving as a national institution. There must be something tangible upon which all this objection is based, something more than an unjustifiable opposition to the adoption of an innovation and the rejection of the custom of years, otherwise the farmers would not go to all this trouble in an effort to induce the Government to allow the present system of time-keeping to remain. The farmers of Ontario are certainly entitled to a hearing in this matter, all important as they are in the affairs of the community.

Urban residents who are in favor of daylight saving are prone to dispose of the farmers' contentions with undue lightness. They say that if they are not benefited by daylight saving they are at liberty to leave their clocks as the are at present and proceed with their vocation as usual.

The one outstanding objection to having some municipalities adopt daylight saving while others preserved the old system was the confusion that was sure to result. This comparison would be still more marked if the city of Peterborough adopted daylight saving while the clocks in country districts marked the old hours.

Another city argument is that the farmer is at liberty, even if he sets his clock an hour ahead, to rise and move just that much later. The inevitable inconvenience of such a plan has been demonstrated in the urban centres. No man in the city would be willing to so change his habits of living and maintain a perpetual strife with established custom throughout the months during which the new plan of marking time prevails. It is not fair to ask farmers to adopt something that is unworkable in the city.

In this matter it seems that Canada is to be guided by the course adopted in the United States. International railway traffic demands for the convenience of travellers and shippers a system of universal time reckoning. That is the real difficulty in settling the issue to the satisfaction of all classes interested.

JOHN KENDRICK BANGS.

JOHN KENDRICK BANGS, who lectured in the Grand Opera House last night in the final entertainment in the admirable course arranged for by the Local Council of Women, is a true exponent of the American school of humor, which is no less peculiar to the people of that republic than are any of a score of national characteristics that could be mentioned. American humor holds a field by itself. The best type is composed of about ten per cent. native wit and ninety per cent. of exaggeration so palpable that it never misleads, and of mendacity so transparent that it never deceives. There is no flavor in it of the humor of the school of Punch, which so often calls for the services of an expert expounder before it can be fully understood and appreciated. No surgical operation is required to get it into the head of even the most stoical of any nativity. It is open and refreshing, bright, entertaining and instructive, national always, based as it so often is on an understanding of human nature and a talent for looking on the silver-lined side of even the darkest cloud. The particular type that Mr. Bangs exemplifies is singularly free from either the taint of vulgarity or the very suggestion of irreverence, faults which other exponents of the art do not always avoid. And the best of it all is that, like ex-President Taft and other noted contemporary Americans who have a strain of pleasantry modifying the natural seriousness of their motives. Mr. Bangs enjoys his own sallies and has the rare faculty of making the entertainment mutual as between himself and either his readers or his audience. He believes in his own gospel of light, and that being the case, like the sincere preacher or the politician in deadly earnest, he never fails in making an impression.

Mr. Bangs is a successful man of affairs and for that reason can, perhaps, afford to be magnanimous in his estimate of others, including those who have won distinction in the same field as himself. Those who heard his lecture last night will think all the more of the characters with whom he dealt and whom so many Canadians already had admired. But there was instruction as well as entertainment in the lecture of the city's distinguished visitor. The moral is obvious. Mr. Bangs did not parade himself as an exponent of the higher life, but the lesson he teaches without appearing to do so seems with the precepts of healthy and sparkling optimism. Men like Mr. Bangs see more than the lighter side of life. They do not fail to note everything that is good and all that is beautiful in human existence. They pay homage to true worth, recognize the higher gifts and virtues of those with whom they associate, and never fail to profit by their observation. Such men, too, always detect the baser elements around them and can be trusted to make an unerring distinction between true worth and mere snobbery that is always offensive.

There was the suggestion of humor in the very subject of the lecture. The unusual word which was really the speaker's text, opened up a long vista of possibilities before the speaker uttered a single sentence. The word in question loses none of its interest because of the fact that it is a creature of accident, born of the error made by a printer, but which, like "hoodlum" and other Americans of the same outcast origin, has been received into good standing in the English language. And in Mr. Bangs' master hands "salubrity" becomes a term of marvelous expression and adaptability, one that can be employed in describing a multitude of human virtues.

THE INCOME TAX.

HON. T. B. CARVELL in his place in Parliament intimates that in order to meet the enormous obligations of the nation on account of the war it will be necessary to increase the present rate of Federal income tax both upward and downward, so that even the man who is earning not more than $1,000 a year will bear a share of the burden.

There is no reason on earth why there should be so much disparity in the bearing of the tax burdens. There are in Peterborough men earning good incomes who do not pay a cent of the special war taxes or of any other kind, even if they are householders. They live in rented houses, preferring that to owning their own homes, and claiming that tenantry is the cheaper system. Why such a man should escape every form of war tax is not apparent. There is certainly little of justice in such a system. These days the man whose name does not appear on the assessment roll is advocating the abolition of property qualification for municipal offices, and labor unions are sending resolutions to that effect to the Legislature. In return for such a concession, the untaxed citizen should be willing to grant something himself.

There is, however, a vast difference between the Federal income tax referred to, whether in existence now or in prospect, and the municipal tax that is levied every year. The occupant of a house, whether an owner or a tenant, really pays therent. The tenant is debarred from voting on money bylaws that are submitted from time to time to the ratepayers, and, after all, he is just as much interested in these matters as the property owner is. Every such bylaw adopted means an increased tax rate, which is always offset by a more than proportionate raise in the rent of the property affected. The thrifty landlord safeguards himself by raising the rent on his tenants sufficient to meet the additional impost on the premises, domestic or business, which he himself occupies.

OPINIONS OF OTHER EDITORS.

Only One Overlooked.

(Detroit News.)

The dryest prohibition bill yet has been introduced in the Michigan Legislature, but at that it isn't dry enough in view of what happened in Detroit. It provides that a peace officer can search your grip, your automobile, you, your home—anything. It, however, makes no provision for searching a peace officer.

Has Our Sympathy.

(Kingston Whig.)

The Brockville Recorder-Times calls for the restoration of the service of the local trains from Brockville to Belleville, which were discontinued as a war necessity in January, 1916. Many municipalities have petitioned for the return of this service, which was of great value and convenience to Eastern Ontario. The Whig heartily concurs in this view and hopes that the Grand Trunk will soon see its way clear to resume the suspended service.

State Ownership Of Utilities

(New York Commercial.)

Government ownership or control of railroads and telegraph and telephone systems will engage the attention of Congress and the American people for some time to come. It is probably fortunate that Government control has been tested in the last few months without committing the country to it. The Railroad Administration added $1,500,000,000 to the costs of maintaining and operating the railroads in 1918, as compared with what the private owners spent in 1917. The character of the telegraph and telephone service in the hands of the Post Office Department tells its own story.

Government ownership and operation of railroads in other countries has not stood the test of time. Italy has tried it, and the report of the Italian Railway Commission states: "Most of the pleas for state management are based upon the idea that the state would perform many services much cheaper than they are performed by private companies. This is a mistake. The tendency is decidedly the other way. The state is much more likely to attempt to tax industry than to foster it."

State operation costs more than private management. The political dangers are very great. Politics would corrupt the railroad management and the railroad management would corrupt politics. If Government operation and control of public utilities is carried far enough the country will be ruled and taxed by its army of millions of public servants, who will be able to turn any election.

Before the war advocates of Government ownership always cited Prussia to prove the success of state control. Professor Schumacher, a leading authority on Prussian railroad operation, says that the freight revenues of the Prussian lines amounted to 1.65 cents a ton-mile in 1880 and to 1.41 cents in 1909, a reduction of about 15 per cent. In America the receipts in 1882 were 1.856 cents a ton-mile, and 0.763 cents in 1909. As W. M. Ackworth points out, the American ton-mile started at the beginning of the period 2' per cent. below the Prussian rate and fell 40 per cent. in the course of 29 years. At the end of the period the American rate was not much more than half the Prussian rate, or 0.763 cents, as compared with 1.41 cents a ton-mile.

Since 1900 the German Government has not attempted to reduce freight rates, and the average rate declined slightly only because the proportion of coal, ore and other low grade freight increased. Under Government operation American freight rates increased last year 25 to 40 per cent. which tell the story. The railroads were entitled to high rates, but they never dreamed of asking for such increases as the Railroad Administration put in force.

TO-DAY'S STORY

Although the natives of the Soudan do not possess rifles, they are sufficiently clever with their natile weapons to engage in the sport of hunting.

When a lion, grown bold, begins to make a regular practice of killing sheep, Arab pride decides that these depredations must be stopped. Two of the natifes sally forth the day after the beast has made a kill and track him to where he is lying during the heat of the day. Then folows a pretty piece of teamwork.

One Areb is armed with a light-throwing spear and a heavy, long, "shovel-headed spear," the other with a sword. They advance on the lion in Indian file, the spearman in front.

The lion, grown bold through his successful nightly kills close to men, usually allows them to approach to within thirty yards or so. Then the spearman hurls his light spear at the lion; if he misses, the lion will probably bolt, and the performance must be tried again another day. But if he hits and wounds, the lion charges. Immediately the spearman sinks down on one knee, with his heavy spear held in front of him, butt on the ground, in the old method of infantry when receiving a cavalry charge, and takes the lion's charge on his spear.

Now follows some nice timing; neither too soon nor too late the swordsman springs forward and to one side, and smites down on the lion with his heavy sword; if he makes his jump too soon, the lion may have time to change the direction of his charge; if too late, his comrade's spear may have failed to stop the charge, and he may have been seriously hurt.

Arabs who have hunted lions in this way say that sometimes one of the two is hurt, but that invariably they kill the animal.

A SPLENDID MEDICINE FOR THE CHILDREN

Baby's Own Tablets are the best medicine a mother can give her little ones. They are a mild laxative which quickly regulate the bowels and stomach and are guaranteed to be entirely free from any injurious drugs. Concerning them Mrs. A. D. West, Loreburn, Sask., writes:—"Baby's Own Tablets have given me more satisfaction than anything else I have ever given my children. They are easily taken; always work well and though I have given quite a few to my baby they seem to work as well now as at first, which is something other laxatives seldom do." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

FEMININE LOGIC

The young lady across the way says that children ought not to drink coffee unless the nicotine has been removed.

A woman seldom appreciates a husband until she becomes a widow.

WIT AND WISDOM

"What are you going to do about the luxury tax?"

"Nothing much. When I get through with the regular tax I won't have money enough to buy any luxuries."

"That red-headed constituent of yours says the next time you come to his town he's going to be at the meeting with a basket of eggs."

"Hum," rejoined Senator Sorghum reflectively. "Ammunition or a bribe?"

"Man is a creature of routine. Goes to work and then goes home."

"That's right. If Shakespeare were to come along we'd be glad to see him, but what would we do with him?"

"Dunno. Get him to autograph the family volume of his plays and then close the book."

Not That Kind.

Client—I want to sue for a divorce and an allowance of $1500 a year.

Lawyer—What is your husband's income?

Client—It's about that. I wouldn't ask for more than a man makes. I'm not that kind.

Security.

"Did you lend that forgetful friend of ours the book he asked for?"

"Yes, but I took care to borrow his umbrella the same day."

Here Is A Most Excellent Marmalade

SLICE two grapefruit and six sweet oranges into small shreds. To each cup of the cut fruit add three cups of cold water. Allow it to stand for 24 hours in a bowl or crock. Turn into a kettle and bring gently to a boil. Set aside for another 24 hours; then measure six cups of pulp into a preserving kettle and simmer gently for an hour. Add six cups of LANTIC "fine" granulated sugar heated in the oven and remove from the fire as soon as the Marmalade jellies. Repeat the cooking till all the pulp has been used.

LANTIC "Fine" granulated is the ideal sugar for Marmalade, as the fine granulation dissolves at once, avoiding long cooking. Too much cooking after the sugar is added, darkens Marmalade and makes it stringy.

Have you a copy of our "Lantic Library" containing three useful booklets on Preserves, Desserts, Cakes and Candies? We will send it to you without charge on receipt of a 2c. stamp to pay postage.

LESSONS IN RIGHT LIVING

(By Dr. W. A. Brady.)

In the early or curable stage of cancer there is usually no pain felt by the victim. Nor is the victim's health particularly impaired. Nevertheless, there are signs which cannot escape the attention of an intelligent victim, and certainly any intelligent person who discovers any suspicious signs will lose no time in seeking the opinion of a physician. Ignorant persons will always procrastinate no one pretext or another until the cancer has progressed to a stage which is too often beyond the hope of cure.

For example, any woman over 35 years of age who discovers a swelling or lump or hard spot in one breast would be exceeding unwise to worry about it, provided there is a physician within reach. Not every such swelling or lump is cancer, but most of them are.

Any bleeding that occurs after the change of life is a very suspicious sign and should warrant an immediate examination by the physician. Such cases, if neglected until pain begins, are likely to prove incurable. Any irregular or excessive bleeding occurring in a woman of 40 or more years should arouse the suspicion of cancer. Pain is not a prominent symptom of the earliest and curable stage of cancer of the womb.

Cancer of the womb is the most frequent and most tragic cancer in women, for it is most likely to occur whose lives are precious to those children and to the community.

The X-ray has permanently cured some cancers of the skin and lips and radium treatment has converted many inoperable cases of cancer into operable cases—that is, brought about enough improvement to make an operation seem reasonable advisable. But neither of these remedies, nor indeed anf other remedy known today, should be permitted to encourage postponement of radical surgical treatment, if the diagnosis of cancer is made and the disease has not progressed beyond the curable stage. Rather these aids should be employed after operation for the purpose of preventing recurrence of the cancer.

Enlarged Spleen.

"Is it possible for the spleen to become so enlarged that it may press on the heart and interfere with its functions? What are the symptoms of an enlarged spleen? S. G."

The spleen is found enlarged in the course of various infectious diseases particularly typhoid fever, septicemia malaria; also in certain types of so called "primary" or severe anaemia in which we cannot discover the underlying cause. In the first place, it is against my ethical principles to suggest symptoms to correspondents and if that were insufficient, enlargement of the spleen produces no symptoms.

A Dangerous TB.

"My husband (aged 26) and I (aged 24) have my brother (aged 38) living with us. His doctor has diagnosed tuberculosis. He coughs a great deal, especially in the morning, and expectorates a yellowish sputum. He objects to having a bacteriological test made of the sputum. We keep separate dishes for him and I wash my hands in — solution after washing his dishes. He expectorates in the sink. Is there any danger for either of us, and if so what precautions in addition to the use of the — solution would you advise?

"W.C."

Certain individuals with tuberculosis really deserve the stigma which the "great white plague" campaign has fastened upon all victims of the disease. Your brother seems to be of that class. A sink is all right to spit in, provided the sink is devoted exclusively to that purpose. You and your husband are in constant danger from such a selfish guest, no matter what precautions you may take. By the way, washing you hands with soap and water will accomplish all that any other antiseptic can. Your brother needs either education or discipline or both and the best thing for all concerned would be to have him admitted to a tuberculosis sanitarium for at least a few months' stay, where he can learn the rudiments of hygiene and perhaps acquire some conception of the inflexible rules for recovery from tuberculosis.

When they cut us off the other day we were just explaining how all important diseases in this country are steadily decreasing except those strictly personal diseases or degenerations which begin to manifest themselves preferably at middle age—cancer, apoplexy, Bright's disease and heart muscle failure. These diseases according to the mortality statistics United States census bureau, have been steadily increasing in the past sixteen years, so that they now cause more death in America than all other diseases.

The lay public has only the vaguest conceptions of these diseases, because the public health agencies of the country have somehow given these strictly personal degenerations very little attention in educational work. The veriest child knows today that tuberculosis is most likely to come to victims who live without fresh air and sunlight and wholesome food and proper rest. Everybody knows that pneumonia is an infectious disease, the germ of which is carried from person to person in the droplets of saliva or sputum given off in the form of spray in coughing, sneezing or talking. Probably no intelligent person who reads is today unaware that typhoid fever is due to eating or drinking something polluted in some way with human filth, and that the vaccine or bacterin prophylactic administered to all soldiers has stamped this scourge out of all great armies.

There probably is not a woman able to read words of one syllable who does not know that the chief cause of death in infancy in hot weather is milk poisoning (summer complaint, cholera infantum, gastro-enteritis) from bacterial changes in the infant's food due to warmth, and that cleanliness and suitable refrigeration of the milk are the best known life saving measures in infancy.

All these facts are familiar to the public. But what does the public know about apoplexy and Bright's disease and heart muscle failure and cancer? Practically nothing. Indeed, the layman's notions of these personal degenerations are generally quite incorrect. For example, as so many letters coming to me from readers show, there are a great many people who actually imagine that a pain or lameness in the back suggests kidney trouble. And the usual popular notion of heart disease is a sudden death without warning—a thing that probably never occurs at all.

Ignorance about self and the vital subject about personal hygiene accounts for the danger of being alive at 40. The medical terms for the brain, artery and kidney manifestations of the danger is cardio-vascular disease (heart-artery disease). It is a disease that exists, as a rule, for several years before the victim even begins to suspect there is anything really the matter.

The Age of Knowledge

"I am 22 years old, old enough, you'll think to know beter than to ask such foolish questions. • • • My parents never gave me any advice • • • yet he seems to be well and a cheerful minded fellow. • • •"

Our great hospitals are groaning under the burden of caring for those who felt too young or too old to learn the greatest truths. Parents have played the ostrich always. Music's Value in Home.

Music is so general in its inspiring appeal to our better emotions that we cannot afford to neglect its cultivation in the home. Few mothers realize the importance of training and association in this direction. One ventures to say that many men and women have been impelled to right living and accomplishment of high ideals by the intangible strain of music that runs like a bright thread of sentiment through the stress of busy days. Mechanical piano players and other ingenious musical devices threaten less personal participation in a onetime pleasure.

Fault-Finding.

Why should we denounce fault-finding because it is not constructive? All of us are continuously finding fault, more or less, and on our success in finding the fault and destroying it depends mostly our successful development. So in the end it appears that fault-finding is essentially one of our most constructive activities. One of our worst faults is the hypocritical practice of finding fault with fault-finding.—F. H. Young in Providence Journal.

Discovery of Rubber.

The rubber tree was discovered by a Jesuit missionary, Father Manceide Esperanca. He found it while on one of his apostolic journeys among the Cambebas Indians of South America and gave it the singular name of the seringueria, because he remarked that the savages used the sap of this tree, which hardens quickly, to make rude bottles that were shaped like a syringe.

OBITUARY

JACK McLEOD

The death occurred this morning in Nicholl's Hospital of Mr. Jack McLeod, 207 Simcoe street, a returned soldier.

Mr. McLeod was attached to the 23rd Howitzer Battery and fought in the battle of Loos and the battle of Lens. He enlisted with the 93rd Battalion and went overseas with that unit but was later transferred to the Howitzer battery. While overseas he was gassed at Hill 70 and invalided home. Since his return he has been in the Kingston and Hamilton hospitals and since his return in August to Peterborough, he has been in the Peterborough hospitals.

He is a son of Rev. Roderick McLeod, Garroboat, Scotland. He has no relatives in this country, but his wife, formerly Miss Bertha Lytle.

The funeral will be a military one and will be held on Monday afternoon from the residence, 207 Simcoe street, under the auspices of the G. W. V. A.

AT MARK STREET CHURCH

Rev. C. A. Meyers Will Preach Tomorrow Evening.

Tomorrow promises to be a good day at Mark Street Methodist Church. In the morning the pastor will preach on the subject, "The Crucifixion of Christ." In the evening the Rev. C. A. Meyers, B.A., secretary of the Sunday School Board of the Presbyterian Church of Canada, will be the speaker. Mr. Meyers comes to our city to assist in the co-operative convention by nearly all the Protestant evangelical churches. Everybody will be made very welcome at this service

Long-Lived Clock

The life of a clock is much longer than that of any other machinery. The city of Rouen has a great clock, built in the year 1389 and still keeping good time. Except for cleaning and a few necessary repairs it has never stopped during a period of more than five centuries. It strikes the hours and chimes the quarters.

Changed Cars.

A little girl was greatly pleased over the opportunity to accompany her mother on a visit to the city, where they spent a few days, and upon her return to her home she said: "Oh, daddy, we had such a nice time; we went in the sleeper and we came home in the sitter."

Gold Once Little Valued.

Rev. Dr. W. E. Griffis says that it is historically true that in early Japan there were houses roofed with gold. For centuries, he says, gold had little more value in Japan than in South America when Balboa sought the Pacific. Even until 1859 gold was worth only four times as much as silver.

Lava Warm After Thirty Years.

Newly ejected lava from Vesuvius has been tested and found to be at a temperature of 1,500 degrees Fahrenheit. On the volcano's slopes lavas from various outbursts are definitely isolated, and even now lava thrown out 30 years ago is quite warm.

WITH CANADIAN ADVERTISING AGENCY LIMITED MONTREAL.

WILL HAVE CHARGE OF THE ADVERTISING AND SALES PROMOTION DEPARTMENTS.

An extention of the Canadian Advertising Agency Limited service of greatest importance to its clientele and the advertising public generally has just been effected by the appointment of Mr. G. E. McCulloch, as manager of the Advertising and Sales Promotion Service of this progressive agency.

Mr. McCulloch made an enviable reputation for himself in the management and direction of the Montreal office of the Gagnier Advertising Service. Previous to his coming to Montreal Mr. McCulloch was with the J. Walter Thomson Agency of New York and Toronto.

The various campaigns handled by him for the Agencies with which he was connected have proven that he is one of the best qualified men to handle all phases of advertising and sales promotion.

Mr. McCulloch has been actively connected with the Victory Loan, Navy League and other patriotic campaigns when his work was found so eminently satisfactory that it elicited praise from Canada's leading business men.

He has specialized in the all-important question of marketing in its relation to advertising and his merchandising plans, based on personal trade investigations, have won for him a reputation for thoroughness that has seldom been equalled in the advertising profession.

Real Merit Manifest.

Real merit of any kind cannot long be concealed; it will be discovered, and nothing can depreciate it but a man's exhibiting it himself. It may not always be rewarded as it ought, but it will always be known.—Chesterfield.

Lines to Be Remembered.

The pursuit of perfection is the pursuit of sweetness and light. He who works for sweetness and light works to make reason and the will of God prevail.—Matthew Arnold.

A SOLDIER'S CHANCE ON A FARM

(Edmonton Bulletin.)

Under the plan now decided upon the Dominion Government proposes to advance to the returnd soldier an amount up to $8000 with which to buy land, stock it, buy implements, provide buildings, fencing and other permanent improvements. This money is to draw interest at five per cent. and to be repaid in twenty annual payments.

That is to say, the soldier obtaining a maximum loan of $8000 will have to repay $400 a year principal, and an annual interest payment beginning with a similar amount and growing smaller as the principal is reduced. Just whether a man put in possession of a farm with a mortgage of $8000 on it is really being "set up in business" was a point on which some members seemed to entertain doubts—doubts which a good many people will be inclined to share.

Eight hundred dollars ($800) per year over and above living expenses is a large amount of money for a farmer to be obliged to pay annually. It is a further disadvantage that the money borrowed for stock and implements will only go half as far as it would in peace times in the purchase of these necessities, while the grain and animal products produced on the farm by the use of the stock and implements will have to be sold at peace time prices. The soldier, under this land settlement scheme would, therefore, in some respects seem to be embarking upon an enterprise in which he must earn interest and principal instalments on a certain amount of over-capitalization.

A fair test of the effectiveness of this scheme is the judgment of men who have had experience in farming in this country under peace time conditions, as to whether it would be "good business" to buy a farm as a going concern for $8000, running in debt for the amount. The opinion of many qualified to judge seems to be that the man undertaking such an enterprise would be incurring a large risk of failure in other words, that so far as we have gone yet the scheme of helping the returned soldier is a scheme which civilians with experience would not accept, and involves loading the soldier down with a debt which under the most favorable conditions it will take him the best part of a lifetime to work off, and which in a very large proportion of cases he never will be able to work off.

A Tribute to the Hardest Worked Merchants In Our Country

HAVE you ever considered the important part played by the grocer in our daily life?

From early [illegible] until [illegible] keeps [illegible]

[illegible] to the [illegible]

When sickness, accident, [illegible] grocer who supplies the home with the necessities of life and often waits a long time for his money.

He has had many trials during the past four years. Government regulations have hampered his business. Goods have been difficult to procure. Help scarce. Profits small. He sells on a closer margin of profit than probably any other line of retail trade.

For nearly twenty-five years, the T. H. Estabrooks Company has been distributing millions of pounds of Red Rose Tea through the grocers of Canada. Our relations with them have been very intimate and very friendly. We, therefore, know something of their difficulties and something of the services they are rendering, which we think deserve recognition and appreciation.

HOW ONE COLLEGIATE PUT CIGARETTES OUT OF BUSINESS

Interesting Paper Read at Regular Meeting of Intermediate Life Problem Club.

The Intermediate Life Problem Club at the Y.M.C.A. is something like an Indian. It is either a "feast or a famine," with the members. A week ago last night they listened to one of the finest—if not the finest—lectures of the winter, delivered by Dr. A. Moir, on "Medicine as a Profession." Last night the club was unable to arrange for a speaker, [illegible] ing article, taken from the Canadian Boy Builder, was read by Allan McIntosh, the treasurer of the club. The article is entitled "The Cigarette and an Ontario Collegiate," and was written by Murray Leitch, president of the St. Thomas Collegiate Boy's Club. It was as follows:

To put the cigarette out of business in a Collegiate with an enrollment of about 450 has been the achievement of the St. Thomas Collegiate Boys' Club within the past year. At the regular meeting of the Club, January 25, 1918, it was decided to launch an anti-cigarette campaign. Hope of success lay in the conviction that the vast majority of the students recognized that the habit interfered with efficiency and would welcome a united effort to make the cigarette smoker the unpopular exception.

The following Monday morning saw the beginning of a strenuous five-day campaign. A bulletin was posted, reading:

Trial! Trial! Trial!
Of Whom?
By Whom?
When?
Witnesses?

See announcement tomorrow!

Tuesday a poster showed a cigarette standing, with a very guilty air in a witness box, with the Boy's Club on the Bench. Below were the names of the witnesses—a local banker with a record in athletics, a druggist, the physical director of the Y.M.C.A. and three students, one of them a non-smoker, the captain of the rugby and hockey teams.

On Wednesday a printed sheet contained the opinions re the cigarette of such men as Edison, Ford and Burbank.

Thursday, another cartoon—a question mark made up by burning cigarettes, "The Burning Question."

Friday, the last cartoon—a cigarette carrying a satchel labelled nicko'-time receiving a knock-out blow from a heavy club labelled "Collegiate Boys' Club," wielded by a sturdy arm. Underneath appeared the legend, "Knock Him Out."

The meeting on Friday evening was ready for business. The talks by men and boys were straight from the shoulder. It was decided to provide a plain blue button to all boys agreeing not to smoke cigarettes. If a boy failed to abide by his decision he was in honor bound to return the button. No pledge was signed—the whole scheme was based strictly on the honor principle.

The result? The result was the unqualified success that springs from hearty co-operation. Practically every fellow wore the blue button. Every member of the Collegiate teams, of the executives of the various societies, of the Collegiate Orchestra, of the "Collegian" editorial staff, in brief, every member of every school organization fell in line.

What of this term? A campign is going on at present to improve upon our 95 per cent. standard of last [illegible] For three weeks daily bulletins are appearing and endorsing the Club's efforts. These bulletins consist of letters from prominent business, railway and professional men, letters from ex-students and resolutions in support of the effort from school executives and teams.

Co-operation has been crowned with success! Why might not High Schools and Collegiates throughout the country co-operate, so that the blue button might 'have a meaning of its own' to every high school fellow? The St. Thomas Collegiate Boys' Club places its experience before similar clubs and would welcome any chance to co-operate with any school in Ontario or in any part of Canada.

After the reading of this article quite a discussion arose among the members of the club present.

Before the meeting adjourned Secretary Roper announced that Mr. Hughson Johnstone would address the Senior Life Problem Club next Sunday in the "Y" parlors, at 4.15 p.m. A week from next Sunday Rev. F. E. Malott, the pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, will address the club, and it is hoped that as many boys as possible will hear these two addresses.

Two hundred dollars and costs was the penalty imposed on William Schwarts, in the Police Court at Woodstock for violation of the O. T. A.

Clear, Peachy Skin Awaits Anyone Who Drinks Hot Water

Sparkling and vivacious—merry, bright, alert—a good, clear skin and a natural, rosy, healthy complexion are assured only by pure blood. If only every man and woman could be induced to adopt the morning inside bath, what a gratifing change would take place. Instead of the thousands of sickly, anaemic-looking men, women and girls, with pasty or muddy complexions, instead of the pale, [illegible] attitudes of "nerve wrecks," "run downs," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking each morning, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleaning, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, billiousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds; and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle, but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance, awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.

HUN STILL LYING

Berlin, March 1.—The German Government will shortly appeal to all holders of foreign securities to turn them in for use in paying for food importations, the Neue Berliner eitung says it is informed. It is hoped that the responsible citizens will be sufficient to cover these importations.

AMERICA'S GREATEST HUMORIST ENTERTAINS LARGE AUDIENCE

John Kendrick Bangs Talks on "Salubrities I Have Known" in the Last Entertainment of Chautauqua Lyceum

John Kendrick Bangs, justly described as America's foremost humorist, lectured to a capacity audience at the Grand Opera House last night, in the fourth and last event of the Chautauqua series.

This Lyceum course has brought to the city two distinguished public speakers, men of world wide reputation, and, [illegible] between ex-President Taft and John Kendrick Bangs in connection would be out of [illegible] even if it were not [illegible] to [illegible] with the [illegible]

In the person of John Kendrick Bangs we had the privilege of personally welcoming a man whose reminiscences of [illegible] and humorous [illegible] pictures of [illegible] it with that [illegible] conclude [illegible] he is [illegible] Never for a moment did the lecturer [illegible] hold the attention of his large audience. He spoke for over an hour and a half, and under the spell of his words the people who listened forgot time and place and lived in the days and things he described.

His reminiscences of great literary contemporaries of the past, from across the sea, and of many letters who were famous in recent years, but have passed away, were always ready to vilify the successful man of letters. He condemned as being in this class the yellow Hearst journals of the United States, and commended the action of the Canadian Government in refusing these papers admission into this country. He denounced the university professor who ranked no higher and who had recently turned his attention to upholding the principles of Bolshevism, which he described as being born of tyranny, hatred and malice.

Richard Harding Davis, with whom Mr. Bangs has been associated in connection with the publication of Harper's Weekly for some years, had been a victim of the mud-slinging tactics of the muck-raking critics of his own land.

This man—one of the foremost journalists of the past half century—had been accused by his maligners of possessing a harsh and unsympathetic nature. Mr. Bangs recounted incidents in the life of Richard Harding Davis which had come under his personal observation during the time he had been in daily contact with him, that gave the lie to such statements. His story did not fail to give the audience glimpses of the real humor which lay behind the reserve of the great American writer.

Next, Mr. Bangs introduced Rudyard Kipling, who had been called a man of course manners and whom, his critics claim, should have died many years ago for the sake of his literary reputation. Many interesting stories were told of the speaker's personal acquaintance with the famous Englishman, and an understanding of the sterling qualities of the poet's character was obtained. That Kipling's style of writing had changed within the past quarter of a century was acknowledged by Mr. Bangs, but that the change altered the value of his works he denied. Family bereavement had left its mark upon Kipling's more recent productions which was but natural. The quality of reaching the heart of the reader might return to his works no more, but a deeper power permeated the author's more recent publications, which reached the soul.

Mr. Bangs told of a meeting between two women who ranked as true celebrities, Dorothy Tennent, wife of Henry M. Stanley, the famous African explorer, and Mrs. Richard Henry Stoddard, wife of the American poet, who was previous to her marriage Elizabeth Barstow, an author of prominence.

Next he recounted incidents of his acquaintance with Sir Arthur Conan Doyle in the days when he was plain Dr. A. C. Doyle, and had crossed over to the United States to give a series of lectures. He told many funny incidents in connection with the experiences of the English master of fiction, and one in particular which gave an insight into the character of the creator of Sherlock Holmes.

Mr. Doyle during his American tour had accepted Mr. Bangs' invitation to visit him at his home at Yonkers. Upon arriving at the lecturer's residence, which overlooked the Hudson, the doctor was found gazing in a rapt manner from the window by Mr. Bangs' four-year-old son, who entered the apartment just at that moment. After inspecting the great writer from several angles the little fellow aproached him and, to the consternation of the father, gave Dr. Doyle a resounding smack on the head with a disreputable rag doll which he held in his hand. This broke the ice, and the greatest friendship existed between the small boy and the author during the remainder of the visit. Later Mr. Bangs accepted the hospitality of Sir Arthur while on a visit to England.

Mark Twain was the last celebrity to receive attention from the lecturer. The Kendrick Bangs humor cannot be appreciated when transferred to the printed page, but those who have read the works of the great American humorist, Samuel Clemens, and have in addition acquainted themselves with the history of his private life, can form some idea of the mirth which every day incidents that came under the observation of the speaker would produce when told by John Kendrick Bangs.

Mr G. N. Gordon presided at the entertainment last night, and in presenting Mr. Bangs referred to the fact that he had spent three months at the front doing his share towards maintaining the morale of the Allied armies. He had three sons fighting over there, and upon the conclusion of the Chautauqua tour upon which he was at present engaged he would return to Europe and resume his work there.

There was a musical program rendered before the address, which varied the entertainment in a most pleasing manner. Solos were contributed by Misses Lillian Eastwood and Doris Rathbone and by Messrs. S. J. Graham and W. T. Ward.

The success of the Chautauqua Lyceum course, which was arranged for by the Local Council of Women has been phenomenal, and the ladies of this organization have conferred a favor upon the people of the city generally. The attractions have been highly instructive and entertaining and it is most gratifying to look back upon the excellent patronage afforded each of the events and feel that their efforts were apreciated by the people of Peterborough.

PUT STOMACH IN FINE CONDITION

SAYS INDIGESTION RESULTS FROM AN EXCESS OF HYDROCHLORIS ACID.

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or rather, ferments the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that Indigestion is caused by Hyper-acidity, meaning, there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten sours in the stomach which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten sours in the stomach much like garbage sours in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest, we belch up gas, we eructate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink while it is effervescing and furthermore, to continue this for a week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the livar, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousand of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.

MINSTREL SHOW AT THE GRAND

WILL BE PUT ON BY Y. M. C. A. THIRD WEEK IN MARCH.

Boom! Boom! Boom! What's that? No, it isn't the reopening of hostilities, but the gun to announce the Y. M. C. A. minstrels. This group of artists will present their classy show during the third week of March at the Grand Opera House. The director, Mr. Asa Huycke, is enthusiastic over the work of the minstrels, and promises a rare treat for those who are fortunate enough to secure seats for one of the nights. The program consists of songs, jokes, quartetes, dances, and a string quartette. The work of the minstrels will be of the highest class ever presented in this city either amateur or professional. The proceeds are to be used to place a fitting honor roll of Y. M. C. A. members who have served in the great war, and the friends of the Association are asked to keep this object in view when canvassed by those selling tickets.

Subscription lists are already out. Those subscribing to these lists will have a one day advantage in securing reservation of seats.

Presentation To Mrs. Rathbone

On Thursday evening after the rehearsal of All Saints' Choir at the School Room, a social was held and the rector and wardens of the Church were the invited guests of the choir A very pleasant time was spent and after the supper which was supplied by Hooper's, in excellent style the health of the returned men in the persons of Mr. Herb Rush and Mr. Harold Farr was drunk with usual honors and replied to in excelent speeches. During the evening Mrs. Rathbone a retired member of several years standing was made the recipient of a presentation which took the form of a casserole. Mrs. Rathbone returned thanks to the members and regret at leaving, with her usual eloquence. The party broke up with the singing of Auld Lang Syne and the National Anthem.

Borden a Leader At Conference

Ottawa, March 1.—In the Senate the address in reply to the speech from the Throne was adopted without amendment. Senator Crosby, of Halifax, who resumed the debate, took Senator Bennett to task for stating that with the close of the port of Montreal in winter, Canadian traffic should be taken to Portland, Maine. Senator Crosby said that the harbors of Halifax, Sydney and Louisburg, were among the finest in the world. Halifax possessed some of the largest and most commodious piers of any harbor in the world, and Portland, in point of size and shipping facilities, could not be compared with it.

Senator Crosby also criticized a statement by Senator Casgrain on Wednesday, that Sir Robert was playing a secondary part in the Peace Conference. The Prime Minister of Canada, he said, was "second to no man at the Peace Conference, and held no secondary place there, and a Canadian was not the man to say anything to the contrary."

PAIN, PAIN, PAIN, STOP NEURALGIA

Rub Nerve Torture, Pain and All Misery Right Out With "St. Jacob's Liniment"

You are to be pitied—but remember that neuralgia torture and pain is the easiest thing in the world to stop. Please don't continue to suffer; it's so needless. Get from your druggist the small trial bottle of "St. Jacob's Liniment;" pour a little in your hand and gently rub the tender nerve or sore spot, and instantly—yes, immediately—all pain, ache and soreness is gone.

"St. Jacob's Liniment" conquers pain—it is perfectly harmless and doesn't burn or discolor the skin. Nothing else gives relief so quickly. It never fails to stop neuralgia pain instantly, whether in the face head or any part of the body. Don't suffer!

PRESENTED WITH UMBRELLA

Miss Isabel Turner is Leaving for Bedford, N. Y.

On Friday evening a number of friends gathered at the home of Mrs. Turner, King George street, and presented Miss Isabel Turner, who is leaving the city shortly to reside in Bedford, New York, with a slight remembrance of the happy times spent in their midst. The following address was read by Miss Hazel Lang, while the presentation was made by Miss Dorothy Scrace. All join in wishing her every success in her new home:

Dear Isabel,—

It is with sincere regret that we learn of your intended departure from our midst. We hope that in your new home you may make many friends as you have done here. We wish you every success wherever you may go or do. And we will all be ready to extend to you a welcome back into our midst. We now wish you to accept this umbrella as a slight remembrance of the happy times spent in here. Once again, we wish you every success in your new home.

Signed on behalf of the Spinners,
JAMES EMMETH.

EDUCATIONAL TEST TO BE A FEATURE OF FRANCHISE ACT

New Measure is Likely to Deprive Still More Enemy Aliens of the Right to Vote.

Ottawa, March 1.—It seems certain now that the most contentious bills of the session will be the prohibition measure and the franchise bill. The question of prohibition was discussed at the caucus and some opposition was expressed to the Government proposal to validate the order-in-council prohibiting the manufacture and importation of liquor However, the explanation of the Government that it was planned to have a referendum when the soldiers returned was accepted as satisfactory, although there was some difference of opinion as to the nature of the referendum. The Opposition is likely to oppose the bill, while it is certain to have a stormy passage in the Senate. Senator Dandurand, Opposition leader, has announced he will fight the bill and there are Government Senators who object to the measure.

The Franchise Act to take the place of the War Time Election Act, which expires with demobilization will be even more contentious. The exact details of the bill have not yet been settled and will be submitted to a caucus for approval when it has been drafted. It is understood that the bill will provide for an educational test. There is a strong feeling in favor of such a proposal in view of the enormous foreign vote in the west, even of foreigners who were not touched by the War Times Election Act.

Block Aliens For Period

The granting of the suffrage to the women would make such actions doubly imperative. It is felt that citizens who cannot read or write English or French, the two official languages, are in no position to vote intelligently and are a menace to the country. In addition there will likely be provision for the disfranchisement of alien enemies for a period of years. The Opposition, it is expected, will strenuously fight to have the franchise granted to all aliens.

With the debate out of the way business will go with a rush. A number of Government bills have already been introduced and a half dozen important measures are ready for consideration. In addition to the large number of progressive legislation which is on the tapis, there are many minor bills, the accumulation of the past four years, when as far as possible everything but war was kidetracked. They largely deal with administration.

The first important bill which will be considered will be the Highways Act, which will be piloted through the House by Hon J. D. Reid. The bill provides for the expenditure of $20,000,000 over a period of five years, four millions a year. Each Province, irrespective of also, is granted $80,000, making $720,000 in all. The remainder of the four million is divided pro rata, according to population.

Sinn Fein Resented

The debate on the address will not likely be finished now until next Wednesday or later. There are still twenty or more speakers who have views on various topics to air. It will probably save time later in the session if they orate now. Mr. W. F. Cockshutt, Brantford, has the floor and is expected to make some reply to the attacks of W. C. Kennedy, North Essex, who sneered last night, at Sir Robert Borden attending the Peace Conference. It was a Sinn Fein type of a speech, which has aroused considerable resentment. Monday will see an interesting field day, as Dr. Michael Clark and Sir Sam Hughes are to have the floor and both are always interesting and original.

In the Toronto military district there were 4,664 appeals under the M.S.A. in 1,628 of which exemption was refused.

YOUR SICK CHILD IS CONSTIPATED! LOOK AT TONGUE

IF CROSS, FEVERISH OR BILIOUS GIVE "CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS."

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given.

If your little one is out-of-sorts, half-sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad, or has sick headache, diarrhoea, sore throat, or cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, the undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless "fruit laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach and they dearly love the pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

HOUSING SCHEME IN MONTREAL

FIVE DIRECTORS AND MANAGER WILL HAVE CHARGE OF FUND.

Montreal, Feb. 28.—The city commissioners reiterated yesterday what their chairman, Ernest R. Decary, had communicated some time ago to the press representatives at the City Hall, that the bill as prepared and to be submitted to the Legislature regarding the erection of workingmen's dwellings, will authorize the Administrative Commission to appoint a commission outside the City Hall to administer and manage the said fund.

As Mr. Decary stated some time ago, the committee will probably consist of five members, and will be clothed with full powers for administering the fund.

While details of the housing scheme have not as yet been fully worked out, it is understood that the commission of five will appoint a manager, who will report to them as to a board of directors. The medium to be alloted to one person, it is stated, will not be over $4,500. The advance will be from 75 to 80 per cent. on the value of the house and lot, the total not to exceed the sum mentioned; and further the lot is not to exceed 5 per cent. of the value of the building. The money may be advanced to individuals or to a building firm in charge of the construction work. There will be no need. the commissioners claim, of having ward representation on the commission for the reason that all the wards will be treated alike.

RAISE JURYMEN'S FEES.

Propose Also to License All Produce Dealers in Manitoba.

Winnipeg, March 1.—The bill to amend the Jury Act, introduced by Hon. T. C. Norris in the Legislature would increase the fees of jurymen from $4 to $5 per day. W. W. Wilson introduced a bill for the licensing of produce dealers, which calls for the payment of license and providing of bonds to the amount of $5000 by all the dealers in hay, poultry, etc., operating in the province. He believed this, if passed, would have the effect of protecting farmers against fraudulent concerns.

French troops evacuated Mannheim on Wednesday.

Blizzards are raging in the Western States and snow drifts are stalling trains.

The Peace Conference plans to reach agreements on the more important questions between March 8 and 15.

OPEN NOSTRILS! END A COLD OR CATARRH

How To Get Relief When Head and Nose are Stuffed Up.

Count fifty! Your cold in head or catarrh disappear. Your clogged nostrils will open, the air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more snuffing, hawking, mucous discharge, dryness or headache; no struggling for breath at night.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist and apply a little of this fragrant antiseptic cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothing and healing the swollen or inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable. Relief is sure.

ATTEMPT AT SUCIDE

Returned Soldier to Face Trial on That Charge.

Brockville, Feb. 28.—James Vallance, aged thirty, a returned soldier, was committed for trial at the Police Court on a charge of attempted suicide. When Vallance returned from work Wednesday night he learned from his child that Mrs. Vallance, while at the residence of a sister, Mrs. John Rudd, next door, was approached by Rudd, who put his arm around her. Vallance made an attempt as if to slash his throat with a razor. Mrs. Vallnce ran out and called for the police. He did not cut himself. Vallance was a member of the 38th Battalion, and in court it was learned [illegible] suicide. He admitted in court he was jealous of his wife. He came here from Cornwall two weeks ago.

BASEBALL PITCHERS WHO LIKE TO PLAY IN FIELD

Babe Ruth is One of These—Ty Cobb Always Hankered to Work on the Mound

Baseball fans of the Hub have been regaled with opinions of many prominent baseball men relatives to the proper place of playing Babe Ruth, heavy hitting pitcher of the Red Sox. Well known men in the game seemed divided on the interesting query. Ruth speaks right up for himself and admits he'd rather play in left field than pitch or do anything else around a ball club.

This was to be expected, yet this great slugger probably won't have his wish gratified, for his manager—Ed. Barrow—declares Ruth may pitch. He may bat in the pinches when he isn't laboring on the slab.

Ruth is not the only great pitcher who liked to cavort around in the garden. Nearly every great hurler who ever lived at some time in his career had the outfield bee buzzing in his cap. Some of the greatest outfielders in the game have been former pitchers, and Ty Cobb, probably the greatest of all, long has imagined he possessed hurling skill of high order. It is a common thing for one to see Cobb warming with the Tigers' pitchers just before a ball game.

Ed Welsh, former pitching idol of the south side fans in Chicago, long harbored a feeling he could make good as an outfielder, but the Big Moose never was given a chance. At least he imagined so.

The Red Sox have two other heavy slugging pitchers in Sim Caldwell and Jean Dubuc. Bullet Joe Bush is also above the average as a hitting hurler.

"If I were manager of the Red Sox I'd play myself in left field and let it go at that," replied Ruth to the question, "When do you think you ought to play?"

"I want to be in there every day and I want to be doing something all the time. You know I like the game a whole lot and don't think much of the plan of pitching once in four days and then sitting on the bench and only going in to pinch hit once in a while.

"It is my opinion I would hit much better if I played every day in a regular position. It stands to reason that a fellow ought to hit better when he is up there every day getting his eye across from any pitcher or any angle. used to the looks of the ball coming I'm sure I could hit better if I was playing regularly than as if I was pitching. Most pitchers fail to hit the ball. That is because they get few chances to see the ball and when they get in there it looks funny to them.

"It matters not a whit to me how deep the left fields are and it doesn't matter if left field is a sun field, as it is in Cleveland and New York. I played these sun fields all right and never lost a ball that ought to have been caught. I like to play left field and I like to play first base, but figure I'm a better left fielder than a first baseman and that there ought to be a good reason for playing me in left field on the Red Sox. There isn't any reason at all for playing me at first base when there's a gent around like Stuffy McInnis.

"Sure, I'm a good left hand pitcher, but I think I'll win more games playing left field day in and day out than pitching Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker play every day, don't they?"

Manager Barrow says he will probably use Ruth as a pitcher and if the Red Sox get Bobby Roth he never would think of sending this great southpaw to the garden.

HIGH PRICE FOR TROTTERS

MURPHY GIVES $12,500 FOR TWO WITH GOOD RECORDS.

Two notable additions to the training stable of Thomas W. Murphy are expected at Poughkeepsie this wek from Lincoln, Neb., and will surely attract much attention as noted drivers select candidates for leading Grand Circuit stakes of 1919. Both are young trotters and while neither fashionably bred yet have shown more than enough orm to command the $12,500, which Murphy is reported as paying for the pair.

As might well be expected both hail from half-mile tracks, like many past and present big list champions and winners. The purchase was made by Murphy on his way home from California. For Mariondale, a 5-year-old stallion he paid $5000 to owner and breeder, Schinstock Bros., West Point, Nev. This one is Baby Archdale out of Marion T., by Del Coronado, and while he gained a record of 2.10¼ at Sedalia, Mo., last August, is eligible for 2.16 classes by [illegible] He started in eleven races and gained five brackets.

The other is a 4-year-old colt, Dr. Nick, for which Murphy paid $7500 to D. J. McNally of Bellwood, Neb. He is by Dr. Igo and out of producing daughter of Expedition, like Mariondale, being also Nebraska-bred. Dr. Nick gained a record of 2.13½ at Lincoln, Neb., early last September, and won a four-heat race at Grand Island, trotting all his winning heats in 2.22¼, these being his only starts last year he is therefore eligible to all slow classes.

Be Sure You Go

Fearless.

A man who makes $15 a week has been advised by a writer that he can marry and get along, providing he has saved up a fund. That sounds reasonable. If man who can save a fund out of a $15-a-week salary has nothing to fear from marriage or anything else.—Kansas City Star.

Authors' Advantage.

The circumstance which gives authors an advantage above all great masters is this, that they can multiply their originals; or rather can make copies of their works to what number they please, which shall be as valuable as the originals themselves.—Addison.

Hospitality.

There is no unconcern, almost ostentatious, to equal that of the hostess who pours the clotted cream on the guest's peaches as if clotted cream were an everyday incident in that household. Blessed is hospitality.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Box With Grains.

A Pennsylvanian is the patentee of a combined mailbox and milk-bottle holder, which can be freely opened for the insertion of their intended contents, but are locked against theft when anything has been placed in them.

Another Feminine Industry.

"Girls wanted for men's neckwear," reads the advertisement of a department store. But we imagine that a man would be uncomfortable wearing a girl around his neck—New Orleans States.

Intelligent Dog.

The family doctor was making a professional call one afternoon, when Johnny, who happened to be the patient on this occasion, suddenly gave a chuckle just as the physician had completed his examination and remarked in a half confidential whisper: "Say, just look at my doggy! I guess he knows you're a doctor, all right. He's got his tongue out."

Fjord and Farewell.

The word "fjord" comes from the old Norse, survives in the modern words "firth" and "frith," is connected with the English "fare," meaning to travel, and used in the word "farewell," and meant, most probably, in the first instance, says the author of "Norwegian Pictures," water safe for navigation on account of its sheltered position.

Antique Furniture.

Those who possess pieces of antique furniture should devote personal attention to them and especially to any of old oak, which should be kept in condition by periodical rubbings with flannel dipped in a mixture of beeswax, oil and spirits of turpentine. White painted French furniture is best cleaned with paraffin.

BRITAIN SEEKS THE DAVIS CUP

INTERNATIONAL LAWN TENNIS TROPHY IS NOW HELD BY AUSTRALIANS.

London, March 1.—Great Britain has issued a challenge for the Davis lawn tennis cup.

The Davis international tennis challenge cup, donated by Dwight F. Davis, is now held by Australia, players from that country having won the trophy at New York in July, 1914. The United States team which was defeated by the Australians gained possession of the cup by a win over the English team at Wimbledon in June, 1913.

In the event that Great Britain's challenge is accepted, the match will be the first great international meet since the beginning of the world war.

U. S. Challenger in 1920.

New York, March 1.—Julian S. Myrick, a member of the executive committee of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association, said that the Davis cup challenge extended Australia by Great Britain for 1919 probably would cause no change in the plans of the American organization, which at its annual meeting instructed the executive committee to prepare a challenge for 1920. As a challenge has to be offered before March 1, he said, there is little possibility of one being made by the United States this year.

The opinion at the annual meeting was that the American organization had no right to issue a challenge this year, as owing to the fact that the United States was the last to enter the war, it had an advantage over other countries.

It has been understood in tennis circles here that France previously had issued a challenge for the cup, to be played this year. Matches in Australia are played late in the year, generally in December.

KENNEDY AS BALL MAGNATE?

Hockeyist Mentioned in Montreal as Possible Hamilton Owner

Montreal, Feb. 28. — The report from New York to the effect that there is an application before the executive of the International Baseball League to obtain the Hamilton franchise for Montreal, has naturally created a great deal of interest.

The only person who could in any way be identified with such a plan is George Kennedy the owner of the Canadiens.

Kennedy has made his mark in wrestling and boxing and hockey and was at one time a lacrosse magnate, and it only needs an interest in baseball to round out his career as an all-round sport promoter.

Salaries Paid To Ball Players

Eddie Collins, yearly stipend is $15,000. Joe Jackson $5,500 and traveling expenses of his wife when she wishes to travel with Joe. Buck Weaver draws $4,000 and is a holdout for $2,000 more. Oh, fan, study 'em! What would you as manager do with this trio? How would you settle the vexing salary problem? Should Buck Weaver get what he asks or should he be satisfied with what he can get? Remember their travelling expenses are paid, they live at the best hotels on the road; they travel on the best trains between the big cities; they are called upon to play exhibition games in smaller cities for which they obtain no extra money, their yearly contract covering the salary for all baseball work.

To obtain their salaries they must be in top notch playing form and must be ready to deliver. A permanent injury may come at any time, but the percentage of such player-injuries that puts them out of the game is small. The club sometimes insures a star against injury on the ball field and obtains recompense should a disabling injury come to the star on the field of play. This is done when a small fortune is spent to obtain the star from some other club. Look at Jackson's keen eyes; which enable him to hit; at Collins' thoughtful face and Weaver's aggressive, live face. Does the popularity of these men in drawing power have any argument?

'TWAS A LUCKY DAY SAYS MRS. O'CONNOR

HER IMPROVEMENT, AFTER TAKING TANLAC, WAS SIMPLY WONDERFUL.

"It was certainly a lucky day for me when I got my first bottle of Tanlac," said Mrs. John O'Connor, of 238 East Oldham street, Knoxville, Tenn.

"For five or six years," she continued, "I had been in a dreadfully rundown and nervous condition, was awfully weak and suffered with spells of dizziness. I had terrible nervous headaches and my stomach was so weak I couldn't digest even the lightest kind of food. I could sleep very little and became so despondent that I was afraid nothing could help me regain my health.

"I wouldn't have believed it if anybody had told me any medicine would cause me to gain eight pounds in ten days, but that is exactly what Tanlac has done for me. Soon after I started taking it I began to eat better, sleep like a baby and feel just fine, and my steady improvement has simply been wonderful. I have thrown away all my other medicines and will stick to Tanlac, for I think it is the finest medicine on earth."

Tanlac is sold in Peterboro by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield, by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Fowler's Corners, by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

Sunday Services At George Street

Rev. T. A. Halpenny, B.A., general secretary of the Provincial Sunday School Association, will preach in George Street Methodist Church on Sunday morning. The pastor will speak in the evening on the subject, "The Darkest Word," and will deal with the most serious fact of human history. Inspiring music will be rendered by the soloists and large choir.

AT MURRAY ST. CHURCH

Rev. R. K. Dayford Will Preach Sunday Evening.

The parents and Sunday School workers of Peterborough will be given an opportunity to hear Rev. R. K. Dayfoot at Murray Street Baptist Church on Sunday evening. Mr. Dayfoot, who is an authority on the problems of childhood, comes to the city in connection with the Sunday School convention of Monday, but has consented to be heard at Murray St. Sunday evening. In the morning Rev. J. R. Webb will preach and conduct the communion service.

SOCIAL EVENING FOR THE CHOIR

MEMBERS OF GEORGE STREET WERE ENTERTAINED BY PEWHOLDERS

Sometimes between choirs and pew holders there seems to be "a great gulf fixed," but such is not the case in George St. Methodist Church. The warm welcome given the choir and a number of the church members Tuesday evening of this week by Mr. and Mrs. B. Shortly and Mr. and Mrs. G. Carruthers when its members were their guests, and the spirit with which all hands entered into it, making it something that will always be a pleasant memory, showed that choir and church members are one big family and a jolly one at that.

As the evening of this entertainment happened to fall on the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Renwick, the choir took advantage of the opportunity to present them with a reading lamp. The presentation was made in a unique manner, being introduced among the games. Mr. C. C. Parsons, who was asked to explain the next game, in a few fitting remarks expressed the appreciation felt by the members of the choir in their associations with Mr. and Mrs. Renwick and the presentation was made by Miss Emma Worth. Needless to say Mr. and Mrs. Renwick were completely but pleasantly taken by surprise.

Much credit is due Miss Maysie Armstrong, who was in charge of the games for the evening, in making the occasion an informal and pleasant one for all concerned. The games chosen were those calculated to get the guests better acquainted and succeeded admirably in this. It goes without saying that the dainty refreshments served by the hostesses played an important part in the evening's entertainment, particularly with the male element.

At the close of the evening a vote of thanks was falsernaly proposed by one of the male members, who was somewhat flabbergasted by having such publicity thrust upon him while still ruminating on some of the good things that had been provided. But all doubt as to its heartiness was removed by the sincerity with which all responded. The evening's entertainment brought the choir closer in touch with the congregation. We only hope the entertainers had as good a time as the guests.

YOUNG MINSTREL AND A MAD KING

REV. F. E. MALOTT'S EVENING THEME AT TRINITY CHURCH

Services of unusual interest will be held in Trinity Methodist Church tomorrow. At the morning service the pastor's theme will be "Making the Most of Oneself." Reference will be made to the career of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

The pastor's evening theme will be "A Young Minstrel and a Mad King." The choir will render a grand service of song. Among other numbers they will give two anthems, "A Song in the Night," by Woodman, and "Unfold Ye Portals Everlasting," from Gounod's Redemption. There will be a quartette, and Mrs. King will sing the solo, "Love Eternal," by Stephen Adams. All are welcome at these services.

IN MEMORIAM

LOCKINTON—Written in memory of Mrs. William Lockington, whose life has chimed to eventide at the ripe old age of more than four-score years.

Her heavenward journey is now finished, a journey though by no means fraught with ease or luxury, yet trod by her in love, gentleness and godly dignity. In the memory of her family and friends will never perish the knowledge of her worth, warmth of heart and her joy in living—the remembrance of it will stand out as a beacon in the Tempests of Life. And now she has reached the goal which after all is the object of mortal aim; her's is the heavenly peace, "with all God's servants departed this life in His faith and fear."

Peterboro, March 1, 1919.

IN MEMORIAM

HUNTER—In loving memory of Wm. L. Hunter, who died March 1st, 1918.

We loved him, yes no tongue can tell,
How much we loved him and how well.
God loved him too and thought it best
To take him to his home of rest.
The blow was bitter, the loss severe—
To part with one we loved so dear—
Our loss is great, we'll not complain,
But hope in heaven to meet again.

WOMAN'S RIGHT TO GOOD HEALTH

MOST TROUBLES AFFLICTING WOMEN ARE DUE TO WEAK, WATERY BLOOD.

To every woman belongs the right to enjoy a healthy, active, happy live yet nine out of every ten suffer years of agony, usually from some form of bloodlessness. That is why one sees on every side pale, thin cheeks, dull eye s and dropping figures—sure signs of headaches, weak backs, aching limbs and uncertain health. All weak suffering women should win the right to be well by refreshing their weary bodies with the new, rich, red blood that promptly transforms them into healthy attractive women. This new, rich, red blood is supplied in abundance by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which reaches every organ and every nerve in the body. Through the use of these pills thousands of women have found a prompt cure when suffering from anaemia, indigestion heart palpitation, rheumatism, general weakness, and those ailments from which women alone suffer. There is not part of this broad Dominion in which you will not find some former sufferer who has regained health and strength through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Among the thousands of women who bear testimony to the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is Mrs. W. Ferguson Plattesville, Ont., who says: "After the birth of my second baby I was left very weak, and was steadily growing thinner and more bloodless. As time went on I became so run down that my friends thought I was in a decline. I tried different medicines, but none helped me until I was advised to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I began taking them and was not long in finding that they were helping me, and by the time I had taken a half a dozen boxes I felt like a new person. I had increased in weight, my color returned and I was again enjoying my old-time health. You may be sure when opportunity offers, I will gladly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

DIED

RISHOR—At 168 London Street, on Friday, Feb. 28, 1919 Mrs. Charles Rishor.

MR. H. W. STOCK announces to his customers that the baking business heretofore carried on as WM. STOCK & SONS, has been incorporated into a Joint Stock Company and Mr. Stock will be President of the Company. Mr. James Dutton will continue his position as Superintendent and Mr. Percy Stock who has been three years overseas, part of the time in the Royal Air Service, and who was wounded and discharged, will act as Assistant General Manager.

On account of the bread business of William Stock and Sons having increased to such large proportions it was found necessary to incorporate it into a Company, which will carry on the business with the same standard of service as given up to the present time. It is not the intention of the Company to carry on any other business except bread making, but to give every attention to increasing its output and the development of the business which has already had a most striking growth.

This Company is a purely Peterborough Company and Wm. Stock & Sons, have been known for the last quarter of a century as being at the front with up-to-date methods, sanitary appliances and large and well ventilated bakeries in which the Company will continue to carry on bread manufacturing.

BAVARIA TO VOTE ON CONSTITUTION

SOLDIERS' AND WORKMEN'S CONGRESS HAS ISSUED ITS PROPAGANDA.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Munich, March 3.—The Soldiers' and Workmens' Congress has adopted by a large majority the following resolution:

"The assembly of soldiers' and workmen's council constitutes the provisional national council of the free state of Bavaria. The executive committee will be charged with direction of national business and will consist of thirty-three members, whose appointments are revokable by the national council. The committee will choose from its members a central committee of seven, which will be responsible to it."

The further constitution of the free state of Bavaria will be prepared by the provisional government and the executive committee acting together and will be submitted for decision to the people.

WILSON TO MEET IRISH.

President Will Receive a Deputation From Recent Convention.

Washington, March 3.—President Wilson promised to meet a delegation from the recent Irish race convention at Philadelphia, after his speech in New York, Tuesday night. The Irish spokesmen desire to present resolutions demanding self-determination for Ireland.

MR. PROUDFOOT REMAINS.

No Change Yet in the Opposition Leadership.

That there will be no change in the leadership of the Liberal wing in the Provincial Parliament during the present session at least has been tacitly agreed upon by members of the Left, a convention for the reorganization of the party and its platform being looked for during the summer months.

INCITE WORKERS TO GO ON STRIKE

SPARTACANS ARE SPREADING STRIKE LITERATURE BY TRAIN AND AUTO.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Berlin, March 3.—Spartacan leaders in the strike district of Central Germany are sending out propaganda by trains and automobiles into the districts not as yet affected by the strike. An unscheduled train, of which the Spartacans had obtained control, attempted to pass the station at Kothen, but was stopped by station guards who opened fire on it with rifles and machine guns. One woman was killed and eight civilian passengers were severely wounded. The Spartacan train crew, including the stationmaster at Halle, a youth of 19 years of age, were arrested.

The Spartacans had distributed incendiary literature from Halle to Kothen. At Edderitz the authorities halted an automobile occupied by Spartacans who were heading for the Anhalt mining region for the alleged purpose of inciting a strike there. The Spartacans were arrested.

HOME RULE NOT INDEPENDENCE

IS RECOMMENDED AS IRISH PROGRAM BY SIR HORACE PLUNKETT.

Chicago, March 3.—Ireland would always be dependent on Great Britain for prosperity, and Dominion home rule would be preferable to independence, Sir Horace Plunkett, who was Chairman of the Irish Convention, said before the Irish Fellowship Club on Sunday.

"We may live to see the end of wars, and see the world in such a state that no armament is needed," he said.

"We expect that just as we do the millenium. But until the time comes when that little problem of the League of Nations is settled at Paris, and not only settled, but has been tested, no country can deal with problems affecting itself without due regard to its strategic position.

"The questions, shall Ireland establish great military defenses, rule itself, or shall it depend to a great extent upon other countries for support? An Irish Republic at the present time is not practicable."

The speaker said 90 per cent. of Ireland's trade was with England.

Sir Horace Plunkett reached the United States some weeks ago to study public opinion on the Irish question. He comes, he said, as "a listener."

RIGHT TO SEARCH BAGGAGE

Locked Inspectors May Examine It, Checked or in Hand.

Brockville, March 3.—W. J. Nixon, G. T. R. train master here has issued the following bulletin to employees: "License Inspectors have the right to search baggage suspected of containing liquors, whether in possession of passengers or, under check in baggage cars. Trainmen are not justified in refusing to allow Inspectors to make an inpection. All concerned will be governed accordingly."

Allied Commission Is Again Attacked

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Warsaw, March 3.—For the second time a train bearing members of the Inter-Allied Mission to Poland has been fired upon by Ukrainians, according to an official telegram received by Premier Paderewski. The shooting occurred on the route between Lemberg and Przemyal.

ALWAYS KNEW HUNS WERE BOORS NOW BELIEVES THEY ARE BRUTES

John Kendrick Bangs Discusses American Problem and the Attitude of United States on Reconstruction Work at Social Gathering After His Lecture Friday Night.

John Kendrick Bangs as is to be expected of a great lecturer and humorist is a charming conversationalist and while being entertained by the Lyceum Committee of the Women's Council at the home of Dr. and Mrs. F. C. Neal on Friday night he discussed the political situation in the United States from the standpoint of its bearings upon the formation of a league of nations as well as points of interest in connection with the war itself.

He is a member of the reconstruction committee which has been entrusted by the American Government with the task of rebuilding 100 of the ruined towns and villages of Northern France, and as such spoke with authority upon the terrible desolation which has been left in the wake of the warring armies.

A New One in Barbarity

Being in the immediate vicinity of the firing line for a considerable time Mr. Bangs speaks as an eye witness of some of the devilish practices of the Germans which were so often described in the press and looked upon by the reading public with a certain amount of incredulity on account of the gross and wanton cruelty charged against the perpetrators.

One plan followed a great deal by the Huns to maim the children of Northern France was to drop from their flying machines the tinsel wrapped torpedoes so common as Christmas trees in our own land. These, when the string was pulled instead of giving a harmless snap like the toys they resembled exploded with such force as to blow off the fingers and hands of the innocent children who noticed them upon the ground and picked them up.

Mr. Bangs stated positively that he had been an eye witness of the results of this cruel deception upon many occasions and has held the little maimed children upon his knees and endeavored to comfort them after such accidents.

In speaking of President Wilson and the attitude he had adopted in regard to the formulation of peace terms Mr. Bangs did not strike one as being an ardent worshipper of the popular American leader although his criticisms of his actions were remarkable for their fairness.

He characterized the American president as a man who seemed almost always to start out wrong and in some way to get turned about and end up right.

Peterborough's Golden Opportunity

Capt. J. M. Burnham has sent to Mayor Duncan the following letter, which will be considered at the meeting of the City Council tonight:

Mayor and Council of Peterborough:

Yesterday a deputation from Lakefield visited the Minister, accompanied by Mr. Dickson Davidson, asking the Minister to hurry up and build the new concrete dam at Lakefield.

It developed during the day, from conversation with the Minister, that this new concrete dam would add tremendously to the value of the present holdings of water privileges at the dam.

If Peterborough or Lakefield bestirs itself it can have Hydro appropriate at their present value these water privileges, which would mean that when the new dam is built, which will be soon, the public will have acquired for nothing probably a hundred thousand dollars' worth of improvements to the power privileges, which will go to private owners if the municipalities do not bestir themselves.

I wired you on Saturday, and wired the Hydro and also Lakefield to the same effect, in the hope that this splendid opportunity to acquire water privileges at a cheap rate, before their speculative value is immensely added to at the public expense, may be taken advantage of.

HAD TROUBLE, TOO ON THE SCOTIAN

RETURNED SOLDIERS COMPLAIN OF TREATMENT RECEIVED ON THAT TRANSPORT.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

St. John, N. B., March 3.—While some returning soldiers from the transport Scotian call it a "tempest in a teapot," others declare there were really serious troubles on that vessel. They complained bitterly of overcrowding and close confinement on the vessel, and when they made a rumpus and officers threatened to take drastic measures, the soldiers say they threatened to throw any officer overboard who took such action. A report has been forwarded to Ottawa.

MAKE HASTE WITH HOUSING BILL

BOTH SIDES IN LEGISLATURE AGREE OCCASION CALLS FOR SPEED.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, March 3.—With few changes made in the committee stage, the Ontario Government's big housing scheme bill will probably be rushed through the Legislature this afternoon. Both parties realize the urgency of the bill. William Proudfoot, Opposition leader, and Sam Carter, member for Wellington, have some amendments before the House, and these will be discussed today. The bill creating a department of labor, with Dr. W. A. Riddel as deputy minister, will probably go through with little discussion.

HEAVY ESTIMATES FOR PUBLIC WORKS

MILLIONS TO BE EXPENDED ON NATIONAL RAILWAYS AND SHIPBUILDING.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Ottawa, March 3.—In view of statements from overseas it is believed here that Sir Robert Borden will be back in his place in Commons about the first week in April. Until that date, it is believed that serious discussion of fiscal policies will be postponed. It is expected that heavy estimates to be laid before the House will include the expenditure of seventy or eighty millions for national railways and thirty millions for shipbuilding as well as substantial votes for pensions, repatriation, etc. Many motions by private members are awaiting discussion such as, titles, a minimum wage board, Guelph's novitiate, and so on.

BRITISH TROOPS HAVE FIRST CALL

SECRETARY BAKER EXPLAINS DELAY IN GETTING AMERICAN SOLDIERS BACK.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Washington, March 3.—One reason why the return of the United States troops has been slowed up, Secretary Baker explained, was that Great Britain had withdrew troopships to carry home Canadian, New Zealand and Australian soldiers, who had been in the service longer than the Americans, which, he said, was a perfectly proper procedure. He reiterated that by April three thousand American troops would be returning monthly.

Canada's Showing At French Fair

(Special Cable.)

Lyons, France, March 3.—The Canadian exhibits of the famous annual fairs here which was opened with due ceremony yesterday, included the showing from fifty-three firms, also Canadian national railways, Ontario mines, forestry, etc. The Paris edition of the New York Herald describes the Canadian exhibits as a striking feature of the fair, constituting a complete display of Canada's industrial and commercial products. Sir George Foster and various other Canadians will be here during the course of the exhibition. Enormous crowds are in attendance.

WILSON IN LAST TERM.

President Announced He Will Not Run Again.

Washington, March 3.—President Wilson told members of the Democratic National Committee that he would not be a candidate for re-election in 1920. After March 4, 1921, he informed the Democratic leaders in A talk after a luncheon at the White House, he will turn his attention to writing history. The statement, which was declared by members of the committee to be absolutely flat and unequivocal, was drawn out by their assumption that Mr. Wilson would accept another nomination.

EIGHT COMPANIES HAVE A MONOPOLY

AMERICAN SENATOR BEGINS WAR ON MEN WHO CONTROL COAL.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Washington, March 3.—A bill validating and authorizing the adjustment of more than two and a half billion dollars of war contracts and thirty-three million dollar rivers and harbors appropriation bill were signed today by President Wilson.

Senator Vardaman of Mississippi, chairman of the Senate manufacturers' committee, today inserted in the Congressional Record a statement on the committee's investigation of the anthracite coal situation, charging that the production of anthracite coal in the United States is controlled by eight large transportation companies which, through an almost complete monopoly, were able to fix prices and determine the rate of production.

CASH BUSINESS TO BE BALANCED

ADVANCES MADE BETWEEN CANADA AND BRITAIN TO BE OFFSET.

London, March 3.—An Imperial treasury statement gives the total cash advances to the Canadian Government, besides advances for which Dominion bonds have been issued, as seventy-nine million pounds on March 31 of last year. Cash advances by the Dominion Government apart from certain accounts still under consideration at the same date were $484,349,927, making, with interest, $506,145,781. It has been agreed that sums due from the Dominion Government will be set off against corresponding amounts due from the Imperial Government.

Brought Liquor Into Pontypool

Cobourg, March. 3.—Liquor is still flowing freely into this district. On Thursday at Brighton upon a complaint issued by Geo. Goodrich, License Inspector, "Judy" Empey of Trenton came up before Police Magistrate Drewry and was fined $200 and costs. He was charged with bringing liquor in by motor.

At Pontypool on Monday Inspector Goodrich seized about $250 worth of alcohol, supposed to belong to some Russian Jews who had just moved to the locality. The liquor was packed in three large packages containing old rags, such as are picked up around the county.

At the C.P.R. station here during the week Inspector Goodrich seized 32 bottles of Burke's Irish, Imperial quarts. This was packed in paper boxes.

PREMIER BORDEN BACK APRIL 1ST

IMPORTANT QUESTIONS TO BE POSTPONED PENDING HIS ARRIVAL.

Ottawa, March 3.—The latest information is that Sir Robert Borden will be back by the end of March. This is the expectation of the Prime Minister, according to recent cables received by the ministers. His return is awaited with much interest, for several reasons:

First, the cabinet naturally would prefer to have the first Minister in his seat, when such contentious measures as the tariff, the franchise act, the prohibition are under consideration. It is not likely any of these questions will be dealt with until Sir Robert returns.

Second, Sir Robert will be able to give Parliament and the country first-hand information as to the developments of the Peace Conference and the proposals as they effect Canada.

Keystone of Union.

Third, there is a growing feeling for a consolidation of the union party and its formation on a permanent basis. As Sir Robert was its founder and the keystone nothing can be done until he returns, but it is anticipated that steps along these lines will be taken.

Sir Robert will likely remain in his seat until some time in May, when he will return for the close of the deliberations and to affix his signature to the peace treaty on behalf of Canada.

Germans Resume Attack on Poles

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Posen, March 3.—The Germans, after three days of comparative quiet, resumed their attack all along the line upon the Poles on Sunday, according to reports from the Polish-German frontier.

DRIVER NOKES EXPECTED HOME

ONE OF THE FEW SURVORS OF 24TH FIELD BATTERY.

Driver A. Nokes, one of the originals of the 24th Field Battery, who went overseas in 1914, is expected to return to Peterborough on the 5.30 C. T. R train this evening.

He is one of the three or four survivors of the original company. His wife and children reside at 526 Patterson street. Previous to enlisting Driver Nokes was employed in the polishing department of the Peterborough Lock Company.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS HOLD SESSIONS TO-DAY

Interesting Addresses Given by Locals and Visitors—Public Invited to Attend Meeting Tonight.

The delegates to the Sunday school convention convened in George Street Church this morning when the order of routine business as set forth in the program appearing in the press on Saturday was followed satisfactorily.

Reports of county department superintendents were received, arrangements for township conventions discussed and settled, new business considered and officers elected.

A banquet was held in the Empress Hotel at noon today which was largely attended by members of the boys' conference, and at 2 o'clock the convention got down to business again.

This afternoon's proceedings opened with devotional exercises conducted by Rev. A. J. Thomas. Reports were received from department officers and superintendents, and three excellent addresses given. The first was delivered by Rev. T. A. Haspeny, B.A., upon needle and thread teaching; the second by Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner, B.A., who dealt with lesson preparation and presentation. The address by Rev. C. A. Meyers, B.A., upon the place of the teacher, concluded the afternoon's program.

Evening Session.

The program for the evening session is as follows:

Devotional service—Rev. J. A. McKenzie, B.D.
Music—George Street Methodist choir.
Report of Nominating Committee.
Address— The Child in Our Midst, Rev. P. H. Dayfoot, M.A.
Solo—Mrs. J. H. Renwick.
Offering.
Address — Laying Foundations: Rev. T. A. Haspeny, B.A.
God Save the King.
Mr. Joseph Wearing will occupy the chair.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

MONDAY, MARCH 3rd, 1919

BRANCH BANK AT INDIAN RIVER.

EVERY BRANCH BANK established throughout the country is another evidence of prosperity among the farmers. This being the case, it is gratifying to learn that the Union Bank, represented in this city by a model institution of its kind, is about to establish a branch at Indian River for the accommodation of the progressive and prosperous residents of that community. The world continues to move, and Canada flourishes in every line of endeavor, but in no branch of industry quite so rapidly as in agriculture. It is not so many years ago since banks were found only in the larger centres, and this for the best of all reasons—there was no field for them elsewhere.

THE U. S. AND THE LEAGUE.

IT IS EVIDENT from the address delivered by Senator Lodge in the American upper house of Congress on the League of Nations that the men who hold views in common with himself on this subject are not opposed to the primary principle of the new international treaty. It is to the terms of the constitution of that organisation, as published, to which they object, which terms are merely tentative, and which have been given to the world with an invitation to the powers interested to discuss freely with a view to eventual revision by the Supreme Council that drew up the constitution.

Senato. Lodge shows that the countries of Europe are chiefly interested in the objects which the League is supposed to attain. It is in Europe that trouble that will call for just such intervention is likely to arise. The United States is a nation of peace, by the record, and is content to remain by herself with the Monroe Doctrine as the exemplification of the country's foreign policy. But the senator, instead of rejecting the terms of the League outright, simply calls for further details as to its operations. What he wants to know is whether an international police force is to be maintained to preserve the peace or whether the leaders of the League are to have authority to call to arms any nation whose help is needed to crush an aggressive power. If the latter is the real idea of the League, then the United States, by becoming a party to the treaty, could be dragged into any future European war regardless of what the people of the American republic believed as to the justice of the issue involved. No nation should be forced into a war against its will, no nation should surrender its right to set its own standard of national honor.

Discussion by the United States Senate is likely to lead to amendments to the constitution of the League which will result finally in its acceptance by that republic. At all events, the membership of the United States is not essential to the success of the League. That organization with Japan, China, the British Empire and its dominions and the other Entente Powers of Europe as parties to it can achieve its purpose. In time of stress the support of the United States would not be lacking, and this support would be none the less effective because voluntarily rendered.

There is hope in the published statement of Senator Lodge that the time may come when the principle laid down by George Washington, which prohibits all entangling alliances with European powers, may have to be abandoned. The world has changed since the days when that principle was first promulgated. But Senator Lodge, while admitting this much, insists that all radical changes must be adopted slowly.

THE GERMAN WARSHIPS.

THE QUESTION as to what is to be done with the German war vessels has not yet been settled, but still exists as a contention among the delegates to the Peace Conference. With regard to the suggestion that they be broken up, it is now announced that this work would take three years, and that the scrap salvaged from the wreck would bring not more than $2,000,000. It is now believed that to sink them for breakwater purposes is impracticable. To send them to the bottom in mid-ocean for no other reason than to be rid of them and the problem of division that they have created, would be a sheer waste that the people would not stand for. Suppose a number of heirs to an estate disputed as to the possession of a house the final disposition of which was not clearly outlined in the will. If the heirs agreed among themselves to settle the controversy by burning the house, how long could they hope to be considered as in possession of their senses?

It is only natural, perhaps, for the British, ambitious as they are to maintain the supremacy of their own fleet, to favor the destruction of the German prizes. Every one of these war vessels added to the naval armament of a nation would bring the fleet of that power one degree nearer to naval equality with Great Britain. But the naval strength of the British was not seriously menaced by those German war vessels, even when they were held as a unit by Germany. Distributing them among three or four nations would not increase their prestige.

Canada and the other Dominions helped to make the capture of the German war vessels possible, and the money which Canada expended in the war will total over two billion dollars before all is over. Canada and its sister dominions are to increase their navies. Six years ago this country proposed to expend $35,000,000 in the construction of three dreadnoughts. This money was for the cost of building alone, the work to be done in England, where construction facilities already existed. If Canada undertakes that work now it will require at least $6,000,000 to establish a suitable place where the war vessels can be built, as constructing fighting craft is a vastly different proposition from building commercial vessels.

Why not give Canada one or more of the German naval prizes as part of her share of the fruits of victory and in part payment of her indemnity? Australia and New Zealand could be rewarded in the same way. Serbia and Poland will require a naval force. All the German war vessels now in possession of the Allies could be distributed among the weaker nations who stood together for the destruction of Prussianism. There should be no real difficulty in making an allotment. The vessels could be divided according to the relative amounts expended by the weaker Allies in the war. Great Britain, France, Italy and the United States could well afford to waive all claim to the prizes.

It has required a vast expenditure of blood and treasure to get possession of these vessels. Now that they have been secured, surely they can be applied to some practical purpose. The suggestion that they be destroyed seems nothing short of monstrous. There was sufficient property ruined during the war, in all conscience, destruction that was the natural corollary of such a conflict. To add wanton destruction to that which was unavoidable would go begging for an excuse.

DEALING WITH DEFAULTERS.

THE COUNTRY will never stand long for a law, universal in its scope so far as the Dominion is concerned, and operated by the same set of legal machinery, if it is not fairly administered in all parts of the country. There is something wrong in the enforcing of a law which in Ontario sends a military defaulter to prison for two years without the option of a fine, while a similar offender in Quebec escapes with a $5 fine or the nominal punishment of six hours in jail.

If the law is ambiguous it should be made clear in every detail. If a magistrate in Ontario is to impose the maximum, or the same penalty in every case that comes before him, regardless of any circumstances that may be urged in extenuation by the defendant's counsel, then the magistrate in Quebec should do likewise, provided, of course, that this is in compliance with the spirit of the law. If the Act that provides for the punishment of defaulters allows the magistrate no option but to send the guilty man to prison without a fine, if it provides one penalty only and gives the magistrate no authority to exercise his discretion and to consider circumstances, then it is about the only law on the statute books of Canada that does so, and for that reason would appear unnecessarily harsh.

Parliament would do well to take up this matter of dealing with defaulters who beyond all question deserve some punishment. But the nature of that punishment is a moot question. It is hard to see how sending a defaulter to jail for two years will accomplish anything in the interests of the State. As a warning to others, such a course cannot be justified, as the necessity for making examples is never likely to arise in Canada again. Two years in confinement will not make the defaulters any the more desirable as citizens, for the modern prisons are not yet noted as training places for the discharge of the higher duties to the State. The people will simply be saddled with an additional war debt in maintaining these defaulters in prison in comparative idleness. In the meantime their labor will be lost. No matter what worldly goods they may possess, they are not called upon to yield up any of their wealth for the benefit of the public, that is provided the law is administered everywhere as it is in Peterborough and men are sent to prison without the option of a fine.

The men failed in their duty in a crisis, and should not be allowed to escape. But there are other methods for punishing them which will be more severe upon the defaulters themselves and of vastly more benefit to the country that was menaced by their dereliction. Every defaulter should be required to make some monetary sacrifice. Further than that, he should be deprived of his citizenship for all time to come, or for twenty-five years at least, and the man who can't vote cannot hold public office. Once let him serve his jail sentence, and he is at liberty to go to the polls and vote, and the ballot he casts will have as much weight in deciding public issues as that of the soldier, even though the latter may hobble to the voting place on crutches or lacking both arms as a result of his service, will require help to exercise his right as a citizen.

There are said to be 50,000 defaulters in Canada. There is hardly jail room for all of them. But the franchise in the hands of such men is a greater public menace than even their failure to respond when called to arms.

HOW DE VALERA ESCAPED

Paris, March 3.—While the newspapers of the United Kingdom are still speculating over the mysterious escape from Lincoln prison in England of Edward de Valera, the Sinn Fein leader, the manner in which he effected his break from captivity on February 3rd has become known here. It was related to the Associated Press by Sean O'Ceallgh, the Sinn Feiner who is here asking the Peace Conference to recognize the "Provisional Government of the Irish Republic," having crossed the Channel on a passport secured by a subterfuge.

"After the midnight arrest of Edward de Valera near his home in Greystone," Mr. O'Ceallgh began, "he, with twelve comrades, was sent to Lincoln prison, the other Sinn Feiners arrested being distributed inorder to avoid concentrating them at any one jail. Because of de Valera's importance, the strictest watch was maintained upon the prison. No friend or relative was allowed to see him or his comrades. They were permitted to write and receive only three letters each weekly. The most stringent censorship possible was maintained over their mail, and both outgoing and incoming letters had to pass through London for inspection. It may be seen, therefore, that it was most difficult to get word with de Valera concerning his escape.

M.P.'s In Prison.

"The feeling in Ireland is intense because these men, against whom no charges have been preferred, should be kept in prison. Included among the prisoners in the various jails were thirty-seven members of Parliament. After the general elections were over, the first meeting of the republican members of the Irish Parliament was held on January 7th, and another a week later, at which the matter of the prisoners was discussed. A committee was appointed to take charge of the question of the release of the incarcerated comrades and the first result of that committee's activity was the escape of de Valera.

"The committee selected a number of men for the job who had been tried by fire and who would not be too timid in case there was gun-play. The first task was to survey the prison and discover the possibilities of the forceful coup. The prison lay in an isolated part of the town. The rear looked out on a large open space. Just outside the back gate was a small patch of ground on which the prisoners were allowed to exercise under guard.

Militia on Guard.

"This place was surrounded by a series of barbed wire entanglements. Several armed wardens watched the prisoners while they were out, and at sunset a force of militia was thrown about the prison. Because of this military guard it was decided to be unwise to try to rush the place for fear of loss of life and the probable death of de Valera.

"The next move was to communicate with de Valera, which was very difficult. However, one Sinn Feiner started working on a garden plot, of which there were several near the prison. He abracted de Valera's attention one day by singing Sinn Fein songs in Gaelic, in which he told the leader that an attempt would be made to rescue him. The warder's suspicions were not aroused, because it was not uncommon for Irish workmen to be about the prison

Sang Instructions.

"This man appeared again several days later and again sang a ballad, in which he told de Valera that the rear exit of the prison was the most feasible for the attempt, and asking de Valera to secure an impression of the key to the gate.

"The impression of the key was secured. I am not quite sure of the method, but I presume it is the same one I myself employed at one time, which was making a paste of bread and soap and then distracting the warder's attention while the big Key was slapped into the paste for a second. This impression was wrapped in paper with a stone and thrown to the singer in the garden plot.

Doubled Guards.

"While this was going on four Sinn Feiners escaped from the Usk prison in Wales, and this caused the authorities to double the guards of all the jails and postponed the release of de Valera. In Lincoln prison the inmates were counted continually and the strictest watch was maintained.

"The sentries about the rear of the prison were a grave menace to the plans, and the committee tried to find girls in the neighborhood who could be employed to influence them. This attempt was given up, however, and finally a telegram was sent to Dublin for two handsome young women, both highly cultured university graduates, who arrayed themselves as shop girls and crossed the Channel.

Day Set For Escape.

"The girls deliberately set out to flirt with the soldiers and soon came to know most of the guards. De Valera was informed by code in a letter that February 3 was set for his escape and the procedure to be outlined as much as possible. This little code had been arranged for just such an emergency before de Valera was imprisoned.

"On the eve of February 3 four motor cars packed with Irishmen were sent wandering about the country near Lincoln to serve as decoys for the police. At four o'clock the prisoners were brought in from their period of exercise. They then had a three-hour period for wandering about the prison before they were locked up for the night.

Cut Barbed Wire.

"In the dusk, shortly after four o'clock, the girls appeared and enticed the guards from the rear of the prison as far as possible. Then two Sinn Feiners quickly cut a path through the barbed wire.

"At five o'clock de Valera, with McGarry and Millroy (the two Sinn Feiners who escaped with de Valera) sauntered to the back gate. Their friends outside crept up and opened the gate with the false key, while the sentries continuel their flirtation with the girls. An automobile was waiting and de Valera was whisked away to London, while the police chased the decoy motors.

"Where is de Valera now?" he cannot state, but he will be here on time when he is wanted."

LITTLE BENNY'S NOTEBOOK

Me and Puds Simkins and Leroy Shooster was setting on my frunt steps not tawking about enything speshil on account of not being enything speshil to tawk about, and Sam Cross started to tawk fast as if he thawt he was in a hurry, saying, Aint you fellows going erround to see the perrade?

Erround ware? Wat perrade? sed me and Puds and Leroy Shooster, and Sam Cross sed, Wy, the big soldiers perrade on Broad street, it sed all about it in the paper this morning.

And he kep on wawking fast, and me and Puds and Leroy Shooster jumped up and went erround with him and there was a rope on Broad street stretched along the cerb to keep the crowd back, ony there wasent eny crowd, and us 4 fellows wawked up to the rope and started to stand there, Sam Cross saying, I would rather come erly and get a good place than come late and haw to look underneeth of peeples legs.

Wich me and Puds and Leroy Shooster sed we would too, and we kepp on waiting and nuthing went past but awtomobeels and things the same as they always do, and the more we waited the less nuthing happened, me saying, G, my feets getting tired, its the funniest perrade I ever saw, and Puds Simkins saying, You meen its the funniest one you never saw, and Leroy Shooster sed, I bet we bin heer more than a hour, if I saw a cop Id ask him about it.

Wich jest then about 6 of them went past in a patrol wagon, and Leroy Shooster called out, Wat times the perrade?

8 oclock tomorro morning, sed one of the cops, and another one sed, Dont let enybody shove you out of your place.

Aw heck, sed me and Puds and Leroy Shooster. And we grabbed ahold of Sam Cross and took him erround and made him wawk past my frunt steps about 10 times holding his handkerchiff up in the air, wile us 3 sat there yelling, Herray, perrade, herray, herray.

TO-DAY'S STORY

"Oh, Robbie, isn't it just too good to be true that you are really home, safe and sound? I wake up in the night and think it is a dream."

Ethel Thacker partially freed herself, and, holding Capt. Robertson at arm's length, she studied the bronzed countenance as though to reassure herself that he was there in the flesh.

"And the next thing will be to get a job, won't it?"

"Yep."

"You must have lots of friends, Robbie, a popular chap like you. Can't you think of some one who could land you in a good position?"

"Nope."

"There is Mr. Pendleton, he has no end of people working for him. He must have a place for a man of your talent."

"Doesn't know me from Adam."

"I'll tell you how to manage; get some letters of introduction and see him."

"Easier to see a king. Talk about the hedged throne. He has a regular barbed wire entanglement."

"The reason I thought of Mr. Pendleton," continued Ethel, "is that mother used to go to school with Mrs. Pendleton's social secretary."

"Close connection."

"You needn't be scornful. I'm just trying to think of something practical."

"Me, too."

The next evening Capt. Robertson found Ethel on the doorstep literally a-tiptoe with exciting news.

"You could never guess what's happened, Robbie! We are invited to Mr. Pendleton's box; think of that!"

"What box?" queried the soldier.

"His box at the concert, silly; don't you know what a box is?"

"Dope it out."

"Well, that friend of mother's, you know, Mrs. Pendleton's secretary, called her up and said Mr. Pendleton had sent two tickets to her, and, as there was sickness in her family, wouldn't mother go in her place and take some one. Mother said you should go."

"Awfully good of her."

"I think it providential. The other seats are to be used by Mr. Pendleton's secretary, and now all you have to do is to make yourself agreeable to him, and that will open the way to meet Mr. Pendleton."

The night of the concert the two young people were ushered into the dimly lighted box, in which the others were already seated. Ethel nudged her companion repeatedly to make him open the conversation, but the conductor was already bowing and smiling before the diffident chap could find his tongue.

During the intermission Ethel and the other woman exchanged a few remarks, but the men continued silent. The failure of her plan was most depressing to the girl, and, though she joined listlessly in the general applause, the finale was the only number that roused her.

In her own living room once more, Ethel faced her sweetheart despairingly.

"Robert Robertson! How will you ever get on in the world if you continue to be a clam? Here you have a really good opportunity, and you never open your head. I give you up!"

"Don't, Ethel. I just could not begin. But you needn't feel so bad. He was not the secretary. I asked him. He said the secretary was detained and so he had the use of the tickets."

The next morning Robert arrived unexpectedly at Ethel's home.

"Look at this and holler!" He thrust a letter into her hand.

She read:

"My dear Captain Robertson: If, as I infer, you are open for a position, will you consider that of my secretary? The incumbent has been promoted, but has stayed on till a successor could be found. I need a man with a gift for silence, and judging from our evening together, you will fill the bill. Pray pardon my accidental incognito. Yours very truly,

"G. H. PENDLETON."

"Oh, Robbie, and I scolded you for not talking!"

"Well," he said, "when does the coaching come off?"

LESSONS IN RIGHT LIVING

(By Dr. W. A. Brady.)

A podgy abdomen is perhaps the most frequent consequence of too much corset. Hence if there be any read of the credulous sex who is so afflicted, the exercises described in this article may have some interest.

1. Lie supine on the floor, with the feet under a heavy chair or other support. Place the hands on the hips. Slowly draw yourself up to the sitting posture, expire (breathe out) slowly, then slowly and inspire (breathe in) slowly and repeat. Do this twice, each night and morning, the first week; three times night and morning the second week, and so on until you can do it from five to twelve times at a seance without undue fatigue or soreness of the muscles afterward.

2. Stand erect with arms stretched high above the head. Slowly expire and at the same time swing the arms and body forward and downward until fingers touch the floor in front of your feet, whether you have to bend the knees or not. Now draw in a deep breath and at the same time swing upward to the first position and as far backward as you can. Repeat twice night and morning the first week, three times the second week, and so until until you can do it twenty times at a seance. The smoothness, regularity and depth of the breathing should be cultivated in harmony with the movements.

3. Stand erect with the hands resting on the hips. Expire forcibly through the open mouth and squat down on the heels at the same time. Immediately close the mouth and inspire deeply through the nose while you return to the first position. Repeat not over five times night and morning the first week, and increase gradually in the course of the first six weeks until you can do it twenty-five times at a seance.

4. Iron out the wrinkles and loosen the kinks and stir up the stagnant splanchnic pool in the abdomen (where about half the entire mass of blood may accumulate in persons with "poor circulation") by rolling half a dozen somersaults.

Do not expect any tangible results from these exercises until you have followed them faithfully and enthusiastically for six weeks. If you follow them that long no argument will be necessary to convince you that physical training is good medicine.

All-Around "Cold" Medicine.

Our four children are healthy, hearty bunch, sleep with windows open and all that. Yet even so they will have a cold occasionally or whatever you call it. They have never taken physics or cough medicine, but I gather from you talks that some such medicines are advisable and would appreciate it if you will print a formula for some good all-around cough medicine to give children for such colds, also a suitable physic.

MRS. J. H.

Sleeping with windows open does not immunize children against the respiratory infection; it merely gives them a fair chance to resist such infections. It is the normal thing, not a special advantage. Only the children of benighted parents call it respiratory infection, which it is; Mrs. Gamp et al. call it "cold," which it isn't. A tablespoonful of aromatic syrup of rhubarb is a good physic, pleasant to take. This is a good all-round medicine in which cough is a symptom:

Citrate of sodium .....1 ounce
Glycerin .....1 ounce
Oil of peppermint .....5 drops
Flaxseed tea .....1 pint
Juice of one lemon.

Add sugar for sweetening if desired.

Dose: Tablespoonful in wineglass of water every two hours

Janet's Beaming Countenance.

Why do I have such a shiny red face? I am 5 feet 6 inches tall, weigh 160 pounds and have a very hearty appetite. Can you suggest anything for it. JANET.

Yes, Janet, curb your appetite. You are on the road to C. V. D., where you will arrive, if your appetite keeps up the present pace, at about the time a woman ought to arrive at perfection. You are already twenty or more pounds over-weight. Kare'l and keep well.

Disliked Portraits.

Some people are abnormally sensitive about having their portraits made, either by photography or the brush. Not all of these are as successful in avoiding the artist as was Joseph Brumah, an English inventor of the last century. He never sat for an artist; but his portrait was included in a large engraving called "Eminent Men of the years 1807-1808." When this engraving is examined, however, according to a recent book on mechanical inventions, it is found that Brumah appears with his back to the beholder! The explanation is given that a relative supplied the engraver with a description of the inventor's figure and appearance.

Female Engineers.

While the Amalgamated Society of Engineers of Great Britain does not admit women to its membership, it has since the early days of the war had an informal alliance with the National Federation of Women Workers, in whose ranks it helped to organize the women who poured into the various branches of the engineering trade.

When the war began the Krupp gun works were the largest of the kind in the world, employing 96,000 persons.

HUNTER GODFREY IS HOME AGAIN

ARRIVES THIS MORNING UNEXPECTEDLY WITH SIX OTHER VETERANS.

Hunter Godfrey, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Godfrey 217 Mark street, Ashburnham, arrived home on the G. T. R. train this morning.

He enlisted in the 8th Canadian Mounted Rifles at Ottawa, was transferred to the 4th C. M. R. and was taken prisoner while on active service in France. He remained a captive of the Germans for almost three years and for the past few months has been in England awaiting an opportunity to cross to his own country.

This morning in company with six other returned men of this city he arrived unexpectedly. It was thought this his party would not reach Peterborough until the 5.30 train this evening consequently there was no one on hand to meet the veterans and extend a welcome.

Entertainment At Protestant Home

GIVEN BY LADIES' BIBLE CLASS OF ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.

A very enjoyable social evening was spent at the Protestant Home on Wednesday, February 26th, when about 27 of the members of the Ladies' Adult Bible Class of St. Andrew's Church, of which Mr. F. E. Kerr is teacher, entertained the old people. Mrs. B. McNeely, president of the class presided, and spoke of the pleasure it gave the members to visit them once more.

The program opened by a piano solo by Mr. H. C. Treneer, who was quite generous throughout the evening, both with vocal and piano solos. Then followed:

Miss Chapman—Recitation.
Mrs. Wagstaff—Vocal solo.
Mr. F. E. Kerr—Reading.
Miss Jessie Stevens—Vocal solo.
Mr. John—Recitation.
Miss K. Spence—Vocal solo.
Mr. Treneer—Vocal solo.

At the close of the program adjournment was made to the dining room where dainty refreshments were served by the members of the social committee. A pleasant evening was brought to a close by all joining hands and singing Auld Lang Syne, and God Save the King.

PRINCESS SENDS THANKS.

Reply to Lady Borden's Message for Canada.

Ottawa, March 3.—The following cablegram was sent by Lady Borden to the Princess Patricia on the occasion of her marriage to Commander Ramsay:

"The people of Canada, by contributions through the wives of the lieutenant governors, have arranged for a wedding gift to Your Royal Highness of Victory loan bonds, which I shall forward enclosed in a silver box in the near future. In requesting acceptance of this gift as a token of the warm regard of the Canadian people toward Your Royal Highness I desire to convey the assurance of their deep interest in the happy occasion and to again extend our best wishes for your happiness and welfare."

The Princess replied: "Please convey to the people of Canada my heartiest appreciation of their good wishes. Deeply touched by your announcement of wedding gift which is being sent."

PUT FINAL STOP TO SUB WARFARE

MARSHAL FOCH SUBMITS MILITARY TERMS FOR INCLUSION IN TREATY.

Paris, March 3.—Marshal Foch has presented to the Council of the Great Powers the military terms to be incorporated in the peace treaty. These were considered today with the naval terms already submitted to the Council.

The military terms provide for the disarmament of Germany down to 20 division sof 10,000 men each, including 15 divisions of infantry and five of cavalry. Severe restrictions are placed on the manufacture of all classes of war material, and the military and commercial use of the airplane is limited to the minimum.

Beyond Marshal Foch's presentation of the terms they were not discussed.

End Submarine Warfare.

The naval terms now before the Council provide not only for the complete suppression of Germany's submarine equipment, but also for the termination of all submarine warfare by all nations throughout the world, thus ending the use of the submarine in naval warfare.

The provision for the dismantling of the fortifications of Heligoland and Kiel Canal has been made the subject of reservation by Admiral Benson, representing the United States, whereby this shall not be a precedent applicable to American canal and harbor defence, such as Hell Gate, Cape Cod Canal, and others.

The proposal for the destruction of the large German warships is approved in the report by the British and American naval authorities, but the French still make reservations against the destruction of these ships.

The Supreme Council is expected to pass on this and other naval and military subjects on Monday.

Since the Ontario Temperance Act went into effect about $15,000 has been collected in fines at Bridgeburg, largely from residents of the interior, arrested at the border for violations.

WINS RACES ON BABY HORSES.

Roscoe Troxler Tells Secret of Success With Two-Year-Olds.

Roscoe Troxler is regarded by horsemen as the best rider of two-year-olds on the American turf. Whenever Troxler has the mount on a baby racer in the spring of the year—particularly an untried youngster—that horse has a following and Troxler generally gets the horse home in front if it has any ability. Troxler has been riding for twenty years continuously and on September 19th at Havre de Grace he celebrated his twentieth anniversary as a rider by riding Master Karma to victory. His first winning race was on a mare named Infelice in 1899 at St. Louis track. Since then he has ridden hundreds of winning races and he still has several years of service before him. He explains his success as a two-year-old rider by saying that the young horses heed babying just as human infants, and he knows how to jolly them into behaving at the post and getting away from the barrier.

WOMEN SET TANK RECORDS.

New Stars Shine Out at Montreal Meet for Mermaids.

Helen Fitzsimmons lowered two Canadian swimming records held by women, and Mrs. Forrest made one at competitions and exhibitions given by the Montreal athletic association.

The performance of Miss Fitzsimmons, who is aged 17, was a remarkable one. She lowered the mark for the 50 yards made by Mrs. H. J. Haunton at Winnipeg in 1917 by 3 2-5 seconds, while she lowered the mark for the 100 yards by almost 3 seconds. Her times were: 50 yards, 32 2-5; 100 yards, 1.20 4-5.

The record made by Mrs. Forrest was another creditable performance. Mrs. Forrest swam the 200 yards in 4.14 2-5. This is a new distance for woman swimmers.

A Slight Alteration.

"And how are the twins?" a vicar asked, meeting their old sister.

"Getting on nicely, thank you, sir," stammered the shy girl.

"Have you decided on their names yet?" went on the vicar, smilingly.

"Y-yes, sir," answered Annie, tumbling out her words in confusion. "We're going to call them Steam and Kidney."

The vicar looked rather puzzled, but let it pass. The names he was asked to bestow upon the twins at the font a fortnight later were Kate and Sydney.

Transforming The Prairies,

SELDOM does a settler in a new country find things exactly as he would like to find them. Take trees, as an illustration. It is true there are large stretches of country in different parts of the world where trees seem to be ideally interspersed. Large areas in the central parts of the Prairie Provinces of Canada are like this. Open spaces of forty to a hundred acres or more are almost surrounded by trees, affording excellent shelter for stock, and making a varied landscape. But such conditions are exceptional, though they serve to emphasize the rule. Mostly the new settler finds too many trees or practically none at all. In the former case considerable labor is required in clearing before the settler can hope for any crop. In the latter case, the settler has the advantage of being able to break his land immediately and, if he proceeds in the right manner, soon has it in a condition for producing a remunerative crop. But if he has come from a home which was surrounded by trees, he certainly misses them for a time.

A large part of the Canadian prairies comes under the second category. Nearly all of the southern to the central parts of these provinces are open prairie, ready for the plow. Except near the rivers and creeks one could motor miles and miles without seeing a tree. But a wonderful transformation is slowly taking place. If nature has left these fertile prairies practically treeless, she has not left them devoid of the elements necessary to tree growth. Trees will grow there if properly planted and cared for, just as wheat and other grains, just as alfalfa and other fodders, just as potatoes and all manner of roots and vegetables, grow—wonderfully well. And they are being grown more and more extensively every year, beautifying many a farm home, and transforming the prairie landscape.

In this beautifying process, farmers are greatly encouraged by the Canadian Government and the Canadian Pacific Railway. Both are taking a keen interest in the planting of trees on the prairie farms, and encourage farmers to improve their home surroundings by furnishing trees free of cost to farmers. Each maintains large nurseries where trees are grown for this purpose under prairie conditions, the government at Indian Head, Saskatchewan, and the Canadian Pacific Railway at Wolseley, Saskatchewan. Up to a few years ago both nurseries were typically open prairie. Now trees are being raised from seed on the Government's farm at Indian Head, Saskatchewan, which comprises 480 acres, in sufficient quantities as to permit a distribution of between seven and eight million young plants annually. The Canadian Pacific Railway distributes its trees from its nurseries at Wolseley, Saskatchewan, and Indian Head, Saskatchewan, and Indian Head, Saskatchewan, and Indian Head

LESSONS FROM THE LIFE OF SIR WILFRID LAURIER

Rev. F. E. Malott in His Morning Sermon at Trinity Church Pays Graceful Tribute to Canada's Distinguished Statesman.

In Trinity Methodist Church, yesterday the Pastor, the Rev. F. E. Malott paid a tribute to the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the course of his morning sermon. The sermon, the theme of which was "Making the Most of Oneself," was based upon two well known passages of scripture, "To this end was I born and for this end came I into the world that I should bear witness unto the truth," found in John 18, 37; and "This one thing I do, I press toward the mark," found in Phil. 3, 14.

The sermon was a strong appeal to have a lofty purpose in life and to pursue it with energy and persistence. The speaker took the ground that we have all been born for a purpose and that it is our business to discover that purpose as soon as possible and set about the accomplishment of it.

It is the business of every one, he maintained to bring all his powers of mind and body to perfection and devote them to the best use. An old Hebrew prophet said to the people of his day, "Break up your fallow ground."

"There are whole tracts of unworked territory in our lives," said the speaker. "We need an all round development. We need it for the best enjoyment of life. We need it to glorify God and witness to the truth. We need it that we may do the most good in the world. And we need it because our country and our age calls for men and women of the highest type, who have developed their own resources of mind and soul, to do the big things that need doing today. The sermon was aptly illustrated from history and literature. But one of the best illustrations was that which was drawn from the life of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier

The speaker said in substance: We do well to honor our great men. A week ago all Canada mourned the passing of a man who has been an outstanding figure in Canadian life for half a century. An independent journal speaking of him said recently, "In his case it is not necessary to invoke the rule that Plutarch ascribes to Solon: 'To say nothing but good of the dead.' Sir Wilfrid was not one of whom any reasonable man could speak evil, however he might differ with his political views.

The position which he achieved was the triumph of a great personality, but that personality was the product of both nature and nurture. He was born with talent, but no Canadian that I know anything about, better illustrates the meaning of "Making the most of oneself."

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's education continued through a life time. He never ceased to be a student of books of men, and of affairs. Coming of scholarly stock, it was his good fortune to receive, not the inferior education of a French habitant, but the broad education of a great Scottish Canadian university.

If more French-Canadians would learn English and read as widely in English literature and history as Sir Wilfrid Laurier did and if more Anglo-Canadians would learn French and read French literature we might sooner see the day of national unity we long for. Sir Wilfrid's acquaintance with English literature and history was one of the secrets of his success.

Without attempting to trace his career in detail let me say this: He discovered early in life the sphere in which his great gifts could find their fullest exercise and he fitted himself for that career with the most assiduous attention to all that such a career demands of men. And both opponents and friends combine to give him credit for great ability, considerable achievements, integrity of life and well merited distinction. He was a fine example of a symmetrically developed man, physically, intellectually, culturally, socially, morally and religiously.

Although a man of splendid presence, he was not a man of rugged stature, but he has set a fine example to young men of making the most of his physical strength. By temperate habits and wise care of his health he was enabled to bear the tremendous strain of fifty years of public life.

His intellectual achievements were most marked. His native talents were of no mean order, but the world would not have heard of Wilfrid Laurier had he trusted merely to native wit. He never ceased to inform himself by reading and study. He is a fine example of what young men can do who will put away trifling things of life and give attention to reading.

Unlike many men who read much Sir Wilfrid was not a recluse. He cultivated the art of living with men. Those who knew him best speak of the charm of his magnetic personality. He possessed that courtesy culture, sympathy and sociability that wins men, but withal maintained a courtly dignity that kept at a distance those who might presume too much upon his good nature.

His personal life was above reproach. The search light that beats unmercifully upon all who hold high place found nothing that could bring reproach upon him.

"And he was a devout man. We, brought up in the Protestant faith and accustomed to our modes of worship cannot fully understand those of another communion, as they cannot understand us, but we can appreciate the man who is loyal to his church and to his religious views.

Of all men those who sit in legislative halls, as the people's representatives, should be devout men and should through worship seek divine guidance and wisdom.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier while a true son of the church, maintained perhaps, as real an independence of clerical dominance as can be expected of one of his race and creed.

The address, which was followed with the closest attention was brought to a close with the well-known lines of J. G. Holland. "God give us men."

SHE COULD NOT STAND OR WORK

Portland, Ind. "I had a displacement and suffered so badly from it that at times I could not be on my feet at all. I was all run down and so weak I could not do my housework, was nervous and could not lie down at night. I took treatments from a physician but they did not help me. My Aunt recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I tried it and now I am strong and well again and do my own work and I give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the credit." —Mrs. JOSEPHINE KIMBLE, 935 West Race St., Portland, Ind.

Thousands of American women give this famous root and herb remedy the credit for health restored as did Mrs. Kimble.

SENATOR KNOX ASSAILS LEAGUE

WOULD HAVE THE CONSTITUTION AS PROPOSED REVISED IN DETAIL.

Washington, March 3.—Senator Knox, of Pennsylvania, former Secretary of State, speaking in the Senate, assailed the League of Nations as striking down American constitutional principles, and proposed a new world organization, which, he said, "would preserve the Monroe doctrine and save America from the results of European intrigue and aggression."

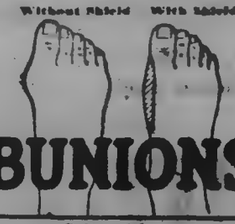
He said the constitution of such an international coalition should primarily declare war an international crime, and stipulate that any nation engaging in it, except in self-defence, be punished by the world as an international criminal. He also suggested that the constitution provide that international disputes be decided by an international court, according to an international code defining war; that no nation could summon another before the court unless the subject under discussion was of common concern to the contending nations, and that jurisdiction of the court do not extend to matters of Governmental policy.

Divide World in Two.

Among other suggestions for the constitution, Senator Knox said it should provide that the countries of the two hemispheres be called upon to enforce decrees of the international court only in their respective hemispheres.

"A league framed on these broad lines," he continued, "would carry with it a minimum loss of our sovereignty, would relieve us from participation in the broils of Europe, would preserve the Monroe doctrine, and would save America from the results of European intrigue and aggression."

Without Shield With Shield



BUNIONS

Relieved by Dr. Scholl's Bunion Reducer Shield

This appliance has a peculiar concave shape, purposely so formed to fit snugly over joint and eliminate friction and pressure from footwear, and at the same time also prevents the enlarged joint from forcing the shoe out of shape.

Is superior to old-fashioned leather and felt protectors, as it is made from antiseptic rubber, and being worn right on bunion inside hosiery, it excludes air, forms and retains a moisture pocket which keeps the joint soft and pliable, removes that hard skin or callous that so often accompanies and increases the irritability of the enlargement, also reduces inflamed condition.

Made in three sizes and for right and left foot. Price 35c each, $1.00 per pair.

COLLEGE PROFESSOR SCOFFS AT NEW LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Sir Andrew MacPhail Says Such a Combination of Powers Failed to Save Belgium From Outrage by Germans.

Halifax, March 3.—The guarantors who could not protect Belgium were not likely to be more effective in the future with Hottentots and Chinamen added to their ranks, said Sir Andrew MacPhail, professor of history at McGill University, in the course of a statement on the League of Nations scheme, given to newspapermen upon his arrival here on the Lapland.

Sir Andrew is returning after two years spent with the medical staff of the Second Canadian Division. He said that there was very little interest being taken in the Peace Conference in England, where the opinion prevailed that the League of Nations would keep the peace, so long as the nations were disposed to keep it and no longer. As for the contribution made by the United States, Sir Andrew said, nowhere was appreciation of the American effort so high as in the British army, which alone knew the magnitude of the services rendered and the extent of the difficulties overcome.

It is his opinion that the Germans are a shattered people and knew that their idols are fallen. He thought it probable that the "Rhine would be held indefinitely and that the Huns would be left to work out their own salvation."

Situation in England.

The unrest in England, said Sir Andrew, was merely the reaction that had come to the country after being bathed in blood for four years. The people were face to face with a new economic system. In times gone by the whole world worked for England, and dumped on her shores, food, raw material and more or less finished goods. That had been stopped, and now commodities were scarce and dear, and wages as they always did, were lagging behind.

The services of Canada were recognized in England to the fullest, and with Lord Milner and Col. C. S. Amery at the Colonial Office the political development of the Dominion was assured a safe and regular course, said the professor.

Discussing the Canadian medical service in England, Sir Andrew stated it was now running with all the smoothness of a university. The attacks upon the service, which were so common in the beginning, had long since ceased, and the care of Canadian sick and wounded from the front line back to Canada had been a model for all the forces.

Soldiers to Merge.

With reference to the returned soldier, Sir Andrew stated that he, the soldier, appreciated fully all that was being done in the matter of his return to civil life.

In Dr. MacPhail's opinion the returning soldiers would not form a separate class, but would merge themselves into the community. The few agitators and malcontents needed not be too seriously regarded. As for the attitude of the veterans towards war, they insisted they would not go to war again unless it was a big one. The men returning on the Lapland were contented and glad to be home, and greatly interested to see what changes had taken place during the past four years. Everything possible had been done for their comforts on the trip across.

Major MacPhail is accompanied by his son, Capt. J. B. MacPhail, who went over as a sapper with the First Division and left as a brigade major with the engineers. He spent forty months in France.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed With Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called 'Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound.' It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

NEW UNIVERSITY COURSE.

Arrangements Made With Labor Department for New Line of Study.

A new course for the training of employment managers is to be started in Toronto University. Sir Robert Falconer, president of the University, is arranging with the Department of Labor at Ottawa and the Ontario Labor Branch to institute such a course.

Since all large business concerns have their different kind of managers, such as sales manager, produce manager, financial manager, etc., it is felt that a manager to look after the human factor in the business is something that would appeal to manufacturers and large employers of labor. This particular man would have charge of the wages, hours of work and the promotions of the different employes, as well as looking after their interests so far as working conditions are concerned.

HICKORY AS AID TO EDUCATION

CHICAGO TEACHERS DISCUSS QUESTION OF WHIPPING IN SCHOOLS.

Dear old golden rule days:
Readin' an' writin' an' 'rithmetick
Taught to the tune of a hickory stick—".

Whether to use that hickory stick—that old, familiar, hickory stick—on the youth of America almost excited 2,000 sedato pedagogues, masculine and feminine, at the Auditorium theatre at Chicago.

"No, don't!" was the impassioned argument of Kate Deveraux Blake, principal of school No. 6, New York city. "Love them into respect for the rights of others. Let the older folks learn to respect the rights of the child. The adults need most the education."

"Yes, do it!" was the affirmation of the champion of the old style type of educating with the rod, Frank S. Fosdick, principal of the Masten Park high school, Buffalo, N.Y. "Young America is growing to be a young barbarian and a bolshevik in embryo. We've got the job of counteracting the influence of 70 per cent. of the American homes."

Applause for Both.

Both got applause and excited whisperings indicated that a hornets' nest had been stirred up. It was the sensation of the morning at the convention of the National Education association. It came as a part of the speechmaking preliminary to the election of officers.

Prof. Fosdick became so enthusiastic over his subject that he threw down his manuscript with the remark, "Oh, I'm tied down with this manuscript. I've got to cut loose." And "cut loose" he did.

Prof. Fosdick started the fireworks. It was at the conference on "Training Pupils for Citizenship" and he was speaking of teaching pupils respect for properly constituted authority. Here were some of his "ringers":

"A wave of disrespect for law is sweeping the country. If it affected the old people, it wouldn't be so bad, as time and some first class funerals would solve the problem."

"The daddies and mammas of America are fast becoming bossees. You know who is boss."

"Precious darlin' soon learns that a howl or a sulk at the right time sends the parental slaves higher than a German Fokker with a Yank underneath him."

"The Teacher's Job."

"It's the teacher's job to give the pupil an idea of a worth while life, and not turn boys into wildwest performers, or girls into theatre ushers."

"You can't be a successful teacher if you expect to be a little tin god on wheels, seeking only adulation."

"No great movement was ever born on a band wagon. Get a vision and get to work quietly. Then you will start something."

"Gen. Pershing asked for 2,000 volunteers for the most dangerous mission in France. Out of 4,000 war weary men asked, 4,000 responded. Two thousand were sent to Paris, turned loose there on the streets for half a day, after the Lafayette parade; and almost every man left the town clean as when he went into it. We want that kind of American manhood."

Five more divorces are to come before Parliament.

VETERANS ASKED TO INVESTIGATE

EACH BRANCH SHOULD TAKE UP QUESTION OF LOCAL PENSIONS.

Far from objecting to criticism or queries the Board of Pension Commissioners will welcome injuiries and statements from groups of returned men who are interested in any particular case.

All the Board requests is that such inquiries should be submitted in proper form and that they come from a qualified committee of investigation rather than from miscellaneous individuals.

The reason for this is that frequently as many as seven or eight people will write in with reference to one case. Obviously it is impossible for the time of officials of the Board to be taken up in replying individually to everyone relative to the same case.

A suggestion has been made, however, and in many instances it is already working with success, that members of the G.W.V.A. should form themselves in different localities into "Committees of Investigation" or "Pension Committees" so that any member or person having a grievance, misunderstanding or complaint with regard to pensions shall bring it up at such committee and the head thereof may submit such complaint or misunderstanding on a special form to Board of Pension Commissioners at Ottawa.

This done the Board will undertake to send back a complete description of the case as to how it stands and why the award was made and the disabilities discovered by medical investigation.

In cases where this has already been done members of such committees have expressed entire satisfaction with the findings of the Medical Board.

LADY LAURIER DECLINES AID

DOES NOT REQUIRE PENSION FROM PARLIAMENT, REPORT NOW SAYS.

Ottawa, March 3.—It is understood that the Government has tendered to Lady Laurier the offer of a pension and that she has declined it. It would appear that Sir Wilfrid's estate was of considerable value, due largely to the fact that some twenty years ago a number of Liberal friends arranged for him an annuity of some $5,000. Sir Wilfrid died in harness, and had been drawing his sessional indemnity, and his allowance as leader, which have been sufficient to meet the demands of his simple life. The annuity has therefore been practically untouched, and has been accumulating through careful investments. In addition his property on Laurier avenue, which originally cost in the neighborhood of $7,000, is now valued at probably $40,000.

Altogether Lady Laurier is in quite comfortable, if not opulent, circumstances, and is not in need of the nation's bounty.

Yes, I Intend To But Not Now

Have YOU any idea what that decision is costing you—even if you live? Of course, if you die the cost is much GREATER.

Read the following facts and then decide for yourself:

The premium you would pay for $1000 of insurance at age 20 WOULD BUY YOU nearly $4000 of insurance at age 21.

The premium you pay for $1000 of insurance at age 50 WOULD BUY YOU nearly $2500 at age 21.

The premium you pay for $1000 of insurance at age 35 WOULD BUY YOU $1440 at age 21.

Besides, while you may be insurable at age 21 you may not be insurable AT ANY PRICE at the other ages mentioned.

The one great fact that touches our lives is the verdict of NOW.

TRADE UNIONS THE HOPE OF THE WORLD AGAINST BOLSHEVISM

Capt. J. H. Burnham in a Speech in Parliament Says Labor Organizations Today, Made Up as They Are of Sensible Men, Are so Many Guarantees of National Safety.

Speaking in Parliament on the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne, Capt. J. H. Burnham, M.P., spoke as follows:

Mr. Speaker, I should like to join in the congratulations to the mover and the seconder of the address. It is a long time since I have listened to what I presume we may dignify by the name of a speech by an honorable member such as we have just heard, because it strikes me as being an adaptation of the writings of the Fenian press of the United States in their attack on President Wilson for attending the King's banquet. I may, however, be doing the hon. member for North Essex (Mr. Kennedy) an injustice, and that I should do him an injustice, in the budding moment of his distinguished career, I should like to ask him if he disapproves of Sir Robert Borden's accepting the invitation of the King of England and of the British Dominions overseas to that banquet to which he so caustically referred. Will the hon. gentleman answer me that question?

Mr. LANCOT : No.

Mr. BURNHAM : If he had, it would have been about the only original part of his speech. The rest I have read in the Gambyist Fenian press of the United States which has been forwarded to me at different times to show me what the Irish do along the border. I am inclined to think, to do justice to the present leader of the Opposition (Mr. Mackenzie), that he will administer some slight and significant rebuke for that display of politics. The light which has been held out by the Opposition is, I presume, "The Light That Failed." To me it is a very singular thing that the sum total of the brilliance of the Opposition, the attraction indeed for all those erring ones, should consist in an old candle stuck in the back door of the Opposition cabin. So that, to my mind, is not doing justice to the attractive power of the Opposition and it certainly does not look well to leaders abroad who will suppose that all that can be heralded out by way of an attraction is something stuck in the back door of an edifice of that description.

I wish, however, with your permission, Mr. Speaker, to turn to something more important. The chief question now before the county and indeed, before the world is reconstruction. I will, however, confine myself to one phase of that, namely, to the standard of living, to the living wage, to that wage which the lowest, simplest form of honest labor should receive in order that it may maintain the standard of life to which we all agree it is entitled. The wage earner has evolved from a long historic past. In the early days of England, he was a member of the family, when the work performed by the family was done in the family. By and by he became a member of the clan, when the work was done by the clan, by the blood relations. Afterwards this was extended to the guild, to those associations of men who united for the purpose of prosecuting industry. And so it advanced from time to time until the period of the plague in England in 1346-47, when nearly one-half of the people of England, died of the plague, and this so nearly upset the industrial conditions of England at that time that the laborer as he was known then, wandered in an unorganized and indefinite way over the country so much so that the Statute of Laborers was enacted which compelled him to root himself once more to one spot and to confine his exertions to that area and which also compelled him to accept a certain specific wage.

As time went on, however, the consideration of the people for each other changed. What was regarded as strictly an economic question dawned upon the people as an ethical question. It was not so much a question of life, and it has grown to be that more and more, so that we have to-day in England, in France, even in the United States, in Australia, and in New Zealand, legislation of a character that has gone very far in elevating the condition of what it known as the common people. Canada has unfortunately hitherto lagged far behind. The reason of that is no doubt that we are a young country with great natural resources and much prosperity due largely to our abundance. That has probably not yet caused a condition which would warrant the measures that have been made use of in the older countries; but if the seeds of poverty, if the seeds of disintegration are here, it only requires time to bring them into growth, and it is well for us to provide against such a contingency by learning from the experience of other people. The most singular thing is that in a country like England, of such Conservative tendencies, there should have been such haste to remedy the errors of the past.

The British people are, of course, a kindly, well-intentioned people, and so soon as it was brought home to them that it was necessary for them to improve the condition of the people, and to show some interest in them, they hastened to do so. We had first of all, the Notification of Births' Act in 1907, by which for the first time in England it was compulsory, in all cases of births, for notice to be sent to the district medical officer, in order that registration might duly occur and some notice be taken of the birth. This had the effect of enabling the medical official and through him the Government, to know exactly the condition in which those children were born, and to render the children and the mothers some assistance. This worked a miracle in England. Thousands and tens of thousands of children who would have died at this period through neglect and ignorance were for the first time taken care of by an intelligent government.

Then there was the Education Act, another far-reaching Act, under which the school children in the cities were provided for the first time with play grounds or breathing spaces. Then we had the system of national insurance, insuring people against unemployment, against sickness, and even against under-employment. I am citing these measures simply to show how very attentive the British people are at the present time to the elevation of the common people from the low standard of life at which they have lived for so long. It is recognized now for the first time that the common people—the unskilled laborer, the man who is compelled to take what he can get—are entitled to something better. The lowest form of honest labor, if it is to be recognized at all, and it surely must be recognized, ought to receive some consideration on the ethical basis of a proper standard of life.

I have here a report of the American Federation of Labor which represents the most intelligent ideas of labor in America, and very largely the ideas of labor the world over. Their ideas are summed up as follows:

> There is no such thing as good wages without the cost of living in decency and comfort equalize the wages received. There must be no reduction in wages; in many instances wages must be increased. The workers of the nation demand a living wage for all wage earners skilled or unskilled, a wage which will enable the worker and his family to live in health and comfort, provide a competence for illness and old age and afford to all the opportunity of cultivating the best that is in them.

It seems strange indeed that anybody should rise in the House and endeavor to call the attention of hon. members to the simple principle here enunciated. The simple principle, it is true, has been acknowledged in theory, has been made use of in discussions in the pulpit, but beyond that it has not been made use of at all. The principle of a living wage, of a decent standard of life for the lowest form of honest labor, has never yet been recognized in this country as necessary recompense of all forms of labor, but when that day comes it will mean something new for labor. It will mean hope. There is nothing unreasonable in the contention of labor, because once this zero mark has been ascertained, they are quite willing that labor above and beyond that mark shall be allowed to take care of itself. Above that mark wages will be paid according to the skill and competence of the laborer. That proposition seems to me entirely reasonable. Those who are below that mark are either weak or wicked, and have to be taken care of.

They come under the denomination of the unemployed, the under-employed, the criminal or the wastrel. What is to be done with them is another matter; that is a question of reform in connection with detention farms and kindred schemes for their improvement. But that is not the question I am considering tonight, since it involves the consideration of the weakness of the people and that does not come under a business arrangement. If it is once practically recognized by the people of this country that the lowest form of honest labor is entitled to such a wage as will maintain it in efficiency and in decency, then the point is gained and the greatest stroke of reconstruction that could be accomplished. Permit me to repeat that it is such a self-evident proposition that it seems singular anybody should wish to call attention to it, but, practically, the principle has not yet been admitted. But when that time comes, in that one simple fact as set out by the American Federation of Labor, and as set out by all the recent authorities on political economy which I have been able to consult, will be found the solution of the problem. Trades unionism up to a few years ago was a criminal offence; but that the people should have the right to combine for the consideration of their own affairs and for their own protection was [illegible] allowed. Then the time came when, to the wonderment of our people here there was introduced in the old country by no less a man than Lloyd George himself the revolutionary measure of imposing a tax upon the site value, the unearned increment of idle land being appropriated by a supertax to the use of the state, in order that the fundamental principle of the worthiness of work should be finally recognized.

One thing more is necessary. I have here a Bill passed by the Imperial Parliament prescribing a minimum rate of wages during a limited period and repealing certain provisions of the Act relating to workers on war munitions. A Bill of that description fixing a minimum wage would be considered in this country such a tremendous step in advance that it would cause a great deal of trepidation. The minimum wage however, has been discovered not to be the solution of the difficulty, for if a man receives ten dollars a day that is of no consequence if it does not provide him and his family of three children which is usually taken as the unit, with a proper standard of living. On the other hand, if he receives only one dollar a day and that provides him with the proper means of existence, it is enough; so that a minimum wage has really nothing to do with the case. The sole and only contention is that the lowest form of labor, since we must begin from some definite point, shall be considered entitled to a proper standard of living. That proposition is not only economically sound, but surely all decent and Christian people will agree to it; and when it has been incorporated in legislation, as it undoubtedly will be in course of time, labor will have achieved what it has been striving for. It is trades unionism that is the hope of this world against Bolshevism. The trades unions are fighting Bolshevism. The trades unions are an organization of sensible labor men doing their level best. It was the trades unions that furnished more than half the men who fought the battles of this war. The Bolshevik would upset all organized labor of any kind. Therefore it is time for the Government to pay due and proper attention to the contentions of the trades unions and endeavor to place them as nearly as possible upon a thoroughly sound and economic basis. But that basis must have in it the pre ethical spirit, for if it is going to have simply the principle of taking what you can get—the old system of plunder—it is simply the curse of modern and industrial conditions known as profit. It seems to be a very absurd thing that anybody should speak against profit as I have done many times in this House, but profit is the taking of that for which no equivalent is given, and the man who takes that for which he does not give an equivalent is a Bolshevik. We are asked to eliminate from the world these conditions and to do away with that spirit of plunder, and in our dealing to restore a fair equivalent in trade or exchange. The establishment of so simple a thing as a standard of decent living for all honest sensible men—for all these have to be fairly considered units of humanity, units in the industrial world—and the doing away with the desire to take what we can lay our hands on without regard to the justice of the case, means the making of a new world.

Rubbers That Duplicate all the Newest Styles in Footwear

ONE of the distinct advantages of having a great organization like the Dominion Rubber System specialize on rubbers is—that they are able and willing to provide styles and shapes for every shoe for men, women and children.

The shoe stores know that when their new spring styles in footwear are ready, the Dominion Rubber System has anticipated their needs and provided rubbers to perfectly fit every shoe.

This means a lot to you, as well as to every dealer.

It means that you can enjoy the protection which rubbers give, both to your health and to your shoes.

It means the ease and comfort which properly fitted rubbers give to the feet. It means true economy, because both shoes and rubbers wear better and last longer when the fit is trim and snug.

It is easy to get these sturdy, well-made, perfect-fitting, guaranteed rubbers. Ask your dealer to show you any of these Dominion Rubber System Brands:—

"Jacques Cartier" "Merchants" "Maple Leaf"
"Granby" "Dominion" "Daisy"

MAYOR DUNCAN PLEDGES SUPPORT TO THE HYDRO

Seconds Resolution Which Promises Help to Carry Radial By-Laws in Western Ontario.

Toronto, March 3. —The immediate commencement of work in connection with the construction of a radial line from Toronto, westerly through Brampton, Guelph, Kitchener, Stratford, St. Mary's and on to London under the direction of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario was endorsed at an executive meeting of the Commission held at the Provincial Head Office of the Hydro System last week. The motion was presented by Mr. A. F. Wilson of Markham and seconded by Mr. G. P. Hamilton, of Guelph. It was pointed out that the municipalities affected by this line had passed by-laws to the extent of millions of dollars providing for the construction of the line and that the money for the work was available. The work would also provide employment for large numbers of returned men.

A resolution asking for the repeal of Clause 9A of the Hydro-Electric Railway Act which held up construction during the years of the war was passed and copies are to be sent to the various municipalities for their endorsment and to the Government.

A second resolution by Mr. W. B. Burgoyne, of St. Catharines, and Mayor George H. Duncan, of Peterborough, was adopted pledging the support of the Association in helping to carry radial railway by-laws in Hamilton, Saltfleet and Nelson.

Some Decreases In Cost

A resolution of far-reaching effect was passed which aims at making the Provincial Hydro-Electric Power Commission a body with more of a permanent character to it, such as the Board of Railway Commissioners of Canada. It was pointed out that large sums of money were invested in the work of the Commission and that it would be well to have it a body elected for a term of years.

The statistical report of the Niagara system of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario shows that, despite the war, the fiscal year ending October 31, 1918, was the best in the history of the Commission. Since 1914 there have been several decreases in the cost of power but not a single increase to any municipality. The maximum power used during the years when munitions were being manufactured was 149,000 h.p. There are now 134 municipalities using power from the transmission and the average h.p. used is 156,828.8. After all charges including sinking fund, have been met, the next surplus is $194,443.10

A further statement shows that the total reserve on this system, including surplus and sinking fund of $1,959,939.09, are divided as follows: Reserve for renewals, $1,046,692.70; contingencies, $59,168.17; sinking fund, $310,139.46; net surplus, $413,937.76.

BRITISH ARMY STRENGTH.

Two and a Half Millions Today, but Being Reduced.

London, March 3. — The British army at home and abroad, exclusive of the force in India, now numbers 2,500,000 men, and is being reduced to 952,000, according to a white paper issued by the Government.

The army on the Rhine, including troops in France and Belgium, will consist, after demobilization, of 23,600 officers and 350,000 men. The armies of the middle east will be as follows: Italy, 600 officers and 10,000 men; Bulgaria, Turkey and Caucasus, 4,850 officers and 75,000 men of the British army and 1,150 officers and 19,500 men of the Indian army; Egypt and Palestine, 3,750 officers and 56,500 men of the British army and 2,750 officers and 40,000 men of the Indian army; Mesopotamia and Northern Persia, 1,750 officers and 28,950 men from the British army and 4,600 officers and 59,000 men from the Indian army.

The home and colonial establishment, including troops in Russia, will consist of 15,000 officers and 225,000 men. At the present time 1,150,000 men of the British army are being demobilized and also 78,000 men of the Indian army, and 825,000 men from the Dominions.

London, March 3.—The Evening News suggests that General Sir Arthur Currie should receive the governorship of Malta, shortly to be made vacant through the retirement of Lord Methuen.

"Up to the present," says The News "however great the services of the colonial general have been, he has been rigidly excluded from any military position outside of his own Dominion. The time has come to break down this state of things."

She Loved Two Countries

MISS BETHAM-EDWARDS, whose death at Hastings has been recently announced, merits a very honorable place in the annals of our time. She was a voluminous and popular writer on many subjects, but the greater part of her work as the best of it, was inspired by one strong motive, the bringing about of a better understanding between Frenchmen and Englishmen. More than a quarter of a century before anything had been heard of the Entente Cordiale she was working towards that end, and unconsciously through a long life she held firm to the same purpose. Only second to her strong interest in France—before it in point of time and just as durable—was her delight in English country life, which found happy expression in various novels with East Anglian backgrounds.

Matilda, Barbara Betham-Edwards was born at the old manor-house of Westfield Hall, near Ipswich, in 1836, the daughter of Edward Edwards, a gentleman farmer. The Betham of her name, which she derived from her mother, the daughter of Sir William Betham, she specially prized, though, characteristically, not as marking her connection with an old family of distinction, but because it had literary associations. Above all did she value her mother's early friendship with Mary Lamb. But the B initial was destined to cause great confusion between herself and her first cousin and lifelong friend, Amelia B. Edwards, the well-known romance writer and Egyptologist. Between the two the public persevering-ly, and often inconveniently, refused to distinguish. Educated at home, and mostly by herself, she began her literary life precociously with "The White House by the Sea" (1857), written when she was twenty, and accepted promptly by a London publisher, to whom it was sent through the medium of the local grocer.

That novel, which is still read, was followed quickly by several others published anonymously — "John and I" (1862), "Dr. Jacob" (1864), "Lisabee's Love Story" (1865), etc. Her genial humor, her first-hand knowledge of English and French rural life, along with a distinct gift of narrative, creditably account for her long popularity as a writer of fiction, sustained up to quite recent years.

Her acquaintance with country life was not that of a mere looker-on. After her father's death she was for some time a real, serious farmer. Relations, neighbors, or the headman showed her the samples of corn and bought the live stock, she tells us in her "Reminiscences" (1898), and so, unlike the famous Bathsheba, whom Miss Edwards never altogether believed in, she did not go to market. Otherwise, the Suffolk women farmers, numerous in those days, were very practical folks indeed. The life was congenial to her, yet it was during this period that her instinctive revolt against the autocratic powers that rule in an English country parish developed into conscious opinion.

On the death of her sister and partner the last tie to Suffolk was broken, and she made a deep plunge into the London literary world. She was eminently sociable, had a talent for friendship and a living interest in progressive movements. All the Liberal "salons" of the time were open to her—that of Madame Bodichon, pioneer of women's education, that of the Peter Taylors, the good friends of Italian refugees, while later she had an entree to the famous gatherings of George Henry Lewes and George Eliot. Of her hosts and hostesses, of the men and women of their circles, the Rev. W. E. Channing, Bradlaugh, Louis Blanc, Turgueneff, Bononi, and others she jotted down bright sketches in her "Reminiscences"; and her remembrances, save in the solitary case of Browning, were all touched by kindliness.

Miss Betham-Edwards was a woman of strong feelings, strong opinions, and strong prejudices. In her detestation of Romanism she was as hearty and as British as that other East Anglican, George Borrow. It was not Romanism as a religious faith she disapproved of — indeed, theology and all kindred matters had no interest at all for her intensely practical mind—but Romanism as expressed in a hierarchy, implying the confessional, interference in family affairs, the substitution in any degree of the priestly for the personal conscience. In short, it was British individuality far more than religious preference which inspired her strong Protestantism. This influenced her judgment of France; it did not warp it. Many Catholics she counted among her most valued friends; but one has only to read her "Home Life in France" to perceive that her most sympathetic observations were made in the very intelligent but circumscribed Protestant bourgeoise circles. Yet her record is not distorted thereby, inasmuch as her point of view is always stated with the utmost frankness.

For some years Miss Betham-Edwards had been in receipt of a civil list pension, and she always had numerous appreciation from her confreres in England and in France. On the attainment of her literary jubilee in 1907 she was presented with a testimonial from a wide circle of writers and friends. Until almost the end she remained sensitively in touch with the events of the day, and during the war had produced fresh literary work on France and the French, notably "Hearts of Alsace," published in 1915. — Manchester Guardian.

THE REVIEW

Mackensen Was Interned.

An Ignominious Ending To His Military Career

ONE of the best known of the German generals is Marshal Mackensen, the youngest of Germany's marshals, whose work was confined to the eastern area and who was usually called upon when sledge-hammer blows were necessary against Russia. Mackensen was in command when the Germans overwhelmed Roumania. He was never employed in the west, so far as the British and French were concerned. There is a curious story that his name comes from some Scottish ancestors, Mackenzie, and that he objected to fighting against those of his own flesh and blood. But the remarkable result is that he alone, though the most successful of Germany's commanders, is now suffering internment in Austria.

The arrest of Mackensen was accompanied by certain picturesque circumstances which apart from the particular trouble, would have been unusually impressive. He was in an elaborate special train with all his staff and a great retinue, dressed and decorated as in the days of their supreme success. As the train pulled up at Budapest station many German officers in mufti, who had been waiting on the platform, entered the saloon cars and informed the marshal and his officers of the trouble ahead. The station had been surrounded by Hungarian troops with one-half dozen machine guns. The engine was detached from the train, and a Hungarian major informed the marshal that he would be given ten minutes to decide whether he would proceed to the Hungarian Parliament to discuss particulars of his internment or be arrested forthwith.

Punctually at the expiration of the allotted time Mackensen decided to accompany the major to the Parliament, where he was received in state by Count Karolyi and informed that, according to the treaty concluded by Hungary with the Entente General d'Esperey, Hungary was obliged to intern him and his army. Mackensen made vigorous protests, urging that he had received instructions from the German Armistice Commission to the effect that the armistice concluded in the west was posterior to that concluded by Hungary with Gen. d'Esperey. According to this treaty, he urged, he had the right to be repatriated with his entire army fully armed. But his contentions were disregarded and he was forthwith interned.

GEN. VON MACKENSEN.

At a station near Vienna several hundred officers and men of Mackensen's army were awaiting orders. A British colonel who asked one of the men if he spoke French was greeted by a chorus of replies in that tongue from a company of troops from Alsace-Lorraine, who seemed perfectly delighted with the prospect of going home. They showed the colonel, to the intense annoyance and displeasure of their own officers standing by, how they had removed all German emblems from their uniforms. Their joy was destined to be short in view of the decision to intern Mackensen and his army, though at that time they were so uncertain as to what would happen that they desired to show themselves in the public gaze in Vienna, being in this respect so different from the thousands of Mackensen's troops who passed through the city in the dead of night in order to avoid contact with the public.

Whatever may be the present circumstances of Mackensen's army, the marshal himself can hardly regard his fate as unpleasant, as he is interned in a castle and park some 17 miles from Budapest on the beautiful estate of Count Karolyi.

An Unpleasant Name.

Born in Austria twenty-one years ago, Jacob Heil, a clerk in the New York postoffice, stood it as long as he could and then applied to have his name changed to Jacob Hill. Permission was granted. In his petition Heil recited that his name was "often mistaken for a term of profanity and caused your petitioner's character to be besmirched."

The Albatross.

The albatross spends its life, with the exception of a few weeks given each year to nesting, entirely at sea, and is on the wing practically all the time.

Women Drivers.

More than sixteen municipal tramway undertakings throughout the United Kingdom employ women drivers, Glasgow alone having 220 of them.

Don't Tease Child.

Teasing has ruined the disposition of many a child. The parents are not likely to be guilty of such conduct, but older children in the family, or some other relative, may make the child's life utterly miserable by constant teasing. A thoughtless adult, intending to be playful, will keep a child struggling for some object, almost allowing him to get it over and over again, only to thwart the child's purpose, and so causing a wearing irritation.

Spoke the Truth.

There is war fiction and war fiction, but the best of it is that which is never published, according to a second lieutenant of a labor regiment somewhere in the S.O.S., whose special duty it is to censor the letters of his organization. "As I lay there I could hear the Germans talking in low tones. They were so near that I could have put my hand out and touched them." This was the way a man in a labor regiment began a letter to his best girl back home. It was a letter which would have made the heart of anybody's best girl jump with pride. The censoring lieutenant had had some trouble with certain members of his command who persisted in writing glowing accounts of incidents which had never happened, so he determined to make an immediate example in this case. When the man stood before him he asked him what he meant by writing such a letter. "Everything I have written is true," was the reply. "I was merely telling about the German prisoners we have workin' in this camp."

A Coincidence.

The works of Arthur Hugh Clough, the centenary of whose birth you noticed the other day, writes a London correspondent, provide an interesting example of literary coincidence. In 1849, writing of the Italian bid for freedom in the previous year, he expressed himself thus:

What voice did on my spirit fall,
Peschiera, when thy bridge I crost?
'Tis better to have fought and lost,
Than never to have fought at all.

In 1850 Tennyson published "In Memoriam" with its famous lines:

'Tis better to have loved and lost,
Than never to have loved at all.

Nothing New Under the Sun.

Dr. Ralph H. McKee, professor of chemical engineering at Columbia University, claims honor for a new drying process by which meat may be kept unimpaired for food use almost indefinitely, freshness being restored by the mere application of water. American papers says that by this discovery more ancient meats may be eaten than ever before. Klondikers of '98 who reveled in mastodon steaks will be inclined to dispute the assertion.

Solved Milk Problem.

The milk problem appears in a way to be solved by an Englishman, who inserts this ad. in a paper: Wanted, youth to milk and wash motor car.

Doing Well.

Pat was digging at his field, which turned out a very rough piece of land. A policeman, looking over the gate, inquired whether he would get any potatoes off it this season. "Well," replied Pat, rather cheerfully, "I have 50 stones out up to the present."

Clocks That Speak.

Clocks without hands or faces are now common in Switzerland. The timepiece stands in the hall, and, when a button is pressed, by means of phonographic arrangements it calls out "Half-past five" or "Five minutes to nine," as the case may be.

VETERANS IN BASEBALL MANAGED TO COME BACK

Cicotte and Quinn Two of These—Careful Conditioning Gave Them Edge Over the Youngsters.

(By George S. Robbins.)

Youth doesn't always triumph in baseball and veterans often come back, blazing a brilliant trail in fields where failure formerly marked their efforts. Two such "comebacks" have appeared on the Chicago White Sox in recent years—Eddie Cicotte and Jack Quinn. One was termed a failure on the Boston Red Sox but led in White Sox to the highest pinnacle in the American league in a notable victory over the very club that had turned him away. Keeping in condition aided both these players in their impressive comebacks.

The career of Quinn has been replete with disappointments, yet this brawny fellow fooled a lot of people by coming back brilliantly and impressively. Several years ago Quinn, a members of the New York Yankees, was termed a failure and relegated to oblivion, as some imagined. Today he is about the most discussed ball player in the game and a subject of bitter contention between two of the wealthiest club owners in baseball.

Slow in Showing Form.

It may be interesting to know that Cicotte failed to win his greatest measure of success in the early period of his career. He failed to show marks of a world champion flinger in several years' service at Boston.

Eddie was nearly thirty-three years old when he gained the reputation of being the pace setter in the American league His feat of hurling the White Sox to an American league championship enabled that team to enter the world's competition and capture a flag.

"Why did Boston let Cicotte get away from it?" was asked soon after this pitcher had been sold to the White sox.

"Couldn't Win for Red Sox."

"He couldn't win ball games for the Red Sox and that was all there was to it," replied one of the Hub writers who evidently was cognizant of the entire reason for Eddie's being cut off John I. Taylor's pay roll.

Cicotte was accused of slipping into renown via the so called "shine ball' route but it is now pretty well conceded by a majority of wise baseball men in the American league that this foxy pitcher deserved all the success that came his way in 1917. Whether he will have another such season is a problem the future must decide. Eddie long has been known as a pitcher who takes good care of himself.

Probably in all the annals of baseball no player has flashed in on the major league scene so suddenly after being counted a down and out minor leaguer as Jack Quinn.

How Old is Quinn?

"How old is Quinn?" was asked of a baseball authority and it was not surprisin gthat the latter was ponplused by the query.

Here is a player who was with the Yankees several seasons ago and had as eventless career and when old, as they come and go in the majors, was turned back to the minors. The New York club officials thought Quinn had gone for keeps. They imagined him too old to reappear as a championship entity in the big show. They had forgotten all about this player and it doesn't take Broadway long to forget him either.

At the ripe old baseball age of thirty-five Quinn has come back and actually has made Broadway take note of him once more. He's the most discussed player on Miller Huggins' roster of pitchers. Any hurler able to make Charles A. Comiskey threaten to go to court over his ownership must be some pumpkins in Ban Johnson's big garden, they thought Quinn has been awarded to the Yankees by the national commission.

PROPOSE COURT FOR BASEBALL

NEW IDEA FOR GOVERNMENT OF NATIONAL GAME IS ANNOUNCED

Baseball may be governed in the future by a court of baseball, which will be composed of three members, none of whom will have any affiliations with major or minor leagues. The plan is to obliterate the present form of national commission in favor of three unbiased judges. President league is the father of the idea and it is understood he is working tooth and nail to put it across. He admits the plans are in the making and that he has discussed the project with President John Heydler of the National league, who has expressed himself in favor of it.

The proposed court of baseball is to be granted more power than the national commission had. Its jurisdiction is to extend throughout the country. It is to have the right to rule on all cases of dispute that arise among club owners, major and minor; players and clubs, leagues, and is to be instituted with the power to decide all cases, such as the recent Hal Chase farce. In addition the question of gambling at the ball parks is to be placed in its hands and the members are to see personally that the betting on ball games in the different parks is eliminated.

One of the ideas of the new court of baseball is to banish all politics from the national game. The three men invested with the power to make decisions will be free from any connections with clubs or leagues. A case that is put before them will be weighed and decided the same as it were taken to the highest court in the land. With this sort of governing body magnates, players and leagues will be in no position to criticize.

Boy Wanted.

Office Boy—Your wife is at the telephone, sir.

Boss—Tell her I'm out for the afternoon.

Office Boy—He says to tell you he's ont for the afternoon.

The youth is not always served in baseball was proved by the case Quinn who came back and pushed rings around any of the youngsters in the closing chapters of the American league war drama last season. The secret of Jack's impressive comeback is simply this: While many youngsters were frittering away their time in fast living and self-indulgence this big fellow was taking care of himself—keeping in condition and simply biding his time to check in on his winning asset. That time came when the country was head overheels in the world war and today Jack Quinn is reaping the harvest of a long period of training to come back to the big show. He was the best pitcher in the league last August. He may rank among the topnotchers in 1919.

Kitcheners Lose To St. Patricks

Toronto, March 3.—Showing a marked reversal of form, a splendid defence, and a systematic attack that would not be denied, St. Patrick's on Saturday night defeated Kitchener 3 to 1 and qualified to meet Hamilton in the O.H.A. senior finals. The result, which for the most part was totally unexperted, came like a shot from the blue, but even the most partisan supporters of the dethroned Allan Cup holders admitted that the better team won. St. Patrick's will play Tigers in Hamilton Wednesday night, with the return game here on Saturday.

The game, which was described by many old-timers as among the best ever seen here, was lightning fast throughout, and the crowd of 7,000 fans fairly shook the rafters with their cheering. The beaten team went into the contest brimful of confidence and forced the play from the face-off, but they could make no impression on the Cain-Heffernan-Crook defence. Parkes and Hillier came in time and again, but only spent their strength in efforts that failed to gain results. The line-up:

St. Patrick's—Goal, Crook; defence, Cain and Heffernan; left wing, Patterson; right wing, Muston; centre, Dye. Substitutes: Breen and Etherington.

Prize Winners At George St. Alleys

The prize winners at the George street alleys last week were N. Charos, first in ten pins, P. Gettas, first in five pins, Don Sharpe, first in "B" Class. Good prizes will be given this week on the different alleys.

This Week's Bill At Water St. Alleys

Following are the games scheduled for this week in the Business Men's Ten Pin League:

Monday—High Rollers v. Matthews-Blackwell.

Tuesday—Can. Gen. Elec v. Grocers.

Wednesday—Printers v. De Laval.

Last week's prize winners in five pins were:

W. Scheffel, 740.

T. Barrett 723.

High scores during the week were:

Over 700—Scheffel, 740; Barette, 723; Gillespie, 702.

Canadiens Win Deciding Game

Montreal, March 3.—By defeating Ottawa in the third game of the playoff for the N. H. L. championship by 6 to 3 at the Jubilee Rink Saturday night, Canadiens practically won the title and earned the right to travel to Vancouver to play for the historic Stanley Cup. Canadiens have defeated the Senators decisively in three matches within a week, and on past form should win at the Capital today when the fourth game will be played.

Lalonde by himself beat Ottawa, scoring five of his teams' six tallies. His work in directing his team practically accounted for the victory, and so appreciated was his work that immediately after the game he was presented with a bouquet of flowers as he stepped on the ice. The other Canadien goal was scored by Pitre on one of his bullet shots.

Ottawa was again minus Frank Nighbor, who was expected back in time for the game, but who failed to put in an appearance. The teams:

Canadiens—Goal, Vezina; points, Hall and Corbeau; centre, Lalonde; wings, Pitre and Berlinquette. Substitutes: Malone, O. Cleghorn, McDonald and Couture.

Ottawa—Goal, Benedict; points, Cameron and S. Cleghorn; centre, Darragh; wings, Broadbent and Gerard. Substitutes—Boucher and Cy. Dennenay.

Rferee—Harry Hyland. Judge of play—Jack Marshall. Umpires—W. Gathercole and Art Ross. Scorers—E. W. Ferguson and C. Hart. Timer—A. Laberge.

BATTLE CREEK IN NEW BALL LEAGUE

ORGANIZATION OF THE CANADIAN-MICHIGAN CREATION IS ABOUT COMPLETED.

Flint, March 3.—Representatives of the five Michigan cities that have been considered for franchises in the Michigan-Ontario Baseball League met here and cleared the decks for the organization meeting a week hence. At that time the four Ontario cities that already had qualified for membership will meet with them, and the league will be formally launched.

Saginaw, Bay City, Flint and Battle Creek will make up the Michigan end. The most important matter to be done was to decide between Battle Creek and Lansing, and the former won. Thomas C. Morgan, its representative, came as spokesman and showed an organization, the Merchants Dinner Club of the Board of Commerce, a guarantee fund and a ball park.

Lansing Out of Running.

H. W. Warner was the sole Lansing delegate. He said he represented himself alone, as his city has made no organized effort, though there is plenty of enthusiasm and baseball interest. Mr. Warner did not press its case, however, after the Battle Creek showing.

This will give a circuit of the four towns named, with Hamilton, London, Kitchener and Brantford in Ontario. All of these places are set and ready to go.

In nearly all of the cities the clubs will be backed by associations of businessmen, rather than by individuals. Flint has already sold $4,000 worth of season tickets. The other three cities have raised guarantee funds. They will sell tickets later.

Close Organization Sunday.

Most of the detail work was left for next Sunday, necessarily, as organization cannot be completed until the delegates from both ends of the circuit meet. The Michigan delegates pledged themselves to vote as a unit for Joe E. Jackson of Detroit for President.

The salary limit, of course, will be dependent on classification, which in turn is based on the population figures that the National Board accords the new circuit. All eight clubs stand ready to post after organization guarantees that will protect the league and the clubs for the entire season, which will be one of four months, with a mid-May start.

ROYAL

London, March 3.—The demobilization of the Canadian corps actually began on Monday when the Royal Canadian Regiment, the 42nd Battalion of the 3rd Division, left Liverpool on the Adriatic. These are the first battalions to leave England as units. They were given an official farewell by Colonel Ritchie, lord mayor of Liverpool, himself born at Chatham, N. B., and a demonstrative send-off by thousands of citizens, who were allowed on the landing stage for the first time since the war began.

The Liverpool police band played on deck while the troops were embarking. As the ship pulled out into the Mersey at 6.30 and disappeared into the thick grey mist overhanging the river the band played "O Canada," "The Maple Leaf Forever" and other patriotic and popular airs, while the people on the dock cheered and waved flags. The troops cheered in return and shouted "Good-bye Blighty."

NEW MANAGEMENT AT OPERA HOUSE

"VANITY FAIR," SATURDAY'S ATTRACTION, FURNISHES AUSPICIOUS OPENING.

The new management of the Grand Opera House has started with an auspicious opening, a good play and a gratifying attendance, "Vanity Fair," the bill for Saturday, filled the house afternoon and evening. The play is a musical comedy with a plot sufficient to hold the thread of narrative together. Jack Trainor, as Henry Cattermole, the hero, is a nerve-wrecked old man whose physical ailments are intensified ten fold by a morbid imagination and who has a weakness for falling in love with members of the fair sex young enough to be his daughters. His adventures in the latter field and his nightmares as to his physical health furnish the comedy in the performance. J. C. Flippin, his colored valet, lending a hand occasionally by adding mirthful features. An ocean voyage taken by the party gives an opportunity for staging a number of striking scenes, including a view of Sweden and of an aviation field in France. Cattermole brings back to California with him Moorish maidens and other topics of that land and establishes a native villa of his own outside of San Diego.

The dancing and musical offerings of the play are above the average and the audience was well pleased with the performance.

Tonight the bill is "With the Empire's Fighters," a moving picture exhibition of some of the most stirring scenes of the late war. These pictures are historically correct, being taken from life, and the exhibition is approved by both British and Canadian authorities as a popular means of teaching the history of the part played by the British army for the past four years.

Held The First Of A Series of Dances

On Saturday night the first of a series of dances to be held by the Saturday Night Dancing Association which has been organized by Mr. Fred Goodfellow of this city was held in the Woodmen Hall.

There was a large number in attendance considering that the event was the first of the series. Music was furnished by Tuckers' orchestra and the prices were the same as those prevailing in Toronto at the Saturday night dances. At twelve o'clock the gathering broke up.

ALWAYS KNEW

He stated that in analysing or clarifying a complicated question in order that it might the more readily be understood. President Wilson was most successful.

A League Already

Mr. Bangs was personally of the opinion that England, France and America already constituted a league of nations. France has come to understand the American view of the situation and there are no points of variance of outstanding importance in the attitude of these three countries as far as the maintenance of the future peace of the world is concerned.

Asked about the disposition shown by the American president to modify the original demands of France and England as regards indemnity, Mr. Bangs stated that those were aware of the extent of devastation of France were glad that Mr. Wilson had visited that war worn country and hoped that he would to so again in the near future so as to obtain some idea of the extent of the destruction wrought by the Hun, a realization of which, Mr. Bangs was sure could not but create sympathy with the demands of France for the payment of damages. Personally he would be delighted to see Germany pay the last possible cent towards rehabilitating the Allies.

President Wilson looked upon the situation in much the same way but did not favor making a demand so extravagant or impossible as to completely discourage Germany. It was better to get as much as possible than to obtain no compensation at all.

Mr. Bangs has travelled through Europe eleven times and he recounted many incidents of interest in connection with his visits. He stated that he had always looked upon the German as more or less of a boor but now considered him a brute into the bargain. His estimate of the continental women was not of the highest as was evidenced by several of his statements.

CIVIC FUEL YARD TO SELL STOCK

HIGHEST GRADE OF COAL ON HAND GOES FOR $11.00.

At a meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee held on Saturday afternoon Alderman Taylor read a report submitted by the Treasurer, Mr. Adams, of the coal operations in February and of the coal received from April 1st to Dec. 31st, 1918.

It was decided to sell the coal in the city fuel yard at the following prices and a resolution giving effect ot this decision was introduced by Alderman Garside and Mayor Duncan and carried: Buckwheat $9.0 per ton; pea and mine run at $10.00 per ton; pea and nut mixed at $11.00 per ton. The sale of this fuel will be advertised in compliance with the directions contained in the motion.

The chairman of the Fire Water and Light Committee and of the Finance Committee are given authority to take what action is necessary to collect the amount due the city by the Canadian Coal Supply upon motion of Alderman Garside and Mayor Duncan.

The Chairman and the Mayor were authorized to purchase uniforms and outfits needed for the four new firemen.

A proposal from the Northern Electric Co., to supply a motor generator set and storage batteries for the fire alarm system was considered.

Special Service At S. A. Temple

HREE INTERESTING ADDRESSES WERE DELIVERED BY OFFICERS YESTERDAY.

The first of the series of special holiness services commenced yesterday morning when Mrs. (Adjutant) Bunton took as her subject "Stones." The speaker said that there are three things for which stones are noted: their beauty, value and durability. She then showed how the Christian's life may also have these qualities. In an opposite way, stones may be a great hindrance, as when the farmer has to remove them from his ground before he can cultivate it. So, in a Christian's life, there may be stones that are a hindrance.

In the afternoon Adjutant Bunton spoke on "Coal." In his talk also the adjutant brought out the qualities and uses of coal and likened them to different phases of the Christian career.

At night a very forcible address was given on "My Vision and the Outcome." The meetings altogether were useful in bringing to Christian and sinner alike their duty to God and their fellow man.

DUFFUS GARAGE OPENS TONIGHT

MAYOR DUNCAN WILL OFFICIATE — MOVING PICTURE SHOW A FEATURE.

The Duffus Garage will be formally opened by His Worship Mayor Duncan at 7.30 tonight.

This building on Water Street, is one of the finest devoted to the purposes of a garage in any of the smaller cities of the country. It covers a large area, is fitted up with every conceivable modern improvement and contrivance for handling the repair and care of automobiles and employs skilled machinists to look after the work.

An interesting program has been arranged for this evening and after the opening ceremony, moving pictures will be shown of interest to automobile enthusiasts. These reels will depict the manufacture of cars in the bigger factories of the country.

There will also be an exhibition of automobiles of the 1919 model and everyone in Peterborough interested in cars should be at the Duffus garage tonight.

DENIES DISCRIMINATION.

Sir Thomas White on Charges Against Britain.

Ottawa, March 3.—In the House Hon. Charles Murphy drew attention to a cable despatch in the Toronto Globe to the effect that Canadian imports in Great Britain were being discriminated against as compared with American and Scandinavian imports. Sir Thomas White said the Government had no official information, but he was satisfied that Great Britain had not discriminated and would not at any time discriminate against the interest of Canada.

"I despatched a cable last night asking for information," Sir Thomas said. "I have received no reply yet."

Auto Accident On The River Road

LOCAL CAR OWNER COLLIDED AND WRECKED A FARMER'S PHAETON.

Saturday two buggies owned by farmers met on the River Road, not far from the city, and just as they yielded the road to each other an auto driven by a prominent resident of the city attempted to pass them. The right of way was too narrow and the result was a collision with one of the buggies, which was completely wrecked, although both driver and horse escaped injury. The auto driver called at the home of the farmer and admitting that he was responsible for the accident agreed to pay the damage that he had caused.

BIRTHS

HUNTER—On February 28, 1919, at Victoria Private Hospital, Toronto, to Mr. and Mrs. R. Bruce Hunter, a son (Robert Francis).

ANNOUNCEMENT

MR. H. W. STOCK announces to his customers that the baking business heretofore carried on as WM. STOCK & SONS, has been incorporated into a Joint Stock Company and Mr. Stock will be President of the Company. Mr. James Dutton will continue his position as Superintendent and Mr. Percy Stock who has been three years overseas, part of the time in the Royal Air Service, and who was wounded and discharged with rank as Assistant General Manager.

On account of the bread business of William Stock and Sons having increased to such large proportions it was found necessary to incorporate it into a Company, which will carry on the business with the same standard of service as given up to the present time. It is not the intention of the Company to carry on any other business except bread making, but to give every attention to increasing its output and the development of the business which has already had a most striking growth.

This Company is a purely Peterborough Company and Wm. Stock & Sons, have been known for the last quarter of a century as being at the front with up-to-date methods, sanitary appliances and large and well ventilated bakeries in which the Company will continue to carry on bread manufacturing.

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned and endorsed "Tender for Educational Block, R.M.C., Kingston, Ont." will be received until 12 Noon, on Wednesday, March 26, 1919, for the construction of Educational Block, R.M.C., Kingston, Ont.

Plans and specifications can be seen and forms of tender obtained at the offices of the Chief Architect, Department of Public Works, Ottawa, the Overseer of Dominion Buildings, Custom House, Post Office, Montreal, Superintendent of Dominion Bldgs., Postal station "H" Toronto, and of the Resident Architect, Kingston, Ont.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on the forms supplied by the Department and in accordance with the conditions set forth therein.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank payable to the order of the Minister of Public Works, equal to 10 p. c. of the amount of the tender, or Dominion Bonds of the Dominion will also be accepted as security, or war bonds and cheque if required to make up an odd amount.

Blue prints can be obtained at the office of the Chief Architect, Department of Public Works, by depositing an accepted bank cheque for the sum of $20, payable to the order of the Minister of Public Works, which will be returned if the intending bidder submit a regular bid.

By order,
R. C. DESROCHERS,
Secretary.
Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, February 25, 1919.

CAPT. BURNHAM OPPOSED TO THE TOTAL EXTINCTION OF ALCOHOL

Writer A. B. Cunningham of Trinity Methodist Church Social Service Department Giving His Views on Prohibition Issue—Says Alcohol is a Product of the Creator.

Some time ago it was announced that Mr. A. B. Cunningham, chairman of the social service department of Trinity Methodist Church, had, acting on instructions, written Capt. J. H. Burnham asking him to use his influence to have the order-in-council giving the country war time prohibition, made effective until the matter to be decided by the vote of the people to be taken after all the soldiers had reached home. This letter has been the occasion of the following correspondence between Capt. Burnham and Mr. Cunningham, a careful perusal of which will leave the reader in no doubt as to the sentiments of either correspondent.

Mr. A. B. Cunningham:—I received a letter from what I took to be the Lay Association of Trinity Church, through you, a week or so ago. It contained a resolution requiring bone dry prohibition until, as you say, after the vote is taken, or plebiscite.

I wrote in reply and asked if your total extinction resolution included alcohol produced by the Creator without the intervention of men; because, frankly, I do not know as much as the Creator, nor as many men, and I bow in absolute reverence to the Creator and His Works, even though they may not [illegible] which I would have done myself. In that case, my opinions and yours should both be subject to severe revision. We must be wrong, for God cannot be—therefore, the letter which I have received from you this morning may indicate your opinions, but they are not sufficiently explicit for me; nor am I to be cowed by any sneer on your part, believe me. I have had much to put up with this last year or two in the way of abuse and I am just about getting to the end of it. The letter to which I refer is as follows:

Mr. Cunningham's Reply

Mr. J. H. Burnham:—Your letter erroneously addressed to Trinity Laymen's Association has just reached me. You need not worry about such an evasive question as alcohol produced by nature alone. Please attend to our request, avoiding all freak side issues, that the order in Council be confirmed and continued by effective Parliamentary action until such time as a vote on the question is taken after demobilization is completed. By that time you may have learned the generally accepted meaning of bone dry prohibition.

Yours truly,
A. B. CUNINGHAM,
Secretary Social Service Department, Trinity Methodist

BOLSHEVIKI ON OFFENSIVE

U. S. CONGRESS ADOPTS APPEAL ON BEHALF OF THE IRISH PEOPLE

By a Vote of 216 to 41 Urges Peace Conference to Grant That Country the Right of Self Determination—All Night Session Precedes Adjournment.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Washington, March 4.—The House early today by a vote of 216 to 41, adopted a resolution expressing the hope that the Peace Conference would favorably consider the claims of Ireland to the right of self-determination. The resolution now goes to the Senate, where it will be considered, although it is improbable that any action can be obtained before final adjournment.

All-Night Session.

With but a few hours of the final session of Congress remaining, Republicans in the Senate this morning were continuing the general filibuster which had lasted throughout the long night meeting. The general deficiency bill, including seven hundred and fifty millions for the railroad administration revolving fund, was the measure against which the minority filibuster was aimed, but the Republican leaders said it would be passed finally as their purpose simply was to prevent action on other legislation. Senators Sherman of Illinois and LaFollette of Wisconsin spoke for several hours, the former beginning at 1 a.m. today after Republican Leader Lodge had presented and failed to secure action on the resolution which he said was supported by 37 members of the Senate, opposing the acceptance of the constitution of the League of Nations as framed.

President Scored by Senator Sherman

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Washington, March 4.—Newspaper accounts of the recent dinner given by President Wilson to members of Democratic National Committee, saying that President had bitterly assailed the Senators opposing the League of Nations campaign, were the subject of an address by Senator Sherman, of Illinois, Republican, early this morning in the Senate. The published reports read by the Senator had referred the Senators as having "pigmy minds" and that he had declared they should be hanged on gibbets as high as heaven, but pointing in the opposition direction.

Nothing has leaked out of Peace Conference at Paris, said Senator Sherman, more applicable to the war situation than these threats of the Chief Executive. Declaring that one account had quoted the President as saying that the heads of the Senators opposing the League were nothing, but knots to keep their bodies from unravelling, Illinois Senator said. "This language is classic. He added another matchless phrase to those with which he has enriched our American political literature."

Senator Sherman spoke at great length and his humorous comment and scathing sarcasm caused Senators and spectators alike to rock with laughter with only perfunctory attempts at restraint made by the presiding officer.

HOLD MILITARY FUNERALS ON SATURDAYS AND SUNDAYS

Veterans Cannot Afford to Leave Employment to Turn Out on Other Days of Week---G. W. V. A. Members Uphold Army Surgeons

At a meeting held at the headquarters of the G. W. V. A. last night it was resolved that in the future no military funerals would be held on any days other than Saturday and Sunday, owing to the difficulties of getting a sufficient number of men to take part in the parade, and as these men are expected to lose [illegible] time, it was felt that owing to the present day conditions of the labor market it would be an injustice to ask the members of the association and its band to attend these parades without paying them for the time lost, and as the funds of the association will not permit of paying such a large number of men, it was decided that the only possible way to carry out these funerals from a military standpoint would be to hold them on a Saturday or Sunday. The veterans trust that the Ministerial Association and others who may be affected by these funerals will kindly co-operate in order that this may be carried out.

Uphold Military Surgeons.

Another resolution was passed, which reads as follows:

Whereas, there have been made public certain unjust and unfounded statements in one of the local papers and such statements are credited to a local practising physician and surgeon, Dr. A. Moir,

And whereas, such statements reflect grievously on the ability of the surgeons of the army and navy and suggest doubt as to their capabilities and their practices while acting as such,

And whereas, a supposed contradiction of these statements was later published in the same paper over the name of the aforementioned physician, but such contradiction only cast further doubt upon the abilites of the army and navy surgeons;

Therefore, be it resolved, that we, Peterborough Branch of the G. W. V. A., as representing the patients who have been and are still under the care of the army and navy surgeons, express our confidence in the ability and practice of such surgeons, and are forever grateful for their attentions and, their loyalty to us and our Empire in coming to the field of battle with us to share its dangers and hardships, and this without the opportunity and satisfaction afforded the rest of us of hitting back at the enemy;

And be it further resolved, that this resolution be forwarded to the local Medical Association and public press for publication.

Will Attend St. Paul's Church.

The secretary was also instructed to get in touch with the military authorities, asking them to provide a full set of equipment and rifles, also gun-carriage and harness complete for the purpose of holding military funerals and that this equipment, if so granted, to be under the control of the Peterborough branch of the Great War Veterans' Association.

A letter was also received from St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, extending an invitation to the members of the Association to be present in a body at the unveiling of a tablet to the memory of the fallen, to be held at St. Paul's Church on the 23rd of March, 1919. This invitation was accepted and the secretary directed to notify the Rev. R. Pogue to this effect.

The following claims were passed by the branch during the month of February:

Pensions, $540; Settlement of War Bonds, $350; Settlement of Separation Allowance and Assigned Pay, $540; Workmen's Compensation Act, $300; Clothing Allowance, $27; making a total in all of $1750.00.

All returned veterans are reminded that Dr. E. H. Woods has been appointed, under the Civil Re-establishment Board, as the medical officer for the city of Peterborough, and all returned soldiers are requested to note that, if they are suffering from a recurrence of their disability, they should make applications to this medical officer for treatment.

HOUSING BILL IN COMMITTEE

PREMIER HEARST EXPLAINS FURTHER DETAILS OF THE MEASURE.

Toronto, March 4.—Both finance and philanthropy hold slightly altered positions these days. The discussion in the committee of the Legislature yesterday of Premier Hearst's Housing Bill showed how the difference works out in practice. The Dominion Government loans about $8,500,000 to Ontario to spend upon the erection of small houses in municipalities that have a shortage of dwelling accommodation. The money is loaned at 5 per cent. The Province supplies architectural accounting and some supervisory service without cost but when the money passes to incorporated housing companies in the municipalities, they are allowed to provide for a return of 6 per cent. Premier Hearst said the persons associated with these housing companies will be actuated solely by philanthropy.

The point is this, that the Ontario housing bill is confronted by one danger, viz., that agreements of sale under it may call for excessive rentals, taking into account the size and character of the houses proposed to be erected. Therefore, unless it can be shown that there is need for providing a clear 1 per cent. over and above the 5 per cent. that must be returned to the Dominion Government the return to the housing companies should be cut down. The housing companies have no expense to face beyond the minimum estimate of office maintenance. Is not 1 per cent. more than enough? Is not ½ of 1 per cent. more than enough? The bill must pass the Legislature in the best light.

SPARTACANS CALL GENERAL STRIKE

TWELVE THOUSAND MEN QUIT IN BERLIN—OTHERS WILL RESPOND.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Berlin, March 4.—The National Spartacus League and greater Berlin communist organizations have issued an appeal for an immediate general strike and overthrow of the National Assembly and the present republic, non Socialists will declare a country strike. The organizations instruct their followers to assemble at factories to prevent work and direct them to avoid street demonstrations in order that the Government may have no opportunity to crush the movement by force. The workmen of the Schwartze plant, who are among the most radical in Berlin, have voted for a great strike, twelve thousand men being affected. This is the first response to Spartacan appeal. According to the Vorwaerts, a majority of the workmen in the metal trades and railway workers favor a general stoppage of work.

Object of the Strike

The aims of the proposed strike as called by the Berlin Spartacans include the introduction of Factory Councils in all plants to regulate factory affairs and ultimately the taking over of the factories, the dismissal of Government troops and the disarmament of all non socialists and the formation of a Red Guard under the control of the Soviets, the establishment of revolutionary tribunal to try the chief culprits of the war, the Hohenzollerns, Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, Gen. Ludendorff, Admiral Tirpits and traitors to the revolution, President Ebert, Chancellor Schedelmann and Gustav Noske. Establishment of diplomatic relations with the Russian Soviet Republic is likewise demanded.

NO FINES NOW TO BE UNDER $250

NEW REGULATIONS ARE ISSUED FOR THE PUNISHMENT OF N DEFAULTERS.

Ottawa, March 4.—Fines which may be imposed on defaulters under the Military Service Act are not to be less than $250 and not more than $5,000. An order in Council, amending the military service regulations to this effect has received the approval of the Governor-General.

"If a fine be imposed," the order proceeds, "the sentence shall direct that in default of payment of the fine the person convicted shall be imprisoned, with or without hard labor, as the case may be, until the fine is paid; provided that such imprisonment shall not be for any term in excess of that which might have been imposed for the offense, and that the person convicted shall not be liable or compelled both to pay a fine and to suffer imprisonment." The new regulations are applicable to offenses heretofore committed and to pending as well as to future offenses.

Isn't it queer how many idle friends an industrious man has.

TAKES FINAL RAP AT THE SENATE

PRSIDENT WILSON STARTS ON RETURN TRIP TO PEACE CONFERENCE.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Washington, March 4. — The adjournment of Congress marks the passing of Democratic control at the Capitol. Big bills that failed included both the army and navy appropriation measures. The only two important measures that ran the gauntlet of the last forty-eight hours of filibustering were the victory liberty loan bill and the billion dollar wheat guarantee bill.

Upon the adjournment of Congress President Wilson issued a statement saying:

"I take it for granted that the men who have obstructed and have prevented the passage of necessary legislation have taken all of this into consideration and are willing to assume responsibility for the impaired efficiency of the Government and the embarrassed business of the country during the time of my enforced absence."

President Wilson leaves this afternoon for New York on his way back to France.

MOB RUNS RIOT IN HUN CAPITAL

BREAK INTO POLICE STATIONS IN BERLIN AND DISARM POLICEMEN.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Copenhagen, March 4.—Crowds forced their way into the police stations in Berlin on Monday night, disarmed the policemen and plunged the city into riot and disorder.

The proposal of the Spartacan to declare a general strike was adopted by the Worker's Councils of Berlin, late Sunday after a stormy meeting by a bare majority says a despatch received here from the German capital. The Independent Socialists supported the Spartacans, while the majority Socialists and Democrats united in Opposition.

One Baker's Loaves Are Overweight

Sergeant Reid, the local Bread Inspector visited the stores of the city yesterday and weighed the bread of the different bakeries.

He found that all of them were complying with the law as regards the weight of their loaves and that those of the Peterborough Bread Company were in most cases, 2, 2 and 3½ ounces over weight.

OUTLINES UTOPIA FOR WORKINGMEN

LLOYD GEORGE UNFOLDS IDEAL PLAN ON BEHALF OF TOILERS.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, March 4.—Premier Lloyd George, in addressing the first meeting today of the joint committee of employers and employees constituted by the Industrial Parliament last week, said: "Civilization, unless we try to save it, may be precipitated and shattered to atoms. It can only be saved by the triumph of justice and fair play to all classes alike."

The Premier warned the committee that it was the duty of the welfare and safety of the whole nation. Unemployment must be banished, he said, and the workers must never again be put in dread of the horrors of distress and hunger.

"Let the workers understand," the Premier declared, "that where there is an increase of products they will get a fair share of it."

Lloyd George said that what was wanted was more confidence and understanding between employers and employes. The employers must never again say, "You are earning too much. Your wages must come down."

NO EXTRA SESSION IN THE IMMEDIATE FUTURE

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Washington, March 4.—Congress adjourned at noon today in the midst of the Republican filibuster in the Senate that killed a long list of important measures. Among the bills that failed was one appropriating seven hundred and fifty million dollars for railroad administration, without which some administration leaders say the railroads must be returned to their owners before the middle of April. Just before adjournment President Wilson authorized a final notice to Republicans that their efforts to force an immediate extra session had failed, that he was unshaken in his determination not to call new congress until his work at the Peace Conference was done.

NO TEMPORARY LOANS

But $6,510,000 Raised by Governor General's Warrants.

Ottawa, March 4—A return tabled in Parliament today shows that no temporary loans have been floated by the Government since the previous session. Unforeseen expenditures, however, made it necessary for the raising of $6,510,000 by Governor-General's warrant, of which six millions was required for the purchase of seed grain.

[illegible] was fined $500 and costs for having 100 bottles of whiskey on his premises. An outside license inspector seized 91 bottles about ten days ago; the local inspector made a further [illegible]

Polish Quarters In State of Seige

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Copenhagen, March 4.—The Prussian government has declared a state of seige in the Polish districts of Berlin, Spandau and other suburbs of Berlin, in order to protect the bulk of the working people from famine and the terror of the minority. Minister of War Noski has assumed executive power.

Wheat Price Is Assured at $2.26

Washington, March 4.—President Wilson today signed the wheat guarantee bill, carrying an appropriation of one billion dollars to maintain the guaranteed price of $2.26 a bushel.

USUAL PENALTY FOR DEFAULTERS

EWARD CRIGO AND JOHN BACON GIVEN TWO YEAR TERMS.

Upon pleading guilty to the charge of having been defaulters under the Military Service Act, in police court yesterday afternoon, Seward Crigo, and John Bacon of Kinmount were sentenced by Magistrate Dumble to imprisonment at the Guelph jail farm for a term of two years less one day.

Both these men were farmers and admitted receiving their orders to report for service. They were arrested by the Dominion Police on February 26th, appeared in police court here on the 27th and were remanded until yesterday afternoon.

Inspector H. F. Ward was the only witness called by the acting Crown Attorney, J. Fordyce Strickland. He produced the usual evidence from the Deputy Registrar at Kingston showing that the two men had failed to report for duty when ordered to do so. He also submitted the fiat from the department of the Attorney General.

J. F. Birnie defended the accused but plea in their behalf produced no effect upon the magistrate who stated that having been ordered to report for service these men instead of complying with the law had placed the summons from the registrar in an envelope and sent it back to him.

British Steamer Caught in Ice Pack

(Canadian Press Despatch)

St. John's, Nfld., March 4.—The Furness Line steamer Appenine, bound from Liverpool for this port, was driven ashore at Witless Point by an ice pack early today. The entire east coast is blocked by an ice jam and nothing can be done to relieve the Appenine at present.

Gen. Foch Demands Merchant Fleet

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Copenhagen, March 4. — Marshal Foch has demanded the immediate delivery of the German mercantile fleet without regard to the question of food supply, says a despatch from Weimar.

BOATMEN RESUME NEW YORK STRIKE

ASK THIRTY PER CENT. INCREASE AND EIGHT HOUR DAY.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York, March 4—The strike of sixteen thousand boatmen in New York harbor halted last January at the cabled request of President Wilson was resumed at six a.m. today. The strikers will not accept the award made by Evert Macy, umpire for the War Labor Board. They demand wage increases averaging 30 per cent and the eight hour day.

Bavarian Troops Fight Radicals

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Paris, March 4.—Bavarian troops opposed to the Radical Government in Munich are marching on the city, according to a despatch from Zurich. Severe fighting is probable.

The mayor of Lyons has sent a message to Canada welcoming the Dominion's participation in the great Fair now being held in that city.

He imposed the usual term of years less one day upon each of the prisoners.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

TUESDAY, MARCH 4th, 1919

THE CAUSE OF BOLSHEVISM.

CAPT. J. H. BURNHAM stated in his speech in Parliament the other day that the Labor unions of the country, composed as they are of sensible men, are the country's best safeguard against the menace of Bolshevism. It is no difficult matter to show that in this stand Capt. Burnham is in agreement with some of the leading thinkers in Europe, men who have an opportunity to study this problem at close range.

Some of the most conservative journals in London only last Saturday raised their voices in warning against a common danger. The masses in Germany, they said, were out of work and hungry. It was this idleness and poverty that was breeding discontent and unrest everywhere. Bolshevism was on the increase, and, like any physical epidemic, was sure to spread unless checked at the sources.

London newspapers called upon the Allies to take immediate action to relieve the distress in Germany. The food blockade, they claimed, should be lifted. The country would not be safe until the pre-war industrial conditions were restored as far as possible. The people would not be sane so long as they were hungry. The nursery of Bolshevism is in the slums of any city. Famine breeds trouble always.

It has been said that there is no room for Bolshevism in Canada. Be that as it may, it is certain that the new social evil finds little toleration here. That is simply because there is work and a decent living for all, at least there has been for the past four years. To perpetuate these conditions is the aim of the Labor unions from which Capt. Burnham expects so much. These organizations will keep Bolshevism out of Canada simply by preventing the causes which bring it about. The best element in Canadian unionism has since the signing of the armistice been engaged in a conflict with the foreigners who harbor designs against the peace of the community, and in every issue it is Canadian citizenship that has come out victorious.

THE DEMAND FOR HOME RULE.

THE UNITED STATES is surrounded on all sides by requests for home rule, three in all, one being a petition for moral assistance preferred by the Irish, the others coming from races over which the Americans have stood in a paternal relation for the past twenty years or ever since the Spanish-American war.

Ireland sends a deputation to the United States, and the visitors ask President Wilson to intervene with the Allies, who are just now concerning themselves with the fates of the smaller nations of the world, to intercede on behalf of Ireland, so that the people of that island may be given an opportunity to determine their own destiny. President Wilson has promised the deputation a hearing.

Representatives from the Philippine Islands are in Washington to urge the granting of autonomy to their people. The natives of Porto Rico, that has been a colony of the United States since the Spaniards were driven off the American continent, are looking for the same boon. The Philippine delegates and those from Porto Rico are to be officially recognized by the authorities at Washington, and their several claims are to be considered.

How vastly different is the case of Ireland from that of the two former possessions of Spain. The Irish for nearly a century and a quarter have been in close parliamentary association with England. In that time, and with such opportunities, an enlightened and naturally intelligent people should have learned sufficient of the art of government to be entrusted with at least a measure of autonomy.

The people of the Philippines and of Porto Rico have been under the tutorship of the American nation for only twenty years. They were found as semi-barbarians, the serfs of a tyrannical European power. Is it possible that in that time they have sufficiently progressed in the ways of civilization to be permitted to set up house for themselves? There is something significant in the very fact that their requests for home rule are to be taken seriously.

The Philippines and the Porto Rican people have been promised autonomy just as soon as they showed themselves worthy of such a high trust. Ireland has received more than that, there being on the statute books of England a Home Rule bill passed twice by the British Parliament, and which but for the war would have become effective at the beginning of the year 1915. The claim is now made that the Irish themselves are unable to unite upon a policy for their country. What, then, becomes of the principle that the majority shall rule?

Every man who has given the matter thought believes that if the future destiny of Canada, especially with reference to its relations with Britain, were to be determined by a vote of the people, complete unanimity would be lacking. One faction would decide upon one course, another upon something else. But the decision of the majority would prevail in this as in all other issues.

The powerful League of Nations has been organized to assure peace to the world and safety to the smaller nations. Races are to be rescued from slavery and taught the ways of peace and civilization. Poland, in bonds and divided for years, is to be reunited and liberated. Germany's former colonies are to be allowed to determine their own political future. And the League of Nations is to charge itself with the duty of seeing to it that all these autonomous states are to dwell together in peace. If the League assumes so stupendous a task as this, it should certainly be able to do as much within the confines of the British Isles and to protect any one race or religion from aggression.

TAXING CHURCH PROPERTY.

THE QUESTION of taxing church property has been brought squarely before the aldermen in the City Council by the members of the Orange Order, who last night sent in a memorial recommending that change in policy. Coming from such a source, from an organization which is claimed to be built on the Christian faith, there can be no suspicion that there is anything of antagonism to the places of worship in the movement. Probably those behind it have arrived at the conclusion that it is a simple business proposition which would apply equally to all parties in the community.

The agitation in favor of taxing church property is by no means new in Ontario. Toronto has carried on such a discussion for years. London submitted the question to a vote of the ratepayers, and the bylaw in favor of taxing church property was carried by a majority of over three to one. So far, however, the question has not been seriously considered by the Legislature, nor is it likely to be until a majority of the municipalities in Ontario have been heard from.

Members of the Board of Trade in this city have taken a long step in advance when they declare themselves as opposed to any business or tax exemptions for industries. They feel that the time has come to keep down the rate of taxation, and this is one means for attaining such an object. The next proposed reform to take into serious consideration is likely to be the one that was laid before the City Council last night by an influential organization.

But this is a question which can be decided only by a vote of the people, just as it was in London. There is hardly an alderman on the Board who would be willing to assume the responsibility of taking a definite stand on such a momentous question as this. All will be satisfied to pass the proposition on to the people for further action.

There is in the city, according to the figures of Assessor Henry, church property valued at $706,990 on which no taxes are paid. Had this been taxed last year at the rate then prevailing it would have yielded a civic revenue of something like $30,000. The exempted property is owned by the different denominations as follows:

Methodists	$168,400
Roman Catholic	156,170
Anglicans	90,700
Presbyterians	137,430
Baptists	50,900
Free Methodists	4,000
Salvation Army	11,320
Bethany Tabernacle	13,070
Y. M. C. A.	45,000
Y. W. C. A.	10,000

It is a difficult matter to fix the value of such property. In other classes of real estate, the price it would bring on the market is used as a basis for computation. Church property is something that would sell for below its actual cost if put up for sale. The most of the churches, in fact, would bring little more than the value of the land.

Any property held by a church but not used for religious purposes is taxed. For example, the old Baptist church on Murray stree was assessed for $4600 and pays taxes on that valuation.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

Medical Care Instead Of Prison

(By H. Addington Bruce.)

Every country has its vagrants, its "idle strollers, loafers, vagabonds and tramps." Every country has more vagrants than is commonly suspected. The United States has at least 500,000, according to an authoritative estimate.

Thus it is evident that the problem of vagrancy is one of the most serious confronting modern society. It also is evident that society has been attacking it in a lamentably inadequate way.

Society, in fact, has pretty generally acted on the assumption that the one sure cure for vagrancy is punishment. Accordingly it has spent vast sums to make certain that vagrants are duly punished. The only result is that it finds itself obliged to spend even more money on the business of punishing them.

Clearly, punishment is both as expensive and a futile procedure. What, then, should society do?

A New York physician, Dr. Amos T. Baker, writing in that excellent quarterly, Mental Hygiene, has recently offered an answer to this question. His answer is based on sundry unpleasant facts which society would do well to take into immediate consideration.

As psychiatrist at the Westchester county penitentiary one of Dr. Baker's duties is to give incoming prisoners a mental examination. While thus engaged it dawned on him that of the unfortunates locked up for vagrancy the great majority presented mental peculiarities.

Between Feb. 2 and May 25, 1918, he examined fifty vagrants, ranging in age from 19 to 70. More than half of these had already been given the punishment cure; some had had it administered repeatedly. One elderly vagrant said he had served three times in state prison and nineteen in penitentiaries.

Yet of the fifty only twelve, or less than 25 per cent. were mentally normal.

Some were feeble-minded. Fourteen were definitely insane or on the way to insanity. Eight were chronic alcoholics. Seven of the older men showed serious senile deterioration. Vagrants really needed was not punishment but medical care.

In other words, what these vagrants needed was not punishment but medical care.

And more than this, it was demonstrable that if many of them were now in a hopeless condition mentally, some even of these might have been saved for useful membership in society had their defects been recognized soon enough.

Dr. Baker consequently would have society completely abandon the punishment cure for vagrancy. He would have all vagrants examined as to their mentality. The feeble-minded and the positively insane he would send to appropriate institutions. The remainder he would commit to reconstruction colonies under medical supervision.

"Commitments of such a colony," he recommends, "should be for an indefinite period, and the parole of an inmate should be determined by his record for industry in the colony, and by his physical condition.

"After parole it should be the duty of an after care agency to follow the man closely, to give needed advice and encouragement, and to move for his return to the colony if habits develop which tend to impair his efficiency.

"The colony should embody features of the farm and workshop, and thus offer every advantage to the inmate to acquire contracts designed to enable him to cope successfully with conditions in the outer world."

Here is a specific program which certainly seems to promise more than the present system of dealing with vagrants. I believe that it ought to be given a fair trial.

FOLLOW PRESIDENT AND TAFT

(New York Commercial.)

President Wilson and former President Taft assure the American people that the League of Nations does not mean peace at the price of liberty. The sight of the President and his only living predecessor in office fighting side by side for the welfare of humanity in this fashion should inspire hope and confidence.

Mr. Taft is profoundly versed in the laws of nations and of the United States. While amiably optimistic, he is not given to intense enthusiasm. He scans everything with a judicial eye and weighs the possibilities that attend action. In contrast with the captiousness of many prominent leaders of his own party, he is trying to help the Chief Executive of his own country in the greatest effort made by any man in all history to establish a covenant among nations that will assure peace for ages to come.

Such co-operation will impress the whole world. It lifts the question of a League of Nations far above the level of partisan politics, and Americans who see Wilson and Taft standing side by side will pay little heed to the mouthings of opponents of the plans, whose utterances are inspired by personal prejudices or ambition to reach the White House. Mr. Taft has nothing to gain by going to the aid of his political opponent beyond the approval of his fellow men. We may take it for granted that he has come forward in this way to serve his country and all mankind by doing what he can to uphold President Wilson's hands. He does not say that the President's plan is perfect, but he does ask Congress and the American people to help him make it workable.

President Wilson's influence at the Peace Conference is undoubtedly affected by the backfire in Congress which makes foreigners believe that he has not the support of the American people. Pro-German propagandists in America have filled Europe with stories about his weakness at home, basing their attacks chiefly on the fact that he was a minority President in his first term and his second election was a close decision. Europe does not fully appreciate the manner in which the American people always stand behind their President and forget campaign issues as soon as the votes are counted.

Mr. Taft's noble effort to help Mr Wilson and the cause of peace will overcome this pro-German propaganda in Paris and throughout western Europe. These propagandists cannot explain away Mr. Taft, who speaks for American lovers of peace and the large majority of his fellow Republicans whom partyism does not blind. This League of Peace is the most momentous issue ever presented for the consideration of the world at large. The President's bitterest opponents dare not oppose the idea or the ideals it embodies, but they try to create the impression that somewhere in the plan lurks danger for the freedom of the United States and the stability of the Constitution.

A consistent critic tries to discredit the plan and the President by comparing the League of Nations with the Holy Alliance formed at the end of the Napoleonic wars. He couples England with the continental powers of a century ago, and creates the inference that England entered the Holy Alliance, which was a conspiracy against liberty under the guise of an alliance to secure peace. This is a specimen of the pro-German propaganda which has been disseminated during the last five years. The truth is that England backed the United States when the Monroe Doctrine was promulgated and prevented the Holy Alliance from helping Spain to reconquer her American colonies. That put an end to the Holy Alliance, and the facts destroy the comparison drawn between it and President Wilson's League of Nations. The Holy Alliance was a conspiracy of autocrats to subjugate free peoples not strong enough to defend themselves. The League of Nations is an alliance to protect such small peoples from aggression and to remove the ordinary causes of war. Mr. Taft's endorsement of it gives hope of its accomplishment.

LITTLE BENNY'S NOTEBOOK

(By Lee Pape.)

My cuzin Sue came erround to my house yestidday with a bag of pretzils, me saying, Hello, Sue, how you bin? Wich I would of sed, Hello, Sue, weather she had eny pretzils or not, ony I proberly wouldent of sed, How you bin? And pritty soon I sed, Ware did you get the pretzils? and she sed, Bawt them for 3 sents, they would of cost more if they was fresh.

Do you wunt me to eat one and tell you how fresh they are? I sed, and she sed, No, I wunt to play a game with them. I wunt to play Feeding the Starving Belgiums.

Wich we started to do, using a chair for the bote and putting the bag of pretzils on the seet and starting to push the bote erround the room, me making a noise like a steem bote and Sue saying, Heer we come, starving Belgiums, heer we come, dont starve yet.

Wich after we had did that for a wile, all of a sudden, I stopped pushing the bote and sat down on it, saying, Ding a ling a ling.

Wats that sed Sue, and I sed, Dinnir time for the sailers, sailers eat pretzils for dinnir, and Sue gave me one and we started to play agent, me still sounding like a steem bote and Sue saying, Starve slow, starving Belgiums, we're almost there.

Wich we hadent hardly started wen I sat down on the bote agen, saying Dong, a long a long, suppir.

No fair, I wont go to it, they jest had dinnir, sed Sue. Meening the sailers, and I sed, Sailers eat one meel rite after the other, thats wat makes them so strong, and they have sutch regular habits that they eat pretzils for every meel.

And Sue gave me another one, saying, I guess you dont care weather the Belgiums starve or not, do you?

I wouldent wunt to see them all starve, I sed. And we hadent hardly started to push the bote after the sailors had ate their suppir wen I sat on it agen, saying Dung a lung a lung, breskfist.

Like fun, sed Sue. And she took the bag and went down stairs, me thinking, O well, they was pritty stale. Wich they was.

COUNTY ORANGE LODGE ASK THAT CHURCHES BE TAXED

Communication Sent to Council Last Night Referred to Committee—Ald Edgar Proposes Change in System of Paying Taxes

Among the communications read at the meeting of the City Council last night was one from the County Loyal Orange Lodge of Peterborough West advocating that all churches and other property be taxed in the same manner as other property in the community. This question will be discussed in committee.

Ald Edgar submitted a motion providing for a change in the method of collecting the taxes. He advocated the three installment plan instead of the two installment system followed at present.

In arguing his point, Ald. Edgar referred to the overdraft of approximately $70,000 which existed in the revenues of the city on January 1, and upon which the municipality was paying interest. Thirty thousand dollars of this sum arose from unpaid taxes and the remainder from the carrying out of minor public works, such as the construction of sewers.

In advocating the change, the speaker said that those who had been opposed to such a move had stated that most of the saving which would be realized by the city as a result of the cutting down of the overdraft and a consequent lessening of the amount of interest charges which would have to be met by the city would return to the taxpayers in the form of discounts for pre-payment. If that is the only argument against the change, Ald. Edgar thought it was more, a-d better in its favor, as the money would return to the taxpayer and not to the bank which carried the city's overdraft.

Ald. Turner backed up Ald. Edgar's contention strongly and said he would even favor a quarterly collection. He could not see why the city should allow the taxpayer a six months' term of credit while it paid interest on a large overdraft made necessary as a result of the meagre returns to the municipal exchequer from the ratepayers.

A Plea for the Workingmen.

Ald. Carside thought that paying taxes three times a year instead of twice might be satisfactory if introduced in normal times, but at present with so many men out of employment he was sure it would be a hardship upon them to be called upon to make a paymen' to the city every four months.

Ald. Phelan did not think that such a motion should be submitted to the Council without a thorough consideration in committee.

Ald. Edgar thought that if some of the workingmen who had been receiving big wages for the past few years had been less prodigal with their earnings Ald. Carside would not have to advance such a claim in their behalf when it was proposed to change the tax-paying system.

Ald. Morrison stated that in many cases the wages received during the past few years by the workingman had been devoted to paying for his home, which accounted for the fact that when he was thrown out of work he had nothing to fall back upon.

Ald. Edgar's motion was lost, and for the present at any rate the tax payment system in Peterborough will remain the same and the ratepayer will not be asked to come across three times in the year.

Earlier Papers From Toronto.

Speaking of the improved train service which had been promised by the Grand Trunk, Ald. Edgar advocated passing a motion instructing the clerk to write the Mail, Globe and World of Toronto asking that their papers for Peterborough be sent via the Grand Trunk train which is routed by Blackwater and Lindsay and reaches this city at 11:57. This would bring the morning papers here half an hour ahead of their present time of arrival on the noon C.P.R. train. This resolution was carried upon assurance being given that this train has been running on schedule all winter.

TARIFF QUESTION SET FOR THURSDAY

ACTING PREMIER WHITE CALLS ANOTHER CAUCUS OF UNION MEMBERS.

Ottawa, March 4.—Another Government caucus has been called by Sir Thomas White, acting Premier, for Thursday. This caucus will discuss the tariff. At the last meeting the tariff only came up incidentally, but it is expected this caucus will devote a field day to the subject, in order that the Government may get the views of all its followers, east and west before coming to any decision or takin gany action.

Today or Wednesday the western Unionists Liberal and Conservative will have another gathering when they will decide on their requests, which they will either present to the caucus or to Sir Thomas White before the meeting.

There is a strong sentiment on both sides to come together and an effort will be made to reach a compromise which will be satisfactory. There is a general feeling that an all-round revision of the tariff under present circumstances would be unwise, but the western members would like some immediate concessions.

One proposal that the seven and a half per cent. duty be removed. It might possibly be allowed to remain on free goods other than raw material and on certain luxuries. It is also suggested that there be a reduction on threshers and certain other agricultural machinery.

If the Liberal and Conservative Unionists can get together on the tariff question it will pave the way for the formation of a permanent party, which both wings are now earnestly advocating and which it is believed will be consummated upon the return of Sir Robert Borden.

Duffus Garage Formally Opened

There were 500 people at the formal opening of the Duffus garage last night. The show room of the splendid and spacious building was tastefully decorated for the occasion and all preparations had been made for the entertainment of the visitors.

Moving pictures showing automobile construction in the larger factories of the continent were shown and a very pleasant evening spent.

Mayor Duncan presided at the opening ceremony. He described the Duffus garage as being one of the best in Canada, a credit to the owner and to the city of Peterborough.

He spoke of Ex-Mayor Duffus as a man who meant business first, last and always and having been associated with him in the city council for many years could speak with authority of his many good qualities.

Mr. Duffus in replying to the kind remarks of Mayor Duncan thanked His Worship for consenting to perform the duties of officially opening the new building. He made a neat address referring to the building of the plant and paying a fine tribute to Mr. Hickey the contractor who had built the splendid structure.

A detailed account of the opening ceremony and of the history of the building since work upon it commenced will appear in tomorrow's paper.

SITUATION SATISFACTORY

Confidence Well Sustained in Canadian Business Ordeal.

Ottawa, March 4.—Sir Thomas White Acting Premier, stated last night that reports from all over Canada indicate that confidence is being well sustained, and that, as compared with other countries, the situation in Canada is exceedingly good. Mr. W. P. Gundy of the Canadian Trade Commission, reported to him last night that after studying the European situation, and afterwards visiting the United States, he found that Canada was in much the best situation of all countries at the present time. Asked when shipments would begin to go forward to England of hogs and cattle products, Sir Thomas said: "We shall have a free market by April 1st."

THE LATE PRESTON GRANGE

The remains of the late Preston Grange, son of Fire Chief Grange of this city, who died of influenza while in the army in England some time ago arrived in Peterborough this morning.

The funeral will be held under the auspices of the G.W.V.A. from the Armories on Sunday next, at 3.30 in the afternoon to Little Lake Cemetery.

SPOTTED FEVER IN BERLIN

Berlin, March 4.—The number of cases of spotted fever in Germany rose within the week from 144 to more than 500. Of these 18 cases were reported in Berlin, where there were three deaths from the disease. It is reported that the disease is brought to Germany by troops and civilians returning from Russia.

MR. A. MOWAT PRESIDENT SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS

Elected at Evening Session of Convention Last Night—Interesting Addresses by Visiting Delegates.

The evening session of the Sunday School convention opened in George Street Methodist Church last night with Mr. Joseph Wearing in the chair.

Rev. A. J. Thomas conducted the devotional services and the report of the nominating committee was received and adopted as presented. It named the following officers for the coming years:

President—A. Mowat.
1st Vice-Pres.—C. E. Parsons.
2nd Vice-Pres.—J. A. McKone.
Treasurer—A. T. Johnstone.
Secretary—J. J. Turner.
Supt. Primary Dept.—Mrs. E. D. Lewis.
Supt. Secondary Dept.—Hughson Johnstone.
Supt. Adult Dept.—C. E. Sisson.
Supt. Home Dept.—A. McNabb.
Supt. Teachers' Training Dept. —Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner.
Supt. Missionary Dept—Mrs. A. F. Lane.
Supt. Temperance Dept.—F. E. Kerr.

The executive is composed of the above mentioned officers and the superintendents of the different Sunday Schools of the city.

Mr. Mowatt then superseded Mr. Wearing in the chair and the program proceeded.

Room For Home Missions.

Rev. P. K. Dayfoot's address upon "The Child in Our Midst" was a masterpiece. He dealt with the subject from four standpoints, namely, the physical child, the mental child the social child and the spiritual child.

He stated that there are 21,000,000 children in North America under the age of 21 years. 15,000,000 of them are in need of medical attention; 75 per cent. of them were rejected for military service and out of the 21,000,000 there are 11,500,000 for whom no religious provision has been made.

He maintained that the church and the Sunoday School are not two separate bodies and that the churches should give more support financial and otherwise to the Sunday Schools which carry on such an immensely important branch of the work.

The Quick And The Dead.

Rev. T. A. Halpenny gave an address upon "Laying Foundations." He pointed out that the inevitable law of life is that everything dies that something else may live. He illustrated his point from nature and showed its application to the subject under consideration.

George street choir provided splendid music under the capable direction of the organist, Prof. Renwick. During the program Mrs. Renwick and Mrs. Lynn contributed two solos.

WHILE WELCOMING LIVING REMEMBER THOSE WHO DIED

Fitting Memorial That Could Be Erected and Which Would Benefit the Dependents of Those Who Did Not Come Back.

In the midst of welcoming the living Canada has not forgotten the debt she owes to not the appeal of her silent army and the glorious army of the dead.

What form of perpetual memorial of their brave and gallant lives is the most befitting? This is a question that is just now attracting the attention of every town and city throughout the Dominion.

A consensus of opinion shows that the old form of memorial, which is merely a monument in stone, has somewhat lost in public favor and the present age seems to demand that for those whose lives were not wasted, but given for a righteous cause, the memorial also shall be well fitted to the living, be the best form of monument to perpetuate the memory of the dead.

Homes for soldiers, scholarships for the children of deceased heroes, public buildings, children's homes, highways and public improvements have been suggested as fitting memorials.

In Charlottetown a suggestion has been made by a returned soldier, Corp. Cotton, for a memorial highway, war road or victory highway, as the best form of commemoration. The benefits which would accrue from this suggestion are set down as follows:

(1) The means of securing a federal allowance of forty per cent. of the cost.

(2) It would furnish employment for a large number of men at good wages.

(3) Would result in improved rural conditions.

(4) Would increase the value of island farm property.

Another suggestion is also made that returned soldiers would be attracted to this district.

One public spirited firm has already promised the sum of $1000.00 towards such a memorial, and the idea would be to have tablets in suitable positions along the road which would commemorate the part taken by the boys of Prince Edward Island in the great war.

The second proposal of a memorial for Prince Edward Island suggests a soldiers' home. This, however, does not seem to have met with the same amount of enthusiasm as that of the highway.

In Edmonton a memorial hall has been suggested and so far the idea of public buildings, which could be used for meetings of all kinds and remain a public benefit for all classes and conditions, seems to be the most frequent and popular suggestion from all parts of Canada. But a further suggestion is made by one Westerner who points out that any form of memorial, however generously subscribed for in the first instance, will need to be kept in repair and might probably, at some future date, constitute a public expense rather than an asset, unless the greatest care is exercised in the choosing.

This correspondent suggests that a campaign should be undertaken to collect a sum of money to be known as a memorial fund. The money so collected to be expended in the form of pensions, which might cover a period of five years or longer, these to be distributed to the women and men who have served overseas and the dependents of those who have died; the money to be paid out by monthly or quarterly cheques and to be used for the rebuilding of homes and re-establishing of business, etc.

Memorial parks and playgrounds for children have also been freely suggested. Some correspondents there are, however, who strenuously object to the utilitarian idea being applied to a war memorial. These advocate the old form of grapite or marble monuments, the statuary or carved figures, as more reverend and befitting remembrances for the eye of visitors and friends alike.

There would be no difficulty, however, in suiting both those who desire something usefull and those who wish to see some form of monument, as almost in every instance the latter could be incorporated into the former.

Whatever form the memorial takes no fear will ever exist in the minds of true Canadians that the deeds of those who sleep in Flanders fields will ever be forgotten.

Canada has passed through the greatest period of her history and emerged triumphant and it is fitting that due consideration and time should be given to commemoration of such triumph and of those by whom it was so hardly won.

The fact that "faint heart ne'er won fair lady" must be a source of much satisfaction to old bachelors.

WILL TAKE UP HOUSING PLAN IN COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE

G. A. Gillespie, M. L. A., Meets City Council to Discuss Matter Now in the Legislature —Routine Business Before City Fathers

At the regular meeting of the city council last night some important matters came up for discussion amongst which was the proposition of Alderman Edgar to have the taxes paid in three installments annually. A great volume of routine business was disposed of, committee reports adopted and several by-laws providing for regular monetary grants, passed.

A. G. Roberts wrote the council in connection with the work of the Playgrounds Association and expressed the hope that interest would be shown in the program outlined and that provision would be made for financial assistance for the organization when striking the estimates for this year.

A communication from Gordon and O'Brien in compliance with the request of a client called the attention of the council to the fact that the Grand Opera House having been sold would no longer enjoy the taxation privileges which had been accorded it in the past.

Mr. A. E. Dixon in answer to the communication of the council looking towards the purchase of property of the estate off Charlotte street ked what the city would consider a fair purchasing price.

The tax collector furnished the following statement in regard to his work:

On roll . . . $496,576.24
Deposited . . . 465,834.92
Balance $30,741.32

A letter from Capt. Burnham, M. P., in regard to taking action to urge the hydro to expropriate the power rights at Lakefield before the Dominion government increases their value by the construction of a new dam was read before the council. This communication appeared in the papers yesterday and when submitted to the meeting last night Alderman McIntyre counseled immediate action as did Alderman Edgar.

It was decided, however to consider the question in committee of the whole.

A letter was read from the sales branch of the Department of Fisheries stating that as Peterborough had been one of the 200 municipalities which had taken advantage of the fish procured last year it would in all probability wish to continue to do so during the approaching season. If so they wished to name distributors or if willing that the same men as carried on the work last year be retained they were requested to notify the department to that effect. There were 33,800 pounds of fish from the northern lakes distributed in this city last year from this source.

G. A. Gillespie, M. L. A. was present to discuss with the council the new housing scheme of the Ontario Government. He stated that he did not know that it was the night of the regular meeting and felt that the matter would require more consideration than time would permit of its receiving last night. He therefore suggested referring it to a committee which could go into the matter very soon and inform him of their decision as the bill was now in the committee stages and would in all probability receive its third reading at the end of this week.

The question was referred to Committee of the Whole.

Gordon and O'Brien the solicitors for the claimant informed the Council by letter that their client Rosa O'Brien claimed $600 damages for injury to the brick house of the late Mrs. O'Brien, at the corner of Dowler and Simcoe Streets on account of the water, which had been dammed back by a crossing constructed by the city, undermining the wall.

Turner and Sons wrote the Council in connection with the recent offer made that firm in regard to the rent of the bill board situation on is proposed to advertise Peterboro for a term of three years, the Council in its resolution naming the sum of $50 as a reasonable amount for the firm to pay for the rent of the island.

Turner and Sons objected upon the grounds that such a charge was out of all proportion when the fact was considered that the property upon which the bill board stood was valueless. They thought $5 a year would be more reasonable.

It was decided to refer the matter back to the Property Committee for further consideration and to give one of the members of the firm an opportunity to state their side of the case.

All the communications read last night were referred to the proper committees of the Council for investigation and consideration.

PRICES OF WHEAT NOT GUARANTEED

THAT IS LIKELY TO BE POLICY ADOPTED BY HOUSE.

Ottawa, March 4.—Contracts for ten thousand tons of Canadian bacon have been let by the Imperial Government. This will take one-half to one-third of the bacon in the hands of the packers. In addition, it is likely, according to information received at Ottawa, that the British Food Ministry will raise all restrictions in regard to the sale of bacon after March 31. This it is believed will help the Canadian market. The English consumer prefers the Canadian to the American bacon and with restriction off it is expected that there will be an increased call for Canadian bacon overseas.

The beef situation is not yet cleared up. Mr. R. S. Arkell, Live Stock Commissioner, is in England and is working on the question of sales in England and Europe. It is understood that there is a possibility of contracts being made with France.

American Troubles.

The situation in regard to wheat is the one which is giving the Government the most anxiety. The United States Government, with its guaranteed price, is likely to have to pay out of the treasury from a billion to a billion and a half dollars. They are evidently endeavoring to prevent American farmers from sowing any larger crop than is necessary as they have placed an embargo on the importation of seed grain from Canada. Large quantities of Western Marquis wheat have been crossing the border for this purpose.

It is estimated that if Canada guaranteed the price of wheat it might run a loss to the treasury of a half billion dollars or more. It is felt by the Government that it is impossible to ask the rest of Canada to pay this sum to the farmers of the west. There is no likelihood of a guaranteed price.

Interviewed regarding the probable effect of the contract which the Imperial Government has given to Canadian packers for 10,000 tons of bacon local "packing-men" express the opinion that it will have little or no effect on either the price of bacon locally or the hog market. It is pointed out that during the war the policy of the Imperial Government was to keep the bacon stocks of this country cleaned up and that the present order is nothing more than the ordinary shipments which have been made during the war. By a representative of one of the leading local packing concerns, the statement is made that this is the last big shipment which is to be made to the Im-

SCHOOL PUPILS ATTEND THEATRE

SOME OF CHILDREN WITNESS OPENING EXHIBITION OF WAR PICTURES.

The all-British film, "With the Empire's Fighters," opened at the Grand Opera House yesterday afternoon with a special matinee for the school children of the city and the result was a crowd of the rising generation attended in a body under the escort of their teachers. The line that waited to secure tickets extended from the box office of the theatre back beyond Charlotte street. The exhibition was thoroughly enjoyed by the youngsters and the performance had a high educational value. The pictures are shown under the patronage of her majesty, the Queen Mother, and the Duke of Devonshire, and have the approval of the British and Canadian authorities alike. Dr. H. D. Girwood, who risked his life in taking these pictures in the midst of the actual battles personally explains every important scene as it is thrown upon the canvass.

The exhibition opens with interesting scenes from the Holy Land, including Jerusalem and other cities famous in Bible stories. In the war pictures proper special attention is paid to the part that the natives of India took in the late war, and the information on this score was no doubt a revelation to the majority of the audience. But the part played by any section of the British Empire is by no means overlooked.

The pictures are exhibited under the auspices of the Major Bennett Chapter of the Daughters of the Empire. This fact, in addition to the high merit of the show, should assure a liberal patronage at the closing exhibition tonight.

HOCKEN FAVORS THE OLD SYSTEM

TORONTO MEMBER ADVOCATES AN IMMEDIATE RETURN TO "PATRONAGE" PLAN.

Ottawa, March 4.—H. C. Hocken, M. P., Toronto, made a violent attack on the present system of recommendations and appointments, citing numerous instances and scandals, and advocating an immediate return to the old system called "Patronage" under which those complaining could at least find someone to lay the blame.

is likely to get another boost in a short time. The doctors of the city feel that their services are not adequately remunerated and at a recent meeting appointed a committee to bring in a report on the matter of increasing their fees. The present scale of fees charged by the medical men of this city was fixed in 113 and some of them seem to feel that if these are not increased they will be kept so busy standing at their doors warding off the attacks of the wolf they will not be in a position to relieve the sufferings of humanity.

Chocolate the Ready Luncheon
WHEN business prohibits your leaving the office at lunch time, yet you are hungry and tired—eat chocolate! for chocolate is a sustaining food.
All through the war the value of chocolate has been demonstrated.
The Allied soldiers found that when fatigued, eating chocolate renewed their energy, and thousands will testify how bars of chocolate used as emergency rations supplied them with strength to "carry on" in many a tight pinch.
Chocolate has proven its vitality-restoring qualities to every Canadian soldier. Profit by this war lesson. Apply it to civil life.
Eat chocolate as a luncheon—it satisfies—and will help you through the business hours.
Chocolate is a food product which the human system craves and demands. It fills a real need.

ENGINEER BARBER BUILT NEW TYPE OF BRIDGE OVER ROUGE

Expert Who Will Build Hunter Street Bridge Put Up a Structure of the Concrete Truss Variety Near Toronto

Freeman's bridge, spanning the Rouge river, between the townships of Scarboro and Markham, York County, is a fine example of the concrete truss type. It was built in the spring of 1911 and finished in the later part of December.

The work was carried out entirely by day-labor under the direct management of Frank Barber, engineer for York township, and the cost of the complete structure was in the neighborhood of $8,000, Replacing the old wooden bridge, which was one of the longest of the Howe truss type, and rather longer in span than most single span wooden bridges, Mr. Barber is not very certain how old the structure really was, but it was erected about after Howe invented this bridging truss in the year 1841, and incidentally Mr. Howe was cousin of the inventor of the sewing machine of the same name. It is worthy of note that most modern bridges with more than two floor or panel systems, are of the Howe truss pattern. The main measurements of the new bridge are 91 feet clear span, 16 feet above the water.

The superstructure consisting of the concrete arches with suspended floors, alone weighs 230 tons and has embedded in the mass 18 tons of steel, all in the form of three-quarter inch rods to take up the tension.

Concrete, it may be stated, can resist compression without the aid of members or those tending to be pulled apart require to have steel embedded as concrete cannot resist tension.

Massive Appearance

The great weight of the structure gives it a massive appearance and in contrast with the appearance of a steel bridge begets a public confidence. A load weighing ten tons can have but a slight impression on a bridge of such a large weight.

Consider the well-known French engineer, built the first concrete truss bridge in 1904 in France. The first to be built in America was the approach to the Sparkman street bridge at Nashville, Tenn., and the first in Canada was the Middle Road Bridge, built by Frank Barber in York and Peel, on the Middle Road over the Etibocoke river, in the year 1909. The reason that a truss was adopted on this bridge rather than an arch was, the truss utilized the old stone abutments and an arch design could not.

Second in Canada

Freeman's Bridge the subject of our article was the second to be erected in Canada. Canadian engineers were slow to adopt this form of bridge, however, and it is worthy of note that Mr. Barber had built nine of this type before any other Canadian engineer adopted the concrete truss. One was built by the engineer of Halton country at Eden Mills in 1913 and 1914 eleven more concrete truss bridges were built in various parts of Ontario, and from then onward an increasing confidence and popularity has grown in favor of the type until at the present time the large number of 56 have been erected in Canada. Five of which are in Manitoba built by the good roads commission, under the supervision of P. Burke Gaffney, bridge engineer and four of the largest bridges on the Toronto-Hamilton Highway at present under construction and nearing completion are also of this type.

Day labor had to be resorted to in the erection of Freeman's Bridge owing to its being a new type, and contractors were unable to submit suitable tenders for its erection.

It war largely owing to the foresight of the Hon. Geo. Henry, Minister of agriculture, who was then warden of York County, in the year 1909, that the concrete truss type of bridge was introduced and the engineer was allowed to make his attempt which has now proved so successful.

An interesting story is told by Mr. Barber, in connection with the erection of Freeman's Bridge.

The men employed were largely recruited from the farming folk of the immediate vicinity, and after the bridge was completely concreted and cased for over a month, and was resting on its wooden false supports the engineer went over to the district thinking he would again pick up a number of the same men to go under the bridge and remove the wooden support, or strike centres, as it is technically called, however, nobody in that neighborhood had any confidence in the ability to bear up their own great weight after the wooden supports were removed, and no one would volunteer for the job.

The next day, the engineer at the head of a gang of Italian laborers from Toronto, arrived on the scene. The Italians who apparently did not value their lives in the same degree as the local inhabitants calmly started in to remove the wooden supports.

The day was a "red letter day" in that section crowds of people from the whole country round lined the river banks to see what would happen when the centres were struck, but nothing happened, in the way in which the spectators figured and the bridge remained upright and more than that it carried the heaviest weight which could be placed upon it. The residents soon changed their views regarding the strength of concrete and several bridges of this type were afterwards built in the neighborhood.

Sixteen Truss Bridges

There are sixteen truss bridges in York County at the present time.

Although the ordinary concrete arch bridge cannot be adopted to every location the concrete truss bridge can be built in any position in which a steel truss can be built, so long as the span is not too great.

One of the later concrete truss bridges of a more advanced style is on Scarlet road, at the Lambton Golf Club. Although only 45 feet span it has all the latest improvements and is of attractive appearance.

It was built four years ago, and replaced an old wooden structure. Thomas Griffiths was reeve of York township when the bridge was opened to the public.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache is Sign you have Been Eating Too Much Meat

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overwor s the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive

CHEMONG IS PUT ON ROUTE OF THE PROPOSED RADIAL

That Resort to be Made Easy of Access From Peterborough When New Line is Built.

Mr. G. N. Gordon addressed the Council last night in the interests of Yeates Bros. who, the Trades and Labor Council had recommended should be refused a renewal of their license upon the grounds that they had been fined twice for breaches of the law.

Mr. Gordon showed that upon neither of these occasions had the proprietors themselves been to blame in the true sense of the word, though held responsible for what took place upon their property in the eyes of the law. He reminded the Council that at some time in a man's life he is very apt to fall from grace and get into police court for some minor breach of the law and that a reference to the chief's report for the past year even lawyers had been convicted of exceeding the speed limit and had been fined.

The question for the Council to settle in the instance under consideration, according to Mr. Gordon, was whether or not these young men ran a respectable establishment and whether the criminal classes in the community used their pool room as a loafing place. This information could be obtained in the usual manner by having the police make out a report dealing with the matter.

Fer Fair Wages.

Chairman Phelan read the report of the Board of Works, in which they recommended that the engineer advertise for tenders for the construction of the Hunter street bridge. Alderman Gainey, before the report was adopted, submitted a motion providing that a fair wage clause be inserted in the specifications.

He explained that the fair wage would be defined and set by the prevailing wage in the community at the time the bridge was built. It really means the union wage for laborers as well as trades.

Chairman Phelan stated that in his opinion provision of that kind had already been made in the specifications.

Alderman Edgar reminded the Council of the clause in the specifications to the effect that all local skilled and unskilled labor must be taken up—all things being equal—before the contractor could go out of the city to employ men.

"All things being equal," Alderman Edgar declared, "meant that if the wage in Peterborough was much higher than in outside places the contractor would not be forced to pay a higher price than the general one prevailing."

Alderman Gainey replied that if a clause of this kind was not inserted farmers and their sons could come into the city in the fall after getting the crop off the land and would be willing to hire with the contractor at a much lower rate than would support the man living in the city.

Alderman McIntyre favored Alderman Gainey's contention and explained.

Chairman Phelan was in favor of referring the matter back to the Board of Works where it could be discussed in a more detailed manner.

Alderman Gainey's motion was seconded by Alderman Morrison and passed.

Radials For Peterborough.

Next Chairman Edgar submitted the report of the Railway Committee.

Alderman Turner thought that in the motion recommending that the Hydro be urged to build the Toronto Eastern line north-east from Whitby to Peterborough the Commission should be asked to run the line to Chemong as well as to McCracken's Landing on the Kawartha Lakes.

If this were done Chemong would become a suburb of Peterborough and the houses there which are vacant about 10 months in the year could be occupied and would materially aid in the solution of the city's housing problem. If Chemong were only 15 minutes' ride from the city Alderman Turner stated that he would just as soon live there as in Peterborough.

A Question of Terminus.

Alderman Hamilton asked Chairman Edgar why McCracken's Landing had been chosen as the terminus of the line when Young's Point was the logical and of such a railway.

Chairman Edgar stated that in asking the Hydro to build the line to McCracken's Landing the Committee had been looking forward to the time when the Commission might be induced to extend it eastward to Ottawa and thus from an electric interurban line which would link up London, Toronto, Peterborough and Ottawa. In answer to Alderman Hamilton's question Alderman Edgar stated that McCracken's Landing was a more central point upon the lakes than Young's Point.

After some discussion Alderman Turner's suggestion was adopted and the report amended to read Chemong as well as to McCracken's Landing on the Kawartha Lakes.

Alderman Turner, Chairman of the Legal Committee, submitted the report of that body, which was adopted without discussion as was that of the Fire, Water and Light Committee when submitted by Chairman Morrison.

Bylaws to make the following grants to the organizations mentioned were submitted upon motion of Aldermen Taylor and Phelan, received their several readings and were passed:—$1,000 to the Peterborough Health Association; $100 to the Peterborough Poultry Association; $600 to the Children's Aid Society, and one to fix the salary of W. C. Stimpson, sanitary inspector, at $1,200, he to pay all expenses connected with his work.

Last night the Council discussed the advisability of endorsing a resolution which had been passed by the City Council of Calgary requesting the Council to make some minor changes in regard to the discharge of soldiers. The motion of the Western City's Council was couched in somewhat ambiguous terms and no action was taken in connection with it.

Alderman enquired of Mayor Duncan last night as to the policy the city intended to pursue in regard to men who had enlisted from the Fire Department. Had any promise been made these men?

His Worship replied that they had been assured at the time of their enlistment that should they return to Peterborough physically fit to re-enter the department their former positions would be open to them.

In connection with the discussion of fixing of salaries and grants Alderman Gainey felt that it was unfair that these matters should come before the Finance Committee for discussion as there only the chairmen of committees were present and when their reports were submitted the member who did not have a seat at that Board could not vote intelligently upon their recommendations as he did not have sufficient time to grasp their significance.

Upon motion of Alderman Gainey and Garside it was decided to leave the question of grants and fixing of salaries to a committee of the whole council.

Alderman Turner stated that he would like to have the question of extending the city limits in several directions discussed. He had prepared a map which would throw a great deal of light upon the matter but thought that the hour was too late to admit of its discussion last night.

This question was referred to the committee of the whole when Alderman Turner will explain the proposition with the aid of the map which he has had prepared.

Alderman Turner was responsible for a motion being introduced and carried requesting the city engineer to make an estimate of the general cost and the cost to each property owner of a continuation of the paving of the road from the corner of Charlotte and Water streets along the latter and up King to George. It was stated that the Turner and the Duffus firms would be quite satisfied to pay their share.

Mayor Duncan drew attention to the lack of light upon the street facing the new Duffus garage and asked that three lights be placed there. Other Aldermen at once requested lights to be placed in different parts of the city and trees to be cut down to accommodate property owners in cases where their shade was a nuisance.

Prospective Purchaser (looking over the abandoned farm)—I suppose this land might be reclaimed. Owner—Don't you worry about that, mister. If your lawyer finds a flaw in the title I'll buy you a new hat, b'gosh!

Good Candy A Human Benefactor

A recent issue of "The Canada Lancet" contains a leading article entitled, "Candy as a Food" which entirely dissipates the theory still prevalent in some quarters, that candy is an unwholesome luxury, which should be very charily indulged. The "Lancet" brings an abundance of scientific data to the support of the contention that sugar is necessary food. It is especially suitable for children who do not as a rule care for fat meat, but who take readily to sweets, which serve as a natural substitute for fats. Candy constitutes a food of the carbohydrate class and it is estimated that the average active and healthy adult requires daily for his effective sustenance aboue 6,000 grains of carbohydrates. The popular ingredient chocolate, is also a most nourishing fat food and stimulant; while it appears that the flavorings of good candy are an aid to digestion and elimination.

The notion that the eating of candy injures the teeth is dismissed by this scientific journal as a superstition. The lack of sugar is much more likely to injure the teeth, through poor nutrition, and is attendant with more serious consequences than ever those caused by the derangements of the digestive candy or any other food. On the whole, candy, when safeguarded against vicious adulterations, is a boon to the human race because it affords necessary heat-producing nourishment in a most palatable form. It migh. be added that it is an excellent aid to temperance; for it is an effective antidote to the craving for alcohol.

It would appear, therefore, that the widely prevailing human taste for candy, especially in growing children, is soundly based on Nature's needs. The man who takes home a box of candy to his wife; or the youth who finds it a way to the good-will of his sweetheart, is thereby doing a good deed. He is providing her fith beneficient carbohydrates, though for our part, we prefer the old-fashioned name of "sweets."

CAPT. BURNHAM

Capt. Burnham's Comments

With further reference to the above letter, I may say that I am in favor of the strictest possible regulation. No one can say for one minute that I have ever shown myself in the slightest degree sympathetic with the shady side of life, and I have suffered in popularity accordingly, which I am quite willing to do. I have had much to fight of a particularly vicious character in this respect; but, however, I am quite willing and able to do it—when I am not, I will quit.

In the meantime, let me say that the late epidemic and the pitiful condition of people who required the assistance of a tonic attracted by very intense attention. Scores of people that I met with were in absolute need of the assistance of an alcoholic tonic; and though I come of a doctor's family, I will not hand everybody over to the doctors for prescriptions and such tonics as they may see fit to give them in lieu of alcohol. An alcohol tonic is something that can be taken by all people at all times without danger, which is not so with medical tonics.

Ninety-five per cent of the population is and always was strong and respectable and it is time that we found out some way of treating the other five per cent, except at the expense of the ninety-five. If, in my opinion, prohibition, total and absolute, were a good thing for the people, I would vote for it tomorrow but I do not think, for the reasons I have given above, that we can fly to remedies, and get away with it, such as total extinction: in other words called "bone dry prohibition." The effect will be, I am afraid, to stay the immense advance which has been made in temperance, which I may observe is due to the improvement of public opinion, and the more public opinion is cultivated in this respect, the more it will be found necessary to remove the vicious of all sorts, like weeds from the garden, and by means of detention farms or otherwise to save them from themselves.

No doubt, by prohibition of evil, hell itself could have been dispensed with and the world made perfectly happy, but the way to salvation was through a crucifixion and this we must remember. I do not understand it, but I am quite willing to leave it with God, rather than with you, Mr. Cunningham, and I shall not attempt to reprove Him.

Yours truly,

(Sgd.) J. H. BURNHAM.

Repairing and Renewing Broken Equipment in Time.

Handy Hints for Repairing Machinery, Harness, Gates and All Other Breakable Farm Equipment—If Work Is Done Before Spring Rush Many Valuable Hours Will Be Saved at a Time When Delay Spells Greatest Loss.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

THE time for a systematic overhauling of the farm equipment is at hand. Repairing at home means saving in two ways—a saving of expense and a saving of time.

Before attempting to take a machine apart it is well to thoroughly look over it to gain a clear idea of the general arrangement and location of the parts. Machines with few parts or parts whose relations are quite obvious, do not require to be marked, but machines whose parts are numerous and similar in size and in appearance should be given distinctive marks—similar marks being put on adjoining parts. These marks may be centre-pops arranged in devices so: .. .. ::, or letters stamped upon surface of the parts where there is no frictional contact.

In the stress of a busy season a broken tooth of a gear can be fixed up in a few minutes, and if properly done gears so repaired will often last an indefinite time—often many years. Chip and file the broken tooth down to the root. Draw centre line of tooth across width of rim. Drill the required number of holes, according to width of rim. A pin of wrought iron stock may be driven gently into the holes and filed to shape to match the other teeth. A better job may be made by tapping the plugs into the rim (Fig. 6).

To mend harness by sewing procure a couple of strong needles, a ball of high-grade flax shoe thread (No. 8), a ball of cobbler's wax, a straight and bent awl, and a clamp to hold the work. The clamp can be made from two oak barrel staves (Fig. 1). The thread should be made in length and strength according to the work to be done. For light work from 3 to five strands will suffice, for medium, like lines and girths, from 6 to 8 strands; and for heavy stitching, as tugs and breeching, it will require from 9 to 15 strands.

Break the thread by rubbing it down upon your knee, with your right hand, and give it a sudden jerk. It should break in a long ragged end. The ends should be placed together so as to form a long tapered point. Hold strands together in your left hand. With wax in right hand draw it over the ends a few times, enough to keep them together. Now throw strands over a nail, draw ends even, twine the end in left hand over forefinger, and rub the other end down on the right knee with the right hand. When well twisted rub on more wax. Thread a needle on each end, draw the thread through the eye for about two inches. Bend back the points of the thread and twist them well into the body of the thread (Fig. 1a).

Pierce a hole in the work with a straight awl and insert a needle into the hole drawing the thread halfway through (Fig. 1b). Pierce another hole and pass a needle through for two or three inches. Through the same hole draw the other needle. With a thread in each hand pull them both quite tight. Repeat. Keep stitches straight and uniform in length (Fig. 1c).

For joining two pliable surfaces together in emergency there is, perhaps, nothing so handy, so strong and so neat as a rivet. An assortment of rivets should be kept on hand, both of soft iron tinned and of solid copper (Figs. 2, 3, 4). The split end clincher rivets are suitable for leather or stout woven material, as saddle girths and head halters; iron or copper flat head washer rivets may be used for leather, cloth, thin metal and for even thin strips of wood (Fig. 5).

The wagon is an important factor in the daily routine work of the farm, and should be kept in good running order, but it requires special consideration and experience to profitably repair the wheels, for unless the proper taper and "gather" is given to the spindle, and the axle set the right way, it will result in a hard-running wagon, the wheel grinding on the collar or nut instead of playing easily between them. The farmer, however, can attend to loose spokes, tires and hub bands, checked hubs, etc. After renewing the broken parts and tightening up tires and loose skeins, clean the wagon thoroughly, fill the checks with some good filler and give the whole a coat of paint. This will preserve the wood and prevent shrinking. A broken shaft or tongue may be efficiently spliced with hoop iron as shown in Fig 7. The iron can easily be bent round close by fixing one end first and then pulling it over with one hand and tapping it with a hammer at the same time.

Assume a broken rail of a gate, hay or stock rack. The old bar or rail is sawn off about a foot from the down rail L as shown by dotted line in sketch 8a. A short piece of new stuff is then driven into the mortice in the head (B) and cut off the right length; the two are then nailed together as shown at 8b in part plan. If broken at A (Fig 8) the splicing may be made as shown in sketch by wrapping hoop iron round it, or by nailing on each side strong strips of hardwood as at D (Fig. 8).

One of the first places for a gate to get rotten is at the junction of brace and bar or back caused by wet lodging there. The only way to fix this is, as showp at C (Fig. 8) by nailing strip of hardwood firmly to brace as low down as bottom rail will allow.—Prof. John Evans, O. A. College, Guelph.

CHICK FRASER, MAN WHO FIRST USED THE SPIT BALL

President Fred Mitchell of the Chicago Cubs Tells True Story of That Marvel of Delivery.

(By Oscar C. Reichow)

There is still much argument as to who really invented the spitball. Discussion on the subject will not down, despite the fact that baseball players ,experts and fans have debated the question for years. To date the true inventor of the saliva delivery has not been established, although that particular curve has been in use for more than sixteen years. Some say Elmer Stricklett, formerly of Brooklyn, was the man to introduce it others say Frank Corridon discovered it, and others give Jack Chesbro credit for developing it.

Now along comes President Fred Mitchell of the Cubs with the word that Chick Fraser, formerly of the Phillies and Cubs was probably the first man to use the spitball effectively. They were on the same club —Philadelphia —in 1903, and it was then that Mitchell saw Fraser use the ball and also learned how to operate it on the rubber. It was about that time, or perhaps a year later that Stricklett came forth with the spitball and was given distinction of being the first man to include it in his assortment of benders, although Fraser counted it in 1903, as one of his assets in pitching.

Fraser First to Throw Ball

"Fraser was the first man I ever saw throw the spitball," said President Mitchell, who has been actively affiliated with baseball since 1901, when he was a member of the Boston American league club. "We were on the Philadelphia National League Club together and he taught me how to throw it. It was rather difficult to acquire, but I soon mastered it sufficiently to use in a ball game.

"Zimmer, who was manager and catcher of the Phillies elected me to pitch one day. While I was warming up before the game Fraser stood alongside of me and urged me to try a few spitballs. I did and they broke wonderfully. Fraser was enthused and told me to use it in the game when there were two out and nobody on the bases, but not to tell Zimmer anything about it. Being a kid, I thought it would be a good joke on Zimmer, who was a veteran and regarded as a great catcher at that time.

The game went along for a few innings and I had several chances to use it, but was afraid because Zimmer was manager. Fraser, who was always willing to pull off a trick or two sat next to me on the bench and urged me to go through with our little scheme. I told him I would. In the next inning the situation of two out and none on came up. The batter at the plate had two strikes and two balls called on him and Zimmer signed for a curve. I brought the ball up to my mouth and let go, not having any idea how the ball was going to act, as I had never used it in the game before. To my surprise it went straight over the plate and broke with unusual sharpness.

First Trial a Success

"I was not the only one who was surprised. There were two others, Zimmer and the batter. The man at the plate never saw the spitball before and missed it a mile. Zimmer never saw it before and missed it. The ball hit him on the shin and bounced to the grandstand. The shock of failing to catch the ball and getting hit by it stunned him for a moment. The batter jogged to first base, wondering what had happened.

"Zimmer retrieved the ball and, holding it in his right hand to keep the runner from advancing, motioned me to come to the plate.

"What was it you threw that time?" he asked.

"I was smiling and had all I could do to keep from breaking out in loud laughted. I glanced over at the bench and there saw Fraser nearly splitting his sides laughing. When Zimmer called me to the plate I expected to be reprimanded, but he asked what kind of a ball but he said: "Slow ball ——! We will have to get a signal for that before you use it again." We got a sign for it but Zimmer carried a lump on his shin for several days after."

Lady Curlers Receive Prizes

On Saturday Mrs. W. H. Hill, president of the Ladies' Curling Club, entertained the members at her home on Brock street. After an enjoyable social time had been spent, Mrs. Hill presented Miss Nina Davidson's rink with the trophy, which had been given the club by Mr. Alex. Gibson. The consolation, four silver pickle forks, presented by Mrs. Hill, was won by Mrs. V. Eastwood's rink. A very pleasing feature of the occasion was the presentation by Mrs. Coulthard, to the members of her rink of a cream jug, in appreciation of the splendid curling ability they had shown, and as an incentive to further effort next year.

HENLEY WILL HOLD REGATTA.

Challenge Cup Will Not Be Raced for on English Course.

London, England, March 4. — Although the usual Henley challenge cup will not be put up for competition this year, the Henley regatta committee has decided to hold for the Allied fours a regatta on July 4 and 5. The provisional program includes races by eight-oared and four-oared crews without coxswains.

New Zealand, Australia, Canada and Great Britain will be represented, and it is hoped the United States, Belgium and France will be able to send eights or fours.

This program also will include the Oxford and Cambridge trial eights, open senior eights, open fixed-seat eights, open senior fours without coxswains, open fixed-seat fours and pair oar races and sculling events open to amateurs from the Allied countries.

Canadian Golfers Play in the South

Pinehurst, N.C. March 4.—A world's record field of 316 contestants teed off for the first 18 holes of the 36-hole qualifying round in the annual spring tournament today at Pinehurst. Dwight L. Armstrong of the Oakmount Club led the great field home with a 5, and was followed by L. O. Pierce of Ekwanok at 77.

C. G. Grier of the Royal Montreal Club led the large Canadian contingent at 83. The Ontario golfers finished as follows:—J. L. Weller, St. Catharines, 99; E. W. Birkett, Rivermead, Ottawa, 101; John McCracken, Royal Ottawa, 103; T. M. Birkett, Rivermead, Ottawa, 104; J. H. Ingersoll, St. Catharines, 109.

OTTAWAS DEFEAT THE CANADIENS

SENATORS SHOW IMPROVED FORM, AND DOUBLE SCORE ON FRENCHMEN.

Ottawa, March 4.—The championship play-off series between Canadiens and Ottawa for first honors in the N. H. L. and the right to play off against the Pacific Coast finalists for the Stanley Cup now stands 3 to 1 in favor of the Flying Frenchmen. In the fourth match Ottawa defeated Canadiens by 6 to 3 and thus got back into the fight again.

With Frank Nighbor back at centre and playing in brilliant form, Eddie Gerard and his Senators outskated and outplayed the crafty Habitants, scoring a decisive victory and stamping themselves as a team that is still far from being beaten. They had the edge over Lalonde and his team-mates throughout and would have maintained a much larger lead had it not been for the remarkable goalkeeping of Vezina.

It was another bitterly-fought match, in which feeling ran high, but it was capably handled by Pulford and Ross with the result that there was no trouble of any kind. It was also unusually good hockey when one took into consideration the fact that the ice was sticky and the weather mild.

Two splendidly conditioned teams fought it out in one of the most exing hockey struggles of the world and on the night's play Ottawa certainly deserved the honors. Play abounded in spectacular hockey, team and individual attacks, coupled with great defense work on both teams and sensational goal-keeping by both Vezina and Benedict, combining to make it a thriller.

After getting a lead in the second period the Ottawas threw the extra man back on the defense and put up hockey that proved supreme on that style of ice.

Ottawa—Goal, Benedict; defence, Cleghorn and Cameron; centre, Nighbor; right wing, Broadbent, left wing, Denenay. Substitutes, Gerard, Boucher and Darragh.

Referee, Harvey Pulford; judge of play, Art. Ross.

WOODSTOCK IN JUNIOR FINALS

INDUSTRIAL CITY SEXTETTE EASILY DEFEAT SUDBURY ON ROUND.

Woodstock, March 4.—The local juniors are now qualified to enter the finals for the O.H.A. championship. Last night they defeated Sudbury, 9 to 5, and won the round by 18 to 9. Considering that the ice was partly covered with water, the game was a fairly good one, but the play was not of the calibre of the previous contests with Kitchener and Stratford. The Reds and White cavorted around in great form.

The Sudbury aggregation was strengthened for the occasion by Green and Rothschild, and these two played were about the best on the visitors' line-up. The locals showed up well. There was no hogging the puck or selfish work. It was all nifty team play that counted and resulted in goals. The visitors, with good coaching, could be developed into a formidable team.

Sudbury Forfeit Game.

The Sudbury boys came to town with the one determination to defeat the locals and with this object in view brought along Green of the Parkdale juniors and Rothschild of McGill University. They accordingly forfeited the game and went on the ice confident that they held the cards. However, the locals were not fully extended at any stage and could have notched a few more counters if they had been necessary. Green showed the local fans some real classy hockey and scored four of the five goals for Sudbury.

Sudbury—Goal, Ironstone; defense, Berthiaume and Rothschild; centre, Green; wings, Wright and Acquain. Subs., W. Wright and Kelly.

Woodstock—Goal, Dunlop; defense King and Shay; centre, Trump; wings, Carman and Carson. Subs., Johnston and Debrule.

Penalties—King, 2; Shay and Rothschild, 2.

Referee—Tackaberry.

High Rollers Win From The Pdckers

Last night at the Water Street Alleys in the Business Men's ten pin league, the High Rollers took three games from Matthews Blackwell, for the High Rollers Hayes hit the maple for 583, Solomon and Thompson had 580 and 544. For the losers McDonnel was high with 515. The scores:

High Rollers
Thompson	200	103	181	—544

NO PRIZE FIGHT IN NEW JERSEY

BOXING OFFICIALS IN THAT STATE BAR WILLARD-DEMPSEY BOUT.

New York, March 4.—New Jersey boxing officials have no intention of sanctioning the proposed heavyweight championship bout between Jess Willard and Jack Dempsey, which Tex Rickard will conduct somewhere in this country on July 4th. John S. Smith, Chairman of the New Jersey State Boxing Commission has declared emphatically that under no circumstances will the proposed contest be permitted in New Jersey. In this opinion Commissioner Cann coincides.

The remaining member of the commission, C. Rain ,is favorable to the bout being conducted in New Jersey, providing it is held in a suitable building which could accommodate the crowd expected to attend, the probability of the bout being held in New Jersey is negligible.

Commissioner Smith declared the contest was undesirable so far as New Jersey was concerned. The disparity of the ages of the principals forms the foundation for Commissioner Smith's hostility, and to this is added antipathy over the inactivity of Willard during the war. Commissioner Smith pointed to the fact that the heavy weight champion has consistently refused to give of his efforts for war charities purposes.

Commissioner Cann's opposition to conducting the bout in New Jersey is based on the physical differences between Willard and Dempsey. As a physical director, Commissioner Cann declares it is next to impossible for a man of Willard's age to retain physical perfection after inactivity extending over a period of four years.

Tex Rickard does not seem to be worrying over the location of the bout. He has not stated his plans but is expected to do so shortly. He is expected back in this city today.

Inspector Mowat Approves Show

At the conclusion of the matinee yesterday Inspector Mowat went on the stage to visit Dr. Girwood and to congratulate him upon his exhibition. Mr. Mowat also expressed his appreciation of the value of the picture from an educational standpoint.

Dr. Girwood is a native of Woodstock. When the war broke out he held an appointment under the British Government, being engaged in India preparing textbooks on history and geography for the use of the natives. He expects to resume this duty when the final terms of peace are arranged. In the meantime he is still teaching history, bringing current events right down to date. He

L. L. HOOKS SAYS HIS TROUBLES ARE OVER

TANLAC BUILT HIM UP SO HE IS NOW WORKING HARD EVERY DAY

"When I weighed the other day I found that I had gained thirty-five pounds, and that's only a part of what Tanlac has done for me," said L. L. Hooks, of North Roswell, Ga., in relating his experience with Tanlac.

"I suffered from such an awful case of stomach trouble," he continued, "that I could hardly eat a thing and nothing tasted right. The little I forced down didn't give me any strength and at times I would almost choke from the gas that formed in my stomach. I was so weak and miserable I just couldn't do any work at all and was just about all in.

"I commenced to take Tanlac because I saw the good it was doing others, and I could feel all the difference in the world right from the start; it simply made me feel like a new man. My troubles are now over, it built me up wonderfully and I am working hard, using a pick and shovel every day, and never have any more trouble with my stomach."

Tanlac is sold in Peterboro by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield, by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

On Sunday mornings the general topic will be "The Vital Things of Religion."

Secure Seats For Minstrel Show

The subscription lists for the Y. M. C. A. minstrels will close on Saturday of this week. There is a decided advantage in placing your name on the list as those who have done so will have the privilege of reserving seats on Monday, March 17th, while the plan opens to others on the following morning. Those who wish to secure the choice seats will at once realize this advantage and should lose no time in subscribing. If you are not canvassed, phone 246, Y.M.C.A., and your name will be placed on one of the lists. Remember, Saturday is the last day. Some of the canvassers have had splendid results, one having secured 44 names and another in the same neighborhood, all report the most cordial reception and say that when the object for which the event is being held, namely to place a suitable honor roll in the Y.M.C.A. rooms for members who have served in the war, there is no hesitation in subscribing.

The whole program is being put on by local talent under the direction of one of our able local musical directors, Mr. Asa Huycke. The program is of the highest class in every way.

Don't let the opportunity of securing the best seats for this big event slip by and suffer regrets when you find only the back rows available. Do it now.

NOTES ON THE CONVENTION

BY A BYSTANDER

The morning session showed a keen interest in Sunday School work on the part of the rural districts of this county.

• • •

Considering that most Sunday School workers are employed during the day the attendance at the afternoon session was remarkably large.

• • •

It seemed a pity that in this work the Anglicans refused to cooperate with the other denominations. The last four years have done much to break down the walls of imaginary differences between churches but further effort along this line is still required. All churches should undoubtedly join hands for the comman welfare of our children.

• • •

The special feature of the afternoon session was the address by Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner on "Lesson preparation and presentation." This was most comprehensive and instructive and with a strong spiritual tone. Mrs. Kenner was later elected Superintendent of the Teachers' Training Department.

• • •

The statement of an afternoon speaker that a soldier relative had spent over three years in France without cultivating the habit of smoking was received with applause.

• • •

The solos of Miss Lynn and Mrs. Renwick at the evening session were much appreciated and enjoyed.

• • •

The chairman in the evening, Mr. Joseph Wearing stated that the Sunday Schools were the keystone of the arch of all religious institutions and that without the work done in Sunday Schools the whole arch would fall.

• • •

The suspicion crept into the mind of an observer that the clergy of the city are not much interested in Sunday School work. The only city pastor present at the evening session was the Rev. Amos Thomas, who conducted the devotional service.

• • •

Two splendid addresses were delivered in the evening by Rev. P. K. Dayfoot and Rev. T. A. Halpenny. The address delivered by Mr. Dayfoot on "The Child in our Midst," was particularly strong and practical.

• • •

Emphasis was laid on the fact that the habit of cigarette smoking will become very prevalent and that srtong measures will be required to protect growing boys.

• • •

Mr. Halpenny stated that if we wait till we are dead sure of our time and ability before attempting anything worth while we will be dead sure before we get at it.

• • •

Special credit was given Mr. J. J. Turner for his efficient work as secretary. It was pointed out that as alderman and President of the Board of Trade he was a very busy man but apparently not too busy to be interested in the welfare of children.

• • •

Inspector Mowat on assuming the duties as President for the coming year said that to him it was the call of duty and privilege.

Annual "At Home" At Normal School

A very pleasing event was held last night when the pupils and their friends of the Normal School held their annual "at home" at the institution. A very delightful program was rendered, which was as follows:

Address by the president of the Literary Society.

Violin selection by Dr. Park.

Reading by Miss Parker.

Instrumental duet by the Misses Jackson and Hill.

Camp-fire songs by the Normal boys.

Promenades and games were held, after which refreshments were served by Hooper's in the library. Mr Asa Huycke presided at the piano for the promenades.

Bean Supper At St. Paul's Church

About 60 members of St. Paul's Guild attended the second social of the year, held in the Sunday School Room under the supervision of the social committee of the guild. After a bean supper, which lasted from 6.15 to 7 p.m., and was served cafeteria style, Mr. Herbert Mason, vice-president of the society took the chair. Those present then listened to a piano solo which was well rendered by Miss Jean Elliott, after which Mr. F. J. A. Morris of the Collegiate staff read a delightful paper on "The Life History of a Hobby Horse." After the singing of the National Anthem the gathering broke up, about 7.45 p.m., some going to the Normal "At Home," others to the rink, and still other to the theatre.

Special Service At S. A. Temple

A goodly crowd gathered in the Sunday school hall of the Temple last night to attend the first week night service of the special series which is being held this week. Adjutant Buntin took for his subject, "Jesus in the House," and spoke on the healing of the palsied man in the home at Capernaum. Bright, lively singing and testimonies added to the interest of the meeting, and to anyone desiring to know more of the Christian life these services will be of great value.

Tonight the adjutant will speak on "Spiritual Decline in the Christian Church, Its Cause and How to Prevent it." The Girl Guards will be out in full force at 8 o'clock. There will also be a practice for them from 7 to 8.

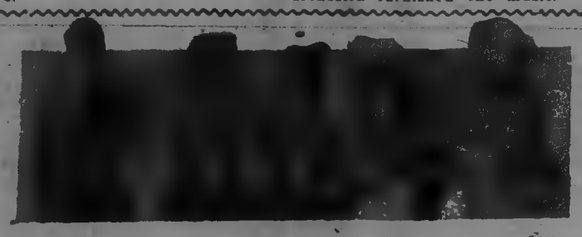
Everyone is welcome. Come, and you will not be disappointed.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Magistrate Dumble is confined to his home, suffering from the effects of a severe cold. He was unable to preside at the session of the Police Court this afternoon.

There was a good attendance at the dance held in the T. A. S. rooms last night. Good prizes were awarded those who were successful at the card tables. Moher's orchestra furnished the music.

There were about three hundred in attendance at the dance of the Bachelors and Benedicts in the Conservatory Hall last night. Linton's orchestra furnished the music.



MID-WEEK NOTICE CONCERNING FISKE O'HARA

In "Marry in Haste," the new play which Fiske O'Hara will present at the Grand Opera House Saturday matinee and evening, March 8.

The poular star appears as Lord Richard Leigh, a debonair young scion of a noble house, whose father urges him to marry in order to perpetuate the name. Piqued at his insistence, Dick vows to marry the first girl he meets. He rashly carries out his threat, only to bitterly regret his action when he meets the charming Lady Evelyn O'Connor, with whom he falls head over heels in love. The telling of the story involves a certain element of mystery which is sustained until the very end, and the play is filled with romance, humor songs this season, including "The Kind of a Girl I mean," "Peggy McVey," "I'm Falling in Love With You, Dear," and "There's a Charm of Dear Old Ireland in Your Eyes," and his fine tenor voice is heard to distinct advantage in their rendition. The supporting cast is made up of capable players, including Patricia Clary, Gertrude Ritchie, Mary Louise Malloy, Laurette Allen, Robert H. Russell, J. P. Sullivan, W. T. Sheehan, J. E. Miller and Dean Reed. Manager Piton has provided a handsome scenic and costume embellish-

GOVERNMENT TROOPS FIRE ON MOB IN BERLIN STREETS

Several Casualties Reported in Crowd That Attempted to Storm Police Headquarters—Authorities Now Seem to Have Situation Well in Hand.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Berlin, March 5.—Government troops at police headquarters fired on rioters in the neighborhood this morning and several casualties are reported to have resulted. The troops had been called to disperse crowds which were gathering in increased numbers around headquarters. Reports were current early in the day that the Spartacans' marine division had seized police headquarters but this turned out to be incorrect.

Strikers Seem at Sea.

Greater Berlin was quiet up till last night, Gustave Noske, Minister of War, apparently having the situation in hand. The proclamation of martial law by the Prussian Ministry had a salutory effect, quick recovery to strategic points in the city by the Reinhardt Brigade also serving to dampen the ardor of the Spartacides. Government soldiers are concentrating attention on the mob in the vicinity of police headquarters, the Chancellor and the Imperial Bank. The strike organization has thus far done nothing and the leaders are unable to tell the approximate number of men who are out on strike.

The Greater Berlin Workmens' Soviet met at 10 o'clock this afternoon, under the chairmanship of Richard Mueller, Independent Radical, for th purpose of receiving reports from the factory stewards. The strike committee and council executive boards have increased the membership to thirty-two, being equally divided between the Majority Socialists and Independent Socialists.

In view of its party make up and the fact that the Majority Socialists are fighting the strike and determined to prevent its spread, it is believed that he executive board, which is declaring the strike, will before long become dead locked or bring about a compromise. The strike organization has requisitioned the Independent Socialist organ, the Die Freiheit and is issuing it as an official gazette.

SPARTACANS STILL WAGING WAR

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Berlin, March 5.—Government troops occupied the city of Halle, between Berlin and Weimar, late on Monday, after sanguinary street fighting in which thirty civilians were killed, according to an aviator who has arrived here by airplane from Halle. The troops also suffered casualties.

The Spartacans have inaugurated a movement to seize Moeringsburg, East Prussia, and open a route to Memel, so that the Bolshevik armies can move to the assistance of the Spartacans. The Government, however, has sent forces to prevent it.

The occupation of Dusseldorf by government forces has been accomplished without opposition. The radicals are endeavoring to extend the general strike movement to southeastern Saxony. Telegrams carry alarming reports of the situation in Halle. They declare that troops have used machine guns and that a number of officers and strikers have been killed. Government troops in Berlin on Tuesday occupied the printing plant of the Red Flag, the Spartacan organ, without fighting. Dr. Hans Meyer, the editor of the paper, was arrested by troops.

LOCAL HEBREWS EYES ARE TURNED TOWARD PALESTINE

Mr. N. Sukloff Will Represent Peterborough at Convention in Montreal to Discuss Zionist Movement and Other Questions of Interest to Jews.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the Hebrews of this city was held at the Woodmen of the World Hall on Monday for the purpose of electing delegates to represent Peterborough and vicinity at the Canadian Jewish Congress to be held in Montreal, on March 16, 17, 18.

The object of the Congress, which is composed of Jewish representatives from all parts of the Dominion, is to formulate plans for the amelioration of the conditions of Jews throughout the world. Among the matters which will be brought up at the Congress is the granting of equal political and economic rights to Jews in all countries, in which they reside, the establishment of a Jewish state in Palestine and questions dealing with immigration and colonization. It is altogether likely that representatives will be chosen by the Congress to present the views of the Canadian Jews at the Peace Conference.

Delegates Nominated.

Mr. B. Chesler, local president of the Jewish congregation, acted as chairman of the meeting and in his opening address emphasized the need of unity amongst the Jews, saying that only by presenting a solid front could much be accomplished in relieving the disabilities, under which many of their co-religionists are suffering in many of the countries in which they live.

Mr. N. Sukloff and Mr. M. Fine were nominated as delegates to the Congress, and after an interesting contest, Mr. Sukloff received the largest number of votes.

Among the speakers who addressed the meeting were Rev. Mr. Barenholz, Messrs. N. Sukloff, Mr. M. Fine, Mr. P. Black, Mr. H. J. Zacks, Mr. L. Erster and Louis Sukloff.

Before closing the meeting Mr. B. Chesler made a brief appeal for expenses of the local delegate to the Congress. The appeal was heartily endorsed and the result deposited with the treasurer, Mr. Harry Zacks. Mr. A. Botnick, secretary of the Peterborough Jewish Congregation, kept a record of the evening's proceedings which will remain an historic memorandum in the annals of the Jewish sect of this city.

The meeting was then closed by the singing of the National Anthem.

HYDRO PROMISES QUICK ACTION

CAPT. BURNHAM RECEIVES LETTER RE THE DAM AT LAKEFIELD.

Capt. J. H. Burnham wires from Ottawa to The Review as follows:

"Have received the following letter from Hydro re the Lakefield dam:

"Mr. J. H. Burnham, House of Commons, Ottawa, Ont.:

"Dear Sir,—Your telegram of 1st instant and your letter of the same date are to hand. This matter will be brought to the attention of the chairman directly as soon as he arrives in the city, which it is expected will be this evening or tomorrow morning, and the matter will be taken up with the Board.

"Yours truly,

"W. W. POPE, Secretary."

DR. EDWARD M'GRATH DIES AT ST. JOSEPH'S HOSPITAL

One of the Oldest and Best Known Physicians in This District---a True Friend to the Suffering.

Dr. Edward McGrath, one of the most widely known physicians in this city and district, died this morning in St. Joseph's Hospital after a short illness.

Dr. McGrath's death came as a surprise and shock to the people of Peterborough, many of his friends being unaware of his serious illness until the announcement of his passing.

Born in Campbellford over fifty years ago, the late Dr. McGrath received his early education in that town and later attended queen's University, Kingston, where he studeid medicine and surgery, graduating with honors at the end of his course.

In 1888 he came to Peterborough and commenced practice in the town of that day. He had not been following his profession long before he was recognized throughout the entire district as an exceptionally clever and successful physician and skillful surgeon.

His practice grew with his reputation, and he was for a great many years one of the busiest medical men of the city.

In the days when Dr. McGrath began the practice of medicine in and around Peterborough the people of the rural district surrounding us depended entirely upon the physicians of the city in times of sickness. Dr. McGrath had a tremendous country practice, and, like the doctors of the old school to which he belonged, the weather was never so inclement, the night so dark or the hour so late as to prevent him from answering the summons of the sick.

He was a typical example of the big hearted doctor whose primary object in the practice of the healing art was not the accumulation of wealth, but who followed his profession because he believed in it and knew it to be the channel through which suffering humanity sought relief.

The late Dr. McGrath did not wait to enquire into the financial status of a patient before going to his relief, even though he was an exceptionally busy man, and the summons might call him for from home in stormy weather when much fatigued with the day's activity.

There was a warm place in the heart of the people of the city and district for the kind hearted physician who has just passed away and so these his death comes as a distinct loss.

He never took any part in public life, his entire time being engaged in taking care of his large practice, but like many another physician and surgeon of the old school he lived the strennous life which the profession demands ministering to the sick of the rich and the poor without discrimination and at a comparatively early age was called away from the scenes of his labor.

The late Dr. McGrath married Miss O'Sullivan ,only daughter of the late Dr. O'Sullivan of this city. He leaves in addition to his wife his aged parents at Campbellford and six brothers: John, Charles, Dr. George, Henry, James and Robert.

Col. Machin's Bombshell Startles The Lawmakers

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, March 5.—The bomb shell exploded by Col. Machin in the Ontario House last night was virtually the only topic of conversation at Queen's Park this morning. Government officials declined to make any pronouncement on the subject. C. R. McKeown, Conservative Whip, stated this morning he did not consider that the colonel had definitely broken from the party in taking issue with the Government on the temperance question.

The debate on the speech from the Throne will be brought to a close in the Legislature this afternoon when Hartley Dewart and Alan Studholm are schedule to speak for the Opposition and V. A. Sinclair for the Government. Tomorrow Hon. T. W. McGarry, Provincial Treasurer, will present his budget and discussion on that topic will follow and will likely occupy the remainder of the week.

NO LIFE OFFICE FOR THE ELDERS

PRESBYTERIANS ALSO PROPOSE CHANGE IN SELECTION OF PASTORS.

Toronto, March 5.—Radical changes in Church government were proposed by the Presbytery of Toronto yesterday, when two overtures dealing with the term of office for elders and the settlement of pastors were adopted.

An overture will be submitted to the General Assembly by Rev. J. B. Paulin to amend the law governing the office tenure of elders, so as to provide that congregations may elect elders for an active term of five years, with option of re-election at the end of that time. The law, "once an elder always an elder," will continue, but a retired elder may not be eligible as a representative to the General Assembly, according to the overture.

Prof. Ballantyne submitted an overture, which was adopted, proposing the establishment of a General Assembly Permanent Committee on Vacancy and Supply, a local committee to be appointed by each Presbytery, composed of three members elected for a term of three years. Any church becoming vacant shall be under the care and direction of the local committee, which will consider the special needs of the vacant charge and select suitable candidates in conjunction with the General Assembly's committee.

The Presbyterial Committee will seek to avoid all "candidating" and competition for a vacant church. When a minister is appointed to visit and preach before the congregation he shall be regarded as the only man under definite consideration by the vacant church. He may fill the pulpit on additional Sundays before a decision is come to.

Ontario Liberal Party Looks For New Leader

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, March 5.—Influential Liberals among the members of the Legislature and discussing the probability of a general Provincial convention in the near future, to discuss a future program and the possibility of the appointment of a new leader for the party in Ontario. The present leader, Wm. Proudfoot, member for Centre Huron, was in the opinion of many of his following appointed as acting leader only during the party political truce necessitated by the war. Among the names prominently mentioned for leadership should a change be made, are those of Hartley Dewart, South Toronto; Major J. C. Tolmie, Windsor, and Francis Hay, North Perth.

WILSON RETURNS TO CONFERENCE

PRESIDENT BEGAN HIS RETURN TRIP TO PARIS THIS MORNING.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York, March 5.—President Wilson sailed today on his second voyage to France. The transport George Washington bearing the Presidential party left the Hoboken, N.J., pier at 8.15 a.m. The Chief Executive's departure was marked by simplicity, which contrasted with the noisy demonstration accorded him on his first journey to Paris last December. Today there was only a small crowd of persons assembled at the army transport pier. To these the President, hat in hand, and Mrs. Wilson, waved farewell greetings as the George Washington sauntered out into the lower Hudson River. As the transport turned her nose toward the statue of liberty in the almost strike paralized harbor, an escort of destroyers got under way ahead and a Presidential salute of twenty-one guns was fired.

DESERTED FROM 93RD BATTALION

DESERTED

William Arthur Richmond, a deserter from the 93rd Battalion, whose home is in this city and who was arrested yesterday by the Dominion Police at the farm where he was working near Peterborough, appeared this morning before Mr. H. Rush, J.P., the acting police magistrate, and was handed over to a military escort, which will take him to Kingston where he will be tried by court martial.

Richmond deserted from his unit in July of 1916 when it was quartered at Barriefield. He went to the States and did not return to this country until the end of the war when he felt that he could live here without danger of discovery.

Spent Four Years On Active Duty

LIEUT. WILFRED FITZGERALD ARRIVED IN THE CITY LAST EVENING.

Lieut. Wilfred Fitzgerald returned to Peterborough last evening, having arrived in Canada ten days ago after having been on active service in France for almost four yers.

He enlisted with the 19th Battalion, a unit of the second division forming at Sault Ste. Marie in the spring of 1915. Since that time he has been in the service continuously and was wounded slightly about ten days before the armistice was signed.

Lieut. Fitzgerald was a resident of Peterborough for some time before enlisting. He is at present the guest of his uncle, Mr. W. S. Merrell, of this city.

Halifax, March 5.—Transport Megantic, with twelve hundred soldiers and three hundred civilians aboard, docked here this morning. Many of the soldiers are for Ontario points.

Ingersoll Horticultural Society urges the Dominion Government to adopt daylight saving again this year noting its financial and healthful benefits.

Plowing has commenced in several parts of Kent county and robins have been seen in several places.

Daylight Saving In United States

MEASURE WILL BECOME EFFECTIVE AGAIN ON MARCH 30TH.

Washington, March 5.—The daylight saving will go into effect again on March 30. A provision had been tacked on to the Agricultural Bill calling for the recall of the daylight-saving law, but this bill was prevented from coming to a vote by the filibuster in the Senate.

There has been a warm fight over the fate of the daylight program, the manufacturers and organisations in most of the large communities working for its continuance, while thousands of farmers favored its abolishment. Had the Agricultural Bill been passed by the Senate, the law would have been repealed.

This means that the new system of working time will once more be adopted in Canada.

VETERAN'S CLOSE RACE WITH DEATH

RETURNED SOLDIER WAS ALMOST DROWNED BY FALLING INTO CANAL.

One day last week while working upon Dam Number 3, between this city and Lakefield a returned soldier who with others was employed in making repairs to the structure, was accidentally hit by a piece of timber and knocked from the deck of the dam into the water above it.

Efforts were made to rescue him but these failed. A pike pole was extended to him but though he grasped it for a minute the swirling water rushing along at this point drew him through the stop logs and shot him between them into the sluice-way, injuring his back as he went through.

In the sluice-way there is a tremendous volume of water, eddying like a miniature malestrom and rushing forward with tremendous speed. The victim was carried a distance of 200 feet through the foaming waters before the current slackened sufficiently to allow him to swim to the side where he was rescued by his comrades.

It is safe to say that though this man is a returned soldier his experience of last week on the Trent was a narrower escape than he ever experienced upon the battlefield. Only a strong swimmer with the determination to fight against death to the last could have passed through such an ordeal and escaped with his life.

FIRED TWO SHOTS AT PRESIDENT

RUSSIAN JEW ATTEMPTS LIFE OF HEART OF FRENCH NATION.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Paris, March 5.—A man who later admitted his name was Kneller and that he was a Russian Jew, fired two shots from a revolver from the Palais Deleysee, residence of President Poincaire today. Kneller, who at first refused to divulge his nationality, declared that he desired to protest against the Allied intervention in Russia. The shooting occurred in the presence of guards and sentinels. The bullets fell harmlessly on the verandas of the court of honor.

Lloyd George Is Back in Paris

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, March 5.—Premier Lloyd George left London this morning for Paris to resume work with the Peace Conference delegates.

MR. JOHN ALLAN RESIGNS AS ORGANIST OF ST. PAUL'S

Has Held the Position With Distinction for Over Six Years—Last Appearance on March 23rd at Memorial Service.

Mr. John Allan has tendered his resignation, which the session has accepted, as organist of St. Paul's Church, a position which he has filled with distinction for over six years. Mr. Allan will officiate for the last time in St. Paul's Church at the memorial services for the fallen heroes of the congregation ,to be held on March 23rd. Beyond that his plans have not been announced.

Mr. Allan enjoys an enviable reputation as a musician and a teacher. He studied the art, in some of the leading schools of Europe and held prominent positions in Great Britain before coming to Canada. On many occasions he has by special invitation played before members of the Royal Family.

It was Dr. J. A. Macdonald, formerly editor of the Toronto Globe, who induced Mr. Allan to leave Scotland and come to Canada, Dr. MacDonald being a personal friend. The doctor at that time was pastor of Knox Church in St. Thomas, a position which he gave up to enter the newspaper profession in Toronto. Mr. Allan became organist of the St. Thomas Church and his reputation soon was established. He was offered and accepted a position in one of the leading churches in Montreal and a little over six years ago accepted an offer to come to St. Paul's.

Mr. Allan has ever maintained the efficiency of St. Paul's choir at a high standard and under his leadership it has always been recognized as one of the best musical organizations among all the very excellent ones in the city. He has, besides, put on some of the best musical entertainments ever staged in the city and has brought distinguished performers to appear before local audiences. He has been no less successfull as a teacher, and his pupils have always taken a high standing at the various departmental examinations. One of his greatest triumphs as an instructor was in the training of his own daughter, Mrs. Maurice Park, who is admittedly one of the most brilliant soprano singers in Canada, and who, previous to her marriage was the popular soloist in St. Paul's.

Mr. Allan will be missed in the musical and social life of the city, in which Mrs. Allan, too, took a prominent part. The latter is a skilled musician herself and was for a number of years one of the mainstays in the St. Paul's choir. She was also identified with all departments of war work, took an active part in recruiting, and sincere interest in all patriotic movements, especially in Red Cross work.

Mrs. Allan is at the head of the committee in St. Paul's Church that is preparing the services to be held March 23 in memory of the fallen heroes from the congregation. At the request of the congregation Mr. and Mrs. Allan have consented to officiate on that occasion.

Mr. Allan's successor has not yet been appointed.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 5th, 1919

CAPT. BURNHAM AND PROHIBITION.

IS IT NOT BARELY POSSIBLE that Capt. Burnham and Mr. A. B. Cunningham, the latter the spokesman for Trinity Methodist Church, in the controversy that has arisen between them on the prohibition question, have failed to understand each other? Mr. Cunningham, in an official communication to the member for West Peterborough, asked Capt. Burnham to use his influence to have Canada made "bone dry" until the soldiers return and the question can be submitted to a popular vote.

Probably neither Mr. Cunningham nor the members of the society for which he spoke have any intention of abolishing alcohol entirely, as Capt. Burnham seems to conclude. Certainly they have no idea of interfering with the plans of the Creator or of improving upon Divine handiwork. There may be alcohol in almost everything that man eats or drinks, but it exists in such infinitesimal quantities as to be harmless. No man has yet been known to consume apples, grapes, or any other variety of food to such an excessive extent as to develop a case of delirium tremens or otherwise impair his reason. But man seeking to improve on Nature, squeezes the alcohol out of the fruit, submits it to a process, and imbibes it, often to his own undoing, feeding to the lower animals the residue which in its natural state possesses food value beyond all question.

The most ardent temperance advocate consents to the use of alcohol for sacramental or medicinal purposes. All he is given to guard against is the abuse of these provisions. It is not improbable that Mr. Cunningham is willing to concede this point. The trouble in this case, as in so many others, is that the writer of a letter is seldom explicit when he chooses to be sarcastic, or when he expresses a request in the same spirit as that in which he would issue a mandate.

But in the enforcement of prohibition there are likely to arise grave constitutional issues, more serious than those which now divide Capt. Burnham and the representative of Trinity Church. Canada is made up of a union of provinces, and under all federal forms of government such disputes and difficulties are sure to arise at intervals. The question as to whether the Dominion Parliament has the right to force prohibition on a province, the voters of which have not adopted it, has yet to be settled, and will not be decided without wearisome and expensive litigation, the British Privy Council having the final say. Another question will have to do with the right of Parliament to forbid interprovincial traffic when the provinces interested have not themselves declared against it. During the war this was done, but the enactments were accepted as war measures and tolerated as such.

There is one point in this issue conceded. Parliament alone has the right to stop the importation of liquor into the country or to forbid its manufacture. Here the contention is likely to arise that stopping the manufacture forces prohibition on all provinces, wet or dry, alike. If it is held that the control of each province over the liquor traffic within its own borders is absolute, no end of complications are likely to arise.

It is unfortunate that the B. N. A. Act is not as clear on this point as is the American Constitution. The latter provides that when three-fourths of the States in the Union declare for prohibition the entire country becomes "bone dry" automatically.

POST-WAR TAXES.

PARTISAN NEWSPAPERS, for purposes of their own, sometimes set up the claim that now that the war is over the special taxes that were levied to meet the tremendous expense while it was in progress should be abolished. Individuals there are who echo this sentiment.

The druggists and other retail dealers ask that the Stamp Act be abrogated, but they are under no delusion as to the necessity for raising public funds, even though peace has been declared. They objected to the tax from the beginning, not on principle, but as an inconvenience, as a measure that was clumsy and troublesome in operation and that gave rise to no end of misunderstanding between customer and dealer. There was always some doubt as to what articles required stamps, and even those charged with the enforcement of the law were at sea on this point. Besides, no business man likes to be under the constant espionage of special officers or spotters anxious to catch him in an infraction of a law which is ambiguous.

But there are others who object to a continuance of the war tax on principle. The extent to which they reason is that the war is over and that they fail to see why money is needed for that special purpose. Other special taxes, they say, taxes that yield a substantial revenue and are indirect in their operation, should be abolished.

It is just as well for the public to face the cold facts. The financial burdens imposed by the war will not be settled for years, and the heaviest part of the burden is yet to be borne. The system of taxation may be revised, but the people will continue for generations to pay the tremendous tolls incurred during four years of war, a blighting experience through which this nation never before passed.

NEW REGULATIONS FOR DEFAULTERS.

A NEW ORDER-IN-COUNCIL providing for the punishment of defaulters has been approved and issued. The magistrates who dispose of such cases have no longer any complaint as to a lack of clarity in the definition of their powers. They are allowed to use discretion in their findings. The minimum fine is $250 and the maximum $500. Any defaulter fined can be held in jail until he settles with the State. No man shall be sentenced to both fine and imprisonment.

There is a wide margin between the minimum and maximum penalties. There is likely still to be disparity between the sentences imposed, magistrates in one province imposing the lowest prescribed penalty while those of excessive judicial zeal in other provinces will continue to go the limit. At all events, no magistrate can complain that the law denies him the right to exercise discretionary powers or to take extenuating circumstances into consideration.

One thing will strike the average reader as peculiar. Parliament is in session, and yet his matter has not been referred to the House, but has been disposed of by order-in-Council. Is this new departure in the administration of Canadian affairs never to be abandoned, or is the Union Government under the delusion that they hold from the people a mandate that does violence to the long established and dearly bought principle of government by representation? Bringing the matter before Parliament would at least have placed on record the various members of the House.

THE LITERARY TEST.

IT IS ANNOUNCED that the new Franchise Bill will contain a clause making a literary standard one of the conditions of the franchise, and this certainly looks like a rational provision. The man who votes should at least be able to speak, even if he can neither read nor write, the English language. Otherwise his casting a ballot becomes a ghastly travesty upon our cherished institutions of freedom and safety.

There must be more restrictions imposed on the granting of the franchise unless the people are satisfied to have the political control of certain sections of the Dominion pass into the hands of aliens who proved themselves anything but reliable and peaceful citizens when this country was passing through the agony of war, when every national resource was strained to the breaking point. This is a subject sufficiently serious to the entire country to call for united action, and it should not be made a political issue.

A literary test should not be made unduly severe. No native-born Canadian should lose the right to vote because his early education has been neglected, provided there is nothing to be found against his loyalty and value as a citizen.

There should be no lugubrious conditions embodied in this proposed literary test such as has brought so many of the franchise laws of the Southern States into disrepute. Some of those states disfranchised the negro by refusing the vote to any man who could not intelligently render a passage selected at random by an election board of examiners, from the American constitution, a test sufficiently severe to floor even those of tolerable education. The United States has an august Supreme Court consisting of eight erudite and high-salaried judges, whose duty it is to interpret the constitution as occasion arises.

These judges are not always able to agree on the various issues raised. If, after years of training, they are puzzled by the intended meaning of the document, how is an unsophisticated negro laborer, less than two generations escaped from serfdom, to render an intelligent opinion?

Perhaps someone will insist that the B. N. A. Act figure in the proposed literary test. It would be too bad, however, to usurp the functions of the British Privy Council in rendering the inner sense of that compact.

The main object is to save the Canadian people from the domination of the alien, those of enemy origin especially. If the War-time Elections Act is irregular, a constitutional means for attaining the end in view is easily available.

OPINIONS OF OTHER EDITORS.

To Err Is Human.

(Springfield Republican.)

Professor John Graham Brooks predicts that Labor in its attempts at achieving industrial democracy will "bungle horribly" and "make frightful mistakes." In which respect it will follow in the footsteps of the achievers of political democracy.

Sanity Will Prevail.

(New York Sun.)

We fully realize the atrocity of the Bolsheviki propaganda, which is really the doctrine of communism and anarchy. We realize the perilous ferment which endangers civilization. But in the countries which have held fast to moral standards during the war we believe the factors of safety of sanity are far stronger than those of chaos.

An Important Meeting Is Ignored

There ought to be much of public interest in the annual convention of the American Road Builders' Association, now holding here, with delegates present from all over the country. They are exchanging opinions and comparing plans for improving highways and facilitating transportation over them, and incidentally they are discussing the expenditure in the near future of many million dollars, all to come out of pockets sure to be subjected to many other drains. Nobody gets excited over what they are doing or saying, however, and it is to be feared that a good many people will not even take the trouble to read the published accounts of their proceedings.

This inattention to men and a matter certainly of great importance is not to be explained by a reference to the war, that has made so many other large things seem small and dull by comparison. There has always been much the same popular indifference to road-building in the United States. Appropriations for roads better than can be made out of dirt have been hard to get—next to impossible until the automobile came into common use. Yet everybody likes good roads better than bad ones, and almost everybody admits that good roads are worth what they cost. Indeed, whoever has given the subject any thought whatever admits that bad roads are even the very best.

That there is so much less of realization than of knowledge that this is true has several causes. First among these, probably, is immediate, direct, and in hard cash, while the losses resulting from bad roads are of the kind that do not get into account books, and therefore more easily can be ignored.

DISHONEST AMERICAN PROTEST

(Wall Street Journal)

Of all the shams and hypocrisies which have recently occupied the attention of Congress nothing has been more childishly parochial than the protest against the British embargo. The nature of the agitation will be seen when it is appreciated that nothing is said of the French or Italian embargoes, while the plain fact that such embargoes are not directed exclusively to this country, but to all countries importing certain articles which compete with the British domestic trade, is ignored.

It is correctly pointed out by the National City Bank that a mere fraction of one per cent. of our trade is affected in any instance. But what should be made clear is that Great Britain is exercising an unquestioned domestic right so long as she against this or any other nation shipping goods to her ports. In a measure, in fact, with the object of re-establishing her industries after the terrible depletion of more than four years' war, she is departing from her traditional free trade policy.

What have we to say about it have practiced high protection since the days of Andrew Johnson. Schedule "K" of the Payne-Aldrich Tariff Law imposed prohibitive duties on articles of British manufacture containing the merest modicum of wool. This shut out automatically all the cheaper varieties of underclothing, and an immense number of other articles forming a substantial part of the British export trade. But the British did not talk about embargoes or reprisals. They realized that here was no question of morals in the matter of customs duties, whether for revenue or protection, and held to their traditional policy to the great advantage of the American manufacturer.

We cannot pretend to hold England to the doctrine of free trade if she chooses to depart from it when it suits her own industries. There may be questions as to the wisdom of a protectionist policy for England even as a temporary and limited character, but that is a matter in which we of all people are the least entitled to dictate, and one where she is not merely the best but the only judge.

There is more than a suspicion that the enemy has been once more sowing tares. Anything that can create ill-feeling between this country and Great Britain necessarily helps Germany, especially in the bewildering unsettled state of the peace negotiations. But the grievance established in this case is purely artificial and will not stand the test of honest analysis.

What He Put on the Horse.

"Can any boy tell me what harness is?" asked the teacher.

Not a single boy knew.

"Well," she continued, "is there any boy here whose father works among horses?"

One small boy stood up and answered, "Yes, teacher, mine does."

"Well," said the teacher, "what does your father put on the horse every morning."

"Please, teacher, every cent he has."

Sounded Queer.

A Quaker attended the wedding of a young lawyer of his acquaintance, and on being presented to the bride, whom he had never seen before, he surveyed the young woman critically and remarked: "William, I think thy bride has shown more judgment in her choice than thee has——"

That seemed rather a backhanded compliment for the bride until the old Quaker added, "Because it takes some penetration to discover thy good qualities but hers can be seen at a glance."

Classes In Labor

It is true that labor produces all things, but there is labor of machinery and labor of brain, as well as labor of hand, and of the three, the labor of hand is the most highly paid and the most inefficient. The world may reach its millennium when there is no hand labor and all is labor of brain and machinery. Who then may claim title to nature's abundance? But such a millennium can be approached in this world only by brain and hand co-operating to produce a surplus which as surplus of labor becomes surplus capital, reconverts into machinery for production under the brain and hand of man. Owner ship of land and all the minerals under it, whether by Hottentot Indian or white man, is as nothing until hand, brain and machinery co-operate and bring underground wealth to the surface and put it to the uses of man. Then and then only it has value—when it serves. In the ground it has no real value, only prospective value, and ownership may give it care and taxes for its protection. Destroy the ownership and you destroy both the case and the taxes which protect it for future service.

ENDORSE PROHIBITION

Alberta Farmers' Executive Seek Continuance.

Calgary, March 5. — At a joint meeting here of the directors of the United Farmers of Alberta and the United Farm Women of Alberta, a resolution urging that prohibition be continued under the present Order-in-Council until a plebiscite is taken, was passed. A resolution that mothers be given pensions and that wives get dower rights was also passed.

VETERAN'S BAD LUCK

Breaks Arm Shortly After Returning to Work.

Brampton, March. 5.—While driving his team at the Dale estate, Ernest Armstrong was thrown on the ground by the box on which he was sitting turning over. His arm was fractured at the elbow and he will be out of work for several weeks. Mr. Armstrong has only just returned from overseas and resumed his old work at the Dale estate. Last summer his two-year-old child was so badly burned that he died at the Sick Children's Hospital.

LESSONS IN RIGHT LIVING

By Dr. W. A. BRADY

(By Dr. W. A. Brady)

The epidemic of the "flu" which has swept through the country destroying more lives than we lost in the war, is likely to recur here and there or everywhere one or more times within the next few months, the health authorities have warned us. That has been the history of previous influenza epidemics.

Already in many communities the health officers are making more vigorous efforts to control the disease in cities where the physicians merely reported cases in the first invasion the health boards are now requiring isolation of the reported cases for two weeks.

And here is where the situation becomes ticklish. There is no known way of determining positively whether a given illness is the "flu" or just the ordinary infection of the upper respiratory tract that prevails every year. It is up to the attending physician to make a good guess that it is or is not the "flu". But what is that exactly fair? Or is it even a safe plan. Will not a great many cases of ordinary so called "colds" and "grip" so seen every year and all the year be unjustly isolated? And will not many cases of influenza of mild degree escape isolation? And does it not place the health authorities in a ticklish situation to decide whether a given physician is reporting his cases or cancealing them?

It looks ticklish to me. I do not see how the health authorities are going to cope with the situation even reasonably well unless they rule right now that all acute respiratory infections must be reported and the patients isolated. That is the only fair way out of the predicament. You can't draw an arbitrary line between the very infectious respiratory infection and the less infectious respiratory infection. And the labor starts falls you if you attempt to do said there. The laboratory tells you whether a sore throat is diphtheria, but it will not tell you whether an allergic "heavy cold" is the influenza. So what are the health boards going to do. Are they going to straddle the issue or are they going to make all cases of acute respiratory infections reportable and isolate the patients? A bit inconvenient for the patients, perhaps, but it means greater safety for the public.

Old Dr. Quibble is Back

"Our old doctor, who went south for a year came back last week. He examined my lungs and told me there is a little catarrhal trouble in one apex, but nothing to worry about now. However, he joined me in a decoration of our climate and he prescribed compound syrup of hypophosphites, which, if I recollect, you consider worthless. What should I do for this catarrhal apex.

Mrs. W. W. R."

If I had a catarrhal apex when one like that I would look up some doctor who could decide whether 'tis or 'tisn't tuberculosis. Catarrhal apex is a grand old evasion, but a trifle obsolete now.

In two foregoing talks about neurasthenia (formerly known as nervous prostration) I tried to explain that the state is a bankruptcy of vital or dynamic energy brought about by unwise spending. Competition, trying to be or to do something which you are not or cannot, and anxiety, worry and fear, all combine to waste vital energy. For it is a physiological fact that these wicked emotions use up pep or vitality quite as fast as does an excessive physical effort, as in an overtrained athlete exhausting his endurance in a marathon or other severe physical test. The harmful emotions drive the ductless gland apparatus to the limit.

The place where we lay the foundation for neurasthenia is in the high school.

Parents ought to have something to say about the hours of study their children shall be required to put in. Too many parents seem to think that the more time a boy or girl spends with nose in book the better that child's education is going to be. There are other things than textbooks essential for a good education.

No night study ought to be the inflexible rule in every well regulated household. It is not necessary for ordinary, average high school students. That I know, for some of the most competent high school teachers have demonstrated the fact.

A high school student's out of school hours should be devoted to play, recreation, amusement, fun, change and rest from the books. Physical education must be obtained out of school hours as a general rule, since few teachers know anything about the subject. A boy or girl of high school age must be physically educated if a proper balance is to be maintained, a poise, a sound mind and a sound body.

For Chapped Hands.

"Please publish a recipe for some application for chapped hands and arms. M. L. T."

Powdered tragacanth, one dram; boric acid, three drams; glycerin, one ounce; water, one pint.

Boil all together, stirring constantly, till dissolved. Apply some to hands after washing and before hands are quite dry, two or three times a day.

The Weight of a Girl.

"Kindly tell me what a girl 17½ years old and 63 ½ inches tall should weigh, also what is the average height of a girl 17½ years old?

"HELEN G. C."

One hundred and twenty-one pounds; sixty-two to sixty-four inches.

Grandma Likes Sage Tea.

Grandmother is our guest for the present and she is a great lover of sage tea. Is it harmful in any way?

"Rev. A."

It contains some tannin and has an astringent action, tending to produce constipation. It also contains a volatile oil which acts as a mild diffusible stimulant. If grandma likes it, it will do her no harm.

Carrots And Fried Liver.

"We are very fond of fried liver. Is it harmful for us in any way to eat it frequently? Are raw carrots harmful to eat if one craves them?

"MRS. C. K. W."

Liver contains a large amount of nuclein and of organic phosphorus and lecithin, also animal starch (glycogen). It is rich and appetizing and wholesome to eat. Raw carrots are wholesome to eat.

ORDER FOR DILL PICKLE LUNCH JARS FOOD EXPERT

Cleveland Teacher Tells School Economists of Being Shocked by Sights in Cafeteria

Chicago, March 5.—It was during the noon lunch hour. The hungry crowds were jamming the restaurants and other eating places. Amid the throng that was rushing into a familiar "one armed" cafeteria was a well dressed handsome faced woman.

Nudged and jostled about by hurrying stenographers, office boys, ribbon counter clerks and young business men, she seemed strangely out of place. But her eyes and ears were open. She took a place near the lunch counter, just aside from the eddying stream of humanity rushing for its victuals. She listened.

"What's your order?" barked a waiter at a well set up youth.

"Salmon sandwich."

"Salmon sandwich!" shouted back the "grub" purveyor, over the ceaseless rattle of unbreakable dishes.

"What else?"

"A side order of dill pickles.

"Anything else?"

"Gimme a piece of lemon pie."

"That all?"

"An' a glass of milk."

She is Cleveland Schools' Expert.

In a twinkling the order was filled and the lad trudged with his salmon sandwich, dill pickels, lemon pie and milk to a chair, where he took bites of the first three in rotation, and then a drink of milk. It horrified the good woman. She told about it today at the session of the American Home Economics Association at the Auditorium hotel. It was Miss Carlotta Greer, household economics expert for the school of Cleveland.

"I tell you, it isn't right," she argued before 300 assembled home-making experts, most of them instructors in high schools, state supervisors and state university professors. "We must teach the boys home economics and food composition and food preparation. If we do, there will be a vastly different and more healthful selection of foods by them from the lunch counters during the noon hour. And better health will make them better natured, and better natures will make better homes."

Miss Greer was heartily applauded when she said it was man's duty as well as a woman's to make the home, and that the mere mechanics of housekeeping was not homemaking. Developing the atmosphere of congeniality and mutual co-operation was pronounced most important.

"Good Homemaker is a Genius."

"Man's idea of a homemaker is a cook," said Miss Mabel Wellman of Boomington, Ind., of the faculty of the state university of Indiana. "But he is mistaken, and he must be educated out of his error. The homemaker also is the welding force of a family, binding together with unbreakable ties the members of the family. It is not only a matter of a spick and span kitchen and good meals, but also affection and unselfishness and that scarce article in homes—politeness. The good homemaker is a genius, a diplomat and a scientist."

The practical side of homemaking was emphasized, as opposed to the mere theoretical, and every reference to actual demonstrations by teachers was applauded. The associations has been meeting contemporaneously with the sessions of the National Education association, which closed its formal meetings last night. Several departmental meetings were held today. Most of the delegates were leaving today for their homes.

NOSE CLOGGED FROM A COLD OR CATARRH

Apply Cream in Nostrils To Open Up Air Passages.

Ah! What relief! Your clogged nostrils open right up, the air passages of your head are clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffling, mucous discharge, headache, dryness—no struggling for breath at night, your cold or catarrh is gone.

Don't stay stuffed up! Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Ely's Cream Balm is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer has been seeking. It's just splendid.

COL. MACHIN LAUNCHES WARM ATTACK ON TEMPERANCE ACT

Member For Kenora Bolts His Party on Prohibition Issue—Claims it is Invasion of Rights.

Toronto, March 5. — While the House listened with a sort of shocked silence Col. H. A. Machin, of Kenora, last night gave the Ontario Temperance Act and the temperance forces, or, more strictly speaking, the prohibitionist forces, such a raking fore and aft as they have not received anywhere in the province up to the present, and incidentally vigorously criticized the Government for allowing itself to be used by an organization of "ruthless fanatics." Col. Machin's "bolt" was made in a well-attended House during the debate on the speech from the Throne. Days ago he had made it known that he was preparing to rip up both the Government and the "narrow-minded, puritanical" organizations that had imposed upon the people of the province a measure that he believed absolutely disregarded their rights as British citizens, and though attempts had been made to dissuade him from taking the plunge, he had stoutly refused to forego his right to express his views fully and frankly.

Restricts Individual Liberty.

The Kenora member in an hour and a half address attacked the Ontario Temperance Act from two sides, first, because it had confiscated the business of the liquor people without compensation, and secondly because it was an infringement on the right of the individual. In the latter connection he uttered a warning against what he considered the growing tendency in the province to restrict individual liberty—the growth of Phariseeism of as selfish a type as that which Christ himself had condemned two thousands years ago. In every part of the province the "sin-hound" was on the trail of the man who wanted to live his life in his own way. Col. Machin declared that he was not in favor of a return to the old open bar, but he was equally convinced that some arrangement would have to be made by which the man who wanted to have liquor in his home might have it. How that could be accomplished without bringing back all the evils of the old system was a problem, but he believed that a solution could be found. He offered his own—a distinctly ingenious one. It was simply this: that every municipality should have the right to declare by a majority vote whether it desired the establishment of a Government liquor store in the municipality. If the voters so decided the store would be established. Then every bona fide resident and householder could go to the Government store, prove his identity and secure a license to buy liquor. With that license he could secure enough liquor for his legitimate needs, but he could not use it to purchase once he left his own municipality.

In commencing his attack the Kenora member explained that in 1916 when he was training his battalion for overseas he made a hurried trip to the Legislature, having heard that the Government proposed advanced temperance legislation. He had opposed it then in caucus, but since he had been called away to his military duties he had not had an opportunity of making his position clear in the House. The present opportunity was the first he had had since then. Continuing, he voiced the opinion that the Government in confiscating the business of the liquor people after having encouraged them in the belief that if they kept within the law they would be allowed to continue, should have been fair enough and British enough to have compensated them.

Coming to the passing of the Act, Col. Machin declared that the people of the province had been willing to submit to any legislation, no matter how arbitrary, in order to help in the winning of the war.

War Gratuity For Imperial Service

SECRETARY WHATLEY OF THE G. W. V. A. MAKES STATEMENT TO VETERANS.

For the information of all Imperial Service men who took part in the late war, and who served in an actual theatre of war. Army Order 17, of 1919, and instructions from War Office. A War Gratuity based on service and rank held on discharge, has been sanctioned by the Imperial Government.

To be eligible for a gratuity, a soldier must have had six (6) months Service Overseas, i.e., in some theatre of war, outside the United Kingdon.

The minimum gratuity payable to a soldier in respect of war service will be as follows:

Pte., L.C., Bombardier or equivalent rank— $25.00.

2nd Cpl., Bombardier, Cpl. or Lance. Sgt.—$30.00.

Cpl of Horse (Household Cavalry) or Sgt.—$40.00.

Squadron quartermaster Cpl. squadron, battery, troops or Company quartermaster Sgt., staff Sgt., or color Sgt.—$50.00.

Warrant officer, Class II.—$60.00.

Warrant Officer, Class I.—$75.00.

Soldiers who have completed more than twelve Calendar months war service will receive in addition the following sums in respect of each complete calendar month or portion of a calendar month for War Service beyond the twelve months, subject to a maximum addition of 48 such monthly increments, corresponding to a total gratuity covering 5 years war service.

(A) If with any war service overseas—$2.50.

(B) If with no service overseas—75c.

Soldiers residing in Canada, discharged previous to the 9th of December, 1918, are requested to apply by letter to their late regimental paymaster in England, by whom the gratuity will be paid.

Soldiers discharged after the 9th of December, 1918, will be paid without special application.

N.B.— I would advise all Imperial men who have served in the late campaign and are eligible for this bonus to immediately write to their regimental paymaster and submit their claims.

"BEST MEDICINE FOR WOMEN"

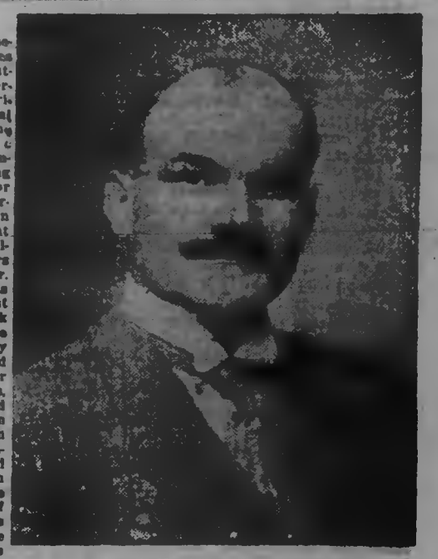
What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did For Ohio Woman.

Portsmouth, Ohio.—"I suffered from irregularities, pains in my side and was so weak at times I could hardly get around to do my work, and as I had four in my family and three boarders it made it very hard for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me. I took it and it has restored my health. It is certainly the best medicine for woman's ailments I ever saw."—Mrs. SARA SHAW, R. No. 1, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Mrs. Shaw proved the merit of this medicine and wrote this letter in order that other suffering women may find relief as she did.

Women who are suffering as she was should not drag along from day to day without giving this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial. For special advice in regard to such ailments write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of its forty years experience is at your service.

New Head for C.P.R. Demonstration Farms



G. H. HUTTON.

In being able to secure the services of George H. Hutton, B.S.A., as Superintendent of its Agriculture and Animal Industry Branch, the Canadian Pacific Railway is to be congratulated in finding a worthy successor to Dr. J. G. Rutherford, who has been appointed to a seat on the Board of Railway Commissioners for Canada. Dr. Rutherford, who has been a prominent figure in livestock circles all over the continent for many years, has been head of this branch for more than six years, during which period he earned the esteem of farmers, stockmen and others throughout the country, and many farmers in Western Canada owe a large measure of their success to the advice and assistance given by him. His successor, Mr. Hutton, has had considerable experience in Western Canada, and few men are better informed than he on the agricultural possibilities of Western Canada, and particularly of Alberta. Since 1906 he has been in charge of the Dominion Government's Experimental Station at Lacombe in Central Alberta, where his work, especially in connection with livestock, has been of the utmost value to farmers throughout the province and elsewhere in the Canadian West.

Mr. Hutton has been connected with farming so long that he does not remember when he first began. He is a thoroughly practical farmer. During his boyhood days he did those tasks which usually fall to the lot of a boy brought up on the farm. Later he went to college where he obtained his B.S.A. degree, in 1900. After operating a farm of his own in Eastern Canada for about six years, he went West to take charge of the Government's Experimental Station, which he is now leaving to take up his appointment with the Canadian Pacific. He is known throughout Western Canada as one of the foremost agriculturists in the country, and his activities in connection with the live stock industry may be gathered from the fact that he is president, vice-president or past president of six different breeders associations, besides holding numerous directorships.

Few men have done more than he in promoting mixed farming methods among the farmers of Central Alberta. This he has done by showing the immense possibilities of the country and by proving in the practical manner how favorable the conditions are for the raising of live stock and dairying. Sent to Lacombe to operate the Government Experimental Farm there with a view to ascertaining and demonstrating the varieties of grains, grasses, fruits, and vegetables most suitable to local conditions, and the best methods to employ to secure most economical results, he soon found that if there was a great and useful field in this work, there was also a very valuable one in the live stock industry in all its phases. He accordingly suggested to the Department of Agriculture that the work of the station should include experimentation with livestock in addition to grains and other crops, and succeeded in convincing the head of the department of the merits of this suggestion. From small beginnings, Mr. Hutton and his assistants have built up at Lacombe the largest flocks and herds of any experimental station in Canada, with the possible exception of the Central Farm at Ottawa.

The information gained as a result of the experiments conducted at Lacombe have been very valuable to farmers throughout Western Canada. Hog-raising, sheep-feeding, beef and milk production are all subjects that have had most careful attention. During the last three years more than three thousand hogs have been used on the farm in tests of various breeds to ascertain which were the most economical pork producers under local conditions. In a grading-up experiment with sheep now being conducted more than four hundred ewes are included. An excellent herd of Angus cattle has also been established, and the foundations laid for a first class herd of Holsteins. From the sale of live stock, the farm has a revenue running into many thousands of dollars annually.

Mr. Hutton's work with the Canadian Pacific will be along lines similar to those along which he has previously been engaged. His new duties will include the supervision of the system of demonstration farms operated by this company, at which settlers in Western Canada may receive advice, based on the experience of many years as to the best farming methods to employ, thus giving the new settler a chance to avoid many of the mistakes likely to be made by farmers coming from a country where different conditions prevail. Probably no other private company head—railway or any other kind—in any country has spent so large a sum of taken so great an interest in getting the farmer started right as has the Canadian Pacific Railway, and the appointment of a man of Mr. Hutton's ability and experience to be the head of its Agriculture and Animal Industry Branch indicates that no change in this policy is contemplated.

TORONTO SHOWS NO SIGN OF MORAL IMPROVEMENT

Annual Report of Chief of Police Says There Is a Decrease in Vice Resorts But There Are Other Evils.

Toronto, March 5.—That crime in the city is prevalent is pointed out in the Chief Constable's annual report, which was presented at the meeting of the Board of Police Commissioners yesterday afternoon. Robbery and pocket-picking were on the increase during the year, and the number of persons arrested or summoned were also larger than last year. The Chief also refers to the epidemic of automobile stealing especially among young boys, and incidentally he comments that the punishment inflicted apparently had little effect in curbing the practice. A feature of the report is the fact that the police recovered no less than 86 per cent. of all the property stolen.

"The number of persons apprehended, or summoned totalled 28,206, as compared with 25,714 in 1917, showing an increase of 2,492. Cases withdrawn or not proceeded with numbered 8,116. The property lost or stolen was valued at $1,303,241.00, an increase of $485,229.00. The police recovered $1,125,114.00,—or more than 86 per cent. of the loss. Motor cars accounted for $553,000 of the gross value stolen."

Three cases of murder occurred in the city. None of these were Canadians.

Commenting on crimes, the Chief states: "Robbery was more in evidence and loss greater. Pocket-picking was active, the thieves getting more booty. One hundred and thirty bicycles were stolen.

"The number of motor cars stolen for the year was 1,106, valued at $553,000. Thirty-four were not recovered.

"It would almost seem idle to offer any suggestions on the subject," states the Chief, "as owners of cars are increasingly indifferent as to what becomes of them, and the penalties imposed on the thieves had little effect in stopping the practice, which was confined chiefly to young men and boys.

"Two thousand four hundred and thirteen aliens were registered during the year, bringing the total up to 14,363.

"Eighteen thousand four hundred and twenty-five dollars was collected by the Morality Department from the husbands that deserted their families and this money was distributed to dependents.

"The enforcement of the Ontario Temperance Act has been devolving to a great extent on this department, and has received closer attention.

"Informations were laid against 1,058 persons and fines to the extent of $183,400 were imposed by the court. With the fines levied for drunkenness, viz., $29,292, the total receipts reached $209,102, all of which went into the city treasury.

"Betting has been carried on in such a secret way that it has made it difficult for the police to deal with it.

"There is no reason to believe that the morals of the people are improving, because houses of ill-fame are less numerous as other places are found as substitutes. There are 73 prosecutions for selling and using drugs.

"Massage parlors have almost ceased to exist since the law requiring a license to be taken out has been in operation."

HAMILTON SAYS IT IS NOT TRUE

THAT MAN WHO MAKES MILLION DOLLARS IS DISHONEST.

Hamilton, March 5.—Rev. Mr. McIntosh in London last Sunday stated in the King street Presbyterian church that no man could make a million dollars honestly. "Any one who has a million dollars has someone else's money," he said.

A Herald reporter approached Sir John Gibson, one of Hamilton's leading financiers, and asked his opinion of the statement. It was not long in coming.

"The man's a fool, it's nonsense," said Sir John.

W. A. Wood, of Wood, Alexander and James, said: "The thing is really so ridiculous that I can't find time to pay any attention to a man like that."

Rev. Dr. Sedgewick, minister of the Central Presbyterian Church, said: "I think there would be considerable ground for argument if the minster had said 'earn' and not 'make.'"

Rev. Dr. Renison stated that he was not qualified to speak on the matter on financial lines. "I don't know; I never had a million dollars and so can't say," he laughed.

Rev. C. I. McIrvine stated that the subject of a million dollars was so remote from his vision that he had never given it a thought. "I am quite unprepared to say anything about it," he stated.

SOLDIERS COME FASTER.

Thirty Thousand Canadians Arrived Home Last Month.

Ottawa, March 5.—A total of 30,356 Canadian soldiers and dependents sailed for Canada during the month of February, according to figures issued through the Militia Department. A small percentage of the total number is still on the ocean. The February figures show that 27,428 soldiers sailed from England during the month and 2,928 soldiers' dependents.

Ever since the work of bringing home the men started, subsequent to the signing of the armistice, the monthly totals have been growing. The grand total of soldiers and dependents sailing from England up to the end of February is 76,799. For months it is made up as follows:

November	4,921
December	18,925
January	24,227
February	30,356

The smallness of the November total is accounted for by the fact that transport work did not begin until the latter part of the month.

KINGSTON TAX RATE UP

Kingston, March 5.—City council fixed the tax rate at 30½ mills, an increase of one mill over last year. This includes the provincial war tax of one mill.

DOWNEYVILLE

(Special Correspondence.)

Downeyville, March 5.—On Thursday night last a presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Robert White and family of a handsome China cabinet, a very large crowd attended so that there was only standing room. Mr. and Mrs. White thanked the people very much for their generosity. The guests spent the rest of the night by dancing and other amusements.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Alger held a dance at their home on Friday night last. A large crowd attended. After supper was served the guests danced till the early hours of the morning.

A large crowd gathered at the home of Mr. William O'Brien and presented him and Mr. John Smith with beautiful gold watches. Mr. Thomas Lucas made the presentation, expressing, in a few well chosen words, the regret felt by all at Mr. O'Brien's departure, and asking that the gift be accepted, as evidence of the good will and friendship that had always existed between them. Mr. O'Brien and Mr. Smith sincerely thanked the people in an appropriate manner. Rev. Fathers McGuire and Guiry, of Peterboro, were present, also Father Galvin, all of whom made suitable remarks. Lunch was served and a pleasant evening spent in music and dancing. Mr. O'Brien leaves shortly for Vancouver, B.C., to visit his son, Rev. Father Fergus O'Brien. Mr. John Smith, who lives with Mr. O'Brien, is staying at the home of Mr. O'Brien's daughter, Mrs. Garvey, of Ennismore. Mr. Neil Brown, of Coboconk, has rented his farm.

Mrs. Alice Gosselin was visiting her mother and other relatives at Victoria Road during the past week.

The Emily Municipal Telephone system is getting a lot of new subscribers to the line, which has just been completed lately. Two new phones have been put in lately by their troublemen, Messrs. John Fox and Robert Winn, sr.

Mr. Alfred Dewan is getting along rapidly at sawing wood. He will be sawing at Downeyville in a few days.

SOLDIERS CAN SEND NOTICES

TO FRIENDS AS TO TIME THEY WILL ARRIVE HOME.

In response to requests to the head office of the Soldiers' Aid Commission that early notice should be sent to the several branches of the arrival of men at ports of disembarkation, the following may be of interest to those who are awaiting arrival of members of families from abroad. The information supplied indicates how the names and destination of each man is secured.

"Cards are distributed during the voyage, on which men are supposed to tell their home addresses. Many of the men do not fill in these cards or fill them in and lose them.

"On arrival of the boat at the dock these cards are collected, and the wire messages prepared. With so many as 1,500 men, as was the case on the arrival of the Aquitania, there is no time to check over the cards to find any missing, and, if so, enquire of the soldier. Again, many men give Toronto as their destination, when, as a matter of fact, their homes are anywhere in Ontario. But they wish to go to Toronto, and start for home from that city. Again, many men do not wish anyone notified of their return.

"In a list of names submitted to the O. C. at Halifax depot, for explanation, it was found that the circumstances are exactly as he had stated them."

HUNGARIAN PRIESTS ASK THAT CELIBACY BE ENDED

Assert That Clergymen Should Have the Right to Marry—History of the Institution in the Catholic Church.

In the Budapest papers there was recently quoted a petition from certain priests addressed to the Hungarian Church Council assailing the rule of celibacy as undemocratic, and demanding its abolition. The priests were quoted as saying that in the future they intended to marry. All clerics who had been ousted by the Church as apostates for having taken wives during the war must, they insisted, be at once readmitted to the priesthood.

This movement seems to be restricted to a limited area, according to the Rev. Father Mathias A. Tamasy of St. Elizabeth's Roman Catholic Church in this city, the leading organization of its communion among local Hungarians. He said that although he had had access to no official news on the subject, the Hungarian newspapers indicated that the question had been raised only in the diocese of Csanad, in the province of Temesvar, which lies southeast of Budapest. He estimates that the priests.

What was once the Empire of Austria-Hungary was almost as complex in its religious as in its racial life. Orthodox Church within its former boundaries have wives and children for they are permitted to marry when sub-deacons. This brings up the fact that the Roman Church even now recognizes the marriage of some of its priests. The state of celibacy, for the clergy was not at first an integral part of the discipline of the Christian Church, and its adoption by the See of Rome did not take place until eleven centuries has passed after the dawn of Christianity.

Although a Roman Catholic definition of celibacy is that it is the "renunciation of marriage made for the more perfect chastity by all those who receive the sacrament of orders in any of the higher grades," celibacy hinges not so much upon a moral law as upon expediency. It is considered by many of the leading ecclesiastics that it tends toward a freer government of the church and gives a greater influence of the priesthood.

Among those who hold such a view is the Rev. Father John J. Wynne, a noted writer on church history, and one of the editors of the Catholic Encyclopedia. He was asked his views on the subject which has come again to the fore through the reported developments in Hungary. Father Wynne expressed the opinion that unusual conditions arising from the war and possibly the influence of various sects in the same territory had much to do with the situation.

Married Priests in South Russia

"There are certain Catholic," said Father Wynne, "who have wives. They belong to that branch of the Church under the See of Rome which is known as the Greek Catholic Church. This must not be confused with the Greek Orthodox Church which is under the Jurisdiction of the Eastern Church.

"These aforesaid Greek Catholic priests live mostly in Southern Russia and in the neighborhood of Moscow. Of about 2,500 priests of this division, I should estimate that two-thirds are married. Their marriages were contracted while they were yet in minor orders. No Catholic priest is permitted to wed after he has taken orders.

Those who do marry in minor orders and are then ordained as priests bar their own way for advancement and promotion. They may take only inferior positions in the church, by which I mean that they may never become Bishops or prelates of high rank. None of these married priests would be eligible for instance, for the head of a monastery. As priests they, of course, are in good standing as far as the church is concerned and administer the sacraments and perform all sacerdotal functions.

"I have had the opportunity of knowing many of these married priests. In this country they are found in some of the important mining cities of Pennsylvania, such as Scranton and Wilkes-Barre. There are a few of them in Pittsburgh and several in Chicago. They minister largely to people of their own rite in those places. Some of these I know intimately and have talked with their wives and children.

"As to the question whether or not a priest should be married, it may be said that some of them have told me that if they had their lives to live over again they would not marry. By coming in contact with other priests they feel that they are different, and, as the years go by, these differences become accentuated. By being kept out of the higher offices of the Church, which some of them are thoroughly competent to fill, they feel that their usefulness is impaired. Socially, they become conscious of being under a handicap. In many communities the children of such priests attend the parish schools. The other pupils detect in them something different and for this reason their position is likely to be uncertain.

"The celibate priesthood in the Catholic Church represents the outgrowth of centuries of experience. In the early years of the Christian Church the conditions had not arisen which required an unmarried clergy. Some of the apostles were married, as the New Testament tells us, and a large number of the Church fathers had wives and children. The fact that priests are required not to marry cannot be construed into a reflection on the holy state of matrimony.

"The Catholic Church believes that the priests, through the confessional and other means, are in such relation with their flocks that confidences should be for them alone. There should not be any possibility of such matters being discussed in the family of the minister. All his time and attention should be given to his work. That work often requires risk and danger. The priest, like the soldier, is subject to sudden orders to go to new places. No one can serve two masters.

While, as a rule, the families of the ministers in the Protestant Churches usually help in such work it sometimes happens that they are a handicap on account of social and other misunderstandings.

"To the Catholic priest celibacy is so natural an observance that even if by any possibility the church were to permit priests generally to marry, very few would avail themselves of such permission."

History of Celibacy

The history of the celibacy of the Roman Catholic priesthood is set forth in the Catholic Encyclopedia by the Rev. Father Herbert Thurston, a Jesuit. He goes back to the early years of the Christian Church and shows that even during the lives of the founders there was an inclination having the presbyters unmarried. He quotes this from St. Paul: "He that is without a wife is solicitous for the things that belong to the church. But he that hath a wife is solicitous for the things of the world, that he may please his wife, and he is divided."

It was not until the end of the third century of the Christian era that the opposition toward a married priesthood began to take form. The Spanish Council at Elvira (295 A.D.) enjoined celibacy on priests and deacons. Here was the beginning of the divergence on this question between the East and the West. Then came the Council of Ancyra in 314 A.D. forbidding a priest to contract a new marriage, if he had become a widower, under pain of deposition.

The disputes between the Greek and Roman Sees began in the fifth century and culminated in "The Great Schism" in the ninth. The struggle to maintain a celibate priesthood was carried on by such determined prelates as Pope Leo IX. and Gregory VII., (Hildebrand.)

The first Council of the Lateran, held in 1123, adopted a decree, which although not as clear as it might have been, according to Father Thurston, was generally interpreted as denouncing invalid the marriages of sub-deacons or ecclesiastics of any of the higher orders. He holds that the Fourth Council of the Lateran (A.D. 1215) gave a firm and clean pronouncement in favor of celibacy, which was confirmed by the Council of Trent.

Although a celibate priesthood was this established in the thirteenth century, there still remain under the jurisdiction of Rome, and duly recognized by it, the Greek Catholics of Southern Russia, already mentioned and there are also various Oriental churches with priests who took unto themselves wives before their ordination. The right of the Oriental clergy to retain their wives was recognized by a decree of St. Benedict.

In the churches of Syria and of Armenit the tendency is, according to Father Thurston to adopt the mandates which govern the great majority of the priesthood under the jurisdiction of the See of Rome.

The action of certain of the Hungarian priests, as now reported, is regarded by Catholic scholars as being merely sporadic and a reflex of the influence of certain Oriental churches. It does, however, mean the recrudescence of an issue which many theologians thought had been put to rest forever.

Erzberger's Boast

Under the heading, "From Erzberger's Past," Die Freie Zeitung of Berne reprinted in its issue of Jan. 15, the following article from the Leipziger Volkszeitung, an organ of the Independent Socialist Party of Germany:

"On August, 12, 1914—that is, at the time when the sky was full of rainbows for the German war enthusiasts, and when it was announced in the bourgeois press that within a short time all the enemies would be defeated and peace would be dictated to them, the former Reichstag Deputy and present State Secretary Erzberger, now head of the German Armistice Commission, published in the Germania an article entitled: 'Why Only Half a Million?' In this article he noted that the English Minister of War had demanded half a million more soldiers, and that the Parliament had granted this demand. Erzberger accompanied this with a bravo! He opined that this would surely impress the Russians and the French and went on to say:

But in Germany we ask quite coolly:

"Why only half a million? It certainly would have been better to have demanded a whole million at once." Here every military minded child knows that this proposed law is one of the biggest swindles of the century, that it can only be charged to the ignorance of the Allies and that in Germany we are already rejoicing at the idea of this half a million trying to come at us. An old military man who can hardly ride any more, proposed that he be furnished with a squadron of semi-invalids so that he might capture them all and then hire them out to Barnum as a new wonder of the world. Everywhere in the empire the news of this new law is received with this untroubled gaiety—and properly so!

"Not the English did the swindling—for the first half a million became four or five millions—but it was Herr Erzgerger who humbugged his readers. And he was not satisfied with allowing the half a million Englishmen to be defeated in advance by a troop of German semi-invalids; half a year later he preached a campaign of gas and annihilation against all England."

OPPOSITION TO BE TAME.

Commons Concerned Over National Convention.

Ottawa, March 5.—The management committee of the Opposition, of which Mr. James Robb is chairman, has been holding frequent meetings this week and it is understood that the date of the proposed national convention will be announced soon. There is some difference of opinion as to whether it should be held immediately the House adjourns or in the autumn. Friends of Hon. Mackenzie King have been exceedingly active, and there is a strong section of the Opposition House party who are booming his selection as a permanent leader to succeed Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

The committee has decided not to introduce an amendment on the address. In fact the Opposition is in such a disorganized condition that it wants to get through Parliament with a minimum of friction in order to reorganize and get on some better basis. As far as the Opposition is concerned, it will not be a long session.

Look and Feel Clean, Sweet and Fresh Every Day

Life is not merely to live, but to live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, look well. What a glorious condition to attain and yet how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, sour stomach, can, instead feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestoone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity, and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, billious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatism; others who have salow skin, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store which will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

BAR ALIENS FOR 20 YEARS.

Vancouver M.P. in Resolution Calls for Drastic Action.

Ottawa, March 5.—H. R. Stevens, Vancouver, has given notice of the following resolution in the House of Commons:

"That in the opinion of the House the immigration laws of Canada shall be so amended as to absolutely prohibit for a period of twenty years entry into Canada of all persons of enemy origin who, during the period of the war: (a) have been interned in Canada; (b) have been interned in any country being one of the allies of Canada; (c) left Canada shortly before or after the outbreak of the war.
